Relatives of Adolf Tkaczynski, whose sudden death occurred at the residence of his brother-in-law, 28 Spring street, March 6, 1924, continue to entertain the belief that Tkaczynski died from foul play and because of that belief Mrs. John Peck, 1186 Austin street, Flint, Mich., sister of the dead man, has communicated with the New London police, insisting that Tkaczynski's death was the result of foul play. The communication of Mrs. Peck's follows that of another sister of Tkaczynski, who also declares that her brother came to his death from suspicious causes. Mrs. Peck declares that when her brother died he was possessed of considerable money and that she was not notified of her brother's death until four months after it occurred, although she had sent several letters addressed to him since last March and none had been returned to her. She also declared that Tkaczynski's wife had left Poland for this country last August, but nothing had been heard from her since. Inquiry by the police, however, reveal that Tkaczynski's estate is now in the probate court and all known relatives of the man have been notified of his death. Mrs. Tkaczynski, it also became known, had arrived in America, but was sent back to Poland because of her unsound mentality.

Mrs. Frank Callahan, Staten Island, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. William Clark.

Mrs. John Floyd, 30 Clifton street, Waterford, left today for the Province of New Brunswick, and will be absent about two months.

Abe Magannon was fined $10 for parking his car on the left side of a street after he endeavored to convince the court that such a practice prevailed in Philadelphia. He was assured that this was a sailorman's yarn and that stories that would go in the forecastle of a ship would not be accepted as the truth in a court of justice.

Joseph Stanners, assistant cashier in the employ of the Union Bank & Trust company, Rocco DeMoia, Groton, John and Eleanor Stanley, Westerly, Mrs. Jeremiah Jenkins, Howard street, Claude Kenyon, Westerly, Mrs. Wayland Saunders, Westerly, and John O'Connell, Montauk avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Rock Zekos began a thirty days' stay at the county jail Saturday, and that stay there may be extended to about 50 days if no one comes forward and pays his fine and the costs of his prosecution. He was committed for a month, and was fined $10 in the police court for a breach of the peace, which consisted of abusing his wife and daughter. The man was paid for a week's work for the Central Vermont Railroad company last Thursday and instead of contributing something of his earnings to the support of his family and the expenses of his home he spent the money for booze. Then he created a disturbance at his home. Mrs. Zekos secured his arrest just as she has done a score of times. Rock told a silly story about some fellow giving him a half gallon bottle full of the stuff, but the recital was so raw that even Rock himself grinned while he was telling it. "You will go to jail and pay a fine," said Judge Prince, and then he imposed a penalty of $10 and thirty days on the smooth-tongued prevaricator. Rock was surprised. His probation expired Friday when he had kept out of the court sixty days. Before he went up on the hill he proposed to the court officer that he would tell where he got his boose if the judgment imposed upon him was suspended, but that did not bring him immunity from jail, for the officer told him that his source of supply was practically known and that it would be cut off in the future.

Mrs. Edwin Keeney, 39 Pearl street, is critically ill and considerable anxiety is entertained by her relatives for her. Mrs. Keeney is of advanced years and has been confined to her bed many weeks.

A grass fire that threatened to communicate to the big barn of the Connecticut company on Montauk avenue caused firemen a half hours battle Saturday afternoon before the blaze was extinguished. The fire was started by boys and was fanned by a high wind. Employes of the trolley company observing the fire gradually approaching the big wooden structure caused a still alarm to be sent to fire headquarters, resulting in the Ockford Hose company and Niagara Engine company being sent to the barn. Several tanks of chemicals were emptied upon the flames before they were finally extinguished.

Tyler C. McNamara, M. June McNamara and Rose M. Reilly have sold a house and lot on Main street to Margaret and Catherine Sharler.

The automobile owned and driven by Oliver Cooper, of Quaker Hill, and a machine owned by Peter Karchiehi, 43 Front street, were in collision on Saturday morning, corner of Crystal avenue and Main streets. Both cars were damaged. The driver of Karchiehi's car evaded responsibility by driving away without stopping to determine the extent of the damage occasioned by the crash.

The big traffic signal of the blinker type located corner of Glenwood and Ocean avenues, was put out of condition last night or early this morning for the signal was discovered wrecked early this forenoon, an automobile having crashed against it. No trace of the colliding car was found.

The New London police have been requested to be on the lookout for Pasquale Guarino, New Haven, 18, and Stanley Smigiel, Middletown, 14, who escaped from the Connecticut School for Boys at Meriden Saturday night. Guarino is described as being four feet, 11 inches in height, black hair and black eyes. Smigial is five feet, weighing about 103 pounds, round face, light hair and blue eyes. Both youths wore blue overalls, blue shirts with white stripe and low tennis shoes.

Ernest McNally, of Manchester, Conn., reported to the police Saturday morning that a sharpie, which had been moored alongside his launch off Butler's Beach, Pequot avenue, had been stolen the night before.

This afternoon Watchman Pimer, employed at the Brown Cotton Gin company's plant, on Pequot avenue, recovered the boat, which was found floating in the Thames river and off the cotton gin works.

The automobile owned and driven by Lawrence N. B. Douglass, 18 Ashby street, was damaged Saturday night when bumped by a car owned and driven by James G. Hammond, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Douglass was operating his car northerly on State street and was forced to come to a stop because of a trolley car coming to a halt ahead of it. As Douglass' car became motionless Hammond's car crashed against the rear of the former machine.

Stephen Peninsky, 687 Main street, is missing from home, having disappeared last Monday. Saturday night the parents of the youth communicated with the police and requested that the boy, who is believed to be about the city, be apprehended. The boy wore blue overalls, and a brown sweater.

Mary Clements, 40, an inmate at the State Farm for Women at Crescent Beach, made her escape Saturday night. The woman's home is in Hartford. The police have been requested to maintain a lookout for the woman.

Francis Quinn, 108 Golden street, complained to the police Saturday night that while his bicycle was parked beside the curb on that street an automobile bearing Connecticut registration 5756 backed over the cycle and damaged it. Quinn declared that the driver of the automobile operated the machine away with-

Now Seeking Divorce

Mrs. John R. Drexel, Jr., who is in Reno establishing residence for divorce from her husband, whom she charges with mental cruelty. No one at all would have been aware of the divorce proceedings, if Mr. Drexel had not been injured. While walking on Madison avenue, New York, a steel bar holding a canopy gave way and hit him on the head, fracturing the scalp. During his ravings enroute to the hospital he told the police that his wife was in the Nevada city.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

New York, July 27.—(By The A. P.)—Continued strength in grain prices, persistence of ease in money and progress of the London conference shared attention in business and financial circles last week.

While fluctuations in wheat and corn widened with increased speculative activity, values were well maintained. New high prices were achieved during the week. A bullish crop estimate from Alberta and reports of black rust in Mantoba were sustaining factors; foreign markets were strong.

Cotton jumped sharply on an unexpected bullish government crop report. The latter set the condition on July 16 at 68.5 per cent. as against expectations of about 73 per cent. The indicated crop was placed at 11,934,000 bales, against trade expectations of 12,600,000 bales.

The rise in cotton, which amounted to nearly two cents a pound, was not considered, however, a favorable development for the textile industry, already embarrassed by the high cost of raw material. It was recalled that the recent census bureau figures on consumption during June showed that curtailment had brought operations in the mills down close to the low point reached in the depression of 1921.

Money rates show practically no change, with the call rate on the New York Stock Exchange remaining at two per cent. day after day. There was no appreciable change in the tone market. The federal reserve bank statement showed that discounts still were falling off and that open market purchases of short-term government paper was not sufficient to keep up the level of earning assets. Meanwhile, reserves, chiefly of gold, continued to mount.

In the best-informed quarters, the deadlock that has developed at the London conference over the question of the security for a German loan is an occasion for regret but not for surprise. The financial view of the matter is that a German loan cannot be sold unles ample safeguards are provided—that investors, in other words, will be exacting.

PLAINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Desire Vezina and Mr. and Mrs. Azire Turcotte and family have started on an automobile trip to various parts of Canada. They will stay with relatives in Quebec for two weeks.

John Jenks motored to Hartford on Sunday.

The first fire of this dry period broke out at Henschel's farmhouse, Saturday morning. The chimney fire was extinguished before much damage was done. The cause of the fire was unknown, as there were no fires in the house at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ducoeur and daughter, and Mrs. Henry Paul of Arctic, R. I., spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Paul's daughter, Mrs. Michael Bouley.

Misses Henrietta, Alice and Irene Burby were at Ocean Beach Sunday.

Patrolman Vincent has been warning automobilists the past week about exceeding the speed limit in town. He stated that the reckless driving period begins at 21 miles per hour in town. Any driver caught exceeding this limit will have his license revoked for at least 15 days.

The Sunday school class of the Congregational church held its annual picnic at Babcock's grove Saturday afternoon. The members were transported to the grove in automobiles loaned by the parishioners. A fine picnic lunch was enjoyed by those present.

The midsummer garden party at Sugar Brook farm Thursday, Friday and Saturday, under the auspices of the Central Village church netted a good sum. The purpose of the party was to purchase a new church organ. The grounds were open to the public every afternoon and evening until 11 o'clock. A free bus ran every hour to and from Central Village for all who cared to attend the carnival. Mr. White of Boston, owner of Sugar Brook farm, opened his estate for the cause. He also furnished the decorations about the grounds. At night Japanese lanterns were illuminated with electric lights, making the grounds like fairyland. The pools were open to bathers and for boating and canoes. A colored trio of string players furnished music for dancing. Among the various diversions were swimming, dancing, a shooting gallery, vocal music, moving pictures, fortune telling, exhibition dancing, a male quartette, horseshoe and quoit contests, with clowns, also ponies and sandboxes for the children. The affair was a great success. About 1500 attended each day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nolan motored to Ocean Beach Sunday.

COLUMBIA

Clayton E. Hunt and family took an automobile trip to Providence and return Wednesday.

The green has been kept in a very neat condition this summer, under the auspices of the Columbia Improvement Society. It was moved on Thursday by Raymond Lyman, president of the society, which held a meeting of its board of directors on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Lula McCorkle and her daughter, Miss Marion, are occupying their home on the green during the summer. Miss McCorkle was graduated in the spring from the Teachers' college at Columbia university, New York, and will teach in a hospital at Binghamton in the fall.

The continued drought is having a disastrous effect on the lawns and gardens, many of the lawns being brown and burned while vegetables in the gardens are not growing for want of moisture.

Another dance under the management of an orchestra from Manchester, was held at Utley's hall on Saturday evening, the 19th, and was well attended, the dancers being quiet and orderly.

Miss Enid Hawkins, who has been the guest of Mrs. Natsche at Columbia lake during the past week, returned Thursday to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Edw. P. Lyman are entertaining Miss Winchester of Boston.

About 70 Boy Scouts from St. Joseph's church, Willimantic, went to Columbia lake Friday and are encamped near the shore on the land of Curtis H. Holmes.

It is stated that there are now about 100 cottages and farm houses in the vicinity of the lake, and that all are fully occupied for the season.

A band concert was given at sundown on the shores of the lake, by members of St. Joseph's Boy Scouts, which could be heard at the center, over a mile away. It is understood that there will be concerts daily, while the boys remain at the lake.

Miss Josephine Hubbard, residing at the Center, was the guest of Miss Nellie Hunt in the street during the past week.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the church held a dog roast at Columbia lake Friday evening, which was attended by about 25 members and the pastor, Rev. Charles C. Haun.

COLCHESTER

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Barton and two sons, of Hartford, were guests of relatives in town Friday.

Mrs. Annie Rockwood of Belchertown, Mass., called on friends in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Luther Holton and daughters, Catherine and Winnifred, were Willimantic visitors Wednesday.

WESTMINSTER

Rev. Mr. Croft of Hanover supplied the pulpit in the Westminster Congregational church Sunday. His text was What Is Truth. A good congregation was in attendance to hear him.

Andrew Jones and bride from the Bronx, N. Y., were visitors at Rose cottage Monday.

Stephen Dewing and family from California were callers in Westminster Sunday attending church. Mr. Dewing left Westminster for California thirty-five years ago, this being his first visit since leaving for the west.

Huckleberries and blueberries are quite plenty and pickers are numerous, as usual.

Mrs. Florence Janes was a visitor in Jewett City Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith and family of Windham Center, with Mrs. Smith's father, William Clark, of Richmond Hill, N. Y., were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linnell.

Miss Willa Linnell and Miss Minnie Frost are spending their vacations with Miss Linnell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linnell.

Fred La Chappell and sons are doing Frank Linnell's haying.

Mrs. Allen Moody has several boarders from New York.

Master Eddie Newton met with a slight accident while assisting his brother Will in haying. He was stamping down the hay and jumped in front of the pitchfork, which entered his temple near the eye. He has a badly swollen eye.

STAFFORD

The report given at the annual meeting of the Johnson hospital was very encouraging and showed the good work being done by the institution.

Much interest is being shown in the community playground. The children are only too glad to avail themselves of the privileges it furnishes.

William Black of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been the guest of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones of Northfield, Vt., are guests of their daughter, Mrs. R. Pinney.

The friends of Charles Phillips and A. G. Sault met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sault to celebrate their birthdays. Delicious refreshments were served on the lawn. There were many out of town guests. Relatives of Mr. Sault furnished the music for the evening, which was enjoyed by all.

HENS GAIN 35 EGGS IN WEEK AT STORRS

The Storrs laying contest has had an exceptionally good week. Instead of a slight drop in production as was expected there was an actual gain of 35 eggs in the 38th week as compared with the previous week's score. The total for all pens was 3625 eggs or a yield of nearly 52 per cent. The fact that twelve pens finished the week within four eggs of each other is convincing proof that most of the hens are steadily on the job. Hilltop Farm's pen of leghorns from Suffield, Conn., got under the wire with a mark of 53 eggs. Two Massachusetts pens of Rhode Island Reds owned by Fernside Farm at Attleboro and Red Mount Farm at Franklin; Purdue University's pen of barred rocks from Lafayette, Ind., and C. T. Darby's pen of leghorns from North Branch, N. J., all tied for second place with 51 eggs each. Two pens of leghorns owned by L. W. Steelman, of State College, Pa., and Meadowedge Farm at Cedarhurst, L. I., Deer Brook Poultry Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Short Falls, N. H., and the Agricultural College pen of barred rocks from Guelph, Ont., all tied for third place with 50 eggs. Two Connecticut pens of leghorns from Small's Poultry Farm at Mt. Carmel and Andrew L. Ohr at Wallingford, and Roy H. White's pen of the same breed from College Park, Md., all tied for fourth place with 49 eggs each.

All the pens in the contest are in nice condition and apparently fit to continue the grind. The hens are expected to keep plugging right along and not get at all nervous over anything that may happen during the Farmers' Week meetings at Storrs. On the special poultry days, namely, July 28th and 29th, members of the Poultry Association and their friends from other states will inspect the competing pens. Presumably poultry people do not lay wagers, but this does not prohibit debate on the prospects of the leaders, the possibility of dark horses, and all that sort of thing. In addition to picking the winning pen some visitors go so far as to predict the final score when the contest closes the last of October.

POETRY

UNGUARDED.

The Mistress of the Roses
Is haply far away,
And through her garden closes
What strange intruders stray.

See on its rustic spindles
The sundrop's amber fire!
And the goldenrod enkindles
The embers on its spire.

The dodder's shining tangle
From the meadow brook steals in,
Where in this shadowed angle
The pale lace-makers spin.

Here's Black-Eyed Susan weeping
Into exotic air,
And Bouncing Bet comes creeping
Back to her old parterre.

Now in this pleasant weather—
So sweetly reconciled—
They dwell and dream together,
The kin of court and wild.

—Ada Foster Murray.

THE PEACE OF THE MOUNTAINS

I wish I could get the peace of the mountains into me.
The mountains of God are ever still full of rest;
"Be quiet," they say, and lift their thoughts up to heaven;
The lark with his wings as he rises brushes their crest;
They gather the rose of dawn, the glory of even;
The night with her stars leans on them breast to her breast.
I wish I could get the peace of the mountains into me.
And not to have all the world a trouble to me.

I am full of frets and fatigues, angers and fears;
I wish the mountains would tell me their secret of peace.
They have seen men born and die, all the work of their hands
Pass like the leaves of autumn; increase and decrease
Of natural things, and the years, like a glassful of sands.
Run out and be done, and the nations wither and cease.
They have looked to God through all the days and the years;
I wish I was still like the mountains, not vexed, full of fears.

The wind roars over them, singing up from the sea;
There is nothing that lasts, they say, but God and the soul.
They have cowls of the mists and rain for their habits gray;
The world's a dream, where ever the death bells toll.
There is nothing that lives, they say, but God and the soul.
Nothing at all that matters but God and the soul;
I wish I could get the peace of the mountains into me.
And not to have all the world a trouble to me.

—Author Unknown.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

An optimist looks at an oyster and expects a pearl, a pessimist looks at an oyster and expects ptomaine poisoning.—The Progressive Grocer.

Mrs. Peck—Do you know that you talk in your sleep, Henry?

Mr. Peck—Do you begrudge me those few words?—Tit Bits.

1st Merchant—The Smith boy who used to work for you wants me to give him a job. Is he steady?

2nd Merchant—Well, if he was any steadier he'd been motionless.—The Progressive Grocer.

You don't really intend to trust your future to Lord DeBroke, do you, dear?

No, but he's such a notorious fortune-hunter it helps papa's credit to have him around. People think papa must be rich.—Boston Transcript.

American—How much does that castle cost?

Native—Oh, that belongs to my grandmother!

"Weren't you afraid to play poker with that magician who did such wonderful tricks with cards?

"No," answered Cactus Joe. "We figured the advantage was all our way. That feller was too smart for his own good. He simply had to lose in order to show that he was honest.—Washington Star.

Billie, aged 4, was spending a few weeks in the country. One day he saw some queer things jumping about on the grass and asked what they were.

"Why, they are grasshoppers," answered his mother.

A short time later the little fellow discovered a toad on the walk, and exclaimed, "Oh, mamma! Look at the dirthopper!"—Chicago News.

JEWETT CITY

A whistle alarm called the hose company to a serious fire on Oak street, Sunday afternoon. Albert Malek's barn and garage had been set afire by children with matches. A shed in front of the building and William Hogge's large house across the road caught from the sparks. The firemen kept the big six tenement house nearby wet, and saved the other buildings which started to burn. The barn and garage are wrecked, the roof falling in, as well as the second floor, which collapsed just as four of the firemen got off the ladder. Adrian Maynard was injured being struck in the face by a coupling as he was pulling the hose from the truck. It necessitated his receiving the attention of a physician. Nine hundred feet of hose were laid and one hundred gallons of chemical were used. Mr. Malek had $1800 insurance on the building and contents, which included two tons of hay and supplies and machinery for his bakery. Foreman Wakely was called later to extinguish the fire which blazed up again.

R. W. Dearnley's store was entered some time Friday night as it was discovered Saturday that the cash registers in both the meat market and dry goods department had been rifled, the thieves getting away with about fifty dollars. This is the second time the store has been entered within a short time.

Five peddlers are to appear before the town court this (Monday) morning for selling their wares without a license.

Mrs. Mary Sullivan Hallisey, 86 widow of Michael Hallisey, died Sunday morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. M. E. Shea on Palmer avenue. Since the death of her husband a year ago Mrs. Hallisey has been given the most devoted attention of her nieces and nephews. Although she had been in failing health, the end came suddenly. Mrs. Hallisey was born in Ireland, but in her girlhood days lived in Plainfield and was married there about 50 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Hallisey owned a farm there until her health began to fail, and 30 years ago, they bought a home on Mechanic street in Jewett City living there until Mr. Hallisey's death. She is survived by a sister Mrs. J. Doyle of Plainfield, and by several nieces and nephews. Mrs. Hallisey was highly esteemed while living in Plainfield, also by those who knew her in Jewett City. She leaves no children, losing three sons in infancy.

The dance at Ashland Casino Friday night was attended by an unusually large number. There were exhibition dances and the music is always of the best. Welfare Supervisor F. W. Chase refers in the most complimentary terms to the people who conduct these dances this season.

The adjourned meeting in the interests of the increase in water rates, to hear the report of the committee appointed at a meeting three weeks ago is to be held Tuesday evening.

A Hartford Sunday paper contained among its pictures one of Donald G. Buckingham, descendant of Connecticut's famous governor of that name and his cousin, Janet Mathewson of New Haven. The picture was taken before an open fireplace in the A. R. Young house on South Main street. Donald Buckingham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Green Buckingham, of Jewett City and the little girl is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. C. H. Mathewson, of New Haven.

James J. Drudy, secretary of New London Lodge of Elks, is seriously ill at his home on Golden street as a result of a series of hemorrhages suffered the past few days. He had a severe hemorrhage Friday night and today is reported as extremely weak.

Samuel Watchinsky, of Linden street, Joseph and James Mitchell, of Westerly, Miss Annie Obiac of West Mystic and Mrs. Oliver Young, New Haven, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital Saturday.

Councilor Waldo E. Clarke, of Montauk avenue, got an ugly cut of his right foot while bathing at the private beach of Pequot avenue, near Glenwood avenue, Friday night, the cut which necessitated four stitches to close the wound, resulted from the bather stepping on a piece of glass. Mr. Clarke is able to get about only by the use of crutches.

Mrs. Joseph Fleming and children of Brattleboro, Vt., are visiting Mrs. Fleming's daughter, Mrs. Joseph F. Corcoran.

Mrs. Eric Barr, wife of Lieut-Com. Barr, of California, formerly of New London, with their two children, are visiting Mrs. Barr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Culver.

Capt. and Mrs. Gilbert Crocker returned to their home in Brooklyn today, having spent a fortnight with relatives in New London.

OVER 3,500 ARRESTS FOR MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Violations of the motor vehicle laws resulted in 3,694 arrests in Connecticut in the first six months of this year, according to reports filed with the state motor vehicle department. Fines aggregating $75,199 were imposed in 2,688 cases and 93 of the offenders sentenced to jail for an aggregate of seven years. Sixty-three of those imprisoned were convicted of operating motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor and four for reckless driving.

The longest jail term imposed was one of six months by the East Hartford court. The city police courts of New Haven and Bridgeport each sent 11 motor vehicle offenders to jail, the former for a total of 150 days and the latter for 180 days. The vigorous prosecution of such offenders by the Meriden police court is reflected in reports showing 10 imprisonments for 149 days, all told, and 33 fines aggregating $2,071.

Bridgeport led with 377 arrests, which resulted in fines of $5,296 in addition to the jail sentences mentioned. New Haven followed with 321 police court cases which brought fines of $5,709 and 11 imprisonments. Hartford had 217 cases, resulting in fines of $4,272 and two jail terms; New Britain, 211 cases with fines of $3,576 and six jail sentences; Stamford, 177 cases and fines of $3,003, but no jail sentences; Waterbury, 61 cases resulting in fines of $2,092 and seven imprisonments, and New London, 51 cases causing fines of $1,275 but no jail sentences. Norwich reported fines of $2,506 and two imprisonments; Plainfield, fines of $1,620; Norwalk, $1,100; Wallingford, $585; Bristol, $356; Danbury, $740; Torrington, $437; Winsted, $176, and Willimantic, $175.

The only other courts which reported no fines or sentences were those of Portland, Granby, Morris, Avon, Bolton and Union.

FINED FOR DRIVING WITHOUT OPERATOR'S LICENSE

In the city court Saturday morning a minor was presented on two counts, for driving an automobile without a license and for failure to obey a traffice officer. The second count was nolled by Judge Arthur P. Libby, who fined the youth $10 and costs amounting in all to $20.50, on the first count. The youth claimed he was on his way to get an operator's license and that he had driven the car only a short distance, the licensed driver having left the car a short time before.

The continued case of the two Greeneville men, charged with breach of the peace, was heard Saturday morning. Judge Libby fined the man who got the worst of the fistic encounter $10 and costs amounting in all to $17.73 while the winner of the fray received a fine of $20 and costs amounting to $27.73.

Five persons narrowly escaped death about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the Davis touring car in which they were riding turned over on the Norwich-Westerly highway at the foot of the long hill about a mile below Hallville. The machine was driven by Otto May of Mystic, who, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Silbino Radicioni and small child, all of Mystic, were out for a Sunday afternoon drive.

According to Mr. May, he was headed for Norwich and at the foot of the hill attempted to pass a Maxwell sedan, headed in the same direction. Mr. May said he blew his horn, but that the Maxwell failed to give him room enough to get by and his machine headed for the side of the road and crashing into a stone wall turned over. All were more or less shaken up and Mrs. May suffered sprains and bruises. She was brought to Norwich and her injuries attended by a physician.

Mr. May said the Maxwell did not stop and that he was unable to get the registration number. He notified the local police headquarters of the accident by telephone and also notified the state police barracks at Groton.

The heavy touring car demolished a good sized section of the stone wall alongside the road. The machine was considerably damaged. It was righted later in the day by a wrecking crew and towed away for repairs.

RELIGIOUS HYPOCRITES FATHER GALVIN'S THEME

Doubtless the Saviour was condemning the Scribes and Pharisees when he uttered the words, "Not every one that saith to me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven; but he that doth the will of my Father who is in Heaven, he shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven," said Rev. Myles P. Galvin, preaching to the customary large congregation at St. Patrick's church, at the 9 o'clock mass Sunday. It was the seventh Sunday after Pentecost and Father Galvin chose his text from the gospel for that Sunday, as read in every mass throughout the Catholic world. This gospel was Matthew vii. 15-21, beginning, "Beware of false prophets, who come to you in the clothing of sheep, but inwardly they are ravening wolves."

Father Galvin's lesson was that people have not changed much—that those who today merely live up to the externals of religion are no better than were the Scribes and Pharisees, who prided themselves upon their religion as men saw it, lacking that virtue which is the cornerstone of true religion—humility. Christ taught, "Learn of Me—for I am meek and humble of heart." The mere habit of religion counts for nothing, unless it is put into practice in one's daily life. To profess godliness is of no avail; men should love God above all things, and love their neighbor for the love of God. If they do this, keeping God's commandments, being pure, in word, thought and deed, living their religion, not merely talking it—and this, not occassionally, but every day and day after day, they are without doubt in the way to hear God's invitation to enter into His kingdom, having done His will.

The low mass was read by Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, who was assisted by Father Galvin in giving holy communion.

WITHHOLDS HEATING PLANT MONEY FOR ORAL SCHOOL

At a meeting of the board of control in Hartford Thursday the trustees of the Mystic Oral School asked permission to go ahead with the installation of a heating plant to cost $8,400 in the new dormitory, to be installed when the work of erecting the building is completed. The board decided not to grant the request, but to leave the matter to the next session of the general assembly.

Because he retired as messenger of the superior court of Fairfield county on June 30 1919, one day before the pension law went into effect, Charles S. Evans will receive no retiring allowance, the board decided. The decision was reached on the advice of Attorney General Healy, who said that Mr. Evans was not entitled to a pension.

The board approved the contract for the erection of a boiler house at the Kent school, New Britain, which is part of the state normal school equipment. The contract is for $26,750 and the state will pay one-half of this amount and the city of New Britain one-half.

Raymond Gates, the state agent, was authorized to accept $1,158.14 in settlement of the state's claim on account of maintenance of Mary A. Clark of Goshen in the state hospital at Middletown. The patient died last year. The state's claim was for $1,231.25, but Mrs. Clark's estate did not reach that amount.

The sum of $3,300 was added to the appropriation for clerical services at the New Haven county superior court. Appropriations to the following towns on account of railroad indebtedness were voted: Hebron, $280; North Canaan, $300; East Hampton, $1,020, Portland $4,750.

SUIT OVER LEASE OF NEW LONDON PROPERTY

Joseph McNamara of New London is defendant in a damage suit filed Friday with George E. Parsons, clerk of the superior court, by Harold H. Norton, also of New London. Damages of $1,000 are asked, and the case is returnable the first Tuesday in September. The suit arises over some rights that had been assigned to the plaintiff by John J. Schaprowe, original lessee of property owned by McNamara at 635 Bank street.

The complaint alleges that on June 19, 1919, McNamara gave Schaprowe a five-year lease on the property in question at a yearly rental of $240, payable in monthly payments of $20, and that the privilege was also given for renewal of the lease at the same figure for a second five-year term, at the expiration of the first term. In January, 1923, Schaprowe, under the terms of the lease, sublet the property to Norton, and that the latter last April served notice on McNamara that he wished to renew the lease upon its expiration. On June 11, according to the complaint, McNamara refused to renew the lease.

In addition to damages of $1,000, the plaintiff asks that the defendant be ordered to grant the renewal of the lease; an injunction restraining said defendant from instituting a summary process proceeding against the plaintiff; also restraining McNamara from leasing the property to some other party.

EARLY MORNING BREAK AT QUAKER HILL POST OFFICE

The post office at Quaker Hill was burglarized Saturday morning and a small amount of plunder taken, the loot consisting of between $50 and $60 worth of postage stamps and a quantity of cigarettes. Entrance to the place was gained by forcing a window.

Women, as a rule, have poor memories, but they never forget the people who say nice things about their clothes.

STATE CHAMBER IS ADVISED OF APPOINTMENT

The Connecticut Chamber of Commerce has been advised by the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce of the appointment of Harry A. Smith, president of the National Fire Insurance company, to membership on the American National committee of that organization. The bulletin also recites the connection of the international chamber with the Dawes commission and the reparations problem. Continuing, the bulletin says:

"Mr. Smith, who is also chairman of the insurance advisory committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was asked to serve on the committee in view of the important part insurance plays in the financial and economic activities of all countries throughout the world.

"The American national committee, of which A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, is chairman, is the governing body of the American section of the international chamber. Its membership is made up of outstanding business men representing various branches of industrial and commercial activity and various geographical sections of American industry. The American section, with offices in Washington, is the connecting link between business activities in the United States and the general headquarters of the international chamber in Paris.

"The international chamber is a world federation of commercial and trade organizations constituting an independent agency through which the business interests of all countries, free from the official restraint of government or political motives, may direct their energies to the common purpose of stimulating and facilitating international commerce. It grew out of the international trade conference held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at Atlantic City in October, 1919, and was formally organized in Paris in 1920. Its first general meeting was held at Rome London in 1921. The second general meeting was held at Rome in 1923. The third meeting will be held in Brussels during the last week of June, 1925. Thirty-six countries are now represented in the membership of the international chamber.

"The international chamber in the few years of its existence has attained a striking record of accomplishment. Fred I. Kent, vice president of the Bankers Trust company of New York, is chairman of the committee, which rendered effective aid in bringing about the appointment of a committee of experts to suggest a solution of the reparations problem. Several directors of the chamber, among them Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company, and Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National bank of Los Angeles, were members of these committees.

"The chamber has made marked progress in the promotion of international commercial arbitration, the simplification of customs formalities, the protecton of industrial property in different countries, the elimination of duplicate taxation, the establishment of a uniform ocean bill of lading and the removal of national obstacles to international trade."

CHILD'S ARM BROKEN WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Edith Morsey, about three years of age, was knocked down Saturday night about 10 o'clock by a machine owned and driven by John T. Thorne of Hanover near the Occum school. The child's right arm was broken near the shoulder. In the machine with Mr. Thorne were Frank Kusian and Allan S. House, 19 of Hanover.

Mr. Thorne stopped his machine and the injured child was picked up and placed in the automobile. Mr. House took the wheel and rushed the child and mother to Norwich and the broken arm was set by Dr. John W. Callahan.

Later it developed that Mr. House, who drove the child to the city, did not have an operator's license and he was summoned into court on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a license.

After attending to the child's injuries, Dr. Callahan took her and Mrs. Morsey, her mother back to their home in Occum. On the return trip to the city the doctor attempted to pass a machine ahead of him. He blew his horn but the machine did not turn out. Dr. Callahan tried to pass the machine several times, but the driver paid no attention to the warning horn. The last time Dr. Callahan attempted to pass the machine the driver swung over to the left in front of him and nearly drove the doctor's machine into the gutter.

Dr. Callahan, seeing that the driver ahead was determined not to let him pass, took the number of the machine and after following the machine into the city complained to the police. The driver was ordered to report at police headquarters but failed to do so. The police then started out to round up the driver.

DEPARTMENT ANSWERS CALL FOR SMALL GRASS FIRE

The fire department was called out at 8.55 o'clock Saturday morning for a grass fire on Hinckley street. Squad A and Deputy Chief H. R. Taft responded but could find no fire. Later a report was received that the fire was on Hickory street and Engine 2 and Engine 3 responded to find a small grass fire which was quickly extinguished.

In speaking of the telephoning of alarms Chief H. L. Stanton requests that people be sure to make it plain where the fire is located. Misleading information causes the department to go to wrong locations and should the fire assume large proportions before the correct location is sent in a serious loss is due to be suffered also, the fire department is not anxious to be chasing all over the city when a mere careful alarm would send them directly to the scene of the fire.

COLCHESTER HEALTH OFFICER CONDEMNS NINE SCHOOLS

Only one of the nine public grammar schools in Colchester will be allowed to reopen at the beginning of the school year in the fall in its present condition. Shortly after the close of the last school year in June, Dr. Edward Howland, town health officer, made the rounds of the schools and on all except the Scott Hill school he has posted notices condemning the buildings in their present condition.

Bacon Academy, the high school of the town, which is a public school, although privately endowed, has also been condemned by the health officers, so out of the ten units in the school system of the town, only one meets with the approval of Dr. Howland.

100 Per Cent. Overcrowded.

According to Dr. Howland, there are seperate features in each of the condemned buildings which make them unfit for school use, in his opinion. As far as the schools in the borough are concerned, the chief complaint is the overcrowding. From sources other than Dr. Howland it was learned that during the last school year in some rooms which according to state standards of floor space per pupil and cubic air space per pupil should have held only twenty or twenty-five pupils, had twice that many pupils. In four rooms during the year, the space was 100 per cent. overcrowded.

On each of the buildings which he does not consider fit for school purposes, Dr. Howland has caused to be posted a notice saying that the building is not to be used as a school again without the approval of the health officer. He says that he will not permit their use in their present condition. In some of the schools in the districts of the town only comparatively minor repairs are needed, such as better toilet facilities or better lighting and heating systems. The recommended repairs in such cases can be made at a cost of about $5,000 it was said by a member of the school board.

To solve the problem of the overcrowding in some schools, however, it will be necessary to erect a new building. No definite action along this line, except the appointment of a building committee, has yet been taken, although the school board has held joint meetings with the board of selectmen and with the health officer. It would be impossible to construct a suitable school now and have it ready for the opening the year in September, but it was reported that Dr. Howland had expressed himself as willing to withdraw temporarily his objections to the overcrowded schools if work was started on a new school.

The committee to consider building a new school has been advised that a structure of at least 12 rooms will be needed to meet the needs of the town and this committee, of which Mrs. Elizabeth Day is chairman, met recently with an architect and went over estimates for such a building. It was found that by paring the school plans down to the bare essentials and cutting out all extras the town might be able to erect the building for $60,000. No decision was reached, but another meeting of the building committee will be held next Wednesday.

Hint of Opposition.

If the building committee reports back to the school committee, recommending the $60,000 school, as seems likely, the school committee will go before a special town meeting and ask for a bond issue to pay for the building. The town debt is $28,000 and the town called one on the "ghost towns of New England," because of the unusually large number of its young men who have left it, is largely divided into two classes: the old stock, who have most of the influence and the newcomers, many of them of foreign extraction, whose children now fill the schools. There is some sentiment against increasing the town debt for a new school.

In the case of Bacon Academy, the complaint of the health offices is of the sanitary arrangements. The academy is housed in the building in which it was started in 1803, and, according to Mr. Willard, chairman of the board of trustees, the building is still in good general condition.

The schools which have been condemned are: Bacon Academy, Ransom school and Dublin school, situated in the borough and the Second and Seventh district schools the Westchester Center, Comstock Bridge, Blue Hills and Northeast schools, all district schools. The Scott Hill school, which alone escaped condemnation, is the newest of the school buildings in the town.

The town system is under the supervision of the state board of education, Herbert S. Libby, being the supervisor in charge. The supervisor, it was said by members of the school board, had nothing to do with the condemnation of the schools and had been working with the board on the problem of meeting the objections of the health officer.

STATE POLICE FIND STILL IN OPERATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, July 7.—Learning from a recent operation of automobile while intoxicated case conviction that the liquor had been obtained from a place on the Stonington road, a search warrant was sworn out by Stonington authorities. Acting on this warrant Connecticut State Policeman Henry J. Albright and two officers of the Groton state barracks, Saturday night about 11 o'clock raided the place, Cedar Ledge of Henry Burdick, on the Westerly-Stonington road about a mile and a half this side of Stonington. A still of three gallon capacity in full operation was reported found. The officers secured four gallons of whiskey, one-half barrell of mash and twelve bottles of wine. Burdick was brought to Pawcatuck and presented before Pudge William A. Wilcox; he was placed under bonds of $2,000 for his appearance in Stonington town court Monday, August 4th at 9 a. m. to answer to a complaint on four counts, charging actual sale, keeping with intent to sell, reputation and the manufacture of intoxicating liquors.

LARGE RADIO COMPANIES MAY LIMIT CAMPAIGN USAGE

Operators of Broadcasting Stations in the East are Considering Restricting Political Speeches to 15 Minutes, Except in Rare Cases—With 534 Broadcasting Stations in the Country, All Candidates Will Have an Opportunity to Use the Facilities Without Conflict.

New York, July 28 (By the A. P.)—Limitation of political campaign speeches by radio to 15 minutes, except in rare instances, is under consideration by some of the large companies operating broadcasting stations in the eastern states, it became known today.

Officials of the Radio Corporation of America said they had suggested to the speaker's bureaus of the republican and democratic national committees that it was undesirable that more than one hour a day be devoted to broadcasting political addresses. They have also proposed that no single speech exceed a quarter hour in length and that these short radio discussions deal with national issues only.

Those in charge of the radio division of the American Telephone and Telegraph company expressed the expectation that the regular radio programs would continue without appreciable curtailment, and explained that if the broadcasting stations gave too much time to politics the public would lose much of its interest in radio.

All the political parties expect to use the radio extensively. President Coolidge has indicated that he would rely upon it frequently. John W. Davis, the democratic nominee for president, recently referred to the radio as the greatest political development in recent years, adding, however, that speakers must take cognizance of the time element, and expressing himself as in agreement with the English divine who said that rarely was a conversion made after the first twenty minutes.

The nominees' addresses of acceptance, and perhaps one or two other especially important utterances, would be exceptions to such a time limit, if it were agreed upon by the campaign managers. The republican and democratic leaders already have begun arrangements for broadcasting these first pronouncements of their candidates. It is likely that in both cases the relay system used during the national conventions will be set up, the speeches being carried by wire to a dozen or more broadcasting stations and delivered simultaneously to radio listeners in virtually all of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

In most cases, however, speakers will be served by only one local broadcasting station at a time.

As there are 534 broadcasting stations in the country, radio experts expect that all the candidates will have an opportunity to take advantage of the facilities without conflict.

Spokesmen for the telephone company said they would exercise no censorship and assume no responsibility for what was said by speakers, but that they hoped that neither the nature nor the quantity of campaign utterances would tend to alienate radio users.

GOV. BRYAN IS OPPOSED TO "MOBILIZATION DAY"

Lincoln, Neb., July 28 (By the A. P.)—July 28.—Governor Bryan of Nebraska, nominee of the democrats for vice president, today expressed unwillingness to carry out the suggestions of President Coolidge regarding "Mobilization day," Sept. 12, and disagreement was the president's statement that the plans contemplated do not constitute a "militaristic gesture."

In a statement given to the press the governor quoted from a copy of the official instructions sent out by the army corps area general. This mentioned several places "mobilization" not only the national army, national guard and officers' reserve corps but civilians as well.

I have notified General Duncan of the Seventh corps area and Adjutant General Paul of the Nebraska National guard that I do not favor any plan contemplating mobilization of men or industrial resources of the country or anything else that savors of a national holiday devoted to preparation for war," said the governor's statement. "I do not believe the people of Nebraska and any other state would endorse any such an unnecessary

The governor said, however, that he would not oppose the proclamation and instructions ordering to assemble national guard troops of the state "for inspection and practice in military activities."

ANTHRAX REPORTED IN SEVERAL SOUTHERN STATES

Memphis, Tenn., July 28.—Federal agents in a campaign to stamp out anthrax in the several southern states where it had made its appearance was urged in a telegram sent today by Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, of Tennessee to Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture.

Mr. McKellar advised Mr. Wallace that the disease had appeared "with great virulence" in about 25 counties in Mississippi, five counties in Tennessee, twelve counties in Arkansas as well as in some sections of Louisiana and also that it was reported the disease had appeared in southeast Missouri.

BOSTON TO GREET THE WORLD-GIRDLING FLIERS

Boston, July 28. — The return to home soil of the word-girdling fliers at this port two weeks hence will be marked by greetings from the nation, the state and the city. Under plans announced today by Captain Louis H. Knight, in charge of army aviation in New England, the flying officers will stay here only one day between arrival and departure before hopping off again for Mitchel Field, New York.

The flight from Pictou Harbor, N. S., will end at the harbor entrance, from which point planes will taxi up to the East Boston air port for the exercises of welcome. There they will be met by Major General Andre W. Brewster, commanding general in New England and his staff, together with state and city officials.

Only an informal dinner given by the combined air service clubs of New England has been set for that day, so that the fliers may rest. The second day here they will make a round of calls, receive the keys to the city, and at the Hall of Flags in the state house accept official welcome by Governor Cox and staff before the public greetings on the Boston common. A visit to Camp Devens, and a dinner by the Chamber of Commerce will complete the day's activities. On the third day, the navy men will fly again.

Serbian Cabinet Takes Oath.

Belgrade, July 28 (By the A. P.)—The cabinet of Ljouba Dividovitch took the oath of office today. M. Davidovitch assumes the post of Premier and M. Marinkovitch that of minister of foreign affairs. Both men are democrats. A ministerial declaration was issued to the effect that the cabinet's foreign policy would be directed along the lines of "peace in the Balkans and general pacification in a spirit simliar to the policy of the Herriot-MacDonald governments."

CAMPAIGN PLANS OF REP. SENATORIAL COMMITTEE

Washington, July 28.—The battle ground determined upon by the republican senatorial committee in its campaign to elect republican senate candidates was sketched for President Coolidge today by the committee's chairman, Senator Moses of New Hampshire.

It embraces eighteen states, stretching from Maine to Montana and extending as far in the border section between the north and the south as West Virginia. Nineteen senatorial seats will be filled in these states, and of them fifteen are now occupied by republicans, three by democrats and one by a farmer-laborite.

Senator Moses also laid before Mr. Coolidge observations on the general political situation gained during an organization tour of New England and the middle Atlantic section.

The eighteen states in which the republican senatorial committee will conduct its campaign for republican candidates for senate seats were listed by Chairman Moses as follows:

Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Illinoise, Delaware, West Virginia, Nebraska, Iowa, Michigan, Montana, Colorado (two seats), Minnesota, Kansas, South Dakota, Wyoming, and New Mexico.

MISS COLLETT LEADS FIELD IN QUALIFYING ROUND

New London, July 28.—Miss Collett, of the Rhode Island Country club, led a field of over 170 women players in the largest tournament of the season today, when she won the qualifying round of the Shenecossett invitation tournament for the fourth successive year. Miss Collett had an 81 while her nearest competitor, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of the Meriden Cricket club had 83.

The surprise of the day was the failure of Mrs. Donald H. Barlow, of the Meriden Cricket club to do better than a 98 which qualified her in the third division.

Five players tied at 94 for the last place in the championship flight and on the play-off, Mrs. Norman K. Toerge, of Wheatley Hills and Miss Catherine Stewart, of Philadelphia, were dropped out.

The scores:

Miss Glenna Collett, Rhode Island Country club, 40-41—81.

Mrs. Dorothy C. Hurd, Meriden Cricket club, 42-41—83.

Mrs. Albert Taylor, Hackensack, 45-40—85.

Hughes Hopeful of London Conference

American Secretary of State in Paris Assures Interviewers That the Conference "Must Come to an Agreement."

Paris, July 28 (By the A. P.)—Secretary of State Hughes of the United States is optimistic about the inter-allied London conference and has hopes for its success because the alternative of a success would be so grave that the conference must come to an agreement, he declared after his arrival here this evening.

The American secretary of state was greeted by American Ambassador Herrick, Minister of Justice Renoult who is the acting premier in the absence of M. Herriot, and a large number of notables at the railway station.

In answer to the storm of questions of French newspapermen who besieged him at the railway station and urged him to talk about the London conference, Mr. Hughes would only say that he was optimistic.

The reception accorded the American statesman on his arrival was so enthusiastic that it was several minutes before Mr. Herrick could get to him to introduce him to M. Renoult and to the other political and governmental personages who had come to welcome him.

"I wonder if they're all lawyers," Mr. Hughes said, jokingly, as he stood waiting for a chance to join the American ambassador.

As soon as the presentations were over, the French journalists crowded around Mr. Hughes and in answer to their appeals for an interview, he said: "I have only this to say. I am delighted to be in Paris and have looked forward to this occasion for a long time. I know I am going to enjoy it so much that I shall be equally sorry to go away."

Immediately after the reception was over, Mr. Hughes went to the home of Mr. Herrick where he will live during his stay in the French capital. There another crowd of newspapermen were awaiting him.

The secretary of state, however, barely had time to change his clothes and to get to the home of Manuel Fourcade, president of the Paris Bar association, where he dined while Mr. Herrick went to a dinner of the American advertising men who are visiting the city.

The contact between Mr. Hughes and Frenchmen prominent in public life which began this evening will be unbroken during the next three days except by sleep. After meeting the leading lights in the French judicial world tonight, he will lunch tomorrow with Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States, after which he will go to a reception given by the French bar where he will meet former Presidents Millerand and Poincare and most of the leading judges and lawyers of France.

FRENCH TO SUBMIT GERMAN LOAN PROPOSITION TODAY

London, July 28 (By the A. P.)—Inter-allied conference circles tonight are crediting American intervention during the experts' meeting this afternoon with having saved the conference from what threatened to develop into a crisis that possibly would have wrecked the parleys and seriously delayed the application of the Dawes plan to Europe's economic ills.

During the meeting of the experts prior to the plenary session, the debate between the French and British representatives on the issue which has been deadlocked in the conference for a week had reached a very dangerous stage when Colonel James A. Logan, the American official observer, seized the opportunity to offer compromise suggestions which lessened the tension of the meetings.

As soon as Colonel Logan had finished his statement, which covered important points regarding American participation in the working of the Dawes Plan, the French representative announced that he believed within 24 hours the French delegation could submit a formula which they believed would satisfy American bankers in its provisions for security for the international loan which Germany must float before the Dawes plan can be made effective.

Consequently the experts' meeting adjourned until tomorrow morning, when the French proposals will be heard.

The inability to reach a settlement today, however, disrupted the program of the conference, and the invitation which it generally had been expected would be despatched to Berlin tonight requesting the attendance of German representatives has been delayed indefinitely, but it is hoped it will be sent forward Wednesday or Thursday.

The plenary session today delegated the power of issuing the invitation to Germany to the prime ministers and the chief delegates to the conference, without awaiting approval by a plenary session. The delay resulting from today's session, it is believed, is likely to prolong the conference another fortnight.

Disappointment over the prospects of an extension of the negotiations was somewhat relieved by another announcement Colonel Logan made to the experts. This was to the effect that the United States would not have any objections to the co-operation of an American on the reparation commission for the purpose of voting with the other members on August 15 to decide whether Germany has passed the necessary legislation to make the Dawes plan operative, and also whether the agent general for reparations under the Dawes plan has taken up his duties.

This announcement, coming at a moment of seeming despair, produced a buoyant atmosphere even among the allied representatives who realized they still were tightly deadlocked on reconciling the bankers on the question of the security to be provided for the German loan. The feeling among the delegates was that the United States through her official observers was not overlooking any opportunity to be helpful in smoothing out the difficulties among the allies.

The passenger steamer Myles Standish, bound from Vineyard Haven for Woods Hole, struck a rock while rounding East Chop and sprang a leak. She was able to reach her dock at Oak Bluffs.

Lodge's Temperature And Pulse are Normal

A Second Operation is to Be Performed—Date is to Be Determined in Two or Three Days.

Boston, July 28.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who successfully underwent an operation for a bladder ailment at the Charlesgate hospital, passed a comfortable day, attending physicians reported tonight. His condition was said to be excellent with no alarming developments. A bulletin embodying those facts was issued early in the evening. Unless an unexpected turn for the worse occurred it was said that no further bulletins would be issued during the night.

Senator Lodge's temperature and pulse are normal and he is cheerful. There will be a second operation, however, for the removal of the bladder obstruction, it was stated, the date to be determined in two or three days.

Dr. John H. Cunningham's bulletin issued at 6.10 p. m. was as follows:

"Condition excellent. Comfortable day. No alarming developments."

WARNING HAS BEEN SENT THE PERSIAN GOVERNMENT

Washington, July 28.—Stern warning that continuance of American diplomatic and consular offices in Persia will depend upon action taken by the Persian government to protect adequately American nationals in that country has been served on the Persian foreign minister by Joseph S. Kornfeld at Teheran.

The note, made public today at the state department, was delivered on Saturday and deals only with the murder by a mob in Teheran of Vice Consul Robert W. Imbrie. It was sent before word was received of the subsequent attack by "hoodlums" on the Imbrie.

A further communication in connection with that attack was sent immediately by the state department to Minister Kornfeld instructing him to make certain representations orally to the foreign minister. It is understood nothing will be made public here with reference to this statement, however, because of its oral character.

In connection with the murder of Consul Imbrie, the state department pointed out to the Persian government that the facts disclosed by its investigation "do not indicate that the police or military authorites made any adequate effort to protect the American consular representatives."

FIVE FARM BUILDINGS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Windsor, Conn., July 28.—Five buildings on the Marshall-Phelps farm in Poponock were destroyed by fire tonight, the damage being estimated at between $10,000 and $12,000. Barns, tobacco sheds and other buildings were burned, one of the barns containing a large amount of hay and farming implements. The sparks from the fire were carried half a mile to the farm of John A. Duhon, where tobacco sheds caught fire but were saved, the loss there being estimated at $200. Other sparks were carried into the woods more than a mile away, where a serious fire was raging tonight. Fire wardens from Windsor and Windsor Locks, aided by a large gang of men, are fighting the blaze in the woods. Several buildings are near the woods, but it is believed that these will not be burned, as the fire has been driven towards the swamps.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

KING ON PAYROLL OF REMINGTON ARMS CO.

Bridgeport, July 28.—John T. King, republican leader and former national committee, is on the payroll of the Remington Arms Co., and has been since July, 1915, S. F. Pryor of Greenwich, chairman of the executive committee, testified before State Tax Commissioner Blodgett this afternoon. He was on the payroll when the assessment of the company was reduced $2,500,000 in 1919, but Mr. Pryor declared that insofar as he was, ware King never had anything to do with the company's taxable property in Bridgeport.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE FRANKS MURDER CASE

Chicago, July 28.—(By The A. P.)—Scaling the final heights of his "mountain of evidence," against Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney today reached thwe point where he could place as a peak tomorrow the confession of the two youths to the kidnapping and slaying of young Robert Franks.

He gained this goal by placing on the stand today eight witnesses who identified statements, both written and oral, by the defendants, and also told of the presence of Loeb at the Harvard school whence Franks was enticed to his death.

NOMINEE DAVIS DECIDES TO SHORTEN VACATION

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Me., July 28.—Brushing aside all difficulties, John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, decided finally late today to move up his return to New York by one day. He will leave here Wednesday and arrive in the metropolis the next morning.

The real purpose of the nominee in shortening his vacation period is to lend his assistance and advice in the perfection of campaign organization machinery and plans and to confer with a number of leaders at New York regarding many problems which must be put out of the way before he goes to Clarksburg, W. Va., for the notification ceremonies.

SEVEN MEN, ONE WOMAN HELD FOR MERCHANDISE ROBBERIES

Buffalo, N. Y., July 28.—Seven men and one woman were held on open charges today by the police on suspicion of being connected with a series of merchandise robberies from the American Expres company and local firms, the total of which, it is said, might reach $50,000. Police are endeavoring to learn if they may be implicated in robberies in other cities

BRAZILIAN REBELS DRIVEN FROM THE CITY OF SAO PAULO

Revolutionary Forces are Now Being Pursued by the Federals —During About Two Weeks of Fighting Between 1,000 and 3,000 Civilians Have Been Killed—More Than 200,000 Persons Have Fled From the City.

Rio Janerio, July 28.—(By The A. P.)—The rebel forces have been driven from the city of Sao Paulo by the federal troops and are now being pursued by the federals, according to the noon-day official communication issued at the war office.

The communication follows:

"The city of Sao Paulo has been evacuated by the revolutionists, against whom the federal troops have started energetic pursuit.

"The cities of Sorocaba, Mayrink, Itu, Araecatuba and Mogy Mirin are the probable points to which the rebels are retreating. All of them have been occupied by federal troops belonging to the garrisons of the states of Panama, Matto Grosso and Minas Ceraes."

Washington, July 28.—Withdrawal of the revolutionary forces from the Sao Paulo and the occupation of that city by Brazilian government forces was announced today in advices received by the department of state. The department's advices were based upon dispatches from the admiral commanding the Brazilian naval forces which said all Americans in Sao Paulo were found to be safe when the city was taken over by the government forces.

No indication was given in the advices as to where the rebel forces proceeded when they evacuated the city. They added, however, that celebration of the federal victory had begun. The effect of the evacuation in the region beyond the immediate borders of the city which had been controlled by the revolutionists, was not indicated.

Abandonment of the city by the revolutionists was confirmed in a dispatch to the Brazilian embassy here from Felix Pacheco, minister of foreign affairs. The rebels were in retreat the message said.

American consular officials at Sao Paulo have variously reported since the fighting there began about two weeks ago that from 1000 to 3000 civilians had been killed or wounded. A heavy exodus said to have reached a total of more than 200,000 persons.

REBELS FLEEING TOWARD INTERIOR OF BRAZIL

Buenos Aires, July 28 (By the A. P.).—After twenty-three days of almost continuous fighting, the Brazilian rebel forces early this morning evacuated the city of Sao Paulo under pressure of the government besieging army, which is now in possession of the entire city. This information is contained in official announcements made by the Brazilian war office today.

The rebels fled in special trains toward the interior of Brazil and are being pursued. Their only avenues of escape are to the west and the northwest, and the official communications assert that the government troops in these regions already are in positions to deal with them.

The withdrawal of the rebels from Sao Paulo followed severe fighting inside the city on Sunday. The rebels appear to have made a desperate effort to hold back the government advance but failed.

At daybreak this morning the federal forces brought whippet tanks into play against the rebels. These were followed by infantry. The rebels already had begun their evacuation when this assault was made.

Numerous prisoners were taken by the federals, but the rebel leaders, including General Isidoro Lopez, escaped, having left the city. It is reported that the rebel Major Miguel Costa failed to escape and committed suicide.

When the federals took possession of the state capital at noon the governor, Carlos Campos, who had been deposed by the rebels, once more resumed his office.

CREDIT OF $4,000,000 TO THE GERMAN SUGAR INDUSTF

New York, July 28.—Arrangements have been completed by a syndicate of New York banks, headed by the Equitable Trust Company to extend a credit of $4,000,000 to the sugar industr of Germany, it was learned today.

Financial aid will be available for a period of six months, during which the season's crop can be moved, and will take the form of discounting bills at a rate understood to be about 7 1-2 per cent.

The credit, restricted to the use of a single industry, is the first of its kind to be granted by American bankers to Germany, although several months ago another banking syndicate extended credit of $25,000,000 to the German gold discount bank, for general trade purposes.

CAUSE OF DECLINE IN THE PRICE OF NEW HAVEN STOCK

New York, July 28.—One explanation of the selling of New York, New Haven and Hartford stock today was that the New Haven system had issued a report showing that for the first six months of this year, earnings in June were smaller than for the corresponding month of last year. However, on the full six months, the company still was far ahead with a surplus of $473,513 against a deficit of $4,418,753 last year.

RUM RUNNER ATTEMPTED TO RAM A MARINE PATROL

New York, July 28.—The story of a thrilling chase in the waters off Montauk Point, N. Y., early this morning, during which hundreds of shots were fired and a rum running yacht made three attempts to ram a speed boat of the customs marine patrol, was told tonight after the arrival at the barge office of the patrol vessel "Shark." On it were three agents, Lyons, Geary and Dureck, who captured the converted submarine chaser "William the 18th" with a crew of three and 800 cases of liquor aboard.

The agents said that as the yacht approached the customs speed boat, Lyons, who was in charge of the machine gun, ordered it too "heave to," but this order was disregarded.

"Three times this yacht tried to ram our boat," one of the agents said. "The third time they headed for us Lyons, who had already spattered the yacht with his eighth pan of machine gun bullets, was thrown overboard.

"We were forced to circle about him twice before he succeeded in grabbing the 130 foot life line which we had cast him.

"Meanwhile the yacht disappeared. As we were about to draw in the line with Lyons hanging on to its end, Geary yelled: 'There's another one over towards Cornfield light.'

"So we put our craft full speed ahead at 35 knots per hour and instructed Lyons to hang on. After a four mile chase, during which we fired 600 rounds from the machine gun, we captured the ship, a converted submarine chaser, 'William the 18th.'"

The hull of the chaser was riddled with the machine gun bullets, which, the agents said, was so powerful that they will penetrate an eighth of an inch steel plate at a distance of a half a mile.

No trace was found of the mysterious yacht, but federal officials are of the opinion that the bullet holes caused it to sink within 1,000 feet of the customs marine patrol boat while trying to escape.

BODY OF GIRL PICKED UP NEAR HORTON'S POINT

New London, July 28.—The body of a girl was picked up in the Sound near Horton's Point, west of Greenport, this afternoon, by Captain F. L. Andrews, of 831 Highland avenue, Fall River, Mass. Captain Andrews was aboard his yacht Glissando on his way from Oyster Bay to Newport. The body was brought to this place and the police were notified. It is now held by a local undertaker awaiting possible identification.

The girl was dressed in a blue bathing suit with green skirt and wore black stockings. Her hair was light brown. Medical Examiner Dr. Chas. Kaufman said the body had been in the water for ten days or two weeks. He thought the girl might be in her twenties and gave her height at 5 feet 8 inches and her weight 120 pounds.

NATIONAL INDEPENDENT PARTY FOR LAFOLLETTE

Indianapolis, July 28.—John Zahnd, of Indianapolis, who was nominated for president by the national independent party at its convention held here July 9, today announced his withdrawal from the presidential race in favor of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket. Mr. Zahnd said his action was taken following confereces with members of the executive committee of the party.

Mr. Zahnd declared that "in line with all true progressives there should be no split in our forces and that a united front should be made in behalf of LaFollette and Wheeler."

The national independent party will not abandon the state tickets that it has nominated, according to Mr. Zahnd.

WILLIMANTIC

There was an unusual stir at the home of Frank P. Lombardo, 74 Walnut street, about 11 o'clock Monday forenoon, when a horse owned aby Charles Chalifoux of 32 Main street caved through the flooring of a barn in the rear of the Lombardo home and became a prisoner in a blind cellar. Mr. Chalifoux was engaged in removing old furniture and other articles from the Lombardo barn and while loading up his wagon he unhitched the horse and led him into the barn. He was leading the animal into one of the stalls when rotted boards on a door which opened up from the floor broke under the weight and the horse's hind legs went through. Mr. Chalifoux lost control of the animal which kicked its way through more boards and soon dropped down on its side into a six-foot deep, blind cellar. The police were notified and several well known horsemen in the city were called to aid. A score of men worked on the animal and removed all obstructions in an attempt to haul the horse back on the floor but all to no avail. The animal had been imprisoned nearly two hours when Charley Baker, expert horseman, arrived. Under his direction a block and tackle was rigged up by Maurice Leonard and with the assistance of volunteers the horse was lifted bodily from its precarious position. Once back to safety the horse quickly recovered and a few minutes later was all hitched up and ready to go again. Its only injuries consisted of abrasions on the legs and knees. Mr. Lombardo stated that the barn had not been in use for some time and that if he had been on hand he would have warned Mr. Chalifoux against bringing the horse inside. Mr. Chalifoux valued the horse highly and was most grateful to the volunteers for their assistance.

Two narrow escapes from drowning were registered at Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry, and Columbia Lake, Sunday afternoon. The rescues were witnessed by scores of people who were bathing at these resorts. Adolph DeMontigny, of Willimantic, was quite a distance from shore, opposite the Brown cottages at Columbia Lake, when he was seized with cramps and went under. He came up once and called for help. Joseph Giraca, a relative, rushed to his assistance and through hard work succeeded in keeping his burden above water until more help came from a row boat. DeMontigny was given stimulants and within a short time had recovered.

At Lake Wangumbaug near the Killourey bathing houses, someone shouted that there was a man drowning in a canal leading from the lake. Bubbles could be seen arising to the surface and several young men in bathing at the time dove in and after several attempts brought the body of a man to shore. Included among the rescuers were Adelard Belair and Joseph Connor of Willimantic. First aid was administered at Lakeside Casino and Edward Zimmerman of South Coventry worked on the young man for half an hour. Nothing was given out about the man, other than he was one of a party of motorcyclists from South Manchester. Early in the evening he had recovered and he returned to his home.

Alfred Chalifoux, former chauffeur for Frederick E. Wilcox, was charged at the Monday morning session of police court with reckless driving and taking a car without the owner's permission. The case is the aftermath of an accident on the North Windham road near Phelps Crossing, on the evening of July 4, last, when Dr. Wilcox's car was completely demolished against a telephone pole. Chalifoux and two friends escaped serious injury.

Dr. Wilcox testified that as his chauffeur, Chalifoux had been instructed to remain outside of the office on Main street, or return to the house, where he could be called on the telephone. On the night of July 4 testimony left Chalifoux at 7.45 o'clock and when he called for him after 9, the chauffeur was missing. Shortly after that Dr. Wilcox heard about the accident.

Chalifoux testified that he took the car for a short ride to North Windham village and back. One of the tires went flat on Phelps Crossing bridge and the crash against the pole followed. He said that he worked all day long and nearly all night and that as his spare time was brief he thought he could use the machine to run errands and for shipping purposes. He had no directions from Dr. Wilcox to take the car on rides, but took it for granted that there would be no objection for short trips.

Dr. Wilcox, recalled to the stand, testified that there was no collision insurance on the automobile which was valued at $1,600 and which brought $130 for junk. He had learned since that Chalifoux often used the machine and drove recklessly.

Judge Foss said that the evidence introduced was of such a nature that he believed that it was a case for the higher courts. He bound Chalifoux over to the September term of the Windham county superior court, under bonds of $1,000 which were furnished.

Timothy McCrohan pleaded guilty in the city court Monday to a charge of assault on a friend, Raymond Jennings whom he struck over the eye with a pool cue in the Haddad pool room. Jennings admitted that he had been struck but said that he did not wish to testify against McCrohan, who was still his friend. A fine of $3 and costs, amounting to $11.16 was imposed and paid by the accused.

Farmers' Week got into swing on Monday afternoon at Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs. Under direction of the college special courses, lectures and conferences are being held for the people of the state. Included in the work is a highly interesting program, comprising beekeeping, dairying, horticulture, livestock, poultry, rural religious workers, etc. A special program has also been arranged for women. In charge of the conference for rural religious workers is the Connecticut Federation of Churches under chairmanship of Rev. George R. Gilbert of Middletown and the executive secretary, Morris E. Alling. The conference is booked for Thursday afternoon, July 31. The federation is to have a tent erected on the Storrs campus which will be open during the week, with special workers in attendance. Both the conference on religious work and the exhibit tent of religious and social activities in rural sections, are innovations this year.

Civil action against John Komarski of South Coventry to recover damages of $37.35 has been instituted by Valentine L. Murphy and Thomas W. Doyle of the Doyle & Murphy Contracting company. The damages are for an automobile owned by the plaintiffs, as the result of a collision of cars owned by both parties on May 5, last. Included in the damage suit is the use of the car for two days amounting to $20. It is alleged that Komarski's machine was driver in a reckless manner. Wages due the defendant at the Rossis velvet plant have been attached by City Sheriff Thomas J. Killourey. The case is returnable before justice of the peace Aug. 9.

Displaying a genuine outdoor coloring and feeling full of pep and vim, the members of the four divisions of St. Mary's choir boys have returned after two weeks' camping at Merrythought farm, Columbia lake. The trip was not marred by sickness, accidents or bad weather conditions. Prizes for school studies were awarded as follows: Highest general average, Medias Gaudreau, 97; gold Waterman fountain pen; French, Alfred Caisse, 93, gold pin; arithmetic, George Gaudreau, gold pencil; deportment and church attendance, Raymond Moore, Boy Scout knife and compass. The boys experienced gratitude to the following for the loan of automobiles on the trip: Alexis Caisse, Mrs. Roderick Gaudreau, Zephirs Bergeron, Joseph Gagnon, Fred LeClair and Albert B. Smith, general secretary at the Y. M. C. A., and Arthur Robitaille Generous. Women who furnished dinners for the boys were: Mrs. Camille Desrosiers, Mrs. Napoleon LeClaire, Mrs. Arthur Roy, Mrs. Hormisdas Gaudreau, Mrs. Madeleine Gaudreau, Mrs. Joseph Martin, Mrs. Joseph Bergeron, Mrs. Albert Coutu, Mrs. Jean St. Laurent, Mrs. Theodore Loiselle, Mrs. Medias Gaudreau. Order and discipline in camp was maintained by Director Joseph F. Gaudreau.

At the Holmes Farm, on the Hop River road, Troops 2, 3 and 4, Boy Scouts of America, of St. Joseph's parish, are located for two weeks' outing. The boys have been at camp since Friday and have enjoyed many visits from local people, including members of the troop committee: Rev. John E. Clark, George Timmins, William A. Costello, David P. Ahern, John Meehan, Peter J. Hinds and Walter J. Costello. Rev. O. S. Beaumister celebrated mass on the field Sunday morning and delivered an inspiring sermon to the boys. The troop members are in charge of Scoutmasters Jeremiah McCarthy, Anthony Meehan and William Meehan and Assistant Scoutmasters Green, Smith and Gadarowsky.

Horace E. Sweet of Manchester, wanted by the Rhode Island State Hospital for the Insane at Howard, R. I., whence he escaped Sunday, was being held at the local police station Monday, to await the arrival of officers from the institution. When the passenger train, over the Providence division of the New Haven railroad, stopped at the local station at 8.30 o'clock Monday morning, Conductor W. J. McCaughey turned Sweet, who is an elderly man, over to Traffic Officer Roderick Lariviere. Sweet boarded the train at Plainfield and handed Conductor McGaughey a piece of paper on which was written "Ticker for Manchester." Sweet has been an inmate of the Rhode Island institution since 1887. He told Chief of Police MacArthur that he was on a furniture moving job and was on his way to Manchester.

At a meeting of the ecclesiastical society of Windham Center Congregational church, action was taken on a recommendation of a joint committee of the Windham Center and South Windham churches to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Arthur W. Clifford. The committee recommended Rev. James O. Graham of the Foxtown Congregational church and he was approved by the society. Authority was given Secretary H. Clinton Lathrop to notify Rev. Mr. Graham of the call extended him, with a request that he assume charge September 1, or soon after that date.

The funeral of Wilfred Lamoureux was held from the home of his mother, 126 Spring street, Monday morning. A high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. J. J. Papillon. The attendance was large and included associate employes from the Eastern Connecticut Power company. The bearers were Victor Hamel, Theodore Bertrand, Lorenzo Ricard, John Lucey, Wilfred Pageau and Louis DeMarchi. Rev. H. C. Belec conducted the committal service at St. Joseph's cemetery. Arrangements were by the Hurteau-Bosse Corp.

The carcass of a derelict cat, killed by an automobile Monday forenoon on Main street and thrown against the curbing in front of the Opera House block, became a source of much discussion among the business men of that block and the Card block, as to the person responsible for the burial of the animal. "Joe," the white wings dust man, was consulted but he said that his push cart was not to be contaminated by dead cats and he proceeded on his way. An appeal to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank P. Fenton was made in the afternoon and he had the cat removed by one of the street department men.

George Topliff, a teamster, broke the Sabbath by cooling himself with moonshine and when he reached home, near the Twin Bridges, in the town of Mansfield, the stuff had taken effect. Topliff pushed his wife against a window which fell out. The state police barracks in Stafford Springs were called by telephone and Officers Helnold and Rodell came and arrested Topliff. Before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews Monday morning, with Grand Juror Frank W. Millard prosecuting, Topliff pleaded guilty to intoxication and breach of the peace. He was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $26.25 which his wife paid.

Mrs. Mary Griffin Vertefeuille has brought civil suit against her husband, Moise Vertefeuille, and the case is returnable before the Windham county superior court the first Tuesday in September. Papers in the case have been served by City Sheriff Killourey who attached real estate owned by the defendant to the amount of $3,100. $3,000 damages are claimed.

Friends of Billy Jackson, son of Alderman and Mrs. William E. Jackson of this city, rejoice in the news that the young man is recovering after a serious illness and that he is now able to sit up in bed at a Hartford hospital.

A swarm of honey bees came sailing through the air and settled on a signboard near the local railroad station Monday forenoon. A number of people were attracted to the spot, by the immense mass of the busy little bodies. Later in the day a Willington resident, said to be the owner of the swarm, came to the station and took the queen bee away.

BODY OF UNKNOWN WOMAN BATHER TOWED INTO NEW LONDON MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 28—The sea gave up its dead this afternoon when the body of an unidentified woman was found floating off Pauknerg Point by Frank L. Andrews, 631 Highland avenue, Fall River, Mass. The body, which is that of a woman apparently 35 or 40, light complexion, and medium build, was towed to New London and is now at an undertaking establishment awaiting a claimant.

The body is considerably decomposed, but identification is possible. It has been in the water about a week or ten days and is that of a bather, for the woman was attired only in a bathing costume, the color of which was blue. She wore black stockings.

So far as could be learned no woman bather hereabouts is known to have been drowned.

Andrews was in his launch about 2 o'clock and about five miles west of Faulkner's when he observed an object resembling a body floating. He guided the launch closer to the object and saw it was a woman, face downward. The body was made fast to the launch and the owner then started for this port, arriving at the public landing shortly after 5 o'clock. Medical Examiner Charles R. Kaufman after viewing the body to determine whether death was accidental or from foul play, decided that the woman came to her death by drowning and ordered the body removed to the undertaking establishment.

Hose Banning, about 70, appeared in the police court this morning and charged that John Hose of a young man, had applied the wiles of names to her without any reason while she sat on the veranda of her home at 71 Eastmill street, Sunday. For accosting was on a similar sort and was remembered by Walter Banning, husband of the woman. Spectators in court wondered what the defense of Banyon would be if indeed he had any defense that would protect witnesses to affirm the statements he made. To make a long story short, the case went over till tomorrow. Kenyon was a little confused as he told just the words formerly did his wooing. She said one place that employment up because of the irregularity in which she received clothing to be mangled. She said that Kenyon paid promptly for work done for him but that in this instance and in others he was very remiss.

George A. Wragg of Norwich is to appear in the court here Saturday to answer a charge that he operated his car recklessly in this city Sunday.

Thomas O'Neill of Norwich was fined $10 for operating an automobile without having a license so to do. O'Neill and a friend, Charles Pavichis, also of Norwich, declared Thomas was on his way to get a license from the agency in this city when he was grabbed by a policeman. Charles was showing how to operate a car, but the instruction will be wasted for a time as Thomas is not apt to now to get the necessary papers for awhile.

James H. Rand was hustling along Bank street in his car during a time when traffic on that street was congested. The motorman of a trolley car yelled at Rand, but the latter paid no heed to him, saying that he did not understand that the motorman was calling to him. As a result traffic was balled up. Rand was fined $5.

Thomas Ford, an icemaker at the Griswold hotel, was fined $5 for intoxication. He was at the union railway station and those who heard him blaster while he was talking supposed he would almost eat Railroad officer Martin Kane, so savagely did he abuse him. That was talk only, for the officer hustled Ford off the the police station in a sort of jajzz step. Perhaps Ford used some of the ice he made for cooling the beverage he consumed.

There were complaints in the court against Fred R. Swanson, who operates a dancehall at Ocean Beach and against Adrian Murray who was convicted in an accident last week, but neither of the cases was heard as witnesses are to be secured. The charge against both men is reckless driving. A state policeman is a witness in the latter case and he was called to Danbury today.

Steve Bosha, came to spend a term in jail today as he is apt to get and not be imprisoned. He was paid for his week's work Saturday and proceeded to get what his wife called "a beaut" of a load. He gave his wife $20, but he took half of it away from her and started out. Mrs. Bosha declares that Seven spends his money in gambling and that he is given to auto riding at times, a luxury that costs money and he cannot afford to spend his earnings in that way. The couple have two beautiful children about 3 and 5, and they were responsible for leniency being shown to the father today. He was sentenced to jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended that he might work and earn for the support of his wife and children. Mrs. Bosha told the woman who interpreted what she said that it was fortunate for her husband that she did not get one good swipe at him. She said he got her by the hair and pounded her head on the floor, but she intimated that he would not always have the advantage of her in that respect.

Jerome R. Higgins, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins, Park street, died at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital Saturday night, following an operation for appendicitis.

Two complaints were made to the police Sunday night because of vicious dogs being allowed to roam at large. One of the complainants was A. R. McCann, 1 Chapel court, who declared that a dog had attacked and bitten a friend of the complainant, who was a visitors in the city. The other complainant was John McNeil, 20 Farnworth street, who declared that a neighbor's dog had attacked members of his family and that unless the dog was restrained from attacking pedestrians, he would take the law into his own hands, as previous complaints to Dog Warden Sweezey had not been given attention. An effort to place the two complaints with the dog warden last night were not successful, as Sweezey could not be located.

The state police made another drive at putting a stop to the speeding automobiles on the Hartford turnpike. Yesterday officers from the Groton barracks apprehended six speeders near Salem where a dangerous curve exists. The offenders were Joseph Rezkin, Julian Reane, Arthur Tatro, Joseph Beneny, Wilbur Walker and Marcus Fins, all of Hartford. They will be given hearings in justice court at Salem Wednesday evening.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of George F. Fisher, submarine base, Frank Thurber, 39 Thames street, and Sidney A. Moon, 169 Ocean avenue to be suspended.

Waterman and Wolfe, proprietors of the Ford service station, corner of Main and Richards street today complained to the police that five panes of glass had been broken in the establishment between Saturday evening and this forenoon. It is believed that the damage was done by boys.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth F. Howard, widow of Henry S. Howard, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her residence, 40 Howard street and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Heveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Charles E. Lyman, Edward Saunders, Frederick W. Huh and Harry E. Dart. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Lieut. C. H. Miley, stationed at the submarine base, was before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in Firemen's hall, Waterford, this evening, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and with reckless driving. The case was continued to Aug. 11th and Miley provided a surety on his bond of $200 for appearance at that time. Miley was operating an automobile owned by Charles Sleetinger, also stationed at the base, along the Hartford turnpike Sunday evening at a high rate of speed. The car is alleged to have passed the corner of Jefferson avenue and Broad street at an estimated speed of 35 miles an hour. Continuing towards Chesterfield, Miley kept up his fast clip. Near Prospect Hill the car collided with a machine owned and driven by Fred Herman, 205 West Main street, Norwich. In Herman's car was Mrs. Helen Herman and Mr. Herman's son Allen. Mrs. Herman sustained slight bruises and the machine was damaged.

Miley's car continued at an alleged high rate of speed and soon collided with a car owned and driven by Harry Kaplan, 13 Clover court, this city, in which were Kaplan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Kaplan. Mrs. Kaplan received severe bruises and was attended by Dr. Ross, who came along while Mrs. Kaplan was nursing her wounds. State Policeman H. J. Albright, who was on duty on the turnpike in an endeavor to put a stop to speeding, placed Miley under arrest. When presented in court tonight Miley was represented by Attorney G. C. Morgan while Attorney Morris Lubchansky represented Mrs. Kaplan.

H. E. Stengele, 444 Montauk avenue, a paymaster's clerk stationed at the submarine base, was presented on a charge of operating an automobile without having a license so to do. His case was continued to tomorrow evening. Stengele was taken into custody Saturday night by State Policeman Irving Schubert following Stengele's car being in collision with a machine owned and driven by Frederick B. Gavitt, proprietor of the Hotel Royal, at Mossbroker's corner.

Oscar Wilson, 678 Bank street, was taken into custody in Waterford this evening by State Policeman H. J. Albright, charged with passing an intersecting highway without reducing the speed of the car or without giving a signal. The minimum fine of $5 and costs was imposed. Wilson operated his machine at a rate of speed estimated at 35 miles an hour past an intersecting highway near Jordan village.

One of the longest dockets to claim the attention of Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court was that which came before that court this morning. All of the cases excepting one were for violation of the liquor law or violation of the motor vehicle law.

Josie Klumberg, High street, was charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell and drew a fine of $100 and costs. Her husband, Tony, was charged with breach of the peace and was taxed the costs of the court, $857. Klumberg's house was raided by the state police a week ago, and at which time seven or eight men were found in the place under the influence of liquor. Mrs. Klumberg and her husband became engaged in a quarrel during the progress of the raid and before it ended Klumberg struck his wife a severe blow in the face.

Paul Gager, New London, was fined $25 and costs for reckless driving.

John Seraghini and Olga Cononcki were charged with violation of the liquor law. Their cases were continued to Aug. 4th. Seraghini and the Cononcki woman were arrested Sunday night when the homes of the accused were raided by the state police.

The case of Sylvester Cavaligio, charged with violation of the motor vehicle law, was continued until Aug. 4, as was the case of John Cafaro, whose car was in collision a week ago with a machine owned by Ripley Clark.

The case of John O'Mara, violation of the automobile law, was nolled.

Benjamin F. Bailey, 83, a resident of New London half a century, died this morning at his home, 297 Montauk avenue, death ending an illness of many weeks caused by infirmities attending old age. He is survived by one son, John F. Bailey, this city, and was a member of W. W. Perkins post, G. A. R., and Mohegan lodge, I. O. O. F., which organization held a special meeting this evening and took action on the death of Mr. Bailey, selecting a delegation to attend the funeral. Mr. Bailey was born in Noank and early in life moved to New London, where for many years he conducted a sailmaking and awning establishment.

Mrs. Frank Miserski, 100 Winthrop street, Clyde Carpenter, 37 Federal street, Mrs. Morris Rubin and infant son, 73 Belden street, Miss Virginia McGinley, little daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Stephen J. McGinley, Omaha, Neb., and Robert Mather, 18 Carroll court, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Clayton W. Avery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon G. Avery, 135 Main street, is a patient at Lawrence hospital as a result of an operation performed there recently. The young man's condition is reported favorable today.

Misses Margaret and Alice Nash have gone to the Berkshires to remain a fortnight.

Mrs. Clarence Brock, Seattle, Wash., Handel Myrick, Waterford, Miss Carlotta Damon, Groton, George Erskine, Cheshire, Peter Taperturiso, Shaw street, Chester Debroski, Hope Valley, R. I., and Mrs. Florence London, Watch Hill, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The condition of Frank Scovish, Montville, terribly injured as a result of a premature blast in a well in which Scovish was at work Friday evening, was reported this afternoon as being slightly improved at Lawrence hospital, although Scovish was said to still be on the danger list.

The first of the petitions for city office, election for which will not take place until the third week in September, were circulated today when P. LeRoy Harwood, president of the board of school visitors, caused petitions to be circulated for the nomination of Mrs. James N. Kelley, Percy Coe Eggleston and Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson, retiring members of the board. It is probable that within a few days other nominations for this office, together with petitions for members of the city council, will be circulated. Three of the present members of the council will retire from office in September.

Morris Blotsky, 58 Connecticut avenue, complained to the police this evening that he is annoyed by the conduct of persons presumably residing in his neighborhood. Blotsky declared that because of the frequent trespassing upon his lawn he has caused "Keep Off" signs to be placed upon the lawn and that as fast as the signs are erected they are taken down, the removal of the signs occurring during the night.

JEWETT CITY

Judge John T. Barry had before him Monday morning in the town court four peddlers arrested by Deputy Sheriff Dolan for peddling without licenses. John Farco, baker, of Norwich, a man named Kober, of Norwich and Maurice Swartz of Preston, fruit peddlers, paid $14.37 each. Walter Murray of Norwich, had his case nolled. One of the men had been peddling for two years without a license. The fifth peddler is to appear before the court Saturday.

PALACE REVIEW

Broadway of the great white lights, Broadway of the iron soul that voraciously swallows up its millions of adventurous souls, is the theme of one of the finest pictures it was ever our good fortune to witness. The picture in Broadway After Dark, and it opened yesterday at the Palace theatre to enthusiastic audiences.

We recommend the picture unqualifiedly. Especially worth seeing are the scenes of the great Equity Ball which is annually attended by every Broadway celebrity, and which are incorporated into this picture. It is a slice out of real life, plus the artistry which skilfull dramatic form gives. You will also see the funniest of all comedies One Terrible Day with Our Gang, Pathe News and famous Palace orchestra.

Pictures will be taken of the audience at each performance, as well as on the stage, so don't miss this great opportunity, absolutely no advance in prices.

BREED THEATRE

Six Cylinder Love, the William Fox special that has enjoyed a well attended run at the Breed theatre, comes to an end with the final evening showing tonight. This production, made by Elmer Clifton, director of Down to the Sea in Ships, is a comedy-drama having to do with young romance, an automobile and a group of Spongers. Mix this all up and you have a "pot pourri" of rare charm and satiric humor. The cast is a splendidly selected one, including Ernest Truex and Florence Eldridge in the leading roles: Ralph Spiperly, Donald Meek, Maud Hill, Marjorie Milton, Ann McKittrick, Harold Mann and others.

No More Women! a comedy drama by Elmer Harris featuring Madge Bellamy, Matt Moore, Kathleen Clifford and a brilliant supporting cast is to be the feature offering at the Breed theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

The third of a series of special productions being made by Associated Authors, Inc., an organization of screen writers and technicians bent on giving the author of a story better opportunity to build his story into a living narrative, No More Women! is evidence that Elmer Harris' fiction characters are, on the screen, exactly as he pictured them in his mind for, after writing the story, he prepared the scenario and produced the photoplay version.

DANIELSON

Of all the unpopular songs of the day the one that has a line running to the effect that "It Ain't Going to Rain No Mo' " takes first rank. The long delayed arrival of rain—and rain in generous quantities—is getting to be a serious matter. It happens that Danielson's supply of water for all domestic purposes is ample, yet none should be wasted. The Crystal Water company has announced no restrictions on the use of water as yet, though the company has a standing rule that lawn and other such sprinklers shall not be used more than two hours each day, and this rule is very generally observed.

A checkup of the week end motor accidents shows none of a serious nature in the territory hereabouts, though as is usually the case on Saturdays and Sundays some machines became involved in difficulties, without injury of account to anyone. A touring car that went out of control coming down Hampton Hill plunged through the roadside fence and brought up against a tree, which held it from a further slide down the incline. Sunday evening there was a collision between the two cars near the junction of Main ad Reynolds street.

More inquiries as to prices on cotton goods have been received during the past week than in any week for a long time, J. Arthur Atwood, well known manufacturer stated Monday, but orders for goods are few and far between. It is practically impossible to obtain orders excepting at a loss While that may yappear a bit discouraging, there are indications that buying will be more brisk in the not distant future. The upward trend of wheat and corn prices is favorable to a more active cotton market, Mr. Atwood said, because the farmers are big buyers of cotton goods when they have the money with which to buy and higher prices for wheat and corn will mean more money for the farmers, this applying largely to the grain growing states of the west and northwest. One of the unfavorable signs in the cotton manufacturing industry is the upward price trend of raw cotton. High priced cotton means that there will be a reflection of the price in the manufactured article, and the desire of the manufacturers in such a market as the present one is to keep the prices as low as possible, that there may be more sales.

Sailors and soldiers will stage a series of bouts at the Casino Arena this week. This will be a treat for the fans who like boxing, because they have a guarantee that the soldier and sailor boys will box with vim and for the honor of the branch of the service they represent. The bouts are to be held here at the suggestion of the state boxing commission. Soldiers from Fort Wright on Fishers Island have charge of the arrangements for the events, which will be announced in detail tomorrow Wednesday). A big delegation of soldiers from Fort Wright and from the Submarine Base at New London will come here for the bouts and all communities in territory hereabouts will be represented.

Up at East Killingly the interest in the Benjamin White case was more than ordinary. Ben, as he was familiarly known in that section of this town, was always counted something of a queer customer, and many are the incidents related about him and his whimsicalities while he lived there. While he had a job carrying mail sacks between the East Killingly postoffice and the trolley station he felt all puffed up over his work. He had a wheelbarrow pompously decorated with the legend "U. S. Mail" and that he carried a revolver with which to protect it during the little trip involved in its transportation.

He took with all seriousness the joshing about the importance of his position and the responsibility that rested upon him and would rush pell mell after boys who would tease him by grabbing a mail bag and dragging it along for a few feet.

He was a great student of firearms catalogues and often gathered boys and youths about him to point out some marvelous bargain he had discovered and would relate that it could be bought for half what one would pay for a similar article at home.

Only a few at East Killingly ever considered Ben dangerous, however, though he proved to be exceptionally so in the end.

It was recalled here Monday that Ben was advertised to appear in a basketball game in Danielson when he was 70. It was intended, too, that he should, as a joke, but it happened that he never did. These incidents relative to him are recited to establish in the public mind his type of personality. Briefly he was an old man with a brain development of a boy of ten, and he had always been more or less so. He was well known to a great many people in Danielson and in about every other part of the town of Killingly.

Ben was known as a good shot. His pursuers were aware of this when they closed in on him Monday morning and fully realized, in view of what he did Sunday the chances they were taking. He did not disappoint them when he opened fire the minute he realized has was cornered. He was prepared to put up a real fight, too, for he had nine rounds of ammunition with him, one of them a shell loaded with what is known to deer hunters as a slug—a lead ball nearly the size of a marble. It may be considered a bit of good fortune that some of the posse did not fall nearer Ben's aim before he was brought down by the bullets that put an end to his career.

Misses Marguerite and Lucille Caron will leave Sunday evening for a month's vacation to be spent in Canada.

Mrs. Annie Coburn, wife of L. J. Coburn, arrived here from Los Angeles, en route to Bangerville, Me., and was a guest Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Andrews of Riverview. Mr. Coburn is also en route from Los Angeles to Maine. Mr. Coburn is remembered here as the developer of Industrial Place, now the center of the activities of the Connecticut Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips, recently married in Syracuse, were visitors in Danielson Monday.

A number from this vicinity will be at North Foster tomorrow for the 80th anniversary observance of the church at that place.

It is anticipated that the garden party at Norman White's Sugar Brook farm for the benefit of the Congregational church at Central Village will net approximately $1400.

Mrs. P. F. Murray and Miss Adeline Cronin have recently been visitors with friends in Fall River.

Miss Rose La Roche, night operator at the central telephone exchange, is having a vacation of three week.

Mrs. Catherine McCormac, of the staff of clerks at Keech's store, is having a vacation.

Mrs. and Mrs. I. L. Buteau and family removed to Fall River, where Mr. Buteau has been transferred by the insurance company he represents. He will serve in Fall River as an assistant superintendent.

PUTNAM

Three cases in the Putnam city court, Monday morning, had to do with alcoholic content. One with the content of liquors and two with the content of those who had consumed liquor. All three were found guilty.

Anna Fronezek, who paid $200 into the city treasury, April 22nd, when she pleaded guilty to keeping liquor with intent to sell, was up on a similar charge, second offense. The arrest was the result of a raid Saturday night at the Fronezek home in the Grove Terrace section of the city, by Sergeant George Laird and Officers Durand, Page, Sisere and Chandler.

The officers called at the home about 10 o'clock with proper credentials for gaining admission. No one was at home except Mrs. Fronezek and her five children. The policemen proceeded to give the place a once-over and as a result came away with bottles and jugs alleged to contain beer, wine and sour cider. Raisins predominated in some of the mixture which was about the constituency of a bowl of newly made mince meat.

It is now believed that the contents of the receptacles which the police seized may have been newly made. Attorney Miron who represented the defendant, did a little testing with an alcohol float. This instrument is to show the alcoholic content of a liquid substance and as tested by the attorney it showed a zero.

When the case was called, Prosecuting Attorney Carpenter asked for a consultation with the attorney for the defendant and the court in private. What went on in conference was not made clear to the room full of spectators that remained about an hour for the court's reappearance, but it may be that further tests of the liquid were made. However, when court reconvened a demurrer was entered in the case. The defendant was sentenced to 90 days in jail and the execution of sentence was suspended upon the payment of costs amounting to $20.14.

Luke Champagne did not have to be tested. He admitted, as his name might well have implied before the present sum war, that he contained several times more than a-half of one per cent. When asked if he was drunk and if he committed a breach of the peace, he said that he was, and he had. Patrolman William Durand said that Champagne did not like to be arrested, made considerable trouble before he would accompany the officer, and had to be thrown down and handcuffed before he was subdued. Luke got 30 days on each count.

Joseph Verrier was recognized as an old offender and had no hesitancy to pleading guilty to being drunk and a common drunkard. He also drew 60 days.

Attorney Howard C. Bradford and family left this (Tuesday) morning for a week's stay at Buttonwoods, on the Providence river.

Judge F. F. Russell and family have returned from a motor tour to Plymouth, N. H.

Through a return made at the office of the town clerk, David Flagg, Monday, it became known in this city that Miss Louise I. Davison, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Davison and Arthur J. Loomis, also of Putnam, were married in Chepatchet, R. I., Friday, July 18th, by Rev. Mr. Pierson, pastor of the Chepatchet Baptist church. It was stated at the Davison home that Mr. and Mrs. Loomis were expected to arrive in Putnam this (Tuesday) afternoon from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and nearby places, returning by the way of New York city and Providence. They will make their home with Mrs. Loomis' parents.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Loomis are well known in Putnam where they have lived most of their lives. Mr. Loomis is local foreman of the signal department of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad.

Before about 200 spectators Mechanicsville A. C., won one of the prettiest games of the season from the Orioles of Hartford, on the Mechanicsville grounds, Sunday afternoon. The final score was 3 to 1. The score was 1 to 0 in the 4th and in the 5th it was tied, 1 and 1. While holding the visitors runless for the remainder of the game, Mechanicsville got a man around in the 8th and again in the 7th. Next Sunday the A. C. is to play the Hamiltons of Southbridge at Mechanicsville.

Richard Holmes of Mount Vernon, N. Y., who spent the week-end with his grandmother, Mrs. A. W. Macdonald, returned home Sunday night. He was accompanied by his aunt, Mrs. Helen H. Willey, who goes to Mount Vernon to visit her sister, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, and will also visit her son and daughter-in-law, Prof. Malcolm M. Willey and Mrs. Willey who are spending the summer in New York.

Mrs. Douglas Fenwick of New York arrived in Putnam Sunday evening to be near her sister, Mrs. Freeman of Boston, who fell while a guest of Mrs. H. L. Burt, of Grove street, Saturday, and broke her hip and is now a patient at the Day Kimball hospital.

Sergeant George Laird, of the Putnam police force, is having his vacation which he is spending with his family, who are guests of relatives in New Bedford.

WESTERLY

Calvary Baptist church was filled Monday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock with relatives and many friends, to attend the funeral of Col. Eugene Burroughs Pendleton, who died last Thursday night in Stamford.

The body was brought to the church under escort of a detail of Battery E, 248rd artillery and accompanied by the following Masonic bearers: Lewis Stanton, George E. Broughton, Chas. L. Segar, Arthur L. Perry, Thomas McKenzie and Arthur N. Nash, representing Franklin lodge, Palmer chapter and Narragansett commandery of which Mr. Pendleton was a member.

Before the church was an escort of Knights Templar of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, Charles M. Kebbe, commander, which accompanied Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., attending the church services in a body and having charge of the committal services in River Bend cemetery. Acting as master was Frederick N. Robinson, senior warden, in the absence of the master and Rev. S. H. Davis supplied as chaplain. In the church service Rev. Mr. Davis read the Scripture and pronounced a short eulogy, in which the service and loyalty of Col. Pendleton in the community, was brought out. Rev. Mr. Davis closed with the benediction.

At River Bend cemetery the full service of the Masonic committal was carried out. At the close of the Masonic service the Battery detail, Capt. John Datson, fired a volley of three rounds. The impressive service was concluded by Bugler Stanley Livingstone, who sounded taps.

Letter Carrier L. Ward Alger was a visitor Saturday afternoon at the hospital in New London and called on Edward A. Montague, of Pawcatuck, a letter carrier of the Westerly post office who is recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Daniel Ashworth of Westerly was a visitor Saturday at the Rhode Island hospital in Providence, where his wife is progressing favorably in receiving treatment for infantile paralysis.

John Johnston of Boston is the guest of Amos L. Elston of the West Side.

John H. Sawyers of Providence was the week end guest of Westerly friends and relatives.

Plans are being perfected for the annual clambake and outing of the Westerly Masonic club Thursday, Aug. 14th, at Barnes' Point, Brightman Pond.

A special train with returning baterymen passed the Westerly station at 10:30 Saturday morning for Providence. The last car of the five-car special bore the cloth sign "Battery H."

Frank Robertson of 44 School street reported not feeling well Saturday night. Sunday the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps was called and he was taken to the Hope Hospital in Providence. Sunday evening an operation was performed for appendicitis and on Monday it was stated that his condition was greatly improved.

Monday announcement was made that Miss Adele C. Martin, assistant librarian at Hampton institute, Hampton, Va., would succeed Librarian Basil B. Wood, who completes his duties at the Westerly public library Aug. 1st. Miss Martin will take up her duties Sept. 1st. Hampton institute is a normal, agricultural and industrial institution, founded in 1868, designed to train colored youths as teachers of their own race; in 1923 Hampton had 420 students with a teaching staff of 18.

Commodore W. E. Longfellow of the American Red Cross life saving service, who started his career 25 years ago in Rhode Island, arrived in Westerly Sunday afternoon and was met by Miss Ruth V. Davis and Miss Lucy M. Crowley, representing the Westerly branch of the American Red Cross. This was not the commodore's first visit to Westerly, and probably will not be his last, as a state campaign is being instituted to eliminate accidental drownings in America. Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock before the Atlantic beach casino, a very large crowd was gathered to see and hear the latest and most approved methods to be used when drowning cases appear imminent.

Fate seemed to "have it in" for the telephone poles on the Westerly-Watch Hill road Monday when at two different times two different autotrucks laid them low. Early in the morning the Ford delivery truck of the William Segar Co., driven by James Tatkas, struck a pole near the Dock switch on the Watch Hill trolley line. In falling the pole took down some of the wiring, as the auto swung round with the pole before it. The truck driver escaped injury and the only damage to any extent done the automobile was a broken wheel. Electric cars used the siding in passing the obstruction before it was cleared.

The second pole was laid low near noon, when the Overland truck of Frank LaPere, driven by Joseph Morrone, on Beach street, swerved into a pole between the entrances of River Bend cemetery, taking a chunk out of one pole, entirely missed the second and crashed into the third, snapping it off near the butt, twisting a cross arm, and badly damaging the front of the truck. The accident was said to have been caused by one of two children who accompanied the driver twisting the wheel as the other threw something into the roadway; both children were badly cut by glass. Dr. John Champlin, Jr., who was passing, gave them attention, and taking them to his Westerly office, where Romena LaPere was treated for numerous lacerations of the face, to close which five stitches were required. Rose Viscigilio, the other girl, was given attention for abrasions and lacerations of the face and forehead and one stitch was taken to close a gash. Patrolman George H. Champlin went to the place and investigated. He was followed by the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps and Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, but their services were not required.

Officer Champlin while doing traffic duty in Dixon House square Monday morning investigated the minor auto mishap when the Nash auto of George Ferraro coming out of the R. I. Garage driveway was in collision with the Vim truck being driven up Broad street by Thomas Breen. The Nash car suffered a jammed left fender and twisted axle and the headlight and fender of the Vim truck were damaged.

Three Westerly residents and one in Pawcatuck were painfully cut and bruised when thrown out of the automobile in which they were riding as it overturned following a collision with a Pawtucket machine at Dale Carlis corner in Wakefield about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. A child riding in the same car was uninjured, although tossed a distance of about 15 feet.

An X-ray photograph will be taken of the right wrist of Mrs. Charles T. Hughes at her home, 31 Newton avenue, Westerly, to determine if the bone is fractured. Her husband, who was driving the car, received lacerations of the face. Mrs. Elizabeth Gilmore, 47 Morgan street, Pawcatuck, was badly cut about the face. Numerous supreficial injuries were also received by Miss Etta Hughes of 23 Grove avenue, Westerly, who was confined to her bed all day Monday.

An investigation of the accident by Patrolman William R. Dillman showed, he said, that an auto driven by William L. Palmer of 615 Broadway, Pawtucket, in going east on Main street, struck the rear end of the Hughes car, which was comnig out of Kingstown road. The Hughes machine was turned around by the impact and then overturned.

The injured people were taken to the home of William H. Cotter, where they were given medical attention by Dr. S. Edward Burke. They were later taken to their homes in Westerly by Thomas E. Wilson.

COMMUNITY RELIEVED THAT WHITE IS CAPTURED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, July 28.—The capture of Benjamin White, after he had been shot while hiding in ambush, was the chief topic of discussion in Putnam Tuesday afternoon. Alfred Bodo, who runs a barber shop on Livery street and is a breeder of police dogs, was kept busy in his little shop narrating his part, which was a prominent one, in the capture of the aged slayer of his brother.

Sunday afternoon Benjamin shot and killed his brother, Edwin, fired several shots at his nephew, Howard White, and shot David Mairson of Hartford, fiance of his niece, Sadie Phylis White, in the leg during what is believed was a fit of insanity possibly caused by brooding over the marriage of his niece next Saturday.

Just before Bodo arrived where the posse was scouting the countryside, Monday morning, someone shouted that he had seen White hiding behind a tree and a shot was fired and police whistles were blown as a warning. The posse gathered on the top of a hill and when Bodo reached there and found out what had happened he started down the hill with his police dog. Bodo said that he expected from the first that the fugitive would be found in the swamp, but when he came near a pine tree where it was said the man had been seen, he drew his revolver and rushed in. No one was behind the tree, but Bodo said he saw the tracks of a man's boot heels in the earth. Then, he said, he allowed his dog to take the scent and unleashed him. "The dog started right for the swamp," said Bodo, "and I got down on my belly and followed.

"Once" said Bodo, "I must have been within a hundred feet of where White was finally located and I consider I am lucky that he did not pot me. I crawled along on my stomach, when suddenly a shot came from some bushes. I saw a man there and I fired; then fired again.

"By this time the others had commenced firing and I was in as much danger from their bullets as from the gun of White. I saw White topple over and I ran in, grabbed his gun and gave it a throw and then saw that White was done for."

Bodo was in a dangerous position and does not remember much about what occurred behind him, except that he knows that he was only about ten feet from the place of aim of some twenty rifles and revolvers in the hands of the posse. A man who was an onlooker states emphatically that at least four and possibly five shots were fired by White from his ambush.

There was a large gathering at the location of the hunt Monday morning. People drove for miles around to witness the stalking of the human prey. There was a gathering of metropolitan newspaper men armed with cameras and a few women stood on the outskirts of the crowd. The capture of White was a relief to the countryside, as during Sunday night alarm was felt that he might return and cause further trouble.

STORK BRINGS TWIN GIRLS, BUT BIRTHDAYS DIFFER

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, July 28.—Twin sisters have come to make their home in the house of Frank Mongeau, 10 South Main street. Though born within 15 minutes of each other, they will have different birthdays. One of the little strangers arrived at ten minutes before midnight Sunday night, the other five minutes after the midnight hour, so one will celebrate July 27, the other July 28 as a birthday.

ROSELAND BATHING CASES NOLLED IN COURT MONDAY

Putnam, July 28.—The cases against the three young men arrested two weeks ago for bathing in the waters of Roseland Lake, Woodstock, contrary to the order of the state health commissioner, were nolled in a justice court at North Woodstock, on Monday. Justice Charles M. Perrin presided at the hearing, the state was represented by Grand Juror S. Howard Peckham and the defendants were represented by Attorney Hyde of the firm of Gross, Hyde and Shipman, Hartford.

There was a good sized gallery in Society hall to watch the trial, but they got little action for their trouble to attend. Attorney Hyde told the court that he had recently had a conference with the attorney-general and that the state official was of the opinion that the cases against the three defendants might be dismissed as it was probable that the situation would be met in another way, possibly by a civil action. He asked that the cases against the young men be nolled and this was agreed to by the grand juror and the court.

Herbert W. Bowen, who is counsel for the trustees of Roseland Park, asked what effect that would have on the continued bathing in the forbidden waters. This was replied to by the attorney who stated that while no one had a right or authority to say that people could bathe in Roseland lake, he did not believe that they would be prosecuted if they did bathe.

People who have been in Woodstock since the arrests were made state that the lake and its tributaries are still used for bathing purposes. What action, if any, will follow remains to be seen. To bring the matter to a head civilly, an injunction could be brought to restrain further bathing in the lake.

REPARATIONS AND INVESTORS.

Mediation between the British and the French representatives at the London conference on reparations has been the part played by American statesmen and American financiers. They have suggested solutions of the very difficult problem of guaranteeing, on the one hand, Germany's fulfillment of its obligations under the Dawes plan, and, on the other, of non-interference by any of the allies with Germany's economic life to the detriment of the investors in the proposed $290,000,000 loan for the rehabilitation of Germany.

There cannot fail to be recognition of France's deep interest in the question of future sanctions—of the right of the reparation commission to declare Germany in wilful default, and of any of the allied nations to resort to corrective or punitive measures in such a contingency. But the American and other financiers realize that the experts' programme would be wrecked if there were no provision for the protection of the investors' capital under all circumstances. There could be no dependence placed in any settlement that left open the question of the occupation of the Ruhr, for example, by France or Belgium or any other creditor of Germany.

France has the controlling voice in the reparation commission, but it would seem as if she must in some way find an acceptable process to acquiesce in restrictions upon the commission. Unfortunately for the French premier, M. Herriot, although himself liberal and conciliatory, he finds himself in the difficult position of not being any too sure of support in the French parliament for a moderate and rational compromise. His official head might be the price if he accepted a compromise that the parliament interpreted as surrendering some of France's cherished advantage.

In any event, politics cannot be permitted to impose upon the guaranty problem a compromise that is inane or vicious. Beside the pacification and rehabilitation of Europe, the fate of any ministry is as dust in the balance.

POLITICAL APATHY.

In the national election of four years ago only about one-half of those entitled to vote cast ballots for the president of the United States. This made a sorry showing on the part of the electorate. Congressional elections in off-years have long been marked by considerable indifference, and two years ago was no exception. The thirty-four senators named had a total vote representing less than half of those qualified to express a choice.

This is an indifference that has more than once been made the subject of criticism by public speakers, some of whom would have denied to non-voters any further exercise of the blood-bought "privilege." It is not, of course, that their voting would change, or ought to change, results. Good officials are quite frequently elected by a minority vote. But the danger of demagogues getting into office is greater than it otherwise would be. If the outlook is for a large number of stay-at-homes, a premium is put on group support.

When so many fail to participate in elections, it is easier for organizations seeking special privileges to control the outcome, since fewer votes are necessary to insure success. Non-voters thus may be charged with having done much to make possible the establishment of blocs within parties. If sometimes the ends sought by the blocs had much to commend them, it will hardly be contended that the causes would have suffered from a fuller expression of the popular will. On the other hand an opportunity is provided for group demands to be considered more than the general welfare. Professional politicians and those seeking selfish interests are not those who stay away from the polls.

AGAIN THE PACKERS.

The "big five" of the packing industry, comprising an organization which the foes of monopoly call the "meat trust," have apparently had their minds cleared of the hope that the federal government could be persuaded to modify the consent decree, under which the packers were ordered to confine themselves to meat and meat products, and to stay out of unrelated lines of business. Attorney General Stone has declared that the government will not retreat from ground gained by long and bitter struggle, and has given assurance that he will do everything he can to prevent monopoly and to protect the public.

The fight against the meat packers' foothold upon the egg business, the butter business, the poultry business, with intentions also of absorbing fruit, table cereals and other lines according to the charges made against the packers, was led largely by wholesale food commodity dealers. It was claimed that the meat packers proposed to use their meat distributing system for the distribution of other products. The charge was made that they were in agreement among themselves and that if they were not brought to a halt most of the food supply of the country would soon be controlled by a small group that would do as it pleased with prices. Farm interests were represented as being as much opposed to the danger of such a consolidation as the distributing interests.

Monopolies are not necessarily dangerous in themselves, as the leaders of the grain and fruit monopolies now being formed by fruit growers and grain raisers, will carefully explain. The danger is in the opportunity that is afforded to a monopoly to extort money from consumers. The public is not convinced that advantage would not be taken of such an opportunity. The "big five" are apparently not trusted in the market with their extensive distribution system, because they could undersell competitors, and might in the end drive them out and make their own prices.

DEFENSE DAY.

The difference between true national defense and militant war-seeking and war-breeding preparations is brought sharply to the attention of the country by the letter of President Coolidge in reply to a letter from a representative of the National Council For the Prevention of War, which is protesting against the observance of National Defense Day on the 13th of September. The president says that he profoundly hopes that the outlawing of war from this world may be accomplished. Everybody joins in that hope except those who may seek to make war for profit or the gaining of territory.

But it is unfair, as the president points out, that the plans for defense day should be condemned through misrepresentation or to charge that this is a move towards mobilization or a military gesture. The day is simply an alignment of the people of this country in the interest of national defense and its purpose is to keep down to the lowest possible point the professional military organization of the country.

The United States is not departing from its place as the most pacific of nations merely because it insists upon a suitable preparedness, which will be the emphasis of Defense Day. It can hardly be believed that the real purpose of the demonstration has been honestly misconstrued. Pacifism professionally organized seeks, however, to mislead the public, to point to military training camps as preparations for offensive warfare and to denounce the natural and reasonable and necessary maintenance of the patriotic spirit of readiness for national service as war-breeding. Those who favor unpreparedness on the score of lessening the chance of war seem to be deaf to the argument that this is no real protection, but that weakness, unreadiness and reliance upon right and logic alone are invitations to disaster.

President Coolidge is by the highest law of the land the commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States. He would be derelict in duty to the last degree if he were to fail to encourage that patriotic spirit of readiness for service in time of need, which, it is ardently hoped will be expressed freely and generally on Defense Day.

NAMING THE BABIES.

The season is opening for giving the names of presidential candidates to babies. Fewer boys will be christened or baptized John Henry, Samuel Egbert and James William, and more of them will be named Calvin Coolidge Smith, John W. Davis Jones and Robert Marion La Follette Brown. The candidate style in boys' names comes around every four years. There is news that a man in Kanawha county, W. Va., has named his new twin babies Coolidge and Hell-and-Maria. Evidently he is an earnest republican. In the matter of the latter name, though it has force, it may be said by some that it lacks euphony and gentleness, and it may finally be revised as Helen Marie. In the late eighteenth and early part of the nineteenth century we had a large number of George Washington Robinsons and Thomas Jefferson Johnsons. It is believed that no presidential candidate and no president, except George Washington, has been honored by so many parents as was Andrew Jackson. Abraham Lincoln Smiths and Robert Lee Jones became numerous between 1860 and 1870, and an army of babies were named Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt. We are entering a period when each important candidate for the presidency will receive notes from parents saying: "We have honored you by naming our bouncing boy Calvin Coolidge," or John W. Davis, according to the "politics" of the house.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Summer weather true to type is now our happy portion.

Ten years ago Germany was preparing to launch the blow that has kept the world in a turmoil ever since.

The man on the corner says: The world would like to see the German loan floated but European statesmanship insists on rocking the boat.

The railroad unions are going to test the power of the railroad labor board, probably to remind the people that the board is still on the payroll.

Exaggerated ideas of hospitality may be responsible for the fact that so many men away from home insist that other towns are wetter than their own.

The Japanese government wisely extends its favor to an American school at Tokio. It is upon the new generation that the world must depend to get rid of old prejudices.

Difficulty will be encountered in any effort to establish the theory that in order to be a success in politics a man must have failed of legitimate pecuniary success in his own business.

If the federal trade commission can support its ruling against Pittsburgh-plus, the air of that city may so improve this winter that contractors can see to build a skyscraper without an air pilot.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

After reading a most interesting article entitled The Beauty Benefits of Pedestrianism, I decided to keep my figure lithe by taking a long walk every day. I began this morning and it was a real delight to be out in the early fresh air, and I was just thinking how stupid it is of people who live within a few miles of the loop not to walk regularly, when a car drew up by the curb and Mr. Ridgelys invited me to step in. The Ridgelys are friends of father's, who have recently come here to live, and I felt that I could not politely refuse the offered lift.

"Well, now Lucile, this is delightful," he said as I took the seat beside him. "Are you going down town?"

"Yes," I replied gayly. "I'm taking my constitutional in the direction of the shops. But I'm charmed to ride with you in this beautiful car, Mr. Ridgely. Dad certainly didn't exaggerate when he told me what a stunning automobile you had."

"It's comfortable for lazy folk. I admire your energy in walking, my dear young lady."

"I dare say I shouldn't be so energetic," I told him, "were I privileged to go about in a car like this. I'm quite mad about motoring."

"Well, well," said Mr. Ridgely, "we must arranke a little touring party. You think of some pleasant place to go, and we'll persuade your father and mother and Mrs. Ridgely to run away with us for a week-end soon. How's that?"

"Adorable!" I cried, and at that moment the car stopped in front of Mr. Ridgely's office building.

"Charles, you take this young lady wherever she wishes to go," said Mr. Ridgely to the chauffeur, and it suddenly occurred to me that it would be an excellent opportunity to run up to Rogers Park to see Grace Everett, whom I don't often visit because of the distance between our homes. I fancied he looked a little surprised when I gave the address, but he made no objection, and I certainly enjoyed the drive through the north side.

"Why, Lucile, what magnificence," exclaimed Grace, who was coming out of her door when I arrived. "When did all this happen?"

"Borrowed grandeur," I laughed. "It's great to be popular. Where are you going, Grace? May I take you?"

"Oh, that would be splendid. I'm taking some clothes to a child in a west side hospital, and if you could—"

"Of course, we can go over there. You give the order to Charles," I said generously, and I paid no attention to the somewhat mutinous expression with which Charles received the direction to the hospital, but when we reached there and he said that he would not have time to wait long I graciously told him just to take me home. I myself felt it would be a bore to sit in the car in that dull neighborhood.

Cousin Fannie happened to be at the window when I drove up in state, and the minute I entered the house she simply gasped out, "Well, Lucile, you are actually here at last!"

"At last, what do you mean?" I asked in bewilderment.

"Surely you knew that Mrs. Ridgely had invited your mother to drive out to a luncheon and musicals in Evanston today."

"Oh, I did hear something about it. Was this the day?"

"I should say it was," remarked Cousin Fannie with more emphasis than elegance. "She telephoned your mother frantically that she couldn't imagine what had become of her car. She was really upset, for she feared there had been an accident. I can't say just how relieved she was when she finally got in touch with Mr. Ridgely, and learned that when last seen you were in the machine. They waited and waited, and then took a taxi to Evanston. Think of taking a taxi to Evanston. Your mother was dreadfully distressed, Lucile."

"But, Cousin Fannie," I explained, "Mr. Ridgely told his chauffeur to take me anywhere I wished."

"I scarcely think he meant that you were to drive around town the whole morning," answered Cousin Fannie, who really seemed to revel in what she evidently considered my guilt. I sometimes think that she is losing her sweet disposition. It is too bad.

I do hope that this little contretemps will not interfere with Mr. Ridgely's pleasant plan for a week end motor trip.—Chicago News.

Wright Was Called "Crank."

Striving from boyhood to make an airplane, Orville Wright, with his brother Wilbur, reached the threshold of success—then was jeered and snubbed, and when the two tried to do the big patriotic thing, they were insulted.

Born in Dayton, Ohio, sons of a bishop, they were inspired by a toy "hellocopter" and vainly tried to make a flying machine. They went through college, invented a safety brake for bicycles and began the manufacture of "wheels"—but they did not forget the airplane idea.

Studying and experimenting for four years more, they made a machine that would fly but would not carry anyone. Two years later they could make grasshopper-like flights in it, and in another year, Wilbur, on December 17, 1903, flew for 59 seconds at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Returning home, they tried to give an exhibition. There was not sufficient wind the first day, the motor went wrong the second, and the crowds smiled disparagingly. Another year of effort, and the machine flew 12 miles carrying an operator.

The bicycle business had dwindled, and funds were low. Father sold his farm and Sister Katherine gave all her savings to help. Patriotism called, and the boys offered the invention as a gift to the United States government. Their letter was not answered. They wrote again—and were told that the war department had no time to send anyone to investigate the claims of "a couple of cranks."

Charles R. Flint, of New York, loaned them $10,000. Wilbur went to France. The French called him the "Yankee bluffer," saw him fly, then named him the "bird man," and he sold the French rights to the machine for $100,000. The Italian rights brought $200,000.

The United States wanted a two-passenger machine. Orville perfected one. In the trial flight the propellor failed to operate properly and the passenger was killed and Orville injured in the crash.

The United States became interested, the brothers began to make airplanes and won international fame. Then Wilbur died and Orville had to continue alone.

Last December 17, Orville was honored in a nation-wide celebration commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the first flight of the Wright airplane.

SAYS MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP HAS SEEDS OF FAILURE

"Municipal ownership has failed in the United States wherever it has been tried long enough to permit its inherent seeds of failure to sprout and grow," declared Bernard J. Mullaney, vice president of the Peoples' Gas Light & Coke Company, Chicago, addressing the London ad convention.

"Wherever it has seemed momentarily to be succeeding, with municipal rates no lower but frequently higher than private company rates for comparable service, finances have been pieced out with tax money or the enterprise has been arbitrarily aided by methods closely akin to governmental tyranny."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Frank L. Polk, who is expected to be one of the chief advisers in the Democratic national compaign, is a law partner of Mr. Davies, the presidential nominee. Mr. Polk had had considerable practical experience in politics and public affairs. He comes of an old Tennessee family, being a grandson of Leonidas Polk, the Protestant Episcopal bishop who won fame as a leader in the Confederate army. Mr. Polk is a Yale A. B. and a Columbia LL. B. He began to practice law in New York City in 1897, and within seven years had been made a member of the State civil commission. For a year he was corporation counsel of the city of New York, and there President Wilson picked him out and summoned him to Washington to become counselor of the Department of state. Later he became Under Secretary of State, a position he resigned in 1920 to return to his law practice.

Use
for a clear skin and good hair

For a skin that is excessively oily, and has coarse, clogged pores, or one that is disfigured by an annoying eruption, there is nothing better than RESINOL. Bathe first with RESINOL SOAP then apply RESINOL OINTMENT and you can be reasonably sure of a speedy and remarkable improvement.

Resinol Soap used regularly for the shampoo tends to keep the hair lustrous and the scalp free from dandruff. Where there is already a serious accumulation of dandruff, part the hair and rub Resinol Ointment well into the scalp some time, before shampooing. At all druggists.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

THE WASP'S NEST

As the little rabbit sat on the big wooden bench outside the Big Brown Bear's Cosy Cave House, where we left him in the last story, sucking a lollypop and waiting for his kind old furry friend to come home, he spied a wasp, running hither and thither, her wings folded close along her back. A bright red band ran around her waist like a sash, so the little bunny thought, although I don't know whether Mrs. Wasp had bought it at the Three-in-One-Cent Store or not.

Suddenly, she stopped at a large crack in the rocks filled with dry earth and began to scratch with her foremost feet. After deepening the hole, she dug out the dirt with her jaws, and gathering it up between her chin and elbows, backed out and carried it away.

"Oh, Mrs. Redsash Wasp," exclaimed the little rabbit. "You can dig as well as Chippy Chipmunk."

Pretty soon she had dug so deep a hole that only the end of her body with the string showed above the top of the ground. Wasn't she an industrious little wasp, girls and boys? And all the time she hummed a song at the thought she was making a home for her babies. When the hollow nest was finished, she hunted about until she found a pebble. Picking it up in her strong jaws, she carried it over and laid it for a roof above the hollow. Then away she flew, but the bunny boy didn't follow her. He just sat and waited for the Big Brown Bear, who, in a short time, came ambling up the path to his Cosy Cave.

"Come around tomorrow," advised the kind furry animal, after hearing all that had happened. "Get here in the morning and watch Mrs. Wasp."

And that's just what the bunny boy did. Bright and early the next day, he hopped up the winding trail and, sitting down on the big wooden bench, watched Mrs. Wasp dig a tunnel from one side right into the hollow space. When this was done, she flew away, only to return some time later carrying a caterpillar which she had stung to death. Dragging it into the tunnel, she quickly laid her egg. Then, covering the opening with a pebble, she brushed up the dust to hide her work.

"Goodness me!" cried the bunny boy, turning to the Big Brown Bear. "I never knew how Mrs. Wasp made her home, or how she provided food for her babies."

"There are many things to learn in the Shady Forest and on the Sunny Meadow," answered the big furry animal, puffing a ring of smoke into the air. "Mother Nature's school is a wonderful place to get an education."

"I must hop home to tell mother," cried the little rabbit. "Won't she be interested in what I've learned," and he hopped back to the dear Old Bramble Patch to tell Lady Love all about Mrs. Redsash, Wasp.

HEADACHE GONE TIRED NO MORE

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes Other Women Will Benefit by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get around to do my work without being all tired out so I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. PERLEY W. RICHARDSON, R. F. D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

Odd facts about Corns

End them this new way

SINCE man started to wear shoes his feet have hurt him. Scores of ways to end corns have been tried. Most are alike. Blue-jay is scientifically different, quick, safe; the discovery of a noted scientist. It stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes off. That's all—no dangerous paring. THE OLD HOME.

A wild wood, a wild brook—they will not let me be;
In boyhood I knew them, and still they call to me.

Down deep in my heart's core I hear them and my eyes
Through tear-mists behold them beneath the old-time skies.
'Mid bee-boom and rose-bloom and orchard-lands arise.

I hear them; and heartsick with longing is my soul.
To walk there, to dream there, beneath the sky's blue bowl;
Around me, within me, the weary world made whole.

To talk with the wild brook of all the long ago;
To whisper the wood-wind of things we used to know
When we were old companions, before my heart knew woe.

To walk with the morning and watch its rose unfold;
To drowse with the noontide lulled in its heart of gold;
To lie with the night-time and dream the dreams of old.

To tell to the old trees, and to each listening leaf,
The longing, the yearning, as in my boyhood brief,
The old hope, the old love, would cast me of my grief.

The old lane, the old gate, the old house by the tree,
The wild wood, the wild brook—they will not let me be;
In boyhood I knew them, and still they call to me.

—Madison Cawein.

TO MEADOWS.

Ye have been fresh and green;
Ye have been filled with flowers;
And ye the walks have been
Where maids have spent their hours.

Ye have beheld how they
With wicker arks did come
To kiss and bear away
The richer cowslips home.

Ye've heard them sweetly sing,
And them in a round.
Each virgin, like a Spring,
With honeysuckles crowned.

But now we see none here
Whose silvery feet did tread,
And with dishevelled hair
Adorned this smoother mead.

Like unthrifts, having spent
Your stock, and needy grown,
Your poor estates, alone.

—Robert Herrick.

NEW LONDON BRAKEMAN SLIPS UNDER ENGINE WHEEL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, July 28.—Frederick Collins of New London was severely injured about 10 o'clock Monday morning when his feet were crushed by the front wheel of an engine drawing a string of freight cars on the Central Vermont Railway, near the creosoting plant, at Columbia Junction. Collins was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital. Midway up, the front of the right leg has been severed, but while the left foot is badly crushed his physician has hopes that this member can be saved. Collins is a brakeman and was riding on the side of the engine prior to the mishap. The engine came in contact with a pile of sand beside the tracks and this sudden obstruction dislodged Collins from the pilot and his feet slipped under the wheel.

Hyman Pitches Good Ball.

VARIOUS MATTERS

July 29th is St. Martha's day.

Light vehicle lamps at 7.39 (standard time) this evening.

Golden rod is blooming and is another indication of the way the summer is speeding.

R. F. Atwood of Springfield has leased a cottage on Tyler avenue, Eastern Point, for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lyman of Wethersfield are spending several days with their son in Columbia.

Some brilliant scarlet cannas are in bloom in the court house grounds and the white blossoms are going to be beautiful.

At Hampton, A. T. Burdick has purchased several acres of standing grass from James Cartwright and is now cutting it.

Labor day this year comes on the very first day of September, which will have a tendency to shorten the vacation season.

The experiment of the New Haven railroad in running Sunday excursions proved so popular that there are demands for other such outings.

The annual Mansfield Center community and Sunday school picnic is to be held today (Tuesday) on the hillside near the residence of Dr. W. E. Chamm.

Rockville residents are to consult with Commissioner MacDonald to see if he will not build the Rockville and Vernon road regardless of the Tolland end as planned.

At breakfast time Monday the temperature in Norwich was below 50 degrees. [illegible] was 82 degrees with clear air and no suggestion of humidity.

Growers of roses are looking ruefully at their favorite blossoms which like everything else just now will prove inferior unless they get a good rain to revive them.

The First Baptist church, Norwich, is to be closed during August, except for the prayer meetings Thursday evenings. The next Sunday service will be September seventh.

The drouth has had its effect on Norwich Town green, usually fresh and inviting, now showing parched spots and streaks, where the soil is somewhat shallow, or not shaded.

The New Haven company of the governor's foot guards is at Niantic in training for a week at Camp Templeton. There are about 150 in the organization with a band of 15 pieces.

Nine Boy Scouts at Willington have signed up for camp. The boys plan to leave August 15, to spend a week at Camp Wobanokanee, Gardner Lake. The boys have bought new uniforms.

A Hartford paper mentions that Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Prince are spending two weeks' vacation at Cape Cod and on their return plan to spend some time at their summer home in Danielson.

A head of lettuce of the Big Boston variety was on exhibition at Stonington weighed 3 1-4 pounds and was raised in the garden at Stonington Manor Inn under the supervision of John Kelso.

There is criticism, when strangers halt in Colchester, while the buses wait at the Green, because the same old unsightly burned building is allowed to remain standing, instead of being razed and its site cleared.

The White Ribbon Banner notes that the Connecticut Chautauqua, which is to meet at the Plainville Camp Ground for the week beginning August 3rd, is setting apart Friday, August 8th, as Temperance day.

Rural towns make a mistake in not having some conspicuous sign giving the name of each. Often city visitors would come back for a second visit, if sure of the exact names of places through which they motor hurriedly.

SEDGWICK WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS OBSERVES 38TH ANNIVERSARY

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No 16, observed the 38th anniversary of its institution Monday evening at Buckingham Memorial with a supper, served at 6.30 o'clock to some sixty members of the corps, members of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., and guests.

The elaborate program planned in connection with the anniversary was postponed indefinitely, however, out of deference for Comrade Theodore Smith of Sedgwick post, who suffered two slight shocks just before grace was offered by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, and for President Mrs. Clara P. Burke, who was unable to be present owing to the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Charles Pierce.

These two unfortunate happenings cast a shadow of gloom over the assemblage and hopes were expressed for the speedy recovery of Mr. Smith and Mrs. Pierce. The program will probably be given at some future meeting of the corps, when members of the G. A. R. will again be guests of the organization.

In an article prepared by Mrs. Emily Irish the history of the local corps is briefly outlined as follows: Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, auxiliary society to Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., was instituted with 35 charter members on Wednesday afternoon, July 28, 1886, in G. A. R. hall on Franklin square. The afternoon was spent with the department officers giving instructions in the work of the corps. At 6 o'clock a supper was served, the guests being members of Sedgwick post, the charter members being hostesses, and a very pleasant time was enjoyed.

In the evening a public installation was held and was largely attended by the veterans and their friends. The installing officers were Mrs. Mary E. Roberts of Hartford, institution and installing officer; Mrs. Mary J. Dyer of New Haven, department president, and Mrs. Fannie E. Hasner, counsel of the department of Connecticut, acting as chaplain.

The charter officers installed were: President, Mrs. Jennie M. Oat; senior vice president, Mrs. Emily Irish; junior vice president, Mrs. Fannie Myers; chaplain, Mrs. Elizabeth Norton; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Cushman; secretary, Mrs. Delia A. Robinson; conductor, Mrs. Cassie Nichols; assistant conductor, Mrs. Lena Sweet; guard, Mrs. Susan Lamb; assistant guard, Mrs. Ida Ingraham.

Entertaining addresses were made by several of the ladies and a number of the veterans. J. Herbert George, commander of Sedgwick post, rendered a number of musical numbers. Department Medical Director Dr. Herbert Bishop's remarks gave the new officers much encouragement and he wished them success in their new work.

Since the institution of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps in 1886 with 35 charter members, the corps has gained steadily in membership. The membership is now 160 and the corps is one of the largest in the state. Of the charter members, seven are now living, one having resigned from the corps some years ago. Those still active members are Mrs. Emily Irish, senior vice in 1886, and Mrs. Lena Sweet of Fisher's Island, N. Y., assistant conductor in 1886, the only officers surviving, Mrs. Lydia Perkins, Mrs. Susan Kampf, Mrs. Annella Stetson and Mrs. Ella Johnson, all of Norwich.

The present officers of the corps are: President, Mrs. Clara P. Burke; senior vice, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury; junior vice, Mrs. Maude Moody; treasurer, Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom; secretary, Mrs. Lillian E. Brewster; chaplain, Mrs. Mary E. Beswick; conductor, Mrs. Florence E. Bliven; guard, Mrs. Elizabeth Mackey; patriotic instructor, Mrs. E. Grace Fowler; press correspondent, Mrs. Ida R. Greene.

The committee in charge of the 38th anniversary celebration comprised Mrs. M. Florence Dean, chairman; Miss Maria Briggs, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, Mrs. Jayne E. Seed, Mrs. Gertrude Tootill, Mrs. Vinnie Wilson, Mrs. Inez Hill, Mrs. Mary Austin, Mrs. Grace E. Manning, Mrs. Florence L. Bliven and Mrs. Maude Moody.

SUFFERED TWO SHOCKS AT ANNIVERSARY SUPPER

Comrade Theodore Smith, 79, of 52 Main street, member of Sedgwick post, who suffered two slight shocks Monday evening just as members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps and guests were about to enjoy the 38th anniversary supper, was reported as resting comfortably at the W. W. Backus hospital early this (Tuesday) morning.

Mr. Smith had been in his usual health during the afternoon and had been at Buckingham Memorial enjoying a visit with other comrades during the afternoon. At supper time he went with the others to the dining hall and shortly after sitting down at the table was seized with a slight shock. He recovered quickly and started to eat, when he was again seized, losing the use of his legs. Comrades assisted him to the anteroom. Dr. John W. Callahan was called and after rendering first aid summoned the ambulance from Backus hospital and Mr. Smith was taken there for treatment. It is expected that he will recover.

Mr. Smith has been a member of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., for about 20 years. For many years he resided in Franklin, but about a year ago came to Norwich, making his home at 52 Main street, where he and Mrs. Smith have since resided.

When the call for volunteers came in the Civil war, Mr. Smith enlisted in the infantry, but later in the war was transferred to Company A, First Connecticut Cavalry, serving under General Sherman. He was in the same company as Comrade John Irish of this city. He took part in many important battles in the latter part of the Civil war, receiving his honorable discharge at the close of the conflict.

Sent Body to Willimantic.

The body of Wilfred Lamoureux of Willimantic, who died in a local hospital Saturday, was taken in charge by Cummings & Ring, and was sent to Willimantic Saturday afternoon. The deceased was 27 years of age.

POMFRET MURDERER SHOT AND KILLED AFTER FIRING ON POSSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, July 28.—Benjamin White, 80, murderer Sunday afternoon of his brother, Edwin T. White, 72, prominent resident of Pomfret, passed out Monday morning via the same route on which he sent his kin into eternity. A posse that had resumed the hunt for him rounded him up about 10.30 a. m. and he was quickly despatched with bullets from the weapons of those he sought to kill, as he had mercilessly slain his brother, undoubtedly while he was in a frenzy of insanity.

White succumbed to bullets that entered his leg near his left hip and at his back, near the left shoulder, the latter wound being the fatal one. He lived a few minutes after those who had hunted him picked him out of a ravine into which he had tumbled after being wounded and had been carried up a bank sloping down from what is known as the plains near the White farm and where growing corn was waving in a mild southerly breeze and hay was being gardened against a season's wants of which "Ben" White will know nothing—a peaceful pastoral scene for the closing chapter of a terrible tragedy.

Known as a half-wit here and hereabouts for more than 40 years, "Ben" White died game. He opened fire on a posse numbering a score of civilians and a squad of state officers from the Danielson barracks when they had cornered him in his ambush and shot it out with them until he dropped, bullet-riddled and dying. Who hit him likely never will be known, and that is just as well for the mental calm of all. It may suffice to say that he invited death—and that proved to be his lot—when he opened a shooting affray with men who were determined to get him as murderer of his brother, whether they got him dead or alive.

Elijah H. Berriman of Dayville, a crack trap shot and civilian member of the posse, is credited with locating White as he sat with his back against a tree, his double-barreled shot gun lying across his knees. The locality is roughly, no more than a fraction of a mile from the home of Edwin T. White. Berriman, good shot that he is, might have sent White into eternity with a bullet from the rifle he was carrying, but he hesitated to shoot at a human being, as would many another man, and attracted attention by discharging his rifle in the air.

That signal was the beginning of the end for "Ben" White. The posse closed in. Louis A. Bodo, Putnam, leading a police dog, and State Officer Rosa Urquhart of the Danielson barracks were the nearest to White as the tragedy to be enacted was nearing its climax. Bodo later said that he must have passed within 30 feet of White without seeing him just before White raised himself and leveled his gun for a shot. Officer Urquhart's cry of warning to Bodo sent the latter scurrying to safety back of a pair of big trees as White's gun boomed out. Bodo is not certain now whether White shot at him or the police dog. However, the shot from White's gun quickly brought the affair to a dramatic close. The answer to White's shot was a fusilade from members of the posse, many of them being in the immediate vicinity. There may be a question as to the number of times White returned the fire, but Bodo says he never saw a man reload his gun with greater rapidity than White—and Bodo was in a position to see. He had what might be termed a ringside seat. Evidently wounded, White turned and started to run, but a bullet that went into his back near the left shoulder blade brought him to an abrupt halt and he tumbled into a nearby ravine, mortally wounded. When White's gun was picked up it was found to be fully loaded and cocked, ready for further action.

No word came from White's lips as he was carried out of the ravine to gasp out his dying moments in the center of a circle of men who had hunted him in the name of justice. He died with his boots on, and later Coroner Arthur G. Bill came from Danielson, viewed the body and gave an order that it be turned over to Selectman Frank Noone of the town of Pomfret.

Early in the afternoon the body was brought to the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy in Danielson. Stripped of the rough and faded cotton khaki trousers, the gray flannel shirt, the socks and shoes and vest in which "Ben" White's body was clad, an examination as to the damage done by the bullets of the men who hunted him was possible. A bullet had grazed his left hip, making a mere flesh wound such as a knife or other sharp instrument might have made. Accounts of the shooting affair indicate that the bullet that made this wound, only a superficial one, was the first to hit White and to throw him into a panic that caused him to turn his back and flee. It was while he was running away that another bullet crashed under his left shoulder blade and went through to the vicinity of the heart. No one knows who fired this last shot. No one wants to know. A half dozen men fired at about the same time that the bullet that ended all for White found its lodging place. There were some mighty good shots in that posse and any one of them might have scored so tragically.

"Ben" White had been hunted to his death as one might hunt a wild beast. There is no word of sympathy for him in the length and breadth of eastern Windham county. His crime of Sunday shocked the state and brought the deepest depths of sorrow into a home of respected people. Mentally, "Ben" White probably was not responsible for what he did—and being murderously irresponsible there was nothing left for the posse to do other than shoot him when he attempted to shoot them as he had shot his brother and tried to shoot other members of the household.

There will be no place for his body in the home of the brother that he plunged into such despair. As a dependent of the town of Pomfret, his body has been given over to the selectmen and it lies today alone in the darkened rooms of an undertaker's establishment here.

"Ben" White's career has come to a sensational end. As a resident of East Killingly for years, he was well known hereabouts. He had been rated as queer, mentally weak and more or less childish, but few had ever entertained a suspicion that he would come to such an end as was his on Monday.

ATTENDED G. O. P. DINNER AT SAVIN ROCK

Definite announcement that Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham would be a candidate for the republican nomination for governor was made by Clarence G. Willard, assistant secretary of the republican state central committee at a dinner at Savin Rock on Saturday afternoon. The announcement was made to 500 prominent republicans who gathered from all sections of the state, and who greeted it with a wild outburst of enthusiasm. Nearly all of the state officials, members of the state central committee, and of both houses of the legislature were included among those present. From this vicinity the following were in attendance: Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, state central committeeman from the 18th district; Attorney Albert Bailey of Norwich, state central committeeman from the 19th district; George E. Bradford, Montville, state committeeman from the 20th or "Shoestring" district; Senator Ernest E. Rogers of New London, candidate for nomination of state treasurer; former Secretary of State Theodore Bodenwein, John M. Mallon, Jr., Representative Brigadier General Morris B. Payne of New London and Senator William G. Park of Hanover, senator from the 20th district. Mr. Willard, as head of the New Haven organization, which sponsored the dinner, officiated as toastmaster.

WERE GUESTS AT CAMP IN SPRAGUE

A party of 40, including several from New London and Montville, motored to Camp Happiness in Sprague on the Shetucket river Friday evening, where they were the guests of the camp director, Mrs. Nioma Watson Whiteside, of New London, nurse in the public schools of that city. Mrs. Watson feasted them at a midnight picnic, served in the mess hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with ferns and wild flowers.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Chippington, Miss Helen Dwyer, Miss Dray, Charles Walsh, Robert McBride and Mrs. Herbert J. Watson of New London, Fred Clapp and Sumner Calhoun of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Russell Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. Schnider of Montville, Miss Marie Thetreault, G. DOG DAY SEASON OFFICIALLY BEGINS TODAY

Dog days, the season of the year when everybody expects to suffer with the humid heat and fear of rabid canines, are due to begin officially on Tuesday, July 29.

The real astronomical explanation is that on that date Sirius, the dog star, rises with the sun for the first time during the year. In this respect, outside of the farmers, Sirius has something on most of us humans. Sirius will continue to rise at dawn until Sept. 1. We will continue to stay in bed and yawn up to that time, and every morning thereafter, as long as our incomes or wits permit.

Naval scientists, who broke the news about dog days beginning July 28, assure the public that there is no occasion for alarm at the proximity of the muggy season.

LAY NEW PLANKING FOR PRESTON BRIDGE

The work of tearing up the old rails of the Shore Line trolley tracks on the railroad bridge and Preston bridge, near Burnham square is now well under way, a gang of laborers tearing up the rails in the vicinity of the west end of the bridge.

The bridge is some 300 feet long and as soon as this work is completed First Selectman William S. Murray is to have men lay new planking on the bridge. The bridge has already been repaired but rather than patch the bridge it is thought advisable to replank it, thus saving additional expense in a short space of time as the old planking would soon need repairing.

BODY FOUND FLOATING OFF FAULKNER'S POINT IDENTIFIED

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 28.—The body of a girl which was found floating off Faulkner's Point by Capt. Frank L. Andrews of Fall River, Mass., yesterday afternoon was identified early this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Sven Berquist of Bridgeport as that of their daughter, Ethel, aged 14. Identification was made by two pins on the shoulder straps of the bathing suit worn by the girl. The body of the Berquist girl is the seventh to be recovered, completing the list of those drowned about ten days ago when a canoe in which seven children were paddling, capsized off Bridgeport. The body is to be sent to Bridgeport for burial.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church, the sermon was by Rev. Harry Olcott, of Hartford, a representative of the Anti-Saloon League of Connecticut, who spoke from Matthew 5:6, "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled." After a few introductory remarks, Rev. Mr. Olcott made special mention of the results of prohibition, giving statistics along moral, financial and social lines; also spoke in commendatory words of the company of women, who fifty or more years ago organized the Women's Christian Temperance Union. These courageous women for the help of mankind, started their heroic work without funds, place of meeting or any kind of material with which to carry on the noble work they had set out to do; and by which so much through the years, has been accomplished.

At the conclusion of his talk, envelopes with various amounts to be pledged for the work of the Anti-Saloon League, were distributed among the congregation, each one to pledge some amount to be contributed monthly for one year.

Under direction of the organist, Herbert L. Yerrington, the anthem, The Lord Is King, was pleasingly rendered by a quartette, Mrs. Orrin F. Merry, Mrs. Charles Schwenk, Dr. Charles H. Lamb and Clyde M. Beebe. For an offertory solo, Dr. Lamb gave in excellent voice, In Heavenly Love Abiding, by Holden.

Miss Helen Smith, who is passing the summer with relatives here, was the leader at the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening. The topic assigned was Zeal: Getting It, Guiding It and Guarding It, with Scripture references in Isaiah, John and Revelations.

Rev. James S. Aldrich chose for his Sunday morning text, at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Matthew 9:10, "And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with Him and His disciples." Mrs. Aldrich was the able leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service, when the topic was Zeal—Getting It, Guiding It and Guarding It, with numerous Scriptural references.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck of Otrobando avenue had as guests on Saturday, Mrs. Peck's brother, George Smith, of Holyoke, Mass., and her sisters, Miss Annie Smith and Miss Rose Smith of Colchester, also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams and son Benjamin and daughter, Miss Florence Adams of Westchester, who motored to Norwich Town.

Miss Beatrice Leonard of Julian street, who is spending some time in Camp at South Hanson, Mass., was visited over the week end by her parents, and Mrs. William W. Leonard, who motored from Norwich.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward Huntington Smith, of Ing Hok, China, who are passing some time at the home of Rev. Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Owen S. Smith of Huntington avenue, have returned after several days' visit with the family of Mrs. Smith's brother, Ivan Thomas, who are at their summer home at Plymouth, Mass. Rev. and Mrs. Smith were accompanied by their children.

PLAYER-LIMIT RULE IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE IS REMOVED BY DIRECTORS

At a meeting of the Norwich Twilight league held at the office of President Earl Mathewson on Monday evening matters of importance were discussed and several changes made in the rules governing the league. The most important of the rules is the abandoning of the player limit. It was voted that the teams might carry any number of players on the roster and all restrictions regarding semi-professional players were declared off.

This means that any team can go out now and bring in any number of players to bolster up their teams and all teams are considering strengthening their squads by getting in some of the fast players from the semi-pro teams in Eastern Connecticut. This change in the rules will mean that the fans who attend the games will see some real fast baseball and that the one-sided games will be done away with.

Another change or rather new rule was the appointing of Tommy Simcox, veteran pitcher, as official umpire. Mr. Simcox will officiate at all games and his decisions will be considered final. This does away with the picking of umpires from the crowd and will insure all team of good umpiring. This does not mean that those who have freely given their services during the early part of the season are not appreciated for they are. It simply gives the teams the same umpire and no chance for any team to claim favoritism as has been done with some of the umpires that have officiated.

Two protested games came up for discussion and both protests were lost.

The first game that was protested was a forfeit game which was forfeited to the Yantic Grain by the Battery B team. The Millers claim that the Battery team did not give them sufficient notice of the Battery's inability to play on a certain night. The Battery protested that they should not be made to forfeit the game.

The second protested game was the one between the Hardigs and the East Ends two weeks ago. The Hardigs claimed that the West Ends had been guilty of violating several rules and that the umpire's decisions in the game were faulty. The meeting voted against the protest.

Fast Game Expected Tonight

With the abolishment of the player limit rule several teams have already started to strengthen their clubs. The first one to the Hardigs who meet the East Ends this evening. The East End Enders are leading the league with the Hardigs in second place and struggling to displace the leaders. Tonight's game will be a battle for blood and the leaders will endeavor to hold their advantage and keep their slate clean.

To prevent the East Siders from losing this the Hardigs have been out and signed up a real battery. Jones, the speed merchant of Fitchville, will be the twirling. When we say speed we mean speed. Jones, without doubt has the fastest ball of any of the pitchers in the eastern part of the state. Besides this he has a large assortment of curves which he uses to good advantage. He had not pitched in this section at all this year but has confined himself to the wilderness of Fitchville where he has started an enviable reputation. Paul will do the catching, being Jones' battery mate for several seasons.

The East Ends will depend on the old reliable Harry Mills to pull them through the fray. Harry on Saturday proved no puzzle to the J. B. Martin team and from his showing then it is uncertain what he will do against the rejuvenated Harding aggregation. The East End team will use the same lineup as in previous games. Who the Hardigs will put into the field to support Jones is a mystery but Manager Heebner said that he would have a real team for tonight's game. Boys who can hit and are not afraid of fast pitching. It looks as though this would be the best game of the season for real fast baseball.

MUST PRODUCE EVIDENCE TO HAVE FIRPO DEPORTED

New York, July 28.—After a conference today with Canon William S. Chase of Brooklyn, and Bernard H. Sandler, his attorney, who called at Ellis Island, in an effort to have Luis Angel Firpo deported, Henry H. Curran, commissioner of immigration, said he had told his visitors that he would reopen the case of the pugilist if he received new information that he considered pertinent. He said he had not so far received any.

Mr. Sandler said that he and Canon Chase had proof that Miss Blanca Gordes, who was refused admittance at the time Firpo landed, had been a fiancee before and that Firpo's acquaintance with her did not begin on his recent voyage, from Buenos Aires.

Canon Chase himself predicted that Firpo's fight with Harry Wills would not take place. He said Firpo would be deported before that time.

BOTHORON SHUTS OUT GIANTS WHILE CARDS HIT TIMELY

New York, July 28.—The St. Louis Nationals evened their series with New York here today winning the fourth game of the series 6 to 0. Allen Sothoron, veteran spitball pitcher, pitched a strong game for St. Louis. He is only the second pitcher to shut out the Gaints this season. After McQuillan was lifted for a pinch hitter, Leon Cadore, formerly of Brooklyn and the Chicago Americans, pitched his first game for the Giants and pitched two effective innings. Bottomley hit a home run off Maun with two men on bases in the eighth inning. Score:

PHILLIES BEAT CUBS IN SLUGGING MATCH

Philadelphia, July 28.—The Chicago Cubs lost a hard hitting contest to Philadelphia today by the score of 12 to 11. Both teams used four pitchers and all were hit freely. The Cubs' lead of two runs was wiped out by Wilson with a home run into the bleachers in the fifth with two on. Going into the ninth five runs behind the Cubs made a desperate rally but it fell shy by a run. The score:

CINCINNATI WINS FROM DODGERS IN FIRST INNING

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 28.—After Osborne had allowed three runs on a single, a sacrifice fly and five passes with two out in the first inning, "Rube" Ehrhardt, Brooklyn recruit from Lakeland, Fla., made his debut at Ebbets field today and blanked the Reds with three hits during the remainder of the game. The three runs scored off Osborn were sufficient for Cincinnati to win as Pete Donohue held the Dodgers to seven hits, four of which were bunched in the fifth for Brooklyn's only two runs. Critz played brilliantly at second. Score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Giants inning. Score tied. Two men are out. A hard hitting left hander is at the bat.

Where should the outfielders play?

In a situation of this kind the outfielders should always play very deep to prevent the batter from hitting a home run. The thing to remember is that it is better to play deep and be able to hold any hit down to a single than it would be to play short and have the batter drive one through that would give him extra bases and permit him to score on the ensuing hit.

TENTH INNING RALLY WINS FOR RED SOX

St. Louis, July 28.—Robertson's double in the ninth inning tied the score for the Browns, but the Boston Red Sox came back with a five run rally in the tenth inning winning today's game, 10 to 5. Urban Shocker pitched almost airtight ball in the first six innings, but weakened in the seventh allowing five hits for three runs.

Manager Sisler announced he would protest the game because Umpire Owens ruled that Rego should precede McMillan in the batting order in the ninth which the Browns' manager declared violated the rules. McMillan had run for Severeid in the eighth remaining in the game at shortstop. The score:

TO NAME MILITARY ATHLETIC FIELD HANK GOWDY

New York, July 28.—Announcement was made here today that a Hank Gowdy day will be held at the Polo Grounds on Aug. 5 under the direction of eastern army officers. Catcher Gowdy who is a former color sergeant and the first American ball player to enter the World war, will have the new baseball field at the Infantry school at Fort Benning, Georgia, named in his honor. There will be a court military review before the game of Aug. 5, after which General Briant H. Wells, chief of infantry, will deliver to the New York player an engrossed copy of the order naming the field after Gowdy.

Cosgrove's Single Beats Worcester

Hartford, July 28.—oe Cosgrove's single to short left in the nine sent over the run that gave Hartford a six to five victory over Worcester here today in an uphill struggle. Gehring's single, Cousineau's two base wild pep and Demoe's smashing drive of which Roser made a spectacular catch tied the count in the eighth.

FITCHVILLE TURNS BACK NORWICH WOOLEN OUTFIT

Playing before the usual Sunday gathering on Cannon Hill diamond at Fitchville, the snappy Fitchville nine turned back the strongly reinforced American Woolen outfit of Norwich by the score of 11 to 8. The size of the score would indicate that the game was loose and not any too well played, but such was not the case for the highly touted contest between these two fighting teams lived up to all expectations. Fitchville practically put the game on ice in the first. Diffey, the slab artist who started to twirl for the visitors, had barely the proverbial glove and prayer for when the initial spasm was ended the locals were leading by eight tallies, the result of seven healthy clouts, which included four doubles and a homer. The four base hit, a long fly to deep center, was misjudged by the fielder who hied down that part of the pasture and the Fitchville [illegible] and two other runs across the plate.

In the second [illegible]ington, the city boy from Montville, took over the twirling job for the visitors and turned in a very creditable performance, holding the heavy hitting Fitchville aggregation to seven hits and three runs in seven frames.

Waging a fighting uphill battle for five innings the American Woolen finally managed to take kindly to the offerings of Jones, the Fitchville ace being slightly off his customary form. In the eighth Hollader, the first man up, was walked, Cubois singled and Berry came through with a double to right scoring both. With two down in the sixth, Hamill looked over four wide ones, stole second and scored on a single to center by Hollander. Skiffington worked his fellow twirler in the eighth for a base on balls, pilfered second and made home on a two bagger by Hewitt, that mighty first sacker from Chapman Tech.

In the final session the visitors shoved four runs across after two men had struck out, Cubois, the first man up, disliked the ozone and punctured it for a count of three. Berry singled and made second on a high throw. Diffey, following the example of Cubois, Morin walked, McGowan singled to left scoring both. Skiffington doubled to left and later chased his shortstop across the plate when Hewitt singled. The latter was cut down attempting to steal third.

After the first Fitchville was unable to reach the new twirler until the lucky seventh. In this frame Cummings singled, made second and scored on a single to center by Smith. Paul got in the way of a fast one and was awarded his base for his bravery. Smith advancing to second. Hoxie with a single cleaned the bases of their lonely occupant. Jones reached first in the eighth when his fly to short right was muffed by the second baseman, sneaked to second and later scored when Cummings [illegible] a long high one to right field. TAFTVILLE A. A. TRIMS ROSSIE A. A. AT MYSTIC

Taftville cleaned up on its week end games by defeating Mystic Sunday by a 5 to 5 score. It was a thrilling battle throughout, and Taftville won because they displayed a better brand of ball and ability to hit in the pinches. Taftville got a whirlwind start by scoring three runs in the first inning on singles by Clark, Nap Liberte, a triple by A. Dugas, and a single by Bill Liberte. They scored again in the fourth when Gauthier got a life on an error, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on a two base wallop by Clark. A hit by A. Dugas, a sacrifice by Donais, and a hit by Bill Liberte scored one in the eighth while their sixth and last run came in the ninth on a walk to Pepin, a sacrifice by Clark and a fielders choice on Nap Liberte. Mystic showed plenty of fight although it was an uphill battle from the start. They scored one in the second on three successive hits, added two more in the fifth, two more in the eighth to tie the score, but failed to come through in the ninth and Taftville walked off with the game Chappell was Mystic's hero in the eighth inning when he wheled an honest to goodness home run with one man on base. Clark, A. Dugas, Bill Liberte, Jack Murphy, and Barraclough were the hitting features with two each. Nap Liberte, as usual, furnished the fielding features for both infields, and Donais looked very much alive in right field for Taftville. Each team has now won a game, the third and deciding game is to be played in Mystic Sunday August 10. The Score:

Ashland Beats Sterling A. C.

Ashland A. A. came through with another victory Sunday by defeating the Sterling A. C. by the score of 10 to 1. Again Lloyd Jarvis kept the visitors at his mercy and allowed them but seven scattered hits, while his teammates made 11 hits and scored 10 runs. By steady fielding Jarvis was able to let his opponents down with a single run. The hitting of Rallie was the feature of the game, getting three hits out of five times at bat. The score:

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKKET WAS BULLISH.

New York, July 28.—Profit-taking sales, probably inspired by another cut in mid-continental oil prices, caused only a temporary check to the upward movement of stock prices, which today entered upon its eighth week.

Bullish demonstrations were vigorously conducted in various sections of the list. Buoyancy of the mail order and merchandising issues being one of the day's features.

Heavy buying of United States Steel common just before the close, which sent that stock up 2 1-2 points to 106, the highest in months, was construed in some quarters as an indication that the extra dividend of 50 cents, in addition to the regular quarterly rate of $1.25 on the common, would be maintained at tomorrow's meeting of the board of directors. Wall street also heard that some of the buying represented compulsory short covering for the account of a large speculator, but this was impossible of confirmation.

Steady accumulation was noted in the railroad group, despite publication of additional June earnings reports which compared unfavorably with those for the same month last year. New 1924 high records were established in this group by Lackawanna, Rock Island, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway preferred, Baltimore and Ohio preferred and Illinois Central preferred, with higher grain and cotton prices foreshadowing increased buying from the agricultural sections. Mail order and merchandising issues developed fresh strength, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward mounted to new high levels for the year and there was active buying fo Associated Dry Goods, G. R. Kinney and Melrory Stores. Advances of International Harvester and the fertilizer issues also were based on the expansion in the purchasing power of the farmer.

Reports that the Peruvian government had restricted the operations of the Cerro De Pasco Copper company caused some selling of these shares, which showed a net loss for the day of 1 5-8 points. Most of the other copper shares, however, were steadied by the rise in the price of the red metal to above 13 cents.

Declaration by the Fleischmann company of an extra dividend of 50 cents a share contributed to the improvement of this stock. Numerous other specialties were in good demand, with American Can, Famous Players, American Ice and Allis-Chalmers moving up 1 to 2 1-4 points.

Selling of the oil shares was inspired by the cut in mid-continent crude oil prices initiated by Prairie Oil and Gas, and met by Texas company and the Standard Crude Oil Purchasing company. This development, however, failed to cause any serious reaction, although Cosden, Marland and other low-priced issues lost ground.

With the deadlock of the London conference on the subject of security for a German loan unbroken, the foreign exchanges again marked time. Sterling, after opening almost a cent lower, rallied slightly to around $4.39 5-8. French francs moved within narrow limits.

A quiet tone ruled in the money market. Call funds held at 2 per cent. all day, and there was a plentiful supply of money for short term purposes at rates ranging from 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 per cent. Commercial paper rates ran from 3 1-4 to 3 3-4 per cent.

BOND MARKET.

New York, July 28.—Bond prices forged slowly ahead in today's moderately active trading, which was featured by a rally in Brazilian issues on the reported crushing of the Sao Paulo revolution. An active demand for public utility and several individual industrial lines developed, but rail issues encountered profit-taking after an early display of strength.

The day's most significant development in investment circles lay in the ready subscription of new issues, which totaled more than $50,000,000, a figure exceeding the entire volume of last week. Offering of two Canadian National Railways issues, aggregating almost $30,000,000, brought a good response.

The 6 per cent. bonds of the Public Service corporation of New Jersey, of which a $20,000,000 issue was sold today, commanded a premium on the open market. The 6s, which recently were strengthened by alteration of the company's financial structure, added another two points to their gain.

Advances of the Brazilian issues ranged from 1 to about 4 points. Included were the Rio Janeiro 8s, Sao Paulo 8s, Brazilian government 8s and Central 7s, all of which are expected to benefit by the quelling of the insurrection.

Improvement in agricultural conditions, resulting from the rise in grain and cotton prices, was reflected in a better demand for obligations of the fertilizer companies. American Agricultural Chemical 7 1-2s moved up 1 1-2 points.

FRENCH WOMAN TELLS

HOW TO GET THIN

Without Diets, Absurd Creams, Exercises or Reducing Girdles.

I reduced my own weight 20 pounds in less than 2 weeks and at the same time marvelously improved my general health and appearance with a new French discovery called SAN-GRI-NA. To-day I look, act and feel far younger than my real age. Now the results in my own case, and those of my friends, I am absolutely convinced that any man or woman burdened with rolls of ugly, inactive, unwholesome fat, can take it off easily, quickly and safely with SAN-GRI-NA. SAN-GRI-NA is one of the latest French discoveries for the reduction of excess fat. It does away with weakening diets — tiresome exercises —torturing garments and absurd and expensive so-called reducing creams. It is used extensively in Paris, where women of every age pride themselves on keeping their figures slender and graceful. No matter how fat you are, or what you have done in the past to reduce, you must remember that SAN-GRI-NA has never been offered before to the American public—IT IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS—does not contain any dangerous drugs and cannot possibly affect your stomach or your health. By simply taking 2 small tablets before each meal, I lost 20 pounds in 2 months, and it hasn't required a pound since. I eat all I want and enjoy the best of health. You can do the same. To-day go to any good drug store, ask for a package of SAN-GRI-NA. Do not accept anything else. AS IT IS THE ONLY THING I ever found to reduce, after I had tried hundreds of different ways and remedies.

WEST SIDE BOY INSTANTLY KILLED BY HEAVY ICE TRUCK

Maurice Donald Fitzgerald, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fitzgerald of No. 76 Peck street, was instantly killed under the wheels of one of Ford's ice trucks about 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. The accident happened on Peck street, near the boy's home. The unfortunate boy was attempting to climb onto the running board of the ice truck when he lost his balance and pitched under one of rear wheels which passed over his head literally crushing it to pulp.

As far as could be learned no one actually saw the boy fall under the truck. According to the story told Coroner J. J. Desmond at police headquarters by Ernest L. Mills, who was operating the truck, the boy ran from the sidewalk and tried to get onto the running board of the truck which was moving slowly. Although he was familiar with the operation of the truck, Mills had no operators license. The regular driver who was delivering a piece of ice to a nearby house, is a licensed operator but did not have his license with him.

Mr. Mills in his story of the sad accident told Coroner Desmond that the truck had stopped on Peck street to allow the driver to deliver a piece of ice at a nearby house. Mills in the meantime delivered a piece of ice to another house on Peck street. Then he started the truck intending to drive up the street to make another delivery. He saw the Fitzgerald boy on the sidewalk, running towards the truck. He said the boy was in the habit of getting on the truck.

Seeing the boy running towards the truck Mills said he put up his hand and called to the boy to keep off before he got hurt. The boy made a jump for the running board of the slowly moving truck and almost at the same moment Mills said he heard the boy make an outcry. He couldn't see him from the driver's seat and when he looked back the boy was nowhere in sight.

He quickly stopped the truck and then saw the boy's body in the street with the head badly crushed. Death was instantaneous. The truck was stopped within two and a half car lengths.

Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve was called to the scene of the accident and Coroner Desmond was notified. Undertakers Shea and Burke were given permission to remove the body.

Maurice Donald Fitzgerald was born in Norwich January 30, 1913, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fitzgerald. He attended the Mt. Pleasant street school and would have entered the 5th grade at the opening of the fall term in September. Besides his parents he leaves a sister, Miss Marguerite Fitzgerald, school nurse, and a brother Raymond Fitzgerald, both of this city.

Both Mills, who was operating the truck and John Wisneske the regular driver, were summoned to appear at the city court this (Tuesday) morning.

NORWICH PILGRIMS SEE CURES AT ST. ANNE'S SHRINE, BRISTOL

Among those who visited St. Anne's Shrine in St. Joseph's church, Bristol, Conn., from Norwich, Saturday, July 26th, St. Anne's Day, were Mr. and Mrs. P. Murphy, Miss Annie McCaffrey, Mrs. Hannah Rhinehart, Mrs. William H. McQuirk, Mrs. F. Edwards, Mrs. J. Winters, Mrs. Callahan, Miss Mary Stanton, Mrs. James Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bellefleur, Mrs. M. H. Donohue, Miss Loretta Bellefleur and Miss Sullivan.

Great throngs from all over the state and from other states were at Bristol for the service. The pastor of St. Joseph's church there is Rev. Oliver T. Magnell, formerly a curate in Willimantic. There were masses at 5, 6, 7 and 8 and a solemn high mass at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. St. Anne was the mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary, hence is venerated by all Catholics as the type of the model Christian mother, training her daughter in every virtue.

Devout Catholics unable to pay a visit to the noted shrine of St. Anne in Canada, go instead each year to Bristol, where there is a relic of St. Anne, which is venerated throughout the day, while there are sermons on the consecrated mother whose virtues are recalled. Scores of devout pilgrims come with lively faith to beg St. Anne for her intercession in their behalf, in cases of affliction, losses, bodily infirmities, etc., and there were the customary cures through faith.

It was interesting to the visitors, especially those from Norwich and Willimantic, to note the progress on the new St. Joseph's shrine church, which Father Mangell has begun to erect, since the present church is not large enough for the congregation attending it regularly. Some of the costly gifts already donated for the new edifice by pilgrims and others include the main altar, statue of St. Joseph (facade), statue for St. Anne shrine, statue of Sacred Heart, statue of Blessed Virgin Mary, statue of St. Francis, sanctuary lamp, baptismal font, altar linen, chalice, cassocks and surplices for altar boys and ten stained glass windows.

FINDS NO ERROR IN BUTTS-CAREY CASE

The Connecticut supreme court of errors handed down fifteen decisions Monday, covering cases from Hartford, New London, New Haven and Fairfield counties.

In the case of Patrick W. Reynolds, of New Haven, the court ruled that officers have the right when hunting for contraband to search the pockets of suspects. It was held in court circles that this decision is important in that it gives the police considerable leeway in hunting for illicit liquor in so-called saloons. Reynolds was arrested on September 17, 1923, the evidence being a bottle of liquor taken from the pocket of the defendant. Counsel for the defense raised the point that the police sergeant, not having a search warrant, violated the personal liberties of the defendant guaranteed by the Constitution. Reynolds was fined $200 and sentenced to jail for two months. He appealed

Other decisions handed down include:

Sunday School Picnic

The St. Andrew's church school picnic will be held Saturday at Ocean Beach. A special car will leave the church at 8.30 daylight saving time. Those who will make the trip have been requested to assemble at the church at 8 o'clock.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week there were nine building permits issued at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for new buildings and alterations and additions to present buildings. These permits include the one for the alterations and additions to the Merchants National bank on Main street. The application for the permit is filed by Archibald Torrance who has the contract. The work on the building is to start this week. Other permits include one for a 12-room house on Roath street and another house of the bungalow type on West Main street. The remainder of the permits are for garages and alterations. The total cost of the work as outlined in the permits is approximately $40,000 of which the bank building is the largest item.

Good progress has been made on local buildings now in hand in Norwich and there has been much work accomplished on buildings outside the city limits.

To Archbald Torrance to alter and extend present building of the Merchants National bank on Main street. The two end walls and roof and floors are to be removed. The side walls are to be extended toward water street 7 1-2 feet and raised about 14 feet in the front and about 9 feet in the rear. The rear and front walls will be new as will be the roof. New floors will be laid and the interior finish will also be new.

W. T. Barry has awarded the contract to build a 12-room house on Roath street. The house will be of frame construction with stone and cement foundation. The exterior finish will be in clapboards with composition shingles on the roof. The interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster.

To S. Sakowitz to add one room to the present building at 149 Broadway for Samuel Taylor. The addition will be 9x16 and will conform to the present building in construction.

To P. G. McKnight to erect a frame shed on Boswell avenue. The shed will be 10x10 feet with hip-roof.

To Joseph Ladyka to build a frame garage 15x22 feet, at 48 Second street. The foundation will be of stone. The building will be shingled with composition shingles.

To Lamphere Bros., to alter and extend the present building at 77 Stanton avenue for Thomas K. Hartley. The addition will be one-story, 12-28 feet, and of frame construction.

To William H. Rush to erect a frame garage 11x15 feet, at 252 West Main street. The garage will be of portable construction.

P. F. Sweeney has the contract to erect a frame bungalow on West Main street for Joseph Kasselman. The bungalor will be 26x34 feet and will contain seven rooms and bath. The foundation will be of stone and cement. The exterior finish will be in shingles and clapboards. The inside will be finished in hardwood and plaster.

To Charles S. Stamm to erect a frame garage in the rear of his home at 15 Ann street. The garage will have a cement foundation and floor.

New London

The alterations to the stores at 361 Bank street, owned by William Redden are being completed. New store fronts have been erected and interior changes made. The New London Glass Co., Bank street, have the contract for the plate glass show windows, and the Hawthorne Sash & Door Co., Moore avenue, the wood work.

John Fish is making extensive improvements to his dwelling on Cape Ann court. There will be a new veranda, 23x6 feet, and the exterior of the house will have a stucco finish. The permit for the work has been issued.

An addition is being completed to the dwelling of P. J. O'Leary at 51 Belden street. The new construction consists of a veranda and entrance alterations. T. F. Moran, 120 Montauk avenue, has the contract for the work.

The permit has been issued for an addition to the dwelling of Lorenzo Fredello on Jefferson avenue. There will be a new front porch and a one-story addition, 11x17 feet.

The Oliver Woodworth Co., Pearl street, have the contract for recovering the roof of the New England Steamship Co.'s shed with Barrett Specification roofing. The surface to be covered comprises 37,900 square feet.

Applications for Building Permits

Lorenzo Fredello, addition, Jefferson avenue $400.

Ellen R. McWalters, dwelling and garage, Colman street, $8,900.

Ezriah Rolfe garage, Maple avenue $200.

C. W. Crocker, garage, Norwood avenue $200.

Ralph Curtiss, garage, 25 Veits street $100.

Thames Lumber Co., shed, Easton avenue $500.

C. F. Crittendon, garage, Huntington street $300.

B. H. Hilliar, garage, Riverside Heights $250.

Leo Stark, garage, 75 Tenth street $100.

Number of permits issued for the week, 18; estimated cost of buildings, $11,750.

Groton

The plans of Architects Whiton & McMahon of Hartford for the proposed hospital at the Fairview home in Groton for the Odd Fellows have been passed upon by the board of managers and the building committee has been instructed to receive bids until October 1, 1924, for the erection of the same. Plans and specifications will be ready by September 1 for the building, and bids will be opened by the board of managers on Saturday, Oct. 11. The building is to be of fireproof construction, 100x368 feet, three stories high, accommodating about 70 patients. The cost is estimated at about $250,000. The building committee consists of Philip Pond of New Haven, superintendent of the building; Charles J. Fowler, Thompsonville, D. R. Whitney, Bridgeport and Harry Hirch, New London.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 22 sales of real estate, twice the number of sales for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $37,525 and $24,475.

There were 8 sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to 12 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $100,025 and $45,065.

The State Building

Owing to a good week in building permits in New Haven and Norwalk the record of permits granted in the larger centers of the state makes a good showing. Total number of permits for the week ran up to 339, for buildings costing $1,175,723. Against this record there were 223 permits taken out in the corresponding week of last year, the buildings costing $563,646, and in 1922, 241 permits, for buildings costing $819,532.

GRISWOLD EMPLOYE BEFORE NEW LONDON COURT

John Bowler, employed in the refrigerating plant at the Hotel Griswold, finished his work at noon Friday and came to Norwich where he has acquaintances. When he went back at night to resume his work he carried a load that was too heavy and was found by the New London police. He has not record in the New London court so Judge Prince followed a custom he has frequently followed and allowed the man to go to his work, but he cautioned him as to the future and Bowler gave a solemn promise that he would prove faithful.

FINED FOR PASSING BEACON ON WRONG SIDE

There was the usual number of cases in court Monday morning for Judge Arthur F. Libby to dispose of and the work was quickly done. Four men charged with intoxication drew fines and costs. Three men charged with going to the left of the flashing beacon on Market street paid $3 each, the charge being nolled. These fines brought the total revenue from this beacon up to about $75.

One case of violation of a city ordinance was nolled an payment of $2 and a case of violation of the motor vehicle laws was also nolled, this without costs. Two men who parked on crosswalks and too far away from the curb line paid $2 each for their offenses.

Joseph Dusch and William Lamphere charged with breach of the peace had their cases continued for six months James Bouley and Charles Green charged with non-support paid costs of $5.45 and ordered to pay $9 a week respectively.

BRING DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST NOANK SHIPYARD

Papers were served Monday against the Noank shipyard, controlled by the Morse interests, in a suit for $25,000 brought by the owners of the steamship General Richard Arnold. The papers were served by Deputy United States Marshal Joseph Park.

The suit which is returnable in the United States district court at New Haven is an aftermath of the fire which swept the shipyard on May 19, last. The Richard Arnold, being directly in the path of the flames, was extensively damaged. The complaint alleges there is a clause in the contract for repairs of the steamer by the shipyard for remuneration in case of damage by fire to the extent of the amount asked in the suit.

GOV. BRYAN OUT OF STEP ON MOBILIZATION DAY PROJECT

War Department Declares the Vice Presidential Nominee "Has Drawn Rather Extraordinary Inferences From What Seems to Be a Perfectly Clear Document"—Governor Branch of Indiana Takes Exception to Gov Bryan's Attitude—President Coolidge Has Made Known That He Probably Would Reply to the Governor of Nebraska.

Washington, July 29.—Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, who drawn rather extraordinary inferences from what seems to be a perfectly clear document," the war department declared today in a statement answering the governor's criticism of the "defense day" program for September 12.

Governor Bryan's statement that he does not favor any plan contemplating mobilization of the civil or industrial resources of the country or anything else that savors of a national holiday devoted to preparation for war drew the reply that such "inferences are a source of surprise to the war department."

The statement asserted that the commanding officer of the seventh corps area on May 31 reported that Governor Bryan had expressed his desire "to cooperate with the department to the fullest extent."

President Coolidge earlier in the day made known that he probably would not reply to Governor Bryan. It was declared at the White House that the president considered his recent criticism of those condemning the government's plans for defense days as "unfair" as sufficiently outlining his views. These were stated comprehensively in a letter to Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War last Saturday.

The war department statement declared that such plans as Governor Bryan has authorized for observance of defense day—ordering assemblies of national guard organizations under control and appointing local committees—will "enable the department to carry out its plan in the state of Nebraska completely."

Referring to Governor Bryan's previous promise of cooperation, the department statement offers the explanation that the governor's most recent stand "presumably is due," to the sending of adjutant general's letter issued since then by the corps area commander giving instructions to the reserve officers.

In this document, the statement continued, "no reference can be found to mobilization of civilians who volunteer their services for the day will be permitted to parade with national guard and organized reserve organizations in order that the processes of mobilization may be stimulated. The fact that all participation by civilians in the 'defense test' is purely voluntary has been emphasized in all instructions in regard to the test."

Replying to the description of the program as a "mobilization" the department issued the only thing asked for was "voluntary cooperation during the ceremonies of the day of those citizens who desire to parade with organizations, on the theory that, in case of war, they probably would enlist therein."

"Mobilization," the statement added, "means the bringing to war strength in men, arms and material of the armed forces of the nation. Nothing of this sort is contemplated.

"The governor further states that this test will convey a wrong impression to the people of preparation for war when there is no war in sight. The law imposes upon the war department the requirement of organizing divisions so tha they will be prepared for rapid and complete mobilization in the event of an emergency. The 'defense test' is designed to enable our people to visualize the processes necessary to such a complete mobilization. It is designedly being held when the international situation is perfectly calm, because it is just during such periods of calm that normal measures can be taken without alarming any one else. To postpone preparation for military operations until an interational crisis arises is the poorest possible service to the cause of peace, for it is then that normal military precautions are misinterpreted.

"The governor further states that the 'defense test' may mislead and alarm other people. The war department has kept careful track of foreign public opinion through the reports of military attaches and finds no evidence to support the governor's statement it is difficult to see how any country which maintains compulsory military service and holds partial mobilizations annually could possibly be alarmed by the 'defense test.'

"To sum up the statements of the governor of Nebraska indicate that he has drawn rather extraordinary inferences from what seems to be a perfectly clear document. While it is desirable that all prominent citizens openly support the "defense test" the action of the governor in ordering the assembly of the national guard organizations under his control on September 12 and in appointing local committees, will enable the department to carry out its plan in the state of Nebraska completely.

GOVERNOR OF INDIANA DIFFERS WITH GOV. BRYAN

Indianapolis, Ind., July 29.—Terming Governor Charles W. Bryan, the democratic candidate for vice president, a pacifist because of his announced stand on the observance of National Defense Day Sept. 12, Governor Emmett F. Branch, of Indiana, today issued a statement declaring "I deem it my duty to inform the people of Indiana as to my understanding of this celebration."

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE AS WITNESS IN FALLON CASE

New York, July 29.—The Countess Gesta Morner, formerly Peggy Hopkins Joyce, musical comedy star and ex-wife of two millionaires, who testified for the government today in the case of William J. Fallon, an attorney, for alleged jury bribing, attracted a crowd of spectators which overflowed into the corridors and evinced curiosity in every detail from the drawl of her voice to her monogramed tongue.

Her testimony was not sensational, as some apparently expected, but her repartee with Fallon, who conducted his own cross-examination of her brought several laughs from the spectators which caused Federal Judge Mandlic to rap for order.

The witness, who was addressed by attorneys as "countess," testified that she knew Fallon and Charles W. Rendigs, the juror he is accused of bribing in the Gregory Farrell mail fraud case, and Ernest Eidlitz, former investigator for Fallon, who was the first witness. She stated that Fallon had often called at her home in connection with legal matters at that time and that she had gone to an inn for dinner with him and Eidlitz.

She set the date of this dinner, where Fallon was alleged to have paid Rendigs $1,000 during an interval when he left the party, at November 6, 1922.

Fallon jumped to his feet.

"Now Miss Joyce," insisted Fallon, "you really do not know if this visit of our took place November 6, or September 6, or any other date, do you?"

"No, Mr. Fallon," came the plaintive answer, which drew a titter from the crowd. "I do not believe I do."

"You testified that I absented myself from the table for twenty minutes," stated the defendant. "Now, Countess, are you sure I was away from the table that length of time as you have testified?"

"It seemed that long to me."

"Countess, was my absence before or after dinner?"

"Oh, before," was the positive answer.

"Won't you agree with me now," asked Fallon, "that perhaps you believed it was so long a period that I was away simply because you were hungry?"

EARTH TREMORS 150 MILES SOUTHEAST OF ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, July 29.—Slight earth tremors at a point 100 or 150 miles southeast of St. Louis were recorded on the seismograph at St. Louis university here for six seconds beginning at 4.04 o'clock this afternoon.

DAVIS READY TO DRIVE FORWARD WITH CAMPAIGN

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Me., July 29.—With the major portion of his labors in the preparation of his acceptance address behind him, John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, was ready tonight to end his Maine vacation and to drive forward with his campaign.

Upon his arrival at New York Thursday morning he will give his first attention to organization plans as worked out by Clem L. Shaver, his campaign manager, and to that end he telegraphed today to Mr. Shaver to meet him at his temporary headquarters at the metropolis. After this conference, Mr. Davis will turn to the final drafting of his speech with the expectation of having it completed by Sunday.

Tonight Mr. Davis was the guest at a dinner of the newspaper correspondents how have been reporting his activities while here.

In the early stages of his homeward journey Mr. Davis will be a guest at two receptions in Maine. Beside that at Rockland there will be one at Bath, both having been arranged for by democratic leaders. Mr. Davis will speak only very briefly at each and then will eschew politics.

FOUR ARRESTS IN NEW YORK FOR BOSTON FUR THEFTS

New York, July 29.—Two recent fur robberies in Boston, involving losses aggregating $160,000, were blamed on four men who were arrested tonight at the point of revolvers by nearly a dozen of detectives after a cordon of police had been thrown about the house in which they were located. Five big trunks filled with the stolen furs were recovered.

The prisoners described themselves as David Bruno, 28 years old, a clothes presser, and Joseph Marris, 38 years old, a clerk; John Behrman, 30 years old, a salesman, and Isaac Gruman, 30 years old, a fur dealer, all of New York.

The four men, protesting their innocence, were taken to police headquarters, where charges of burglary and grand larceny were entered against them. They also denied ownership of the stolen furs which were found in the apartment.

Boston police and detectives learned that the stolen furs were being shipped to New York, where the burglars apparently intended to dispose of them. They immediately got in touch with the local police and both forces united to apprehend the thieves.

BRAZILIAN REBELS TOOK FUNDS AWAY WITH THEM

Buenos Aires, July 29.—A dispatch to La Nacion from Santos says the correspondent has learned that the rebels in their flight from Sao Paulo took away with them 1,200 contos (about $126,000) of state and federal funds, for which they left a receipt. The dispatch adds that funds in private banks are intact.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

French Parliament Passive.

Paris, July 29 (By the A. P.)—The French parliament today received in absolute silence and with marked frigidity Premier Herriot's report on the progress of the inter-allied conference in London in which the head of the government describes the failure of the conference to come to an agreement with the British and American bankers on the question of security for the Dawes plan loan to Germany.

ORKNEY PREPARED FOR CARE OF WORLD FLIERS

Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, Scotland, July 29 (By the A. P.)—Everything here is now in readiness to take care of the world fliers when they arrive here tomorrow. Stores of oil, gasoline and stocked rafts are awaiting the airplanes. Towboats and repair men are being kept at Houton Bay landing stage in the event they are needed. Arrangements have been made so that the fliers can leave in 18 hours if necessary.

An American cruiser is expected tonight and will be anchored at the entrance of the bay to be used as headquarters for the airmen while they remain here. It will also serve as a wireless station for receiving weather reports from Iceland and Greenland.

Preparations also are being made for the arrival of the Italian aviator, Lieutenant Locatelli, who will follow the American fliers over part of their route.

The Americans have 2,000 gallons of gasoline and 300 gallons of oil awaiting them, sufficient to carry them several hundred miles further than the next station in the event of their having trouble making a landing or running into a storm.

The visiting fliers will find most of Kirkwall's 3500 inhabitants awaiting them, headed by the mayor and other officials. The county plans to give them a reception. They will also be entertained at a banquet by the townspeople and presented with a souvenir of the islands.

WEST HAVEN ROCKED BY MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

New Haven, July 29.—The West Side of West Haven and the shore front was rocked by an explosion tonight when several buildings of the Connecticut Fireworks company located in the woods back of Kelsey avenue, were wrecked by a blast of powder and dynamite.

The explosion occurred after the men employed at the plant had gone to their homes and but one man was injured. Nicoli Langelli, of 238 Wooster street, this city, was taken to Grace hospital with a fractured arm and leg and injuries to his skull. He is in a serious condition.

The buildings destroyed were known as mixing sheds and consisted of small shacks. They were reduced to kindling wood by the blast. Buildings in the immediate vicinity were shaken and in several instances windows were broken. In one house a bed was turned completely around.

The explosion was felt as far down the beach as Woodmont and was plainly heard in several parts of New Haven. The blast started a fire in the tall grass nearby but this was extinguished by the firemen before doing any damage.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

TO CHANGE PROSECUTION OF PROHIBITION CASES

Washington, July 29.—Decentralization of the supervisory work in prohibition prosecution has been determined upon by Attorney General Stone, who today announced the first of what si expected to be several appointments to have charge of regional prosecutions. He named John J. Byrne of Boston to have general charge of prohibition prosecution in New England.

Although officials declined to discuss the program, it was indicated that othre appointments soon will be made for other sections of the country and that the assistants thus named will be directly responsible to Mrs. Mabie Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecution. It is understood officials believe the arrangement will make the work more effective.

Mr. Byrne has been a law clerk to Chief Justice Taft the last three years and prior to that filled the same place under the late Chief Justice White.

BODIES OF "DRY" OFFICIALS RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Wilmington, N. C., July 29.—Posse dispatched from here to Phoenix, Brunswick county, tonight upon receipt of reports of a battle between prohibition officers and bootleggers found the bodies of Deputy United States Marshal Lilly and City Prohibition Agent Leon George in their automobile two miles from town.

Both bodies were riddled with bullets fired at close range, and George's police dog also was found dead in the car. The posse, consisting of 50 police and county officers, went armed with riot guns to meet any exigency.

The weapons of both officers were in their pockets and had not been fir-ed. Word of the tragedy was brought to Pheonix by a negro who said he had heard 25 or 30 shots and had seen the bodies of the officers at a distance.

JUMPED FROM AUTO AND SERIOUSLY INJURED

Meriden, Conn., July 29.—Following out her threat that she would jump from the automobile in which she was riding with her husband unless he stopped, Mrs. Dorothy Meigs, of 1660 State street, New Haven, leaped to the highway near here late this afternoon and was seriously injured.

At the Meriden hospital, whence she was taken by her husband, Arlo Meigs, it was said that she had a linear fracture of the skull, and that although there was no depression on the brain, the injury was serious.

The couple was reported to have been engaged in an argument when their machine was proceeding along the state highway near the culvert in Yalesville. The woman quickly made good her threat before the surprised husband had an opportunity to halt the progress of the auto.

Brothers Held For Murder of Parents

Crime Alleged Was Committed in Lancaster, Pa., Fourteen Years Ago.

Gap, Pa., July 29.—Benjamin F. and Chester A. Dorsheimer brothers respectively of Atlantic City, N. J., and Harrisburg, Pa., were held without bail at the conclusion of a hearing before Justice of the Peace C. A. Diller tonight charged with the murder of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Dorsheimer, in Lancaster, Pa., fourteen years ago.

Counsel for the defendants announced that habeas corpus proceedings for their release would be filed tomorrow in the Lancaster county court and that a hearing probably would be held Friday or Saturday.

The charge was brought by Frank E. Dorsheiber, Thorndale, Pa., a third brother, who alleged that the defendants had caused the death of their parents by illuminating gas asphyxiation in order to obtain their estate which he said was valued at more than $75,000. Eight of the twelve Dorsheimer children attended the hearing and some of them met for the first tice since their parents were found dead in their room on April 16, 1910. Several of them were witnesses for the prosecution.

Frank Dorsheimer was the principal witness. He testified that his brother Chester, whose middle name is Arthur, had told him that he had killed their aged parent. "He told me" said the witness, "he didn't mind killing the old man, but that it hurt him to kill mother. Arthur said that so many years had passed since their deaths that he guessed nothing would ever be done about it because the statute of limitations would prevent criminal action."

GOV. COX HAS DENIED A RESPITE TO VANDENHECKE

Boston, July 29.—Governor Cox today denied a request for an eleventh hour respite in the sentence of death imposed on Cyrille V. Vandenhecke for the slaying of Gislain Schureman at Lawrence six years ago. He said there were no circumstances that seemed to warrant interfering with the finding of the jury and the sentence of the court.

Vandenhecke was arrested at Renfrew, Ont., where he had gone after fleeting to Belgium, and had married while his wife was still living at Lawrence. It was a quarrel over his relations with Schureman's wife that led to the murder.

The condemned man had addressed to the governor asking for respite that he might have further opportunity to prove his innocence, which he has protested. John F. Kane, his counsel, asked the governor in person that the appeal be granted in a conference today, at which he said although there was no new evidence now at hand, he hoped to uncover some that would support Vandenhecke's contention.

SENATOR LODGE'S CONDITION REPORTED SATISFACTORY

Cambridge, Mass., July 29.—On the second day following an operation for bladder ailment, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was reported tonight to have progressed favorably. The distinguished patient at a hospital here was decidedly brighter all day, being hearty at his meals, eating what he chose and having the privilege of smoking a cigar.

Senator Lodge's pulse and respiration were normal in the morning and continued normal throughout the day.

While it had been announced that the senator's condition did not warrant the continued issuance of bulletins, Dr. John H. Cunningham at 6 o'clock tonight, gave out the following statement:

"Senator Lodge's condition is very satisfactory in every particular."

DESTROYERS ASSIGNED TO WORLD-FLIGHT POSITIONS

On Board U. S. S. Barry, Halifax, N. S., July 29 (By the A. P.).—All the United States destroyers in the harbor here were re-fueled today as part of the preparation for the run to Indian Harbar, Labrador, where they will meet the cruiser Milwaukee, which served as a supply ship for the American round-the-world fliers after their North Atlantic flight.

The Milwaukee sent word that the weather along the lower part of Labrador was clear, the temperature being at a minimum of 50 and the Belle Isle Straits clear of ice. Incoming vessels also reported excellent weather off Newfoundland and the opinion was held that the prospects were good for two or three weeks of fair weather in the area through which the fliers will make their passage.

WOULD CANCEL OIL PERMITS IN THE NAVAJO RESERVATION

Washington, July 29.—Attorney General Stone today directed the United States attorney at Salt Lake City to file suit there to cancel an oil and gas prospecting permit on a portion of the Navajo Indian reservation. The suit is directed against the Midwest Oil company, the Southwest Oil company, and E. M. Harrison.

The action is the first filed under a recent opinion submitted by the attorney general to the president holding that the general leasing act of 1920 does not apply to "executive order reservations," and that permits already issued in consequence are invalid.

LORD SOUTHBOROUGH DEPARTS FROM NEW LONDON

New London, July 29.—Lord Southborough of London, England, former civil lord of the British admiralty, left here for New York today after passing the week end as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Tracy Farnum. Lord Southborough came here to arrange for the visit of the Prince of Wales in September. The prince, after attending the polo matches at Meadowbrook, L. I., will come to New London on a U. S. warship and will board a Canadian Pacific train on Million Dollar pier. Arrangements have been made to run the train to the boat landing so that the royal visitor can step from his boat to his special car.

Large Forest Fire in Vicinity of Rockville

Men From Somers, Tolland and Stafford Have Responded to Calls For Aid.

Rockville, July 29.—One of the largest forest fires in the history of this town and this section of the state is raging in the woods and brush land on Kimble Hill, near Crystal Lake between Rockville and Stafford. The blaze, which started from a small flame Sunday, has spread rapidly and is gaining headway. State aid has been asked of Hartford and a large gang of men has responded from Somers, Tolland and Stafford. An airplane is being used by the fire fighters for observation purposes.

Many acres of wood land have been burned but the wind has take the fire away from the hundreds of cottages along the edge of Crystal Lake not far from where the blaze started. With the exception of a few small buildings, there are no structures in the path of the flames.

15 ACRES OF WOODLAND BURNED OVER IN DERBY

Derby, July 29.—Fire starting at 1 o'clock this afternoon burned over from ten to fifteen acres of woodland in the East Hill section of Derby Neck before farmers got it under control. It is believed that the fire was set as it started in twenty different places at the same time on land owned by Charles Hart. The blaze reached within 200 feet of several small farms but these were saved.

GERMAN OPINION OF COMING VISIT OF HUGHES TO BERLIN

Berlin, July 29 (By the A. P.)—The impending visit to Berlin of Secretary of State Hughes is the subject of news articles and editorials in the newspapers. While due notice is taken of the common impression that he is traveling in a strictly private capacity, editorial speculation concurs in giving the American diplomatist's trip political significance especially in view of his London discussions on the Dawes report and his subsequent visits to Brussels and Paris.

That the American secretary is also using his presence in Europe to acquaint himself with the attitude of the western European governments towards Russia is assumed by the National Zeitung, which believes Mr. Hughes is not advocating a general boycott of soviets, but rather is interested in mobilizing such important official European sentiment as he can in favor of a unified or common line of action destined to achieve a complete solution of the Russian problem.

To this extent it is assumed the secretary of state will be an interested observer of the German attitude toward Russia. Especially as Germany and Russia are maintaining complete diplomatic relations and German industrialists, financiers and exporting interests are considered among the world's best authorities on Russia, notwithstanding the existing impasse in the economic relations of both countries and a passing inclination on the part of German commercial interests to push trade advantages in Sovietia, which have been at Germany's disposal since ratification of the Rapallo treaty.

GIRL FROM DANBURY DROWNED NEAR NORWALK

Norwalk, July 29.—Ina Frances Bates, 16 years old, of 97 Osborne street, Danbury, was drowned this evening while bathing at Calf Pasture beach. Her sister, Alta, 11, and her brother Frank, Jr., 5, were rescued and revived after they had been taken to the shore.

The children were at the beach for a day's outing with their father, Frank Bates, who had gone clamming at Ascension beach. Some time ago sand from the ocean bottom was taken to fill in holes in the park and the dredges had left a hole 20 feet deep a short distance from shore. The children walked into this hole.

Their cries for help brought Jerome Gordon, 14, of 25 Cove avenue and Edward Gerhardt, 11. The boys succeeded in saving Alta and Frank Jr., but could not find Ina. The latter's body was recovered by life guards an hour and a half later.

TO BRIDGE GULF BETWEEN FARMERS AND CONSUMERS

Amherst, Mass., July 29.—Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, who recently resigned the presidency of the Massachusetts Agricultural college to become president of the Michigan Agricultural college, in an address at a state farm and home gathering here tonight said that difficulties between consumers and producers would be ironed out "as we match production against food desires and needs more exactly."

"This is a day of organized group activity," he continued, "and farmers need to get together for all sorts of purposes. The ever present question of education, of new knowledge being discovered of new applications of science, brings a new light for the farmer each year. In some manner he must see it.

"One aspect of rural education has not developed as rapidly as I had expected and it should be a main objective of farmers; secondary schools of agriculture have not grown as they should.

"We ought to have coming out of our agricultural courses in secondary schools here in Massachusetts at least 500 boys and girls a year who are going back to the farm to stay."

SUPREME DICTATOR OF LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

New York, July 29.—Willard Marmakle, of Rochester, N. Y., was elected supreme dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose at the convention of the organization here today. Among those who addressed the delegates was Police Commissioner Enright, who said that if the spirit of the Moose were general in New York city, his department would have little to do.

CONCESSIONS BY FRENCH MAY DISSOLVE DEADLOCK

French Delegates at Inter-Allied Conference in London are Willing to Surrender, Under Certain Conditions, Their Right to Separate Action in Case of Default by Germany —French Experts Are Drafting a Proposal Designed to End the Ten Days' Conference Deadlock—Invitation for the Germans to Send a Delegation May Be Extended During the Week-End.

London, July 29 (By the A. P.)—For the first time since the inter-allied conference assembled, the French delegates tonight indicated a willingness to surrender, under certain conditions, their right to separate action against Germany in case of a reparations default under the Dawes plan.

If the allies cannot unanimously agree whether a flagrant default has occurred, France is willing to let an arbitration board, on which there will be experts of the original Dawes commission, decide the question.

One condition is that German payments in goods be linked with the question of defaults, and that France acquire new rights relating to payments in kind which are outside the present reading of the Versailles treaty.

These and other conditions the French experts tonight are embodying into a proposal which they hope will end the ten days' conference deadlock. Since yesterday's proceedings, which were featured by the timely intervention of Col. James A. Logan, the American observer, which the delegates today characterized as having saved the conference from a possible breakdown, the French delegation has been working to co-ordinate Colonel Logan's suggestions with ideas of their own in an effort to produce a formula which will solve the problem of how default under the Dawe plan is to be declared and what penalties the allies intend to inflict therefore and at the same time satisfy the international bankers who will be asked to recommend a £40,-000,000 to investors in order to launch the Dawes project.

Whether these new French proposals, in which there will be a departure from the unyielding stand on separate action, will be acceptable to the other delegates cannot be fully determined until the draft is laid before the experts. But the American observers, who have an intimation of the conditions France expects to impose in view of her surrender of her jealousy guarded theoretic right to act as she deems necessary if Germany does not live up to the Dawes plan, are not overhopeful that a solution has been found.

In the present stages of the conference the American attitude seems veering toward that of France, instead of that of Great Britain. Colonel Logan's proposal of yesterday was followed by an expression of grateful appreciation on the part of the French delegates today, but the American suggestion that the reparation commission be called into the action proceedings in the present negotiations roused immediate objection from the British.

It was the first time that Great Britain definitely had to refuse to fall in line with suggestions for a possible way out of the difficulty. Philip Snowden, Great Britain, said the British view was that the American suggestion meant the unloading of one of the most important tasks of the London conference upon the shoulders of the reparation commission and involved that body in a political question. Great Britain, Mr. Snowden declared, could not agree to this, for she always had taken the stand that the reparation commission should not participate in political negotiations.

Despite the delays which have occured, another step toward realization of the Dawes recommendations will be taken tomorrow with the arrival of the reparation commission in London for the purpose of negotiating an agreement with Germany covering points in the Dawes proposals which are outside the Versailles treaty. It is evident that although the plenipotentiaries are widely separated in their views as how best to make the Dawes plan operative they are not despairing of final success and will have the reparation commission here to deal with the German mission whenever the conference itself reaches an agreement.

The anticipation tonight was that the invitation for the Germans to send a delegation to the conference will be extended during the week-end and that the Germans will arrive here next Monday.

REPORT ON DETENTION OF RHODE ISLAND OFFICIALS

Boston, July 29.—Governor Cox has received from Commissioner Alfred F. Foote, of the state department of public safety, the report of the latter's investigation into action of the state police in detaining Rhode Island officials near Holden, Sunday, July 20.

Assistant Attorneys General George Hurley and John P. Hartigan; Providence police inspectors, John McGuire and Louis Godfrey; Thomas Lally and Matthew J. McGovern with Joseph Leoni, the chauffeur, comprised the party.

They had visited Rutland to look up certain records and locate if possible "Togie" Murray, the man named in the affidavits as having placed a bombe in the senate chamber, breaking up the session and resulting in the departure of 21 republican senators, the majority in the chamber, to Rutland, Mass., where they still remain. The governor will issue a statement after he has studied the report. Commissioner Foote refused comment.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY DROWNED; TWIN SISTERS RESCUED

Stamford, Conn., July 29.—Ernest Mollwitz, Jr., 6 years old, of 300 West 144th street, New York city, was drowned this afternoon while bathing at Hallowe'en park here. His twin sisters, Ernestine and Flora, 9, are in Stamford hospital, one in a serious condition. The children and their mother, Mrs. Ernest Mollwitz, are here for the summer. The children ventured too far out into the water and all three stepped into a deep hole. The girls were rescued by life guards but the body of the boy was not recovered until an hour after the accident.

MORE MARITAL TROUBLE FOR PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE

New York, July 29.—The Countess Morner, formerly Peggy Hopkins Joyce, of musical comedy fame, who has divorced two millionaire husbands today was served with papers in a suit by the count for annulment of her most recent marriage.

The former Peggy Joyce immediately countered this action with a suit against Count Morner for $10,000, which she alleges she has spent on behalf of her husband since she married him last June.

DROWNED AFTER FALL FROM LOAD OF HAY

Southoro, Mass., July 29.—Joseph Wolfred of Nashua, N. H., and formerly of North Adams, Mass., slid from the top of a load of hay, hurtled the rail of the fence at the bridge and was drowned in the Metropolitan basin tonight. At a late hour tonight the body had not been recovered. On top of the load of hay was found his watch and chain.

JOHN DEVOY VISITS IRISH FREE STATE PRESIDENT

Dublin, July 29.—John Devoy, editor of the Gaelic-American of New York today visited President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State, with whom he talked for three-quarters of an hour. He also saw the other ministers.

Mr. Devoy, who is here on his first visit in 45 years, accepted an invitation to be the guest of the nation for the Tailteann games.

COOLIDGE AT WORK ON SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

Washington, July 29.—President Coolidge spent a busy day in his office today, devoted primarily to intensive work on the actual writing of his speech of acceptance for the official notification of his nomination by the Cleveland convention.

There were many callers at the White House, all bearing optimistic reports on the campaign, but Mr. Coolidge saw only a few.

Among the reports was one brought by Senator Harreld of Oklahoma that a Ku Klux Klan fight was impending in the republican senatorial campaign in that state. Opinion was expressed by the senator, however, that the national ticket would be little affected by a klan fight.

"The klan is the baby of the democrats," he declared, adding that a klan row was prevailing in the democratic fight for the senate nomination in Oklahoma, with former Governor Walton leading the anti-klan forces. Senator Harreld predicted Mr. Coolidge would hold the 25,000 majority polled by President Harding in Oklahoma in 1920, while Senator La-Follette would get only the normal socialist vote, which, he said, would amount to about 25,000 of the 500,000 votes in the state.

Representative Bacon, republican, New York, painted a bright picture of conditions in the east in a visit at the White House. He declared his visits through New York state showed a strong voluntary movement rising to aid the Coolidge campaign which, he said, was marked by the inclusion of all classes of people.

TO COMPLETE TRIAL OF SLAYERS OF FRANKS TODAY

Chicago, July 29.—The state's "mountain of evidence" which Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, expects to send Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, kidnappers and slayers, of Robert Franks, to the gallows, is complete, the state's attorney announced tonight. He will close his case as soon as court convenes tomorrow, he said.

If the defense attempts to introduce the testimony of any alienists as to the mental condition of the two millionaires' sons who have pleaded guilty, Mr. Crowe said he will immediately demand that a jury be called to determine whether the slayers are mentally responsible.

EXTRA DIVIDEND ON U. S. STEEL COMMON STOCK

New York, July 29.—Directors of the United States Steel corporation today declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.25 a share. Extra disbursements of 50 cents a share had been made in the two preceding quarters.

AUTOIST SERIOUSLY BURNED ABOUT THE ARMS AND LEGS

Bridgeport, July 29.—Details are lacking today as to the circumstance under which the touring car of Peter Sereanni, of Danbury, was fired early today on the Danbury road. Sereanni, badly burned about the legs and arms, walked into the emergency hospital here at 10.15 a. m. and was immediately taken to St. Vincent's hospital, where it was later said that his condition is serious. The automobile is a complete wreck, having been burned to the frame.

WILLIMANTIC

"Jim" Bath's fifty-first birthday was celebrated with fitting ceremonials, at the weekly session of Willimantic Rotary club Tuesday noon. The program carried out under the chairmanship of Jerry Sullivan came as a surprise, not only to the honored member but to the entire club. After the meeting had been turned over to him by President Standish, Jerry called the attention of the member to "Val" Murphy who arose and delivered an oration supplemented with a few verses of poetry dedicated to "Saturday Night Bath." Taken completely by surprise "Jim" gave expression of his gratitude to the members for their kind remembrance. A delicious cake adorned with fifty-one candles was placed before Mr. Bath and slices were later distributed among the members.

Henry Congdon and Dr. R. Bullock Jones were appointed respectively song leader and sergeant-at-arms, in the absence of John Ahern and Aime J. Martineau. Dr. William E. Hendry, Frank H. Foss, George W. Hickey, John C. Tracy and Walter Abbe arrived on the grounds after soup had been served and they were ordered to gather around the piano and give a song, which they did. Acting Mayor Hickey and Doc Hendry paid fines for not having worn their badges. The latter nearly escaped discovery but it was found that he was labeled with a name not his own.

Action will be taken at the next meeting on the matter of changing the welcome Rotary signs at the entrances into the city for more suitable ones. The members enjoyed cigars passed around by Frank Smith in honor of his grandson. Acting upon a communication received from District Governor Al Avery in regard to the Fall conclave at New London, a committee comprising the following was appointed to make arrangements, Louis Kingsbury, chairman; Charles W. Hall, Harry A. Blanchette, A. Linn Weatherread, Henry M. Congdon, Jean F. Pickett and G. Everett Harrington.

It was said that the smoke nuisance which has caused merchants along the business section to believe that they were in Scotsburgn for the past two months, has been abated and upon motion of "Jim" Fullerton a letter of thanks will be sent to Superintendent Mitchell of the New Haven railroad for his consideration in the matter. For the Tribune Fresh Air fund children the committee, Herbert W. Huber reported progress and he then and there enlisted over a dozen of the members who promised to pay for the board of the children during their stay here. The American Thread company has agreed to car for two children, and Mrs. Amidon of Willington has requested that one be sent to her.

Charlie Hill spoke in regard to filling up the ranks of the local baseball team which will hold forth against Putnam at the field day at Ashland park, Jewett City next Thursday. When the local battery is announced it is expected that Charlie Hill and Maurice Leonard, hurlers, and Harry Hesnch, catcher, will be the lineup same. The budget committee is to report at the next meeting the setting aside of a sum of money each year for the secretary's office expenses. Adjournment was taken at 1.20 o'clock.

From his home 1149 Main street, the funeral of Roderick F. Lussier was held Tuesday morning. In a solemn requiem high mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock, Rev. J. J. Parillon was celebrant; Rev. H. C. Belec was deacon and Rev. Albert D'Amours, sub-deacon. The organist was Mrs. Joseph F. Gendreau and the St. Cecilia quartet, Mrs. Lodia Fortier, Mrs. Madeline Goodwin, Miss Anna Aubin and Edward Rocheville, Joseph Gaudreau directed the music. Memorare was sung at the offertory and closed as a waiting hymn. The casket was covered with flowers and floral pieces. Delegations from St. Louis Baptiste society and L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique were present, as were also Sheriff Charles A. Gates, William E. Jackson and Irving H. Ford, ex-mayor, aldermen of the first ward and superintendent of the streets respectively when Mr. Lussier was connected with the street department. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Father Papillon with responses by Rev. H. C. Belec and Rev. A. D'Amours. The bearers were Eugene Lescoe, Edward Grenier, Florimond J. Bergeron, Wilfred Pageau, Albert J. Piche and Arthur Cartier. The Hurteau-Bosse Corp. had charge of the arrangements.

There seems to be no let-up in the back-to-the-farm movement as attested by the real estate transfers or sales since last spring. The Tryon Brothers and others who deal largely in farm lands, report that a large proportion of the purchasers come from New York and vicinity. There apparently is a drive to vacate apartment houses for the country. Most of the new owners are planning improvements on their property.

The valuable 63 acre Charles Crane farm at Atwoodville in the town of Mansfield has been purchased by R. D. Sherman of Brooklyn N. Y. The property includes a large tract of woodland and with the timber which he plans to cut Mr. Sherman expects to build several modern bungalows to rent or sell to New York people for summer homes.

Elizabeth A. Purvis of Brooklyn, N. Y. has purchased the 18-acre farm owned by C. W. Hanks, on Bear Hill, North Windham. The beautiful spot is to be transformed through landscaping into a summer home.

A transfer of the Ernest C. Kampff farm at Wormwood Hill in the town of Mansfield has been made to Laura Cottam of New York city. The Wickes villa and surrounding 35 acres of land, one of the most desirable properties in the town of Scotland has been taken over by Charles Ross of New York city, and the admired Frederick farm, of 15 acres at Eagleville, on the Stafford Springs-Willimantic road, has been bought by Harry J. Hopkins of Mansfield.

William Thomason has acquired the Mary L. McLaughlin property of two acres of land with house in Lebanon. The Charles Young place of 5 acres of land with building at Brooklyn is now owned by Ernest L. James of Stafford and the F. Palmer Fenton farm of 69 acres of land in Hampton has been deeded to Mrs. Drury of South Killingly.

One of Willimantic's prominent residents of Scotch descent, returned here a few days ago from a most enjoyable journey with friends. There is a joke among his friends that he left with a new clean shirt and a new ten dollar bill and returned without having changed either one.

The business section of the city was being canvassed Tuesday by a committee of three, Henry A. Bugbee, Alfred S. Larviere and Michael E. Sullivan with an objective of raising $700 for a local baseball fund. The committeemen are meeting with plenty of success and all concerned are optimistic of the outcome of the baseball syndicate movement. At a meeting of the fans with President John ORourke in charge, arrangements were completed for the benefit dance at Lakeside Casino, South Coventry. John Killourey has donated the casino for the purpose and the Lakeside orchestra will furnish the music gratis. Saturday will be baseball tag day with members of the Windham Girls' club in charge of the distribution. In the New Britain game here Sunday, the local players have offered to appear for expenses only, giving the syndicate an opportunity to realize a handsome sum from the gate receipts. This announcement was made by Field Manager Smith who expressed the team's confidence in the new association.

Rev. Albert D'Amours, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aime D'Amours, of 98 Mansfield avenue, celebrated his first local mass at 9.30 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Mary's church. Rev. Father D'Amours was ordained in France. He is one of Willimantic's native sons. He completed a course of study at St. Mary's school and also attended Windham High school. He matriculated at the College of Nicolet, P. Q., and after his classicia course he joined the Eucharistic Fathers and was sent to Bathurst, New Brunswick, for his novitiate and study in philosophy. He later went to Rome where he made his theological course of four years. After a few years in France he was ordained September 29, 1923.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Carlsen were: Mrs. M. Jensen and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schriber and daughter Marion of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Kling and son Howard from Springfield, Mass.; Mrs. Lawrence Kling, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kling, Jr., and son Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kling and two daughters, Mrs. Harry Kling, Helma Carlsen and Miss Clark of Hartford, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carlsen and taree children of this city.

P. S. Hills is probably the first man in this city to receive a letter by air mail route. The communication came from Grover W. Collinson and was mailed at 11.30 a. m. in Winfield, Kansas, and came on from New York city by train. The transit was made in forty-eight hours. The letter bears sixteen cents postage, a special air route stamp for fourteen cents and a regular two cent stamp.

A veteran of the World war came to Willimantic Tuesday forenoon looking for assistance. His home is in California. He had been practically riddled with bullets and said that an operation had been started on him but was never completed. He feared that an injury to his spine would soon overcome him and he was attempting to reach home "while still on his feet."

It was announced here Tuesday that Walter Wolfe who had pitched the local entry in the Connecticut State league to a 10 to 0 victory over the Meriden team in the Silver city last Sunday, had joined the Hartford Senators, of the Eastern league.

According to the assignments of beats in the police department for next month, Officer Grant Bombria will fill his shoes on the day traffic job. Officer Arthur M. Hurley is to patrol upper Main, Officer Edward Leahy the Center Main, Officer Roderick Lariviere the Jackson street district and Officer William Hurley department for the colder section of Sodom.

WILLIMANTIC CRIPPLED BOY CURED AT ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, July 29.—Edward Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jones of 84 Maple avenue is rejoicing today. Born with an affliction of motor paralysis of the spine, the pathetic life of this boy has been one of lost hope and of a young spirit imprisoned in a crippled body. There has been nothing in the child's life but love for his parents and family. Faith, however has accomplished a miracle, and the entire family are overbouyant over the prospect of complete recovery for the son.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their son made the pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre, Canada, leaving for the world famous shrine July 15. They arrived at the shrine on the evening of the 18th and they boy began to feel improved. Since that time his right leg which was deformed and practically useless, has been restored to normalcy. Brother Andrew, now an aged man, in charge of the shrine at Mount Royal, told the boy's parents that their son was going to walk and that he would be cured. Specialists had previously informed the parents that there was no cure for the boy as far as medical or surgical skill was concerned.

People returning here from a visit to St. Anne de Beaupre are telling of remarkable scenes which they saw there. The novena this year was attended by about thirty thousand people from all over the world.

Morgan council, No. 13, D. of A., held a successful food sale and dance Monday afternoon and evening on the grounds of the old Beach street school house.

Recently members of Westerly fire department under Fire Chief George E. Egger tested out hydrants on Broad and High streets, and at the same time the streets were thoroughly washed by the firemen. On the Broad street side of the new Washington Trust building the inch and one-quarter stream was turned skyward and the water was sent nine feet above the new bank building, or approximately 75 feet. Water was sent over the building, landing on Milo's market on the other side.

Mr. and Mrs. Aniello Matarese and children, Lola and Rose, returned to their home, 9 Pleasant street, Westerly, Sunday evening, after six months' visit at Mr. Matarese's former home near Naples, Italy. The first of December the family of Mr. Matarese left Westerly for Ischia (Green Island) near Naples and the home of Mr. Matarese's parents, who did not recognize their son, after his absence of 22 years. Since he had left the island Mr. Matarese reports that large tourists' hotels have been built there and from 15,000 to 20,000 Americans are visitors there. He traveled as far north as Rome before returning to America, the family being passengers on the loyd-Sabaud line steamship Conte Rosso, which docked in New York Saturday. Mr. Matarese reports himself and family as pleased to return to this country for in Italy the traveling is done mostly on foot or by carriages as the costs of gas and supplies for automobile trips is so great as to be almost prohibitive.

Dr. Walter Wickes, with his family and servants, from Green Spring Valley, Md., near Baltimore, arrived at the Westerly station Tuesday morning in the Pullman private car "Palm Beach" attached to the Federal express, which special was sidetracked near the southbound waiting shelter. Two years ago the Wickes family occupied the Twin cottage at Watch Hill, and previous to that time stayed at the Ocean House. Last year the family remained near Baltimore, the death of Mr. Wickes' father Judge Wickes, occurring there last November. This year Mr. Wickes has leased the Spencer cottage, the large summer place at the junction of the old Westerly road and the one leading to Bay street.

Attorney Albert L. Saunders of Boston, who is visiting at his home on the Shore road, Winnapaug, near Pleasant View, cut his left hand badly when an axe he was using slipped and inflicted a painful wound. It will be some time before he regains full use of the hand.

NORWICH WIFE BRINGS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, July 29.—Frances Wells LeVaughn of Norwich, through Attorney Clarence E. Roche of Westerly, has brought suit for divorce from John D. LeVaughn of Norwich on statutory grounds. The suit is returnable the first Monday in September to the superior court for New London county. In the suit the plaintiff asks for the custody of the minor child, Ruth Wells LeVaughn.

MYSTIC

The grounds about the Mystic Oral school for the deaf are marked by hustling activity these days, with the work of erecting the new dormitory going on. A considerable amount of equipment for use in the construction of the building has been assembled there, as well as quantities of material of various kinds, and trucks laden with other material are steadily moving up and down the hill, back and forth from the freight station. The work of erection is being carried forward rapidly and each week shows marked progress in the work accomplished. Now that the walls are being raised and the first two stories are up a little idea of the appearance of the building when completed can be gained. In laying the foundation for this building, a considerable amount of solid ledge was encountered and it was necessary to remove a good deal of this before the work of laying the foundation could be done. The buildings faces the south and the view of the village overlooking the Mystic river from this vantage point is wonderful.

Mrs. Florine Larkin and Mrs. Alice Ledwidge of Westerly were guests Tuesday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maebett.

The funeral of Thomas Trevena, who died Saturday night from heart disease following a long period of ill health, was held Tuesday afternoon at his home on Broadway. The funeral, which was private, was conducted by Rev. George L. Earnham, pastor of the Congregational church. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery. Mr. Trevena was born in London, England, but had been a resident of Mystic for about 30 years, and was a stonecutter by trade. He was a kindly man and devoted to his family and he bore his long illness with fortitude. He was a member of Stonington lodge No. 26, I. O. O. F.

Miss Martha Jones and Miss Caroline Nachtive of Harvard Summer School were guests over the week-end of Rev. and Mrs. George P. Jones.

Mrs. James E. F. Brown has been the guest of relatives in Danielson.

Mrs. Moses W. Wilcox was a visitor in Newport Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson, of Norwich, were recent guests of Capt. and Mrs. Jesse Wilcox.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox and daughter, Miss Gladys Wilcox, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilcox and daughter were visitors at Beach Pond the first of the week.

Mrs. Jennie J. Davis has returned from a visit with relatives in Old Mystic.

STONINGTON

Captain Lawrence Clay brought in a giant sunfish Tuesday morning which weighed approximately 500 pounds. A large number flocked to the Clay wharf to view the fish. It measured about three and a half feet in diameter and was a foot in thickness. The fish was cut up and the steaks and oil removed. It is said that the meat of the sunfish is almost identical in taste with lobster meat. Capt. Clay also captured on the same trip a sea turtle which weighed 55 pounds. This will be displayed at one of the local stores.

Henry Burbach will be in the Stonington town court Monday, Aug. 4, to answer a complaint of four counts. Burbach was found operating a whiskey still last Saturday at his home, Cedar Lodge, on the Westerly road. The raid was made by three officers from Groton. Burbach is out under a $2,000 bond.

The Atwood Machine company received a carload of 100 barrels Tuesday morning. They were stored in the Sailoff building where they will be used from time to time in shipping repair work and small parts for the Atwood silk machinery.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Featuring such sterling screen stars as Matt Moore, Madge Bellamy and Kathleen Clifford, as well as Clarence Burton, H. Reeves-Smith and others, the Elmer Harris photoplay, No More Women! an Associated Authors production, comes about as near being entitled to the "all-star cast" brand as any film feature among current releases.

No More Women, as the title suggests, is a comedy drama, made from an original Elmer Harris story, and is the third feature made by Associated Authors, Inc., for Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation. It is announced as the feature attraction today and Thursday at the Breed theatre.

Matt Moore, whose splendid characterizations in recent screen successes have made him increasingly popular among motion picture enthusiasts, was selected by Mr. Harris and his casting director as just the right man to play the role of the wealthy young bachelor who, having been jilted by the girl of his heart, vows never again to trust any woman in any way.

Madge Bellamy, petite and saucy was the first selection in this exceptional cast, and will be seen as the wealthy grand-daughter of an ultra-wealthy oil operator, who gets a place as waitress in a restaurant when she becomes bored by social life. It is there she meets Moore, as Peter Maddox, and sets her cap for him. Miss Bellamy fills to perfection the role of Peggy Van Dyke, and her endeavors to capture the elusive and wary woman-hater, form the highlights in a picture that fairly scintillates with sparkling comedy, thrilling thrills and suspense.

A Sunshine comedy titled When Wise Ducks Meet, is a duck circus in a duck town with the best trained ducks in the world and the latest news complete this programme.

PALACE THEATRE

Last times today Broadway After Dard with a stellar cast including Adolphe Menjou, Anna Q. Nilsson, Carmel Myers, Norma Shearer, and Edward Burns. A midnight drama of the lights and shadows of the world's playground. Added attractions Our Gangs latest comedy riot One Terrible Day, don't miss it; it's great. Pathe news and Palace orchestra.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the famous black derby of Charlie Chaplin has a big brother.

It's the brown derby worn by "Chuck" Riesner, and it has appeared in every Chaplin picture since A Dog's Life.

Other members of a Self-Made Failure cast are: Lloyd Hamilton, Ben Alexander, Patsy Ruth Miller, Matt Moore, Sam De Grasse, Mary Carr, Victor Potel, Dan Mason, Alta Allen, Harry Todd, Joe McCray and Cameo, the bull terrier with the human brain.

Special added attraction—Making Moving Pictures on the Stage. A delightful comedy drama will be filmed with a cast of players composed entirely of local men and women. Stage will be turned into a studio, one complete scene will be filmed at every performance. Actual movie scenes made in full view of the audience, pictures taken this week will be shown here next week Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

BROADWAY THEATRE

A real mid-summer festival of joy has been arranged by the management for the last half of the week.

Five big time B. F. Keith vaudeville acts are scheduled in addition to a great picture.

Remember the story by Gene Stratton-Porter, A Girl of the Limberlost. The story of a girl of the Michigan woods, a buoyant, lovable type of self-reliant American.

An average of 1,645 copies of her books have been sold every day for more than eighteen years. A Girl of the Limberlost, the screen version of which has recently been completed under the supervision of Mrs. Porter, passed the million and a half sales record more than a year ago. The picture is the attraction at the Broadway theatre starting Thursday.

LYCEUM THEATRE NEW LONDON

"Much consternation," says Helen Bolton, dazzling blonde comedienne of Poppy, which comes to the Lyceum theater in New London with W. C. Fields 1st and 2nd of August after a years run on Broadway, "is occasioned every now and then by some prominent man, or millionaire, or rising young hopeful of a doting family, marrying an actress. And therein I say the man in the case shows sound judgment.

"Just the many little personal experiences, the ups and downs, the struggles, the making the best of things that all contribute to the making of a good wife, are absolutely part of the everyday life of actresses.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Of special interest is the address to be delivered at the Congregational church Thursday evening by Rev. H. H. Proctor, D. D., of Brooklyn, N. Y., on the subject The Meaning of the Negro Migration. Dr. Proctor is one of the foremost colored preachers and lecturers in the United States.

Attroney Louis A. Woisard, personal tax collector for the town of Killingly, let it be known Tuesday that the notices sent out recently to delinquents are not merely a matter of form. Those overdue personal taxpayers who fail to pay attention may soon expect a summons to court. Collector Woisard is out to get the money he is pledged to collect.

Since Sunday the morbidly curious have been going in droves to the vicinity of the Edwin T. White farm to view the ground where the shootings of Sunday took place, followed by the shooting of Benjamin White, his brother's slayer, on Monday. Aside from natural scenery, there is little to see.

The condition of the slate roof on the town hall building is such that it is likely it will have to be replaced. Through years of exposure the slate is crumbling and sheets of it are apt to slide out at any time and come crashing down. Temporary repairs that have been attempted have not served to more than check the deterioration in spots. The roof is leaky and in such condition at present that reslating is getting serious consideration. On a property for which the town paid only $20,000, and is worth a great deal more than that, the investment for repairs is regarded as well worth while.

Of the five houses in Danielson on which a quarantine continues to be maintained, releases will be made on three houses during the present week. These releases may be regarded as marking the end of an unpleasant episode in Danielson's current history. It is now indicated that all quarantines will have been raised within a few days. As no new cases have developed in the past 17 days, Danielson appears to be on the verge of again boasting a clean bill of health.

Not a few in this territory voiced Tuesday an expression of opinion that Ben White, creator of the week's tragic sensation, might have been taken alive, and deplore the fact that he was shot to death by members of a posse. A small group have taken the attitude that Ben White didn't get a square deal.

It is not a pleasant thing to consider the killing of a man as Ben White was killed, but it is well to consider all of the facts before criticising too harshly how he was brought to his end.

Ben White was a cold-blooded murderre. He had killed his brother. He had attempted to kill his nephew. He had shot the intended husband of his niece with intent to kill. He had escaped—a mad murderer with a shotgun, in the use of which he was expert, and with a supply of ammunition sufficient to kill a number of other persons.

In considering his case, it is well not to overlook the fact that during the nearly 20 hours that he was an armed fugitive hundreds of the people for miles around shuddered over the prospect of a visitation from him. Indicating the apprehension as to what he might do next, police and newspapers were showered with telephone calls and other inquiries as to whether he had been captured. Many a firearm was brought out and left handy against the possibility of his calling at some home, for one purpose or another, possibly for food or shelter, or both, and not hesitatnig to kill, as he had killed before, and without cause, to enforce his demand. That was the type of man that was hunted to his death Monday morning.

And facing certain capture and the prospect of being required to answer for his crimes, he did not hesitate to shoot at the first man that came within range of his gun. He opened the gun battle that ended in his death, nor hesitated an instant about trying to kill his pursuers. Insane though he undoubtedly was, he was as desperate and dangerous a character as has been sought in this county in a generation.

All talk about arguing White into surrender or outwitting him in territory that he knew better than any one of his pursuers is not within speaking range of facts. He didn't wait to talk with any one. He started shooting—shooting with intent to kill.

Ben White, half-wit that he might have been, was more dangerous with a gun in his hands Monday morning than a jail full of ordinary criminals. He was not killed for pleasure nor for spectacular effect. With the posse it was a case of kill or be killed, there need be no delusions about that.

It was too bad, but the man had developed into a rampant killer and what was meted out to him was only what he had so mercilessly dealt out to wholly innocent and peaceful persons. As he turned to face the posse he was not the type that can be caught with a sheet of flypaper, nor batted over with a tennis racquet. He was a wild-eyed murderer, still lustful for the blood of anyone who sought to interfere with him. The men who faced him in his final hour were dealing with realities, not theories.

BEN WHITE, MURDERER, BURIED TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Danielson, July 29.—Unmourned by kith or kin, alone excepting for the clergyman who had conducted a brief funeral service at the cemetery, and the members of the undertaker's party, the body of Benjamin T. White was lowered into a grave in the White family plot in what is known as the Sabin cemetery at Pomfret Tuesday afternoon. Rev. J. A. Barker of Pomfret conducted the funeral services over the body of the unfortunate bid man. There was a peculiar solemnity about the service, something, too, that would cause one to pause and ponder over life and all that it may hold for one.

The brief service was hardly over when two women, unknown to the little party that stood about the new grave, came to attend the service that had been finished. They had been informed that the hour would be later. Sleeping his last sleep in the quiet churchyard where his ancestors lie at rest, none would deny Ben White, in spite of his crime of Sunday and his own terrible end, that eternal peace which the mentally tortured and weary must deserve in death.

The funeral was held at the undertaking rooms here of L. E. Kennedy, where the body was brought Monday.

PUTNAM

A peculiar angle of the situation that has developed over the closing of Roseland lake, Woodstock, to bathers, is the seeming lack of interest that the citizens of Putnam are taking in the controversy between the state health commissioner and the trustees of Roseland park. It has been an open secret that since the notice to stop bathing in Putnam's source of water supply was given, bathing has continued about as before. As far as any comment or discussion of the matter is concerned in this city the notice forbidding bathing held little interest. The arrests of the three members of Camp Utopia for disobeying the health commissioner's order also caused scarcely a word of comment, and the discharge of the accused in a justice court, on Monday morning, has also met with scarcely a murmur from citizens of Putnam.

It would seem that this lack of interest in the controversy can be due to nothing except than that the majority of the public, whether with or without reason is not alarmed because Roseland lake is used for public bathing. If such an alarm was felt there surely would be an uprising in Putnam and an effort made to see that the law was enforced and the health commissioner's orders enforced, if it was possible to enforce them.

The order was given in May. Since that time there have been two meetings of the common council and no mention has been made of the action of the health commissioner. The water commissioners of the city of Putnam have said nothing. This surely evidences that the city is taking little interest in the matter.

Yet Putnam people are the ones who are drinking the water from Roseland lake. Many, however, consider that in the water's flow from the lake to the pumping station at Harrisville it purges itself and, being filtered before being taken into the pipe for distribution, the water comes to the consumer pure. Tests have shown that it is pure.

Whether any complaints were sent from Putnam by consumers of the city water to the commissioner is not known. The first the public knew of the order forbidding bathing was when the notices were posted. Certainly Putnam people are not criticising the commissioner for safeguarding their health. At present the matter is dormant. Until some further action is taken, the legal status of the case is an unknown quantity. Meantime there is no uneasiness or alarm in Putnam, so far as appears on the surface, that the water served from Roseland lake is in any way harmful.

In the eighteenth series of shares in the Putnam Building & Loan Association, 93 shares have been subscribed for. While this is a small number even for the mid-summer issue, when local business conditions are considered it is really doing well. There are applications on hand for a total of $50,000. There is over $200,000 out on mortgage. Most of this is loaned to people building or buying their own homes and the $30,000 applied for is for the same purposes. The association has had a healthy growth since organized, nine years ago, and is a benefit to the community, both a means of systematic saving and as an avenue by which the thrifty may buy a home at as little monthly expenditure as is required to pay rent.

Due to someone carelessly throwing a lighted match, cigar or cigarette stub into a box containing sawdust in the rear of the C. A. C. building on Providence street, late Monday night, there came near being a serious fire. The building is one of many large wooden structures in the vicinity and the situation was set for a big fire. A woman saw the blaze just as it was getting under headway. She notified some men and they put the fire out. There is a pipe from a refrigerating plant in a nearby meat market that passed through the back of the building. The pipe is packed in sawdust and it was into this casing that the lighted match, or stub, was thrown.

Frederick Dumas, superintendent of streets, and his men are resetting about 200 feet of curbing on Main street, on two sides of the block occupied by Bugbee & Wulf. The curbing is being raised to grade established by City Engineer George W. Perry, after which a new cement sidewalk is to be laid. This will add to the appearance of this busiest corner in the business section.

Dr. Harry Foster of New York began his clinics at the Day Kimball hospital, Tuesday. Dr. Foster is a former Putnam boy and is spending his summer vacation near his birthplace on Putnam Heights. The clinics will last several days during which 75 cases of adenoids and tonsils will be operated on, most of the patients being young people. Dr. Foster has given of his time and talents every summer for a number of years while in Putnam and his generosity is annually taken advantage of by parents of children needing attention.

Putnam and vicinity is the driest in years. This is not a reference to the liquor situation, although it may be true there, also, but to the lack of rain for the past eight weeks. The situation is beginning to alarm farmers, as potato vines, berry bushes, tomato and other vegetable plants are beginning to wither. Unless relief comes soon there will be a scarcity of vegetables. Some of the wells and springs are getting low but none, as far as known, have become absolutely dry yet. While within a few miles of Putnam there have been a few light showers, in this city hardly a drop of rain has fallen in nearly two months.

From appearances as one drives through the countryside there is to be a big crop of apples, pears and peaches in this corner of Windham county. The apple trees especially are hanging heavy with green fruit.

Friends from Putnam and Eastford, including many young people, gathered at the Eastford Congregational church, Tuesday afternoon, for the funeral of Herbert D. Keith, 17, son of Mr and Mrs. Edward S. Keith of Putnam, senior in the Putnam high school, who died Saturday from heart trouble. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. T. Trowbridge, a former pastor of the church. Burial was in Eastford cemetery. There were beautiful floral tributes.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. C. Warner and little son of New York are guests of Judge and Mrs. E. M. Warner, South Main street, parents of Mr. Warner, also visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Andem, of Grove street, parents of Mrs. Warner. They expect to leave Friday for a short stay in New Hampshire.

An automobile truck owned by Jose M. Gomes, of Railroad street, is under repairs in Southbridge. The bill for fixing the truck will be paid by Emanuel Lauzier. The cars of the two men were in collision Sunday night between Quinebaug and Dudley. A Dudley police officer advised the Southbridge man to pay for the damage to the Putnam man's truck and this was agreed to.

According to the Southbridge driver another car had just passed him and then slowed down, causing him to pull into the middle of the road to avoid a collision. Just then the Putnam car came along and the collision occurred.

The Putnam man's version was that the Southbridge driver was attempting to pass the car ahead of him. This was corroborated by others. However, the matter was satisfactorily adjusted after both cars had been taken to a Southbridge garage.

George A. Hammond, pioneer silk manufacturer of eastern Connecticut, is still confined to his room by illness, at his home on Oak Hill.

The railroad bridge over the tracks of the New Haven railroad on Providence street is badly in need of repair. The matter was brought up at a recent meeting of the common council but it was not deemed the business of the city to make the needed repairs.

Ruth Hammond, who was the guest of relatives here last week returned to her home in Wickford Saturday and was accompanied by her cousins, Lucie and Julia Irish for a visit.

Lawrence Burdick of Boston is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Elmer E. Kenyon.

Mrs. Emory C. Kenyon and son, Leslie Kenyon, called on relatives at Woody Hill, Sunday.

Kind words never die—and the other kind live forever.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Over the Bubbling Brook

Mr. Merry Sun on high
Was shining from the Big Blue sky.
Billy Breeze with whistle keen
Was romping over the meadow green.
As Little Jack Rabbit hopped along,
With happy whistle and a song.

Oh, yes, Little Jack Rabbit was very contented this particular morning. He had polished the doorknob, fed the canary and brought in the kindling wood for Lady Love, his pretty bunny mother. Now he was on his way to the Shady Forest. I don't know what he was after. Perhaps he didn't. But who cares when one is young and only half life's song is sung? All he had to worry about was whether Danny Fox or other enemies were near. His keen little pink nose told him that there was no danger in the wind, so on he hopped, until, by and by, after a while, he came to the bridge that spanned the Bubbling Brook. Just as he was about to hop across a voice shouted:

"Where are you going, my dear little boy.

You and your knapsack and red candy toy.
For the dear little rabbit was swinging his cane—
His striped candy cane, as hopped up the lane
Thru the cool Shady Forest, clipperty clop.
Lipperty, lipperty, lipperty lop."

"Who are you? asked the bunny boy, stopping to peer here and there and everywhere. But he saw no one, only a little ant crawling up a tree.

"Ha, ha," cried the voice, and the next minute out of a hollow apace popped Chatterbox, the Red Squirrel.

"Goodness me," exclaimed the bunny boy, "what do you want? I thought it was someone else."

"Did you?" answered the mischievous little squirrel. "I just couldn't help but shout to you. You were hopping along so fast I was almost afraid you might stub your toe."

"Botheration!" answered the bunny boy. "Don't keep me any longer. I'm on an errand."

"What is it?" asked the inquisitive little animal, but the little bunny boy was now already hopping over the big long log that served for a bridge across the Bubbling Brook.

In a short time he came to Bunnybridge, the little town you remember dear boys and girls, that lies on the opposite bank of the little stream that runs through the Shady Forest and into the Sunny Meadow.

As soon as the little rabbit set foot on land, he hitched up his knapsack and set off faster, faster than ever for he had to make up for lost time you see? One can't be halted on one's way and arrive on time unless one makes up for delay. No sireebus. So away hopped the little bunny into tomorrow's story as fast as he could go. And if Father brings home the paper, you shall hear what he did after that.

SUPERPOWER.

In line with the proposition that is before Norwich for economy in securing its supply of electrical power is the report of the Northeastern Superpower committee, of which Secretary Hoover is chairman, which sets the stamp of federal approval on the project vastly to increase economic efficiency by linking together steam and hydro-electric power plants and providing for the exchange of electrical energy between them to meet varying needs. If its ideas are carried out, the Hoover committee report promises the possibility of saving annually in eleven northeastern states 50,000,000 tons of coal, which follows similar conclusions reached by earlier studies of the question.

The Hoover committee report holds special interest for New England, dealing at once with the needs of this part of the country and pointing out certain advantages which this region possesses in connection with the location of the great steam plants of the future. These mammoth plants will require an immense amount of water for condensation so that, it is claimed, such plants must be located on the Great Lakes, the Ohio and Susquehanna rivers and their tributaries and upon the seaboard. Locations upon or near the Atlantic seaboard possess the not inconsiderable advantage that fuel may be brought to them by water, the cheapest method of transportation, and the fact that most of the manufacturing of New England is done within fifty miles of the seacoast thus assumes a new importance. Both the Hoover committee report and a report made some time ago by the power committee of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts concur in stating that recognition of the value of hydro-electric power does not mean that there will be less dependence on power generated by the burning of coal. The increasing demands of industry will mean more of such dependence rather than less.

The experts who have prepared both reports agree in predicting the coming of a new era in the generation of electrical power for industry and transportation. This will be with the gradual extension of existing facilities and especially with the provision of great power plants, which will take the place of smaller and obsolete plants, and which will mean, in increasing measure, the distribution of power by public utilities, with accompanying diminution of power produced by industries and municipalities for their own use. Efficiency and economy through conservation is what is offered by the Hoover report and through the proposition now before Norwich.

ON THE COURT'S MERCY.

To plead guilty, as Loeb and Leopold have done in Chicago on the advice of distinguished counsel, to an indictment charging first degree murder puts the defendants in close proximity to the electric chair or the hangman's noose, and a life sentence is the least that can be expected. In such cases the court hears testimony merely to determine, in ordinary cases, whether conditions call for the mercy of the court in imposing a life sentence, or if the death penalty is merited by the testimony. It is a heavy responsibility to put on the shoulders of one man, no matter if he be the most courageous and determined judge in the land. Yet to count upon the reluctance of the judge in bearing the full responsibility of deciding upon and pronouncing the sentence would be hazardous, as has been shown in many courts in recent years when judges have determined the defendant sane, the murder deliberate and malignant, and have pronounced the death penalty. Courts have not been weak under the test, unusual and unwelcome as it may be.

It is customary in such cases when a plea of guilty is made to follow it with a statement that the defendant throws himself upon the mercy of the court. This might be an artful plea where there is a weak judge, one lacking in courage, and an ingenious plea of mental irresponsibility is presented. But in the Chicago case, Judge Caverly is not regarded as lacking in courage. The rights of the public are large and important and it is considered that they will be safe in his hands, while justice will be done to the two men before him. Against the fog of speculative and scientific theories which will doubtless be introduced to draw a fine distinction between insanity and mental irresponsibility, the court will be expected to apply the lessons of human experience, understanding and common sense, which will clarify the case and prevent the mercy of the court from being extended to the sacrifice of public interests.

The democratic battle-royal in the New York convention has been succeeded by a comparative calm that is merely a preliminary to the coming campaign fight.

PROGRESSIVE ACTIONS.

Some good to the farmer and the ultimate consumer is promised by three things that have been done by the national administration within the last few weeks. Suit under the anti-trust law has been instituted by Attorney General Stone against the great oil companies by which he hopes to break up the monopoly which prevents free competition in the great oil industry. Since the suit was started, there has been a reduction in the retail price of gasoline, amounting in some localities to five cents, and representing a huge saving to the public. Whether this is a result of the suit or not, it is at least an interesting coincidence that it should have happened just at this time.

The federal trade commission has ordered the United States Steel corporation to discontinue selling its products on the Pittsburgh-plus plan, which added freight costs from Pittsburgh to all steel products, although they might be manufactured only ten miles from the place where they were to be used.

And of further special interest and expected benefit to farmers the government has instituted another suit, under the anti-trust law, to dissolve the Sisal Sales corporation, the so-called binder twine trust. Through unlawful restraint of trade this corporation is charged with having fixed prices on binder to the users of the twins, who are particularly the farmers of the west.

In these three actions there is more hope for the consumer, be he farmer or otherwise classified, than in all the visionary paternalistic schemes of those who would relieve the distressed by bureaus and appropriations. These actions are truly progressive, because progressivism is to break down special privilege wherever it exists, to govern lightly without fear or favor, and to give every individual citizen a fair chance and no more.

HYLAN IN THE RING.

With a modesty that is scarcely Hylanesque, the mayor of New York lets it be known from his vacation jaunt in California with Hearst that he might give consideration to the governorship if there were sufficient popular demand for his candidacy. This is a bombshell in the democratic camp.

The dilemma that would confront the New York democracy through Hylan's candidacy would be a most unwelcome one in the midst of a presidential campaign. Leaders of the Smith wing would be compelled to choose between allowing him to take the nomination and fighting to keep it out of his hands, for to allow him to be nominated would be surrendering to the republicans without firing a shot. Four years ago Smith, for governor, ran a million votes ahead of Cox and Roosevelt, but he did not run far enough ahead to defeat the republican nominee for governor. Can Hylan do in 1924 what Smith could not do in 1920? The question means sleepless nights for Tammany democrats.

Surrender or war that would split the democracy of New York city in twain is what Hylan offers to his party. And the battle would not be a one-sided struggle by any means. Hylan could count upon support in his home borough of Brooklyn and in Richmond and Queens. Tammany is entrenched in Manhattan and the Bronx. But for Tammany such a struggle would presage the death of its dearest ambition, and a fall from its high estate where it even dictates appointments from the executive chamber at Albany and aspired to name a presidential candidate.

No more frightful nightmare could arise to disturb the Tiger's rest. It is serious enough to see its hold on Albany threatened by republicans, but to see defeat not only made inevitable but turned into a rout by the candidacy of the man to whom it has twice presented its most precious plum is the climax of ingratitude.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Health and happiness are summer's gift to mankind.

Why deplore high taxes when we shut our eyes to ways of lowering them?

New York has a taxicab war on prices. But the public isn't getting something for nothing.

The number continues to increase of those who will never more try to cross in front of a locomotive.

Germany has been responsible for too much in Europe already without blocking the agreement on the Dawes plan.

Will those who want to say something about the cold July please stand up? That makes it unanimous.

If wheat and hog prices hold up President Coolidge's acceptance can be as short as "All right, gentlemen, let's go."

Watermelons are a glut on the market in the south. That condition will never be allowed to extend to the consumer.

Canada wants men not afraid to work and women not afraid of loneliness to take up her immense unoccupied tracts.

With Russia offering divorces at $1.50 apiece and not over three a year it is to be hoped that Reno doesn't endeavor to compete.

The volcanic upheaval in Hawaii is probably a Japanese anti-American mass meeting coming up for air on its way to California.

The man on the corner says: The farmers who sold their grain or were too discouraged to raise it are still claimants for sympathy.

In 1492 Columbus was discovering America. In 1924 the American flyers are circling the world. The same figures, but what a difference.

A traveler reports that there is not a billboard in Java, giving the world the first information that the place is devoid of this scenic adornment.

Russia should become popular with the impermanent couples of moviedom. Divorces can be secured in five minutes at the bargain rate of $1.50.

TIDING OVER

The idea struck Lizzie May the instant the big policeman swung through the entrance to the suburban waiting room at the depot and glanced toward the spot of disturbance. Not that the scene Carl was making was sufficient to attract the attention of people standing near them, but it re-echoed so stormily within herself that she felt the whole world must be standing aghast.

Lizzie May had been married nearly a year. After that first time when he had verbally attacked her for flirting with a man whom she had not even looked at his spells had grown in frequency and violence, until life had become a state of anticipatory terror to Lizzie May. The deep hurt underneath was the knowledge that they could be so happy if only Carl would rid himself of his unhappy trait. Argument, tears, explanations, pleadings, all had failed.

Something in Lizzie May's attitude spelled trouble to the man in blue and skillfully he worked his way through the throngs to her side. He spoke quietly. "This man annoying you?"

A deep sigh released the tension about Lizzie May's chest. She glanced almost gratefully up at the big police officer, because he so plainly had shown her the way. "Yes," she breathed. "He — he's annoying me very much!"

"I thought so!" growled the man of the law, glaring at Carl who stood aghast, struck fairly dumb, bewildered. Lizzie May really was a very pretty girl and her eyes reminded the officer of violets he had picked as a boy, after a rain. "You come along with me!"

"Wh—why!" Carl protested breathlessly. "You don't understand—why, I'm—I'm her husband!"

"Are you now!" said the policeman. He moved between Carl and Lizzie May and looked down at her reassuringly. Lizzie May looked straight into her husbands bewildered eyes. "I never saw this man before in my life," she asserted without a flicker of an eyelash, a delicate curl of scorn lifting one corner of her lip.

As she hurried away to her train she had not one twinge of conscience. She felt that it was true indeed that she had never known the tall young chap who had been saying those unforgettable things to her just a moment ago. If he was to wreck their happiness, be it on his own head.

Lizzie May lay down that night and slept the sleep of total exhaustion, never once disturbed by the thought of Carl's situation.

Before she quite wakened the next morning she was amazed to see Carl, haggard, miserable, and there were vertical black lines between him and herself. As she became quite conscious, she saw that the lines were bars.

With a little cry, Lizzy May sprang to her feet and feverishly threw on her garments, her heart thumping. She sat down to twist up her hair and began to think coherently, dropping her hands into her lap. Whichever way her thoughts led her she always ended with that sight of Carl.

Fight as she might, a trickle of compassion stole into her tightly-locked heart, grew stronger, flooded the empty place. Somehow it was not her emotion at all—it was the emotion of motherly, pitying, understanding her wayward child. It upset all of Lizzie May's stern, sensible plans.

She hurried to the train, she hurried to the place where she had learned they had taken Carl. She poured out her story to the grim man at the desk. A twinkle lit his keen eye, but he discreetly dropped his gaze and she never knew. She hurried behind the turnkey, who leisurely led the way to the particular cell where sat Carl, still bewildered and a great deal shaken. He had not slept that night long, not he!

"Lizzie, Lizzie May!" Carl half sobbed into her haircrown as their arms went around each other. "I don't blame you! You did right; I oughta stay here forever! Oh, Lizzie!"

"Hush!" Lizzie May told him, smiling through her tears, "it was dreadful of me! I must have been out of my head! If you can forgive me!"

"I'm never, never going to be that way again, I swear!" Carl vowed.

For an instant Lizzie May looked at him and choked down a little quick sigh. She patted his shoulder. "Yes, yes, I know!" she crooned and slammed the door on her quick flash of intuition. At any rate Lizzie May told herself with that odd motherly touch which had come to her, she had the present blissful moment to enjoy—and mortal woman must not ask too much!

"And now he says we can go home, Carl," she said, cheerfully.—Exchange.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What is a Progressive.

Mr. Editor: Perhaps some of you live ones can tell me what they mean by "Progressive."

I wonder if a man like, say for instance, Jodoin, of Baltic, who voted 103 times against Mr. McAdoo, the only genuine progressive candidate in the late democratic convention, really means it when he says "this district should send a progressive to congress." This district evidently will, and 'twill be Dick Freeman of New London unless all signs fail, and unless the democrats dump overboard such back to the 17th century candidates as this same progressive, Jodoin, and nominate a live man, say for instance, Doctor F. P. Downing, of Moosup. It is surely amusing to hear a man or body of men who went to New York and voted a hundred or so times for a man who the New York World said the day after Davis was nominated "had done big work in defeating McAdoo," and also every man and woman in America knows was not even a prospective candidate; further than that who were elected as delegates because they hinted, if not openly promised, that they would vote for McAdoo, shout about being progressive. To be progressive the first move is to quit the democratic party. A progressive democrat is impossible. The democratic party is a constitutional party, always has been, always will be and brags about it. How can the constitution progress? Even an amendment to the constitution is received with a cold blanket over it and in Connecticut most of the amendments have not been even ratified. Get busy and tell a fellow what "progressive" means.

I don't ask Mr. Jodoin or any man who joined the House of Morgan in defeating McAdoo to tell me for I don't believe they could if they would and would if they could. How does Calvin Coolidge stack up when it comes to being progressive? What?

O'Neill Could not Settle Down

Being suspended from college and without any aim or desire in life except to have a "good time," Eugene O'Neill was slated by his friends to be a sure-fire failure.

James O'Neill, famous portrayer of Monte Cristo, was his father and the boy travelled with his parents until he was seven years old. At seven he was placed in a convent school, then went to a preparatory school and at 18 entered Princeton. Within a year he got into an escapade and was suspended.

Being secretary of a mail-order business, in which his father was interested, was too tame, and he went to Honduras, fell sick and was sent home. His father made him assistant treasurer of his dramatic company, and he lasted six months.

Shanghaied, he was a common sailor for 65 days until he reached Buenos Ayres. There he worked for representatives of American concerns a short time, shipped to Portuguese South Africa, then to New York, where he hung around Jimmy the Priest's, a waterfront dive until he shipped as sailor on the American Liner New York to Southampton. Working his way back he again went with his father, playing a small part in a vaudeville version of Monte Cristo.

Next he was reporter for a New London, Conn., newspaper. The doctors said he had tuberculosis, and sent him to a sanatorium, and for six months he had to live according to rules. While there he wrote poems, and decided to settle down and be a writer. While recuperating he wrote some one-act plays. Then, at 25, he entered Harvard to study play-writing.

Writing longer plays, he mailed two to a New York manager. They came back two years later, unread. He sent two others to another manager, the producer failed and the manuscripts came back, also unread.

A magazine published three of his short plays and Provincetown Players, at Provincetown, Mass., tried out some of them. He wrote Beyond the Horizon in 1919 and it won the Pulitzer prize. Next came Emperor Jones and Anna Christie and others followed.

Tomorrow—Gompers, The Boy Cigarmaker.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Oswald Garrison Villard, who heads the New York committee of 100 formed to support the candidacy of Senator La Follette, has long been prominent as a publicist and as editor and publisher of well-known newspapers and reviews in New York. He is a son of the late Henry Villard, noted as a financier and journalist, and a grandson of William Lloyd Garrison, the renowned abolitionist and non-resistant. Weisbaden, Germany, was Mr. Villard's birthplace, and from Harvard University he received both his bachelor's and his master's degree, his speciality while in the university being modern history. Having chosen journalism as a profession, he went to Philadelphia to serve his time as a reporter and to get an inside view of the practical side of newspaper making. In course of time he came into editorial control of the New York Evening Post and of The Nation. His chief work as an author is a life of John Brown, written 50 years after the close of that radical's career.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

SCIENTIFIC VALUE OF POLAR FLIGHT

"A vast amount of scientific information, much of it potentially practicable to navigators, farmers and fishermen, will accrue from a well-equipped expedition to survey the Arctic Regions."

This statement is made in a bulletin from the National Geographic Society which will cooperate in the proposed Polar survey by the U. S. Navy which has been ordered by Secretary of Navy Denby, with authority of President Coolidge.

"The world's largest unexplored area lies at the threshold of American territory—between Point Barrow, Alaska, and the north pole," the bulletin continues. "As the crow—or airplane—flies it is 1287 miles from Point Barrow to the pole and the flight path cuts the center of this vast region, three times the size of Texas. Literally nothing is known by direct observation of this expanse—not even whether it is land, or water, or both.

"Notes of navigators along its edges indicate that land exists there. Movements and age of the ice, tides and wave measurements point to that conclusion. Should land exist the vegetation will be worthy of study; it is entirely possible the islands some day may have an economic value, and planting the American flag there may be accounted an act of foresight by future generations as it will be acclaimed a patriotic feat by living Americans.

"Animal life abounds in the Arctic, fish are plentiful, and as a multiplying population turns more and more to the sea for its food the submarine life of the Polar Regions assumes ever increasing importance. Oceanic mammals, especially whales and seals, emerge into reach of mankind's habitations upon the Arctic's outskirts. The world's richest fisheries are located principally at places where Arctic ocean waters meet the warmer waters of southern seas—notably off Norway, Newfoundland, and Iceland.

"Grasses, plants and flowers that grow thousands of fathoms beneath the ice may be plucked from their hiding places for scientific study.

"Should aircraft be used to make a reconnaissance flight over the 1287-mile course between Point Barrow and the pole the flight will be another memorable exhibition of the Navy's initiative and daring, but it will be far from the rash adventure the layman might at first imagine.

"Indeed, the flyers would have some marked advantages over a similar distance across Atlantic ocean waters. The continuous daylight of a polar summer eliminates the handicap that darkness entails in the event of mechanical troubles. In an uncharted region the 24-hour day is especially helpful.

"Flyers would encounter leads of waters, short distances apart, in much of the unknown zone. These would permit planes to alight, and would allow the use of convoy planes to bring supplies, relief, and additional personnel. The ice floes are virtually safety rafts for the flyers. In trouble, a plane alighting in the water always would be in easy reach of ice or, if under sufficient control to land on the ice it could there make repairs or radio for relief.

"Another important advantage the Arctic holds is the eternal calm of the waters. No high seas are ever encountered among the leads as frequently is the case in the Atlantic.

"Comfortable flying temperatures are practically certain in an Arctic summer. The Weather Bureau has recorded 100 degrees at Fort Yukon, Alaska. In this respect the use of aircraft gives the polar explorer a new-found advantage over the pioneers who had to brave the extreme cold of winter to gain the benefit of unbroken ice.

"This fact gives rise to a noteworthy fact about the proposed expedition—it will be the first summer expedition in the polar field except the Nansen drift in the 'Fram.'

Summer weather in the Arctic is much warmer than around the South pole, which is located on a plateau, two miles high.

"Practically all the detailed information now available about Arctic temperatures is derived from the log of the 'Fram,' which drifted on the Siberian side of the pole. It is possible that observations made in the unexplored regions on the Alaskan and Canadian side will have high value in the predictions of our own Weather Bureau.

"It is even more certain that our knowledge of ocean currents will be greatly expanded by a study of the movements of Arctic waters. The rapid multiplying of ocean lanes lends growing importance to the almost infant ocean current science, to which a notable addition was made by the late Rear Admiral John Elliot Pillsbury, a former president of the National Geographic Society, in his painstaking observations of the Gulf Stream. The great polar area is the one remaining 'blind spot' of the great rivers of the sea which are so important to the navigator.

"Magnetic observations open another alluring field for scientists who will accompany the expedition."

Joseph August, seven years old, was seriously injured Monday evening when he was caught between the second and third floors of an elevator at the Central Brass company.

Don't Wear Yourself Out

Why let your daily cleaning tire you out when the Vacuette makes it a simple and easy? The Vacuette is non-electric. That means no trailing, dangling cords—no connections to make you stoop—no heavy motor to push around.

It's light, easily handled and wonderfully quick. Yet it cleans perfectly—with full vacuum suction combined with a fast-revolving bristle brush. And its cost is much less than you'd expect. Easy terms, too.

See the Vacuette at work on your own rugs and carpets—see how it would speed up your work—how spick and span it would make your floors. Our representative in your neighborhood will call at your home any time you say.

POETRY

THE WHITE BIRDS.

I would that we were, my beloved, white birds on the foam of the sea;
We tire of the flame of the meteor before it can pass by and flee;
And the flame of the blue star of twilight hung low on the rim of the sky,
Has awakened in our hearts, my beloved, a sadness that never may die.

A weariness comes from those dreamers, dew-dabbled, the lily and rose,
Ah, dream not of them, my beloved, the flame of the meteor that goes,
Or the flame of the blue star lingers hung low in the fall of the dew;
For I would we were changed to white birds on the white foam—I and you.

I am haunted by numberless islands, and many a Danaan shore,
Where Time would surely forget us, and sorrow come near us no more;
Soon far from the rose and the lily, the fret of the flames, would we be,
Were we only white birds, my beloved, buoyed out on the foam of the sea.
—William Butler Yeats.

THE ROAD FROM TOWN.

I know a road that leads from the town,
A pale road in a Watteau gown,
Of wild-rose sprays, that runs away
All fragrant-sandaled, slim and gray.

It slips along the laurel grove
And down the hill, intent to rove,
And crooks an arm of shadow cool,
Around a willow-silvered pool.

I never travel very far
Beyond the pool where willows are;
There is a sly and native grace
That hovers all about the place.

And resting where I hardly know
Just where it was I meant to go,
Contented like the road that dozes
In panniered gown of briar roses.

With the completion of the Sukkur barrage and Sutlej canal, however, practically 3,000,000 acres, especially adapted to wheat and cotton, will be added to the crop acreage of the state, which bids fair to become one of the richest in that region. It is estimated that the present population of 750,000 will be increased by 500,000 colonists from other parts of India.

I SPENT
Fortunes to Win Beauty

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. From my earliest years she urged me to enhance my beauty. She gave me her methods and formulas. Then she took me in a world-search for the newer beauty helps.

Most people know the results. I became a famous beauty, and for many years I remained the rage. And now, after 40 years in the limelight, I still play a beauty's part. I still look a girl of 19.

Edna Wallace Hopper
Photo 1923

Since then I have made many trips to France. I have consulted noted experts and famous beauties everywhere. I have spent fortunes to find all the latest discoveries. So I believe that I now have the greatest beauty helps in existence. And certainly my results seem to prove that.

I have been induced to place these helps at every woman's call. Druggists and toilet counters everywhere supply them—the very helps I use. Thus every woman may obtain for a trifle the helps that cost me fortunes.

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. Lucie Lantelme, the famous Parisian beauty, first told me what it did. Now leading beauty experts the world over are advising this great formula.

It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the grime, dead skin and clogging matter come out with it. A woman never knows what a clean skin means until she tries this Facial Youth.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth sells everywhere for 75 cents. Beauty experts charge up to $5 for the same effects.

I shall be glad to send you a small bottle free if you mail this coupon. It will bring you new conceptions of what a clean skin means. My Beauty Book comes with it. Cut out the coupon now.

SILKMEN WIN EASILY FROM TABS IN CITY LEAGUE

New London, July 30.—The Corticelli Silk Co., nine, gained its third consecutive victory in the City league, bagging the Tabs for a 11 to 2 count this evening on Morgan Park. Tonight's game was the beginning of the so called crucial week in this circuit, for within the next two weeks there is to be a radical change in the leagues standing. The Corticelli moved up a peg in the league standing and with the Knights of Columbus and the Fort Trumbull Stars tied for first place, and who played off the tie on Friday night of this week. The silk men are expected to go into a tie for second place with either of these teams and within a half game of the top position.

Tonight's game was Corticelli throughout. Mauling Morris Brown former Chapman Tech slab artist for seven hits in the first inning, and continuing their heavy slugging in the next frame until they made Brown seek cover, the Silk men tallied eleven times in these two frames and had the ball game sealed. The hits made off Brown were of every description, except a home run. Triples, doubles and singles were made in abundance as if they were an every day occurance with every hitter. Brown had little or nothing on the cover, and when a heavy fog was coming up and threatened to have the game called before the regulation number of innings, the Silk men began wiffing the air to have the game go enough innings to constitute a ball game.

Jimmy Williamson for the Silk manufacturers was hard to hit and fared well throughout the five innings. He eased up in the fourth inning and helped by some poor fielding, the Tabs were able to score two runs. For thre innings, only nine men faced Williamson, and it was not until after the eleventh man had been expired in order did the Temperance men see first base, Brown for the Tabs was so wild in the third that he was yanked in favor of Douton.

N. Y. COMMISSION REFUSES TO LIFT BAN ON FIGHTERS

New York, July 29.—Phil Glassman, manager of Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight, who is under ban in this state for meeting Mickey Walker, world's lightweight champion, in a match at Philadelphia last month, appeared before the state athletic commission today to seek reinstatement of his boxer. This was refused but Joe Tipitz, Philadelphia lightweight, was given permission to meet Tendler without coming under the ban. Tendler is a victim of a rule of the commission that any boxer who meets Walker, who is under suspension in this state for refusing to meet Dave Shade, coast welter, will likewise be suspended. Tendler's suspension is indefinite.

Mrs. Dave Rosenberg, wife of Dave Rosenberg, boxer asked the commission to lift her husband's suspension, claiming that he was robbed of his only means of support by the edict of the board. The commission refused to lift the ban immediately but told Mrs Rosenberg that in the event her husband could contract for a future match his suspension would be cancelled.

Captain Freddie Welsh, former world's lightweight champion, asked the commission to approve the sale of his health farm in Summit, N. J., to the National Sports Alliance. The alliance wants to purchase the farm as a training place for its fighters and also as a home for disabled and veteran fighters. The board refused to approve the proposition as the money which would be used for this purpose, was realized at a charity bout to establish a trust fund for disabled boxers and the commission did not want the alliance to use any of the principal.

Challenge to Valiants

The Lake Street Valiants boast about their seventeen wins and one defeat. Why are they afraid to play the Greeneville Rosedale? The Valiants have avoided the Rosedales twice by calling both games off. If the Valiants consider themselves good the Rosedales would like to play them Friday evening on the Greeneville playgrounds. For further arrangements answer through this paper.

OBITUARY

Mrs. H. B. Smith.

Ill for only a week, the death of Mrs. Mary Watrous Smith, widow of Howard B. Smith, who for years was a well known Norwich druggist, occurred suddenly with heart failure at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Ulmer of 269 Broadway, with whom she resided.

Mrs. Smith was born in Willimantic 64 years ago and was married there to Mr. Smith. Their home was in Willimantic until Mr. Smith came to this city in the employ of Lee & Osgood and subsequently opened the Smith prescription store of which he was proprietor at the time of his death while on a hunting trip in Alaska, in October, 1910.

During her residence of 14 years in this city Mrs. Smith made a wide circle of friends who will learn of her death with deep regret. She was of a quiet, home loving disposition, with qualities of heart and mind that bespoke her colonial ancestry. She was a member of Christ Episcopal church.

She leaves an only daughter, Mrs. Henry F. Ulmer, and four sisters and one brother, Mrs. Henry Snyder, Mrs. Lillian Jackson, Mrs. Etta Congdon, Mrs. Frances Williams, all of Willimantic, and Fred M. Watrous of Hartford.

Wilfred H. Nettleton

Wilfred H. Nettleton, one of the pioneer bankers of Connecticut, who celebrated his 99th birthday anniversary last June, died at his home in Bristol Sunday night. He had been in failing health for the past four weeks. He is survived by his wife and several nephews and nieces.

He was the last survivor of the original directors of the Bristol National bank. Up to a few years ago he attended regularly the weekly meetings of the directors.

Mr. Nettleton was also the oldest Mason in the state, member of Franklin lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Bristol which he joined in 1853.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Michael B. Ring.

Funeral services for Mrs. Michael B. Ring were held Tuesday morning at 8.15 o'clock from her home, No. 49 Broad street, followed by a solemn requiem high mass in St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Myles P. Galvin was celebrant of the mass and was assisted by Rev. Rocco Guerriero, deacon and Rev. M. H. May, subdeacon. Prof. Frank L. Farrell was at the organ during the mass and for a waiting hymn Mrs. Farrell sang Abide With Me.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Father May. The bearers were Herbert Ring, Thaddeus Leahy, William Carbrey, John Murphy, Harold Ring of Springfield, and David O'Brien, of Taftville.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the services, people coming from Springfield and other cities. The floral tributes were most beautiful, a silent testimonial of the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many frineds.

Arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

Mrs. Arthur Martin.

With many relatives and friends present funeral services for Mrs. Arthur Martin were held at 8.15 o'clock Tuesday morning from the parlors of Cummings & Ring, followed at 9 o'clock by a requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. Frederick Cohoian officiating. Henry LaFontaine was at the organ during the mass and for a waiting hymn the church choir sang Lead Kindly Light, and as the recessional sang Nearer, My God to Thee.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Father Cohoian. The bearers were Charles Bradley and Patrick Bradley, brothers of the deceased, Frank Curran, William Sharkey, William Dunion and John Dunion, cousins of the deceased.

There were many beautiful floral forms sent by loving relatives and friends.

Mrs. Thomas Robert McClure.

Funeral services for Mrs. Thomas Robert McClure were held Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the Johnson Home, with a very large attendance of relatives and friends, the largest funeral assembly ever gathered at the home.

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, conducted the service and read Mrs. McClure's favorite poem, Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." In attendance were many members of Home Chapter of King's Daughters, who assembled in a body. The floral pieces were especially beautiful.

Burial was in Yantic cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Ricketts. Four nephews of Mrs. McClure were bearers: Edward Brown, Louis Brown, Allan Brown and Robert McClure.

Arrangements were in charge of Henry Allen & Son Co.

NAMED CORPS AREA COMMANDER'S REPRESENTATIVE FOR MOBILIZATION

Webster D. Copp, first lieutenant, infantry, officers' reserve corps, has been notified by the corps area, commander of the First corps area that he has been selected as the corps area commander's representative in this city for the defense test on National Defense day, which is set for Sept. 12th. Information regarding the local plans for the defense test will be announced in the near future by Lieutenant Copp.

There is considerable interest among local military circles in the proposed mobilization of the nation's forces as a defense test. In Norwich there are two units of the Connecticut National guard—Battery B and the Cambot Train, 102d artillery, which will be mobilized Sept. 12th, and there are in addition some 12 or 15 regular army reserve officers who will also receive mobilization orders.

As yet no announcement has been made as to just what form the mobilization will take. Definite plans for the mobilization will be announced through the press within a short time by First corps area headquarters. It is probable that the national guard units will be mobilized at their armories.

According to present plans for the carrying out of the mobilization test a state committee will be appointed by the governor, and the state committee will in turn designate local committees for the various communities throughout the state. The local committee after its organization will assist in perfecting the mobilization arrangements for the community.

WAYLAND ESTATE $789,731—IS TO GO TO HIS SON

An appraisal filed in New York of the estate of Chandler N. Wayland, 88, who died Oct. 22, 1922, in West Hill Sanitarium to which he had been committed some months before, shows that, although he attempted to make a will cutting off his only child, John E. Wayland, a New York lawyer, with a stickpin, the document was set aside and Mr. Wayland was declared to have died intestate. The son accordingly gets the entire estate.

Mr. Wayland owned stocks worth $6[illegible],[illegible]8, which included 1,[illegible]00 shares of preferred stock in the United States Rubber company. He also had $50,000 in Liberty bonds. He owned 9 West Thirty-sixth street, appraised at $[illegible],000, in which the contents were valued at $2,251. He owned a summer home at Stonington, in which the contents were appraised at $3,645, while he also had a place at Paget Parish, Bermuda, in which he had property worth $1,212. His yacht Viola was valued at $1,200.

The report shows that Mr. Wayland's son who was so pointed a committee of his property after he had been adjudged incompetent in the Supreme Court, paid out $38,501 as expenses of the proceeding from November, 1921, when the elder Wayland was committed to Bellevue hospital, until he died. The son stated that his father attempted to make a will before he was sent to the hospital, and this document was filed, but the surrogate directed that it be disregarded and that the son be appointed administrator and declared the sole heir.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MRS. EDMUND ADAMS

Friday evening a number of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Edward Robinson, Depot Hill, Baltic, to celebrate Mrs. Robinson's birthday. Games and dancing were enjoyed, after which refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Edmund Adams of Westerly, R. I. Mrs. Robinson received many pretty and useful gifts. The party broke up at a late hour, all wishing her many happy returns of the day. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Adams, Mrs. Thomas Tyson and Clarence Maxwell of Westerly, R. I.

DAIRYMEN CONCERNED OVER LONG DROUTH

Dairymen in this section are beginning to be concerned over the protracted drouth. They are concerned chiefly for the future. It is understood the production of milk has not suffered to any extent as yet but it is freely predicted that if rain does not soon come there must result a lessening of the supply.

At the office of the state department of agriculture, Secretary Healy stated that four men were making an intensive survey of the state to find the exact damage done the various crops by the drouth.

RECOVERING FROM SHOCKS SUFFERED MONDAY EVENING

Theodore Smith, member of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., who suffered two slight shocks at Buckingham Memorial Monday evening, just as the exercises were to start for the 38th anniversary of the institution of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, was reported as resting more comfortable Tuesday evening at the Backus hospital. If he continues to improve, Mr. Smith will probably be allowed to return home within a few days.

RESERVE OFFICERS REDUCE WAIST LINES AT DEVENS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Camp Devens, Mass., July 29.—The collective waist line of the 76th division, Officers Reserve Corps, comprising officers from Hartford, Bridgeport, New Haven, Stamford, Providence and other Connecticut and Rhode Island cities and towns, is decreasing at an alarming rate.

Most of the reserve officers from Connecticut and Rhode Island came to camp with the greatest part of their dead weight placed near the "front and center." Under the selling up exercises, marches and long hours in the open air this dead weight has either been distributed through or lost entirely, with the disappearance of their waist line, the reserve officers have been tightening up their belts and making preparations to visit the tailor upon returning home to have civilian suits remodelled along the avelt, athletic lines their figures have been moulted into under the stiff training they have been undergoing since arriving in camp nearly two weeks ago.

All the weight has not been lost by the reserve officers on the field of battle. While the frequent hikes on field problems, under the scorching rays of a midsummer sun caused most of the loss of avoirdupois, some credit for the disappearance must be given the athletic events and social affairs which form a part of the camp life here. Many officers are participating in the division league ball games, played at the close of the afternoon's problems and lectures. All the divisions have been holding dances, and some of the weight has been lost in the mazes of the fox trot "Paul Jones."

The men are thoroughly enoying themselves and most of them are planning to return next year when the division again goes into camp.

The second week of the reserve officers camp is being devoted to more strenuous problems than the men received during their first seven days in camp but hardened up as they now are they are not minding the work.

Camp Devens is a busy place these days, the R. O. T. C. has only recently completed a 6 weeks' tour of duty, the reserve officers camp is now in full swing, and preparations are being made to receive nearly 2,500 citizens' military training camp students August 1.

AUTO OWNERS PAY FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

One quarter of the cost of road improvements in New England is paid by motor vehicle owners, a statement prepared by the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in co-operation with state highway department shows. In a comprehensive outline of highway taxes covering the entire country, the federal government has compiled statistics revealing a substantial increase in the relationship of motor vehicle revenues to the total highway income of the United States. Motor vehicle owners throughout the country contributed about 19.5 per cent. towards the cost of road improvements, as compared with 1914 when it was only 5.1 per cent.

The total income for all rural highway purposes in 1921, the government report shows, was $1,149,437,896. This was derived from general property taxes, license fees, sale of bonds, etc.

In the six New England states it is shown that the total highway income in 1921 was $46,455,284 or $6.25 per capita. Of this amount, $11,629,091 of 25.1 per cent. consisted of license fees contributed by the motor vehicle. Further comparison of general statistics reveals the information that 7 and two tenths cents of every dollar collected by state and lical governments in New England was devoted to highway expenses.

The average per capita income for the whole country for highway purposes was $10.90 while in New England the per capita income is found to be $6.25 the lowest of any group of states.

The amount of vehicle revenues in New England during 1921 was $11,629,091. The number of vehicles aggregated 706,312, resulting in an average of $16.40 for each car. It is also shown that the per capita highway income derived from taxes in New England was $3.52.

Income for highway purpposes has practically quadrupled since 1914 throughout the country. In New England, the 1904 highway income amounted to $7,385,753. In 1914 it had doubled to $15,435,744 while in 19921 $46,455,284 was received for this purpose.

The survey gives a definite view of the demand for highway construction and imprivement throughout the densely populated sections of the country, particularly in New England, and shows how the increased use of the automobile has stimulated the development of hard-surfaced highways in all sections.

DECLINE ENTERTAINMENT UNTIL FLIGHT IS FINISHED

Washington, July 29.—Lieut. Lowell Smith, commanding the army around-the-world flight, cabled Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, from Hull, England, today, recommending that there be no entertainment for the fliers in the United States "until after the finish of the flight."

The message announced that the fliers would hop off on the next stage tomorrow. The text of the cablegram follows:

"Flight leaves July 30. Recommend that no entertainment for fliers be arranged until after the finish of the flight, which should be made rapidly to reduce chances of our planes being damaged and to prevent personnel from becoming relaxed. Our planes are in excellent condition and everything possible has been done to insure our success."

"TIPSY" CROWS LED TO DISCOVERY OF STILL

Harrisburg, Pa., July 29.—Five "tipsy" crows staggering around the foot of a pine tree resulted in the discovery of an abandoned still near Clover Run, Clearfield county, according to a report made public today by Seth E. Gordon, secretary of the state board of game commissioners. The discovery made by W. J. Delansky, assistant game protector, also solved the mystery of "dizzy" cows, which had spent the day grazing in the vicinity of the still, the report said.

EAST ENDS CLINCH TWILIGHT LEAGUE TITLE IN CLOSE BATTLE WITH HARDIGS

Tuesday evening at the Duwel field, the East Ends defeated the renovated Hardigs in a stirring pitchers' battle, 7 to 6. This game clinches the Twilight league pennant for the East Ends as they can lose the two remaining games to be played and still hold the lead by a margin of one game. The nearest rival is the Hardigs who have won 4 and lost four.

Harry Mills and Gil Jones engaged in a hard fought pitching duel, the former having all the better of the argument. Mills allowed but 4 hits and struck out 10. Jones fanned the same number but was touched up for 11 safeties at opportune times.

The game was by far the best of the season, both teams fighting for the decision at all times. The Hardigs, strengthened by the addition of several new men were determined to put a stop to the East Ends' winning streak. Two East Enders, however, with the same team that has played throughout the Twilight league proved too much for their opponents to handle.

It looked like the showers for Jones the famous Fitchville slabster, when he was greeted with a double and three consecutive singles in the first inning while knotted to East Ends two runs. After this bombardment against him, Gilly held the East Ends in hand until the fifth inning when they scored the tying run on a base on balls and a single and a double. In the meantime the Hardigs had scored three runs also, once in the second on two doubles and twice in the third, on a walk two hits and a sacrifice fly.

Going into the sixth inning with the score tied, the renowned fighting spirit of the East Ends again asserted itself. After an extended discussion about the plate, it was announced that this would positively be the last inning to be played, the East Ends decided it was time to put the game on ice. Ellsworth lead off with a free ticket to first, stole second and remained there while Walz was fanning. Bullet Pedace who had just arrived from New Haven, playing in his Sunday best crashed a terrific liner to right field for two bases, Ellsworth scoring. The break of the game then occurred when Pewce Bourne lined straight into Hesbner's hands who in his anxiety to complete a double play dropped the ball, Pedace then scored when a play was made for him at third, the ball going wild, and Bourne took third, when Spalding laid down a safe bunt along the third base line. Leonard then beat out an infield hit to Kamus, Bourne scoring and Spalding going around to third. Spalding then scored when Paul threw wild over second in a vain attempt to catch Leonard stealing. Leonard tried to score on the overthrow but was caught at the plate. Riley after hitting several fouls, then ended the inning by striking out. The Hardigs in their half made a last bid for the game after two were out, C. Heebner got to first on Bourne's error, stole second and scored on Jones' two-bagger. Tombari ended the game by taking three healthy swings at the ball.

Tonight's game will be between the Nuggets and the Battery B. The Nuggets have strengthened their lineup and a good game is expected.

"Dust" from the Diamond

(By "Gump")

It was a hard fought game, nip and tuck all the way thdough.

"Tommy" Simcox officiated his first league game in big league style.

Isbicki gave a fine imitation of a "contortionist" on his first two trips to the plate.

With the bases loaded in the fourth Mills tightened up and struck out "Slugger" Tombari.

"Felix" the poular bon ton star, whiffed the breeze on two very important occasions.

"McGraw Heebner pulled the prize bone in the last inning, passing up an easy chance for a double play by muffing an easy pop fly.

"Mat" Delaney led the East Side rooters in championship style.

Although late in arriving "Bullet" Pedace put the game on ice in the last inning, crashing one of "Gill's" offerings for two bases, bringing in the winning run.

Sphinx Spauling (the hitless wonder) crossed the critics by laying down a neat bunt in the thrilling last inning, beating it out easily.

The game was witnessed by a large crowd and juding by the noise throughout the game they were very much in evidence.

ATHLETICS SET LEAGUE RECORD FOR ASSISTS

Detroit, Mich., July 29.—After tying the score in the ninth inning, Detroit won from Philadelphia here today in the 11th inning, 4 to 3. Pratt batted in both the tying and winning runs. By winning today Detroit remained in second place.

Philadelphia broke the American League record for infield assists in the first nine innings of today's game, making 21. This number also ties the National league record made by the New York Giants, July 13, 1919. Twenty assists were made in the American league at three different times, twice by the New York Yankees, and once by Washington.

DAVIS OUTPITCHES MURRAY AND SHUTS OUT RED SOX

St. Louis, July 29.—Davis outpitched Murray today and the Browns defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 0, thus evening the series. Manager George Sisler accounted for all three runs. Sisler's homer in the fourth inning, his ninth of the season, brought in Evans ahead of him, and his sacrifice in the sixth scored Davis. Murray allowed only three hits but he issued four passes. The Browns tally in the sixth was without a safety and resulted from two walks and two sacrifices. The score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Captain New York Giants

First half of inning. Bases full. One man out. Score tied. A slow runner is at bat.

What plays should the pitcher look for?

In such a situation one run is likely to mean the winning of the ball game. As the batter is a slow runner the infield should therefore play back for a double.

Now when the batter sees the infielder playing back, he will naturally play for a winning run and try to bunt one to bring it in. So it is better for the pitcher to wait for the bunt as he must act quickly and make a good throw in order to catch the runner coming home from third on the play.

THURSTON LOSES HIS FIRST GAME IN ELEVEN STARTS

Chicago, July 29.—The winning streak of Pitcher Hollis Thurston, which had run for ten consecutive games was broken today when New York defeated Chicago 9 to 4 in the final game of the series.

"Babe" Ruth's homer, his thirty-second of the season with two men on base in the fifth inning sewed up the game for the Yankees. The four bagger of Ruth's was his thirteenth this month and ties his best previous record established June, 1921, the year he set his home run record of 59 circuit clouts.

It was announced that the series drew an estimated crowd of 110,000, for the five games played since last Saturday, which is thought to be a record.

CINCINNATI WINS ONE-SIDED GAME FROM DODGERS, 12-2

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 29.—Cincinnati won 1 out of 5 in the series with Brooklyn by taking the last game today, 12 to 2. Roberts was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning by three hits for four runs, including Walker's homer with one on. Duncan hit a homer off Doak in the ninth with one on and Walker followed with his second homer. Mitchell hit a homer for Brooklyn. Eddie Roush, Cincinnati outfielder, left the team today for a visit to Rochester to have his left arm treated. Catcher Ivy Wingo left the Cincinnati team to visit his father who is dangerously ill at La Crosse, Georgia. Score.

HAGEN BEATS GUILFORD IN PRIVATE MATCH

Newton, Mass., July 29.—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, meeting Jesse Guilford, Massachusetts amateur titlist and a former national amateur champion on his home links in a private 36 hole match today, won 4 up, 2 to play. Hagen's golf was of a high order and if found Guilford off the game that he has shown recently. The home player, ending the first 18 holes, 3 down, had reduced Hogen's margin to 1 up at the eleventh. Hagen then won the 12th and extended his lead to 4 holes at the 16th.

Hartford Wins Close Game

Hartford, July 29.—Hartford used eight hits, four of which were for extra bases to good advantage, defeating Worcester 4 to 3 today. The visitors collected 11 hits but Lynch was effective when the situation was dangerous

SERVICE GAME AT SUB BASE THIS AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 29.—Although the United States Army and Navy always co-operate with each other in thwarting all attempts made to wage war against the country, yet this (Wednesday) afternoon will find the Army and Navy belligerent against each other. The site of the battle is picked at the Submarine Base grounds and a merry melie is expected to be had by all participants. However instead of the heavy artillery and the submarines, and other material with which war is waged, the Army and Navy will use bats and balls. The Fort Wright nine is scheduled to make an invasion of the Submarine Base and Ft Wright is no innovation, and this friendly rivalry has been continued throughout the past several years, with the Navy always on top. What the Army-Navy series in any branch of athletics is to the embro officer, the baseball series that yearly between the Base and the island Fort is equivilent to these teams, in rivalry and other manners which makes an attempt predjction as to the outcome of the game almost impossible. The teams take the field to play as they never played before, and although the Gobs were victorious in the earlier meeting between these two teams, yet the difference of the score between the teams is not so great that even if this intense rivalry did not exist a tight game would be sure to blossom forth.

The outcome of the last game between these teams found the Base adding the Fort nine to its short string of victories, which reached seven before being broken by the St. Mary's A. C. at Stamford Sunday, and they by a 2 to 1 score in eleven innings. The one run difference between the sailors and soldiers means nothing in their young life and their heart is only set upon returning victorious at any cost. At the best the score will not be over three runs difference between th winning team if the losing nine plays anywhere near top form.

Seibler, who is picked for guard duty on the mound for the soldiers is expected to work as he never worked before. He has good stuff and proved somswhat of a mystery to the gobs in the initial meeting. Widner or Crompton is expected to receive the assignment for the Base.

NEHF'S ALL-AROUND PLAY FEATURES GIANTS' VICTORY

New York, July 29.—Arthur Nehf's all around play featured New York's victory over St. Louis here today, the score being 5 to 2. The Giants won the series three games to two. In addition to pitching a strong game against the Cardinals, Nehf also hit two home runs, which accounted for three of New York's five runs. Score:

Voluntown Beats Plainfield.

With Spike Liberty pitching his best game of the season, Voluntown defeated Plainfield on Sunday afternoon on the Voluntown grounds. The visitors were unable to solve Spike's delivery and were only allowed six scattered hits of a scratchy nature. Twelve were retired on strikes and no free passes given out. He also received splendid support at all times. Plainfield put up a snappy fight and while outclassed at bat were dangerous on several occasions and only splendid baseball held them scoreless. Bouley in centerfield for Plainfield robbed Liberty of a three-base hit, running in the same direction as the ball and pulling it out of the air with one hand, for which he received a great hand from the crowd; for the locals Gaudette at first was the star.

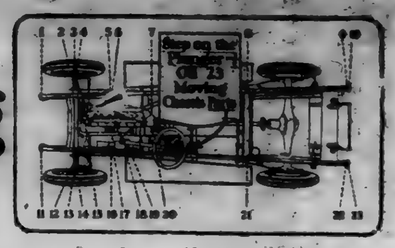
HAGEN NOT TO PLAY IN CANADIAN OPEN

Boston, July 29.—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, will be unable to play in the Canadian open championship tournament next Friday and Saturday, he announced here today. A previous engagement to play at the Greenhill Farms Country club, Philadelphia, where he is to meet Max Marston, national amateur champion, could not be changed, he said.

A Sweeping Success!



"One-Shot" Lubrication System

AMERICA has never known an automotive success more sweeping and brilliant than that of the 1925 Cleveland Six.

More than a million have seen it! More than a million have marveled at the new convenience feature it introduces—the "One-Shot" Lubrication System.

No Grimy Hands

If you're tired of using the grease gun and oil can to silence squeaks and prevent worn parts—take ten minutes to inspect this exclusive patented feature. A plunger projects through the floor board. When you step on it all twenty-three vital parts of the car are lubricated. No grimy hands! No wasted hours! Simplicity itself!

Mileage Motor

One ride in the 1925 Cleveland Six will reveal the spectacular performance mastery of the Mileage Motor. Silent, smooth and economical, this new and larger power plant ranks with the outstanding motors of the day. Its speed, acceleration and hill climbing powers were never before offered in any car of comparable size and price.

Balloon Tires

Nor was such a low priced car ever so comfortable at all speeds. Scientifically hung springs prevents side-sway.

BODY OF DROWNED GIRL TAKEN TO BRIDGEPORT FROM NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)
New London, July 29—

The body of Ethel Berquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sven Berquist, Bridgeport, one of the seven girls drowned off Bridgeport 10 days ago and the last of the bodies to be recovered was found off Faulkner's Point yesterday afternoon by Frank S. Andrews, 813 Highland avenue, Fall River, Mass., and was brought in to New London. Later it was identified by parents of the girl, and was forwarded to Bridgeport today where the funeral and burial will take place. The parents of the girl came to New London again this forenoon and accompanied the body back to Bridgeport.

When John Kenyon was in the police court yesterday, accused of abusing an aged woman, Mrs. Walter Banning of 71 Blackhall street, he declared that if he was afforned the opportunity he would convince the court that the story told by Mrs. Banning was untrue. Kenyon was given the chance he asked for and he made good. He declared that instead of calling the woman vile names that he did not even speak to her. And Kenyon was corroborated in the statement he made by his wife, his sister and by his brother-in-law. All testified in court today that Mrs. Banning was seated on the veranda reading, when they arrived at the Morgan home, the same house that is tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Banning, that they passed in and upstairs as speechless as a mummy. When the testimony of four persons was against that of two there was of course for the court but to decide that Kenyon was not guilty.

Jim O'Connor and Joe Faraci, young fellows, went to the garage of Martin Rademacher on Williams street to get a Chevrolet car that was owned by Rademacher, but which the latter had given O'Connor permission to use at will. They found the garage locked so they broke the lock and took the car for a ride. Rademacher happened along and finding the car was missing he complained to the police and the pair of riders was arrested. In court the truth came out today when Rademacher told the prosecutor the story as it is related here. He had forgotten the permission he gave to O'Connor until he heard who had taken his car. Rademacher was directed by the court to keep a memorandum of his loans as he did of other loans, so that he would not be calling on the police to chase his automobile.

William B. Stevenson was arrested Monday for parking his car more than a foot away from the curbing. He deposited a bond of $10 to insure his appearance in court today, but that sum did not bring him there so his ten spot was forfeited. That was not so stupid as it might seem on the part of Stevenson as a fine of $5 in court would with the costs amount to considerably more than $10.

The automobile owned and driven by Isaac Friedman, 8 South Governor street, Hartford, was struck and damaged by a Connecticut company trolley car on Main street last night.

This morning, when the store of Thomas Hamrah, 153 Main street, was opened for business it was discovered that burglars had ransacked the place. The break was reported to the police and Sergeant Frank Howard found that $24 constituted the plunder obtained, the money having been taken from two cash registers. Entrance to the store was gained by smashing a rear window.

The condition of Frank Scovish, Montville, who sustained a terribly shattered head and face, a fractured arm and the loss of one hand by a premature blast of dynamite, while at work excavating for a well in Oakdale Friday, was reported at Lawrence hospital late this afternoon as unchanged. The patient remained conscious throughout the day and was slightly less restless than the day previous. Whether Scovish will recover will not be determined for a few days yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cooney, formerly of New London, now residing in New York, where Mr. Cooney is employed are spending a few days with relatives here. Mr. Cooney was for several years in charge of the news stand at the Union station.

Thaddeus Rambush, of Colchester, Mrs. Leslie Gardder and infant daughter, Waterford, and Mrs. Fannie Denison, Masonic street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Jerome Higgins, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins, of Park street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, a mass of requiem being sung by Rev. John J. McGrath. The bearers were Paul McGuire, George Chapman, David Riordan, Lawrence McGuire and Eugene Sullivan.

Nicolo Pietrofeto, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pietrofeto, 70 Woodbridge street, died last night following a lingering illness from an affection of the throat, for which trouble the boy had undergone two operations. The parents have two other sons.

The police were informed this forenoon that an automobile had been abandoned near Pleasure Beach and in all probability the car was one that had been stolen. The police ascertained that the automobile was the property of A. M. Abbott, a summer resident at Pleasure Beach, and was left beside the highway when the car was disabled.

Frederick Collins, of Williams street, Central Vermont railroad freight brakeman, who sustained the loss of a leg and the crushing of a foot by falling beneath a locomotive at Columbia Junction yesterday is married and has five children.

The New London police last evening established the identity of the driver of the automobile alleged to have backed his car over a bicycle belonging to Francis Quinn, 106 Golden street, on that thoroughfare Saturday evening. The alleged driver is Harry Elion, 36 Thames street, Groton. Elion was brought to the police station this evening by State Police Officer Honeyman and ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning, charged with evasion of responsibility.

William H. Lizott, employed at a local restaurant and residing at 109 Golden street, reported to the police late yesterday afternoon that he had been robbed of his watch and chain. Sergeant Frank Howard was assigned to the case and was informed by Lizott that he discovered the loss of his watch when he reached the restaurant this forenoon to begin work. At Lizott's lodging house the landlady declared that no one had entered Lizott's room but his brother.

Rev. Chester H. Howe and family have gone to New Hampshire where they will remain a fortnight as the guest of relatives.

The American Legion Post in this city was given permission at the meeting of the city council to have a promenade and parade on the evening of Saturday, Aug 16. The legion requested permission for the fire department to parade with them on that occasion, but the council left the matter with the city manager that he might arrange matters so that the city would not be unprotected in the case of a fire while the firemen were parading. Councilor Grazan pointed out that if the purpose was to have the firemen in uniform it would fail, as some of the companies were without uniforms. He said that a working crew could be furnished by each company, if that was desired.

The city council has taken the stand that it will no longer tolerate the wash from entrances to private property, when that wash brings dirt, sand and refuse into main highways and the individual owner is the sole beneficiary. The city's attorney is to prepare an ordinance that will cover the situation and the council will pass it without delay when it is presented. A particular case in point is on Atwood street, where, it is claimed, the guters fill up with sand and dirt, the gutters being choked up, water does not flow away. The council has been warned too that Truman's brook, which has its rise in the land on the western end of Jefferson avenue, is filling with weeds, the branches of trees and a variety of refuse. The water in the brook is very low, as might be expected, but when violent rains come later in the season and in the fall the brook is likely to overflow and cause damage that will cost the city a great deal more money than would the work of clearing the brook to make space to carry off the water. Lower Bank street property owners have in the past suffered damage by the back flow from the brook. The trouble has never been so many cottages for rent, nor at so low a price, as is the case this season.

At the funeral of Benjamin F. Bailey Perkins post will have a delegation at the services as will Mohegan lodge of Odd Fellows, Mr. Bailey having been connected with both organizations many years. One son survives Mr. Bailey.

It is fortunate for the city that the water supply in Lake Konomoc is as abundant as it is now, for a tremendous quantity of water is being used now that lawns and gardens are parched. Every one who has garden hose is using it to keep vegetation and grass from drying up. Farmers claim that a second crop of hay will be out of the question this summer because the first crop is not yet harvested and cannot be until after abundant rain has fallen. All vegetables have advanced in price with the exception of potatoes, which are dropping in price each week. A continuance of the dry weather is apt to send prices the other way.

Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin and wife, Williams street, are on a week's automobile trip through Vermont and New Hampshire.

A New London drug clerk is absent from work and from what can be learned he has disappeared and not acquainted his wife and family of his intention of leaving the city. At the young man's place of employment the other clerks profess to be ignorant of the missing man's whereabouts, declaring that the first they knew of his sudden disappearance was when the store was opened for business several days ago and the druggist failed to put in an appearance. Inquiry then revealed that he had suddenly left home. It was rumored among the druggist's acquaintances that he did not go alone.

Hervey Laboue has returned to his home on Jefferson avenue, having spent a week with friends in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The case of H. E. Stengele, 444 Montauk avenue, paymaster's clerk at the submarine base, charged with reckless driving, which was to have come before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in the Waterford town court this evening, has again been postponed, this time until tomorrow evening. Stengele was operating his car toward Oswegatchie Saturday night and just after passing Mossbrokers corner, it collided with a car owned and driven by Frederick H. Gavitt. The latter car was slightly damaged and it is understood that Stengele agreed to pay the cost of repairs to Gavitt's car.

Rev. Francis E. May, formerly of New London, now pastor of the Catholic church, Hamden, spent today with his sister, Miss Nellie A. May, of Connecticut avenue. Rev. Fr. May is a brother of Rev. Michael H. May, of Norwich.

Misses Eliza Mullen, Garfield avenue and Miss Nellie Ahearn, Howard street, are spending a fortnight in the Berkshires.

Rev. Myron E. Ganter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church is spending a few days in the Adirondacks, prior to joining his family for a fortnight's stay at Cherry Valley, Cooperstown, N. Y.

Benjamin T. Marshall, president of Connecticut college, has returned to his summer home at Burkehaven, on Lake Sunapee, N. H., after a week's stay in this city.

Mrs. Harry Nye, Middletown, Pa., (Lucy Lucille Stoeffel), is being entertained by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Stoeftel, 9 Tenth street.

The police tonight were requested to renew their efforts to locate Irene Britz, 11, of Oakdale, who has been missing from her home since Sunday. Shortly after the girl disappeared the police were notified of her disappearance, but no trace of her was found. When the girl left home she wore a white dress, patent leather slippers and brown socks, but did not wear coat or hat. She has light bobbed hair and is of light complexion.

Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, today forwarded a check for $50 to Fire Chief Charles Rose, in appreciation of the fine work by the department a week ago Sunday afternoon when a wooden structure, owned by the church and located at the rear of the church, was gutted by flames of mysterious origin. When the firemen reached the burning building the structure was all ablaze, but the flames were confined to the building and prevented from igniting other structures nearby. It is now planned to erect a fire-proof garage upon the site.

Attorney C. Hadlai Hull, administrator of the estate of Frank W. Dart, has sold the dwelling, 133 Vauxhall street, to Benjamin Larabee.

Two more cases of reported robberies have resulted in the police being informed that the plunder obtained had been recovered. Harry Pumerantz, Montauk avenue and Samuel Weiss, New York, reported on Sunday evening that the bath house they had occupied at Ocean beach had been entered and that money aggregating $12 had been stolen from the bathers. Today the bathers declared that they had found the money, although a youth had been suspected of the alleged theft by one of the bathers. Yesterday forenoon William Lizott, a lodger at 109 Golden street, complained to the police that he had been robbed of his watch and chain. An investigation conducted by the police did not result in any trace of the timepiece being located, nor at his lodging house was anyone found that had been observed loitering about Lizott's room. Today Lizott notified the police that the watch had been returned to him, but he did not state under what circumstances it was recovered.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONG.

New York, July 29.—Stock prices moved upward today in impressive fashion until just before the close of the market, when heavy profit-taking, apparently based on the fear that the extra dividend of 50 cents on United States Steel common might not be maintained, caused a rather general recession from the high levels, giving final quotations an irregular appearance.

Directors of the United States Steel corporation, meeting after the market closed, declared an extra dividend of 50 cents on the common stock for the third successive quarter, in addition to the regular dividend of $1.25 on the common, and reported total earnings of $41,381,039, or about $6,000,000 above earlier estimates of conservative observers. Chairman Gary also predicted good business this fall and reported "considerable improvement" in orders received since July 1.

United States Steel common touched 104 5-8, a new high on the current movement, in the early afternoon and then reacted to 103 1-4 for a net loss of 3-4 on the day. All the independent steels also closed fractionally lower after having shown net gains of a point or more earlier in the day.

Some irregularity developed at the opening, but within 15 minutes rails, public utilities and industrials were moving upward almost in unison. Trading became more active as the session progressed, the day's sales exceeding one and one-quarter million shares, making it one of the most active sessions this year.

Increased public interest in the market is indicated by the fact that brokers' loans have increased about $5,000,000 in the last two weeks, bringing the total to around $1,330,000,000. The daily turnover of funds used for stock market purposes now ranges between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 as against only $15,000,000 in May. In 1919 and 1920 daily turnovers of $40,000,000 were common.

Another flock of new high records were established during the session by such widely diversified issues as Kennecott and Utah Copper, Famous Players, International Harvester, Sears Roebuck, American Can, Savage Arms, International Railways of Central America, Pere Marquette, "Nickel Plate" and Erie common. There were several heavy spots scattered throughout the list. Cerre De Pasco lost more ground as a result of the Peruvian government's decision restricting its smelting operations.

Pressed Steel Car broke four points to a new 1924 low at 45 on rumors questioning safety of the dividend. Allis-Chalmers dropped nearly two points on publication of a quarterly earnings report comparing unfavorably with the preceding one. Heaviness also developed in General Electric, Phillips Jones, Interborough Rapid Transit and several others.

Call money continued to hold steady at 2 per cent. The volume of time funds being placed showed a decided gain, rates ranging from 2 1-2 to 3 per cent. depending upon maturity. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were slightly firmer, although trading was restricted pending further developments at the London reparations conference. Demand sterling ruled about 1-3 cent higher at $4.40 and French francs sold around 5.08 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, July 29.—Establishment of new high prices for the year by most of the active United States government obligations was the outstanding feature of today's bond market, which was given an irregular appearance by contrasting price movements.

Accumulation of Liberty bonds, based on the easier tone of time money and revived expectations of another cut in the federal reserve rediscount rate carried the 4 1-4 issues to 1924 top prices. The Liberty 3 1-2s led the list in activity but failed to attain a new high level, while the treasury 4 1-4s on a relatively small turnover scored the largest gain and set a new record for all time at 105.24.

Foreign government obligations registered substantial improvement on more hopeful advices regarding a reparations settlement and the ending of the revolution in Brazil. Gains of a point or more were recorded by Belgian 7 1-2 and several French municipal issues. Brazilian bonds moved up one to almost three points.

Despite considerable profit-taking, some of the speculative railroad liens broke into new high ground. Issues affected by merger developments were in most demand. Erie mortgages were active and higher and the International and Great Northern adjustments forged ahead following withdrawal of certain objections to the Missouri Pacific merger plan, embracing this road along with the Gulf Coast lines.

CURB MARKET.

New York, July 29.—Prices of curb securities displayed a strong tone today and although trading lacked the volume of activity of recent sessions the general list stood out for its ability to absorb offerings without difficulty.

Heavy buying of Lehigh Valley Coal ctfs. was an outstanding feature, a jump of nearly five points being scored in transactions exceeding 95,000.

Glen Alden Coal yielded more than a point after its nine-point rise yesterday. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal jumped five points on a small turnover.

Activity in the oil group was handicapped by revisions of prices necessitated by crude oil price cuts in the mid-continent field yesterday, prices being generally steady with fractional gains by the Standard Oil issues.

Strength of merchandising issues was a feature of the industrial list. McCrory Stores (new stock) jumping eight points, the Warrants 3 and National Tea 3. Radio shares were reactionary, Ware dropping about two points. Public utilities showed marked gains.

Chief speculative interest in the mining group was restricted to the silver producers in reflection of the higher price for that metal.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, July 29.—Big profit-taking sales here, together with rain in Canada, pulled down the wheat market today and gave a severe jolt to buyers of other grain. Nevertheless, the highest prices yet this season were reached for both corn and rye, and also for hogs and provisions. Wheat closed nervous; 1-4c to 1 3-4c net lower, September $1.33 3-4 to $1.33 and December $1.35 3-4 to $1.35 7-8, with corn unchanged to 1 1-4c up, oats unchanged to 3-4c down and provisions at 12 to 52 cents advance.

It was a day of swift changes of front among grain traders. A notable advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool in the face of rains in Canada made the wheat opening here irregular, ranging from 1-2c decline to 7-8c gain, but heavy selling, especially on the part of houses with eastern connections, forced the market down soon more than three cents in some cases. Frequent rallies ensued, but except at brief intervals the advantage remained with the bears.

Export business amounting to 1,000,000 bushels helped to bring about a closing rally in the wheat market.

Corn showed more stubborn strength than other grain, but during much of the day was evidently responsive to wheat weakness. A sensational advance in hog values was generally regarded as likely to bring about increased feeding demand for corn.

Oats were relatively weak owing mainly to immense sales by houses that recently have been giving the market its best support.

Provisions jumped as a result of active buying due to 70-cent rise in the hog market. Arrivals of hogs throughout the west today totalled only 90,000 as against 173,000 a year ago.

WIESENBURG SUFFERED FOR OVER TWO YEARS

Among the many well-known New York City business men who have publicly expressed their indebtedness to the Taniac treatment is Nat Wiesenburg, President International Sundries Co., Inc., 19 East 16th Street.

"By the help of Taniac," recently said Mr. Wiesenburg, "I have overcome a case of indigestion from which I had suffered for two years. I looked forward to meal time with dread, rather than pleasure as even the lightest of foods caused me distress and pain.

"I had no energy and felt wornout most of the time. And as my nerves were undone and my sleep unsound I got up mornings feeling as tired as on retiring at night. Taniac soothed and settled my stomach right from the start. Now I have a fine appetite, enjoy my meals, sleep peacefully at night and feel like a new man. In fact, Taniac has met every need in my case, and it is a pleasure to endorse it. I have also gained eleven pounds."

Taniac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

COLUMBIA

The regular summer weekly dance was held at Utley's hall Saturday evening, there being a good attendance. The guests have heretofore this year, been quiet in the arriving and leaving, but this time they were quite noisy in departing. As the hour was late it was quite disturbing.

Miss Millidred Little of Springfield has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Little, in spending her vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Hunt.

Rev. Charles C. Haun preached Sunday morning on Sin, saying that it does not always come labeled, but soon makes its presence felt, and can only be overcome by prayer and God's grace. The Christian Endeavor society met with the Andover society Sunday evening, the topic for discussion being Zeal.

Traveling by pedestrians on the state roads at the center of the town is getting dangerous. There is no place provided for persons to walk excepting on the highway, and the increasing number of cars, many of them traveling at a high rate of speed, makes it unsafe to walk on the roads. Cars in passing occasionally sound their horn, and the pedestrian steps aside into a dirty ditch or a sand pile, and the car in passing, frequently sprinkles the walker with sand, oil, tar or water. Pedestrians are entitled to some consideration which automobilists should be required to observe.

Fred T. Bunce of Norwich, a musician well known in Columbia was in town last week on business.

Mrs. Mary Burton of Whitneyville, was the guest of her mother Mrs. Willard Clarke Sunday.

The counter complaints of Henry Goldstein and Mike Neumax of Hop river, against each other for $55, which was adjourned to Friday last, were still further adjoined to Friday of this week. Goldstein was represented by Judge Foss and Neumax by lawyer Thomas J. Kelley both of Willimantic. The case was adjourned last week because Neumax could not furnish bonds for the costs of court. Both parties through counsel furnished the riquired bonds but a trial by jury was demanded, so the case was further continued until Friday evening.

Charles K. Hitchcock and his son-in law Raymond E. Clarke, celebrated their birthdays which occur within three days of each other, by a dinner at the home of the former Sunday.

An Original Story for the Screen by Elmer Harris Featuring MATT MOORE AND MADGE BELLAMY

A comedy drama with a lot of good laughs. It tells the story of a youth who thought he was a woman hater. He fell out of love, and then fell right in again despite his vows, when spurned by one girl, never again to trust womankind. But so skilfully did the Other Girl spin her love-web that he never had even half a chance to escape matrimony.

AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY

"To Give is to Receive"

Every yard of woolen or worsted fabric that comes from the looms represents a portion of almost every form of human endeavor. The wool growers, the railroad workers, the textile workers and the manufacturers and distributors of clothing—all contribute their share to the making of cloth and receive in turn the warmth and comfort of its use.

JEWETT CITY

The Ashland club house, grounds, casino, bathing beach and raft are to be used exclusively by the Rotary club conclave Thursday. The public is very generously given the privilege of bathing there every day, and will not doubt willingly vacate the premises Thursday, in favor of the visitors. The day's proceeding are to be attended by Rotary club members only, as this is not a public gathering.

Miss Cecil Howes has returned after six weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Arnold Rice in Hopkinton, Mass.

A most instructive article concerning the much maligned crow written by E. R. Kalmbach, assistant biologist, U. S. Biological Survey appeared in July Nature magazine. It is a very fair statement of both sides of the question, when apparently the daily press, sportsmen's periodicals, the lecture platform and advertising columns are proclaiming that the crow has few or no redeeming qualities—that it is an outstanding menace to other bird life, especially game and that it is universally destructive to crops. This writer claims there there is no question that on game farms, preserves or sanctuaries, where it is the desire to maintain certain forms of bird life in numbers often greater than normally decreed by nature, control of the crow is not only justifiable, but even necessary. There may be areas of greater size, when wild bird life is placed at a disadvantage through a local or temporary overabundance of crows and a thinning out process would be of benefit. To proclaim, however, that the crow is universally and continually so great a menace to game and other bird life that its destruction is justified on all occasions is a statement not warranted by facts. A critical examination of 2100 stomachs of crows collected in 40 states, the District of Columbia and several Canadian provinces disclosed the fact that about a third of one per cent. of the annual food of adult crows and one and one-half per cent. of that of the nestling is derived from wild birds or their eggs. About one in every twenty-eight adult crows and one in every eleven nestlings examined had eaten such food. In the case of nestlings this ratio no doubt presented an exaggerated idea of the work actually done, as in many instances several members of a brood had fed on parts of the same victim. Crow vandalism is at its worst during its own nesting season, a time early enough in the year to permit the laying of a second or even a third clutch of eggs, to be incubated when crows are less persistent. The crow is no exception to the rule that birds are chiefly valuable to us because they kill insects. Imagine a bird consuming 85 May beetles, 72 wire worms or 123 grasshoppers within an hour or two. Even the rankest of anti-crow partisans must admit that a bird doing this has actual powers for great good. When broods of four young may be found that have eaten four hundred grasshoppers, and other broods of seven, a total of more then 580 during a few hours, the beneficial influence of a crow family becomes evident. One particularly greedy individual had taken 143, the largest number of grasshoppers credited to the appetite of any one crow young or old.

The funeral of Mrs. Michael Hallisey was held from the home of her niece, Mrs. M. E. Shea, Tuesday morning. Solemn requiem mass was sung at St. Mary's church with Rev. J. J. McCabe, celebrant, Rev. P. P. Morrissey, deacon and Rev. J. J. Tyler, sub-deacon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Isbon, Rev. J. J. McCabe reading at the committal service. The bearers were M. E. Shea, J. T. Dolan, E. J. Carroll, Edward Walsh, James Welsh, and John Dwyer. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

WATER COMMITTEE REPORTS AT LIVELY BOROUGH MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

Jewett City, July 29.—An adjourned meeting of the freemen of the borough, to hear the report of Judge John T. Barry regarding the reason for the increase in his water rates, was held Tuesday evening, over 100 persons attending. Mr. Barry furnished a report of the Jewett City water company, which was the figures of their auditor, Walter Musgrave. These figures showed the revenue from 1923 to be $14,241.26. Under the new rates it would be $21,417.52 an increase of $7176.06.

Judge Barry's opinion was that legally the company could not ask for a sinking fund of $2,004.24 or the surplus $2316.13 which amounts to $4,320.37, included in this estimate. He made the motion that the committee be empowered to compromise for $17,500, the total revenue the Jewett City Water company could receive under the new rate and to report results at an adjourned meeting, Tuesday, Aug. 5th at 8 p. m.

After much heated discussion this was put to vote and was a tie, Warden Geary decided for the motion. The committee is John T. Barry, L. M. Carpenter, Matthew Geary, John McDermott and William McNicol.

MARS TO APPOSITION TO EARTH NEXT MONTH

The planet Mars, our nearest celestial neighbor away from the sun, will be in apposition to the earth on Aug. 22 and nearer the earth by hundreds of thousands of miles than it has approached since before 1800.

Twofold significance is attached to the fact in that recent observers of Mars claim to have seen flashes of light at different areas on the planet. Such phenomena, if verified by other observers at the forthcoming apposition, would prove beyond doubt that existence of intelligent life on Mars.

Percival Lowell, Boston and Harvard astronomer, who recently died, promulgated the "life" theory. Other savants have expressed their opinion that human beings may dwell on the neighboring planet.

William Henry Pickering of Harvard, who, through his recent observations at Mandeville, Jamaica, B. W. I., has earned the title of the world's greatest living authority on Mars, once startled the country by announcing that he had worked out a plan for flashing signals to Mars by means of a series of mirrors built more than a mile square. Prof. Pickering would not then and does not now express belief in the existence of mankind on Mars, but the Harvard savant is repeatedly making observations which, by his own descriptions, indicate that this possibility still exists in his mind.

He refers to the recently observed flashes of light in an article on Mars in the current number of Popular Astronomy in the following statement:

"At past appositions at least two observers thought they saw flashes of light coming from areas of the planet. These were optical illusions coming from eye strain," following which Prof. Pickering says:

"Nevertheless, should any observer (of the forthcoming apposition of Mars) feel reasonably sure that he has seen something of the sort, he must not hesitate to communicate it, be the case since before 1800 or than or two others seeing it at the same time in the same part of the planet the matter would then become of the greatest significance."

Prof. Pickering remarks: "It (Mars) will in August be nearer than has been the case since before 1800 or than will be the case until after 2,000; we will be the case until after 2,000; we shall approach it within 34,630,000 miles. A question of one or two million miles will make no difference to astronomers, but the thing that really interests them is that the planet will stay near us for a very long period of time, so that we can watch it through a very long portion of the year.

"We shall have the opportunity to observe the planet during the late fall and early winter particularly well. We shall get a better view of the southern hemisphere of the plan

CLOTH STOLEN FROM PONEMAH MILLS FOUND IN GREENEVILLE

A large quantity of cloth alleged to have been stolen from the Ponemah mills, Taftville, was recovered Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock in a raid at the home of Joseph Gurracha, No. 483 Boswell avenue, and as a result of the raid Gurracha is out on bonds of $500 for appearance in the local police court, charged with theft. The search was accomplished by evidence secured through the Mercantile Protective Service, organized and protected by the Watts Detective agency, Inc., Boston. The search was engineered by Capt. John P. Nowell of the Watts Detective agency, assisted by Police Officer Luke Riley of the local police force, Joseph D. Aiken, assistant superintendent of the Ponemah mills, and G. H. Hedler, second hand of the cloth room of the Ponemah mills.

The cloth, 113 yards in all, valued at $108.75, was found hidden in boxes, drawers, trunks and mattresses at Gurracha's home. It was identified by Mr. Hedler as cloth stolen from the mill. The cloth includes colored check goods, silk filled goods, marquisette, colored cotton shirtings, colored striped shirtings, fine lawn and fancy mercerized goods. The officers took possession of the cloth and it is now at police headquarters, where it will be used as evidence against Gurracha.

Both Gurracha and his wife, Sophia Gurracha, have been employed at the Ponemah mills, off and on, since about 1921. He has been employed nights as a jack tender and his wife has been employed days working on fly frames.

As there are four children in the family, the woman was not arrested. Gurracha was taken into custody and booked at police headquarters, being released on bonds of $500.

PROVIDE WATERING PLACES FOR HORSES IN NORWICH

Under the supervision of the Connecticut Humane society, through its district agent, Frederic H. Wyant, several large water pails were placed in different localities about Norwich Tuesday for the relief and comfort of horses, during the hot weather.

By this means, horses will have an opportunity of being refreshed with a cool drink, where watering troughs are not available, providing the driver will do his or her part in taking a few minutes to fill the pail and after watering the horse, return it to its place. It is hoped that this effort on the part of the Humane society will be appreciated and the pails used only as intended. Each pail bears the name Humane Society, so that it suggests for what use the pails are intended. The proper watering of a horse is quite as important as proper feeding. When the drinking fountains are closed, as they sometimes are, due to the reputed danger of contagion from glanders there is suffering among horses caused unless the driver is provided with a water pail to carry in his wagon. During the summer months a driver is expected to remember that his horse needs a drink just as often as he does. Any kindly disposed person may open a water station in the summer by displaying a card near the hose tap in the yard inviting drivers to stop and water their horses. Cards are furnished by the Humane society for this purpose.

General Manager H. Clay Preston was in Norwich recently in the interests of the society and is most desirous that animals should be protected and well cared for at all times and seasons; and under all circumstances. The life of dumb animals depends largely upon its owner, and if desired results are obtained, no person can be too conscientious or thoughtful in the duty performed toward animals.

The first thing to consider the Humane society says for the comfort of the horse is the kind of shelter he should have. In the city it is often difficult to provide a horse with a suitable stable but one owes it to him to do the very best possible in providing a roomy stall with plenty of clean bedding and ventilation, where he may rest comfortably after his hard day's work. Never allow a horse to lie on damp earth, stone or concrete flood. In the country where conditions are vastly different, a stall large enough for the horse to lie in comfortably, with a good supply of clean bedding and plenty of light and ventilation, may always be provided. Every stable should have suitable protection against the weather in winter, as well as ventilation in the summer. In the city it is a good plan on extremely hot nights, to tie the horse outside, to let him cool off. Drivers should never leave a horse at night without a good rub-down, brushing and cleaning, as well as carefully examining the animal's feet for wounds, nails, stones and other injuries.

The above is only due this faithful servant after a hard day's work, for which the only pay he receives is at the hands of his owner or driver; and it is the society's aim throughout Connecticut, to endeavor to have this dumb animal receive proper care and kind treatment.

The placing of water pails in locations through Connecticut cities as adopted by the Humane society, will insure much relief and comfort to work horses.

Those placed by District Agent Wyant in Norwich Tuesday, are in the following locations: Preston Bridge garage, Brnham square; Burlingham store, corner of Asylum and West Main streets; Motor Car pain shop, at 51 Sherman street, and the shed of the American Woolen Mill, adjoining Yantic post office. A sign attached reads, "Free Water For Your Horses." This is available in the above paces.

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL PLANS ANNUAL OUTING

Francis T. Diggins, grand knight of White Cross Council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus, made the announcement that arrangements have been completed, by the special committee appointed to consider the matter, for an outing of the members of the council to be held at "Happyland" at the Drawbridge, on Sunday, Aug. 10.

This will be pleasing news for the members of the council many of whom have been looking forward to this event with pleasurable anticipations and all who have had an opportunity to express themselves about the affair, are delighted with the location of the place selected. It is most accessible and can be easily reached by train, bus or automobile, and it is the feeling of the committee that it will be the biggest fraternal outing of the season, as it is confidently expected that a big percentage of the council membership will avail themselves of the opportunity for a day's outing at this delightful resort.

While a complete programme of exercises for the day has not yet been arranged, the committee states that a large number are planning upon leaving the city at 10 a. m. and from that time until noon there will be a steady stream of knights headed for "Happyland."

A clam chowder will be served at 12 o'clock d. s. t., and the big bake will be ready at 5 o'clock. During the forenoon there will be a baseball match between teams drawn from the married and single members of the council and an interesting and exciting game is expected. Arrangements for other athletic exercises will be made by a special committee which will be appointed to look after this feature. The committee which is arranged for the outing consists of the following members: Daniel J. O'Brien, chairman, Walter G. Casey, John G. Shea, Jr., Henry Gorman and Patrick M. Coleman.

CONN. STATE BANKS IN FINE CONDITION

With aggregate resources of $766,640,059, Connecticut state banks rank twelfth among state banks of the nation, New York state banks leading all others with resources of $9,037,654,594. This is shown by a statement presented by H. H. Sims, secretary of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks at the association's annual meeting in Buffalo, N. Y., last week. Deputy Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee has returned from the meeting, where he spoke reviewing legislation in this state affecting banking.

The statement presented by Mr. Sims shows that the 160 Connecticut banks had invested capital of $15,787,300 with a total surplus of $35,146,628 on March 31. Undivided profits amounted to $5,717,949 and deposits, including certified and cashiers' checks, amounted to $687,479,064. Loans and discounts amounted to $353,059,611 and the banks held a total of $277,106,283 in bonds, stocks and securities.

Mr. Shippee says that Mr. Sims declared the figures given for the banks of the nation are gratifying.

The association discussed the idea of the establishment of uniform banking laws for all states and also took up the subject of "Postal savings banks and their relation to state banks."

HUNTINGTON P. MEECH CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR

Representative Huntington P. Meech of West Hartford has announced his candidacy for the republican senatorial nomination in the Fifth district.

Representative Meech was house chairman of the insurance committee in the last session of the legislature. He represented West Hartford in the 1921 session, also, when he was a member of the same committee. Previously he had served three years up to 1920 as a member of the West Hartford board of finance.

He is a native of Norwich, 47 years old, and has been in the employ of the National Fire Insurance company, in Hartford, since he left the Hartford public high school.

The Fifth Senatorial district comprises Avon, Berlin, Bristol, Burlington, Farmington, Plainville, Southington and West Hartford, the combined population of which 52,813, according to the 1920 census. It is the third largest senatorial district, in point of population, in the state, only the Fifth district, in Waterbury, and the Twenty-seventh district, comprising Greenwich and Stamford exceeding it in this respect.

Mr. Meech's boyhood home was the present residence of Calvin H. Frisbie, on McKinley avenue.

BUS LINES WILL HANDLE LABORATORY SPECIMENS

Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of public health, has made arrangements with the owners of motor buses running between Hartford, New London, Norwich, Willimantic and Winsted, to convey to the state laboratory on Pearl street, Hartford, bacteriological specimens which may be given the drivers by local health officers in towns along their routes. At the present time the specimens are sent through the mail and are often delayed. The new system of transporting specimens will go into effect August 1.

The state department of health is paying special attention to the sanitary condition of summer camps throughout the state. There are about 100 such camps and two employes of the department have been assigned to the inspection of them.

WILL ATTEND JUNIOR SHORT COURSE AT STORRS

Announcement was made Tuesday at the office of the New London County Farm Bureau in this city that 35 children from various towns throughout the county will attend the sixth annual short course in agriculture and homemaking at Connecticut Agricultural college next month. The course will be held from August 3 to 13th.

It is the purpose of the junior short course to help reinforce the club work being done in the local communities by: Utilizing the college facilities for such work as cannot well be given in the local community. Capitalizing group spirit for the development of a stronger club morale. Presenting the need for rural leadership and by conducting work in such a way as will help develop this characteristic. Developing a desire for higher education, and to acquaint the young people of the state with the resources of their own state college.

The last day of the short course will be given over to the conduct of a typical club exhibit which will include displays, demonstrations, and judging contest. The exhibit will be staged and conducted by the club members. Exhibits will largely include products resulting from work in the various courses.

Evening vespers conducted daily by the short course members will be a feature of the course.

The last night of the short course August 12, a banquet will be given. This will be followed by several one-act plays which will be put on by the club members.

While the discipline of the short course will be under the general supervision of the college, a self-governing council will carry on the work.

The daily programme: 6.30 rising. 7 morning exercise. 7.15-7.45 breakfast. 8.15-11.45 classes and inspection trips. 12-12.30 dinner. 1.15-2.15 assembly. 2.30-4.15 laboratory work. 4.30-5.30 recreation. 5.30-6.30 supper. 7-8 vesteps. 8-8 evening programme. 9.30 lights out.

After breakfast Sunday all short course members will be expected to write letters home. Later in the morning a church service will be held at the community church on the campus. At this service a good speaker will talk to the young folks on some appropriate subject. The local service will be Protestant. Arrangements will be made whereby those who desire to attend the Catholic church can do so. Sunday will be observed as a day of rest. The morning sermon will probably be broadcasted by the college radio sending station thus enabling club members and their parents to "listen in."

Meals will be served at the college dining hall. The boys and girls will live in the college dormitories. One dormitory will be reserved for the girls and another for the boys.

The dormitories will be amply chaperoned and the general welfare of the boys and girls looked after.

CONN. COLLEGE AYRSHIRE PRODUCES SIX TONS OF MILK

Mauchlin Snowdrop 2nd, an Ayrshire, bred and developed at the Agricultural college at Storrs, has produced in eleven and one-third calendar years 101,729 lbs. of 4.25 per cent. milk, 4321.58 lbs. of butterfat, with butterfat tests taken every ten day period. During this time she completed eight consecutive yearly advanced registry records, her official production being 95,381 lbs. of 4.19 per cent. milk, 3993.68 lbs. of butterfat. Her latest official record is 13,042 lbs. of 3.96 per cent. milk, 516.20 lbs. butterfat, completed at over 13 years of age. This is the largest production made by a cow in Connecticut at this age.

Her life-time production of milk sold for $3518.22, netting $1557.76 above feed cost. In every year she has returned a substantial profit, even when milk brought its lowest price, $2.34 per 100 lbs. in 1913 and 1914, her product returned $176.20 above feed cost. She made her best record in 1918 giving 14,680 lbs. of 4.21 per cent. milk. Her feed record shows that she received an average of but 15 lbs. of grain that year. In her 13th year her profit amounted to $249.58.

In the City Court.

In the city court Tuesday morning Judge Arthur F. Libby fined one local man $5 and costs, totalling $15.50 for intoxication. Unable to pay his fine the man was taken to jail to serve time.

Leo Beauregard and Louis Allard of Taftville, charged with breach of the peace and destruction of private property had their cases nolled. Several children connected with the case were also in court. The arrests were made by Constable Paquette.

P. J. McGOWAN'S SON IS DECLARED INCOMPETENT

A former Lebanon resident is recalled by the New York item that Francis P. A. McGowan, only son of Patrick J. McGowan, former president of the board of alderman, has been declared legally incompetent by an Ohio court, it was disclosed in New York last week, when an accounting of his father's estate was filed by the Mechanics and Metals National bank, the executor. McGowan under the will, was to have received the income from $85,000 until he was 35 and thereafter the principal.

His wife Effie L. McGowan, has been appointed guardian of his person and property. Suit has been filed in the New York Supreme Court by Mrs. McGowan to void assignments made by his husband.

Young McGowan's father went from Lebanon a poor boy, making a fortune in New York. He was a special friend of the high school pupils, who adopted as their class flower in his honor the daisy—or the "gowan" as it is known in Scotland. He died some ten years ago.

Married Fifteen Years

At Noank when Mr. and Mrs. Philip Whipple entertained a party of relatives and friends recently at their home in celebration of their 15th wedding anniversary, about 40 were present from Norwich, New London, Mystic and Old Mystic. The house was decorated as well as the lawn where the tables were spread and a delicious luncheon was served. During the evening vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed. ... and Mrs. Whipple received many gifts.

APPOINT NORWICH MAN ON NOMINATING COMMITTEE

As required by the by-laws of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, Inc., the board of directors have appointed a nominating committee of five members, no two from the same county, whose duty it shall be to prepare nominations for officers and directors for election at the next annual meeting of the association. Names of the committee follow and their report will be placed in the hands of members of the association prior to Sept. 1st:

Chairman, J. Arthur Atwood, treasurer Wauregan company, Wauregan; Fuller F. Barnes, treasurer the Wallace Barnes company, Bristol; C. F. Dietz, president Bridgeport Brass company, Bridgeport; A. M. Van Wagenen, treasurer Atlantic Carton corporation, Norwich; B. I. Spock, general counsel N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co., New Haven.

In order that the committee may be fully informed as to the wishes of the membership at large, they particularly ask that suggestions be sent them by all members, and as promptly as possible inasmuch as the time permitted them for completing their work is short. These may be addressed to the chairman or to any member of the committee at the addresses given above.

The three officers to be chosen at the annual meeting, which will this year be held on Nov. 25, are president, vice president and treasurer. Four directors will be chosen to fill the vacancies caused by the expiring terms of the following, none of whom, according to the provisions of the by-laws, is eligible to re-election for a period of one year following the expiration of his term: M. W. Wilcox, Middletown; William Park, Stafford Springs; F. J. Kingsbury, Bridgeport; Oliver L. Johnson, Jewett City.

FRENCH CONDITIONS FOR EVACUATION OF THE RUHR

Compromise Proposal For Breaking the Deadlock in the Inter-Allied Conference Provides For Sectional Withdrawal of Troops—Belgian and French Forces Would Leave Hagen After the Flotation of the Dawes Plan German Loan of $300,000,000—Troops Would be Withdrawn Successively From Dortmund, Bochum and Essen After the Issue of Three Sections of 2,000,000,000 Gold Marks of German Industrial Railway Bonds—Conditional Provision is Otherwise Made For Evacuation of the Ruhr on August 15, 1925.

London, July 30.—The French compromise proposal for breaking the deadlock in the inter-allied conference provides for the evacuation of Hagen in the Ruhr by the French and Belgian troops after the flotation of the Dawes plan German loan of $300,000,000, according to the Havas News Agency.

After the issue of each of three sections of the 2,000,000,000 gold marks of German industrial railway bonds, the French nad Belgians would evacuate successively Dortmund, Bochum and Essen.

If the markets of the world are unable to absorb the issue of railway bonds, the troops would nevertheless definitely leave the Ruhr on August 15, 1926 on condition that the German reich had by that time fulfilled all obligations imposed by the Dawes plan.

An arbitration formula was also drafted to apply to diagreements of the reparation commission on questions of default, non-execution of German industrial contracts and appeals from decisions of the transfers committee of the reparation commission.

FRENCH PROPOSAL LAID BEFORE THE DELEGATES

London, July 30 (By the A. P.)—The new French proposal embodying Premier Herriot's rock-bottom offer in concessions to break the deadlock in the inter-allied conference was handed to Prime Minister MacDonald at 6 o'clock this afternoon and laid before the chief delegates, including American Ambassador Kellogg, who were gathered in the prime minister's room of the house of commons. The French delegates hope that the proposals will bring the allied delegates together on methods of launching the Dawes plan and at the same time reconcile the international bankers to the security for the Dawes plan loan to Germany.

If the new plan fails, the French say they have nothing more to offer. They do not submit the scheme in any sense as an ultimatum, and they emphasize that they are not looking out of the window toward a train waiting to take them back to Paris.

Nevertheless, they maintain that the document on which their experts have labored for the last 48 hours should provide a means of settlement. Unless it does they do not know what more they can do toward reaching a settlement which will put the Dawes plan to work.

After the adjournment of the delegates, Mr. Kellogg declined to comment on whether the French proposal would be acceptable until the American experts had studied it. But from other American observers, who have some knowledge of what the draft contains, it is learned that it is not expected that the plan will have easy progress when it starts along the rough political surface of the allied conference table in Downing street.

Strong objections from British sources are expected when the proposal is formally submitted to the allied experts at noon tomorrow. As for its being the last attempt toward reconciling the divergent views of the delegates about the best methods of applying the Dawes plan, a competent American observer said that "last steps" toward a compromise were being taken every day. First Great Britain, then France says they have given way for the last time, he added.

One delegate stated at a meeting the other day that "not even another half step" could be made and nevertheless compromise offers continue to be laid on the table and will continue to be for no allied delegation is willing to shoulder the responsibility for breaking up the parleys which were instituted to enforce an economic program for obtaining reparation.

On its face value the French proposal, as authoritatively interpreted, seems to be a great concession of French policy; but there are conditions and reservations attached which the allied experts are scrupulously studying tonight.

The proposal contains three main points, besides some features of the original plan for sanctions and defaults. The first point seeks to calm British fears that a sham German default may be declared by providing for a board of arbitration which will make a declaration of default by the reparation commission much more difficult to obtain than at present. The second point provides for the establishment of machinery to handle defects which may develop in the working of the Dawes plan, particularly in relation to deliveries in kind. The third provides for guarantees that Germany will not maneuver out of payments in kind. It also enables France to make new agreements extending the terms for payments in kind beyond the provisions of the Versailles treaty date, which is 1930.

Acceptance of these proposals involves modification of the Dawes plan, and this modification in itself is considered certain to meet with sharp opposition.

SIGNIFICANT MEETING OF HUGHES AND POINCARE

Paris, July 30.—(By the A. P.)—The meeting at a dinner given by American Ambassador Herrick this evening of Secretary of State Hughes of the United States and former Premier Raymond Poincare of France is regarded in French circles as the most significant of all of the events in which the American statesman has participated in Paris. It is difficult for Frenchmen to believe that the head of the American state department and the leading figure in French politics would allow such an occasion to pass without discussing momentous international questions.

The dinner, however, was arranged diplomatically without reference to politics of any sort. The presence of M. Franklin Bouillon, who is one of M. Poincare's strongest supporters in the radical party, it is explained, is entirely natural since he is the head of the foreign relations committee of the chamber of deputies and one of the persons who ought to be asked to meet the American minister of of foreign affairs.

Mr. Hughes and Mr. Herrick lunched with President Doumegue at the Elysee palace. This was followed at 5 o'clock by a more formal affair at the Elysee when the president received more than 800 members of the lawyers party.

Among the guests at the dinner this evening will be M. and Mme. Poincare, Argentine Minister De Toledo and Senora Toledo, Marshal and Mme. Petain, Marshal and Mme. Fayolle, M. Franklin Bouillon, Senator Lucien Hubert, president of the foreign relations committee of the senate; Vice Admiral and Mme. Grasset, Attorney General and Mme. Lescouve, M. and Mme. Becq De Fouquieres, Senator and Mme. Paul Dupuy, M. and Mme. Robert Fournier-Sarloveze, and M. and Mme. Paul Appell.

DAVIS REFRAINS FROM COMMENT ON MOBILIZATION

Aboard the Bar Harbor Express, En Route to New York, July 30.—Ready for his great political adventure, John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, is speeding back to New York tonight after two weeks of needed rest in the islands of Penobscot Bay. In the early stages of his journey several wayside receptions were held with some formal affairs at both Rockland and Bath.

Upon his arrival in New York tomorrow morning Mr. Davis will go direct to his personal headquarters in an uptown hotel.

While he has been greatly benefited by his stay in Maine, Mr. Davis frankly says he is glad to get back to headquarters. He has been out of touch with the political situation generally, so much so that he has declined to comment on developments. He refused today to discuss the declination of Governor Bryan of Nebraska, his running mate, to carry out the request of the president for a general mobilization of the army reserves next September.

"I am not sufficiently well informed on the subject to comment," said he.

BRITISH OPPOSED INCREASE ELEVATION OF GUNS

Washington, July 30—Disclosure in London today that the British government has made formal representations of the United States and Japan contending that in its opinion any increase in the elevations of the guns of existing battleships under the flag of any nation signatory to the Washington naval limitation treaty would be a breach of that treaty gave an entirely new aspect to the discussion of this subject which has been in progress in this country for two years or more.

The announcement was met with complete silence on the part of officials at the state department but at the navy department, Secretary Wilbur, speaking on the basis of press reports and not upon an official representations he may have seen, declared that "it is a good idea to have the question raised in order to have it settled." The announcement in London, it is believed in this connection, has served to give the question a diplomatic status it has not before known.

A. F. OF L. WILL KEEP FREE FROM POLITICAL PARTIES

Atlantic City, N. J., July 30.—Only one thing can be sure as to the political policy of the American Federation of Labor in the coming campaign, its president, Samuel Gompers, declared today, and that is that "we shall commit ourselves to no political party as partisans to a party."

Mr. Gompers' assertion was made in a statement issued on the eve of the meeting here of the federation's executive council, in which he discussed the political problems now confronting leaders of organized labor, and added:

"Neither I nor any other person can say what will be the result of the deliberations of our executive council until those deliberations have matured."

SEVEN SUMMER COTTAGES DESTROYED BY FIRE

York Harbor, Me., July 30.—Seven summer cottages across the road from the Albracca hotel, near the Norwood farms were destroyed by fire late today, causing an estimated loss of more than $100,000. The origin of the fire is said to have been a lighted cigarette carelessly thrown aside. The fire started at 4.30 and was under control at 7 p. m. The fire departments of Portsmouth, Kittery, Biddeford and Ogunquit, were summoned.

"Mystery" Woman in Denver Near Death

Police Believe Mrs. Gertrude Louise Ramsey Cooper Was Victim of Murder Attempt.

Denver, Colo., July 30.—A beautiful young woman found near death in the gas-filled kitchenette of an exclusive apartment house, in the fashionable Capitol Hill residential district yesterday, today was identified as the former wife of Joseph H. Cooper, Kansas City banker.

The woman, Mrs. Gertrude Louise Ramsey Cooper, who today is in a hospital, is, in the opinion of police, the victim of a probable murder attempt. She had not regained consciousness since being removed from the room and police investigators have been unable to gain any information as to the cause of her condition.

Mrs. Cooper today was identified by her mother, Mrs. Margaret O'Reilly Casey, as her second daughter. Mrs. Cooper's son, Paul Ransey, 12 years old, was visiting at the home of her grandmother here at the time his mother's body was found in the apartment and has been unable to shed any light on the mystery.

Mrs. Cooper, according to her mother, was divorced from her second husband, J. H. Cooper, four years ago at Wichita, Kansas. Since that time she has made her home in Denver, residing at a number of the exclusive hotels and apartmets in the city. She always appeared to be well supplied with funds and at all of the the places where she resided was regarded as a mystery woman. She made no friends and never spoke of her relatives.

According to her mother, Mrs. Cooper, then Gertrude O'Reilly, was married at Keytesville, Mo., on May 27, 1909, to Carlos G. Ramsey. Mrs. Ramsey obtained a divorce from Ramsey in the Denver county court in 1915, Judge Ira Rothgerber at that time granting her the custody of their child, Paul. The divorce was not contested by Ramsey at the time it came up for trial.

According to the woman's son, Mrs. Cooper received three telegrams Sunday from Mr. Cooper, who is believed to have been in New York. In one he is reported to have stated that he was coming to Denver to see Mrs. Cooper. Mrs. Casey declared Cooper was anxious to see his divorced wife in an effort to affect a reconciliation.

Mrs. Cooper was discovered in the kitchen of her apartment shortly before noon yesterday by the janitor, who was attracted by the smell of gas. She was lying unconscious on an improvised bed on the kitchen floor.

At first it was believed she was the victim of attempted suicide but examination of her body revealed the presence of a number of scars and discolorations, some apparently made by a hypodermic needle. The police then began to investigate a theory the she might have been the victim of a murder attempt.

Mrs. Cooper late last night was removed from the general hospital to a private hospital in the city at the request of Dr. Harry Honska, apparently the only intimate friend in Denver.

CALLED POLICE BECAUSE PIGEONS DISTURBED SLEEP

New Haven, July 30.—An excited Italian resident of Green street called police headquarters early today and asked for an officer.

"What for?" asked the sergeant in charge.

"I can't sleep," said the voice over the phone. "Ten thousand pigeon on my window sill make so much noise."

Investigation disclosed that a flock of pigeons from a nearby park were roosting all over the man's house. But the police could not think what to do about it.

400 EMPLOYES CALLED BACK TO WORK BY NEW LONDON SHIP AND ENGINE CO.

Government Has Agreed to Make Payment For Work Done and the Construction of Submarines Will Be Continued

New London, Conn., July 30.—Four hundred men, employes of the New London Ship and Engine company, which is building submarines for the United States government, were ordered back to work today by officials of the company. They were laid off six weeks ago when, it is charged by the company, the government was negligent in settling its bills for the boats under construction. Now, according to President Lawrence Y. Spear, the government has agreed to make payment for work done and the construction of the submarines will be cotinued.

President Spear, in announing the resumption of work, issued a statement in which he criticized the bookkeeping methods of the government and outlining the steps taken by his company in securing payments due.

President Spear's statement follows:

"The day when the United States government could be considered a good or even an honest customer appears to have gone by. As things are now managed in Washington, the government creditor's lot is not a happy one. Contractors, who are doing work for the government can no longer count upon prompt payment of their approved bills and in many cases cannot secure payment at all except by special action of congres.

"The root of the whole trouble lies in the division of authority between the general accounting office presided over by the comptroller general and the executive departments, which order goods or services from private parties.

"A local repercussion of this situation resulted in the laying off of several hundred men employed at the plant of the New London Ship and Engine company, which company is completing submarines S-42 to 47 under sub-contract for the Electric Boat company, the main contractor with the navy department.

"In this particular instance the contract permitted the contractor to suspend work in the case of continued failure by the government to make payment when due, and the suspension of the work was effective in bringing about resumption of payments when all other methods failed.

"This recourse is, however, not always open to the contractor, either by reason of lack of specific provision in the contract or by reason of the fact that the payments delayed are for work already delivered to the government. In fact, approved bills aggregating several hundreds of thousands of dollars have been for may months overdue to the Electric Boat company on account of submarines already delivered during the past two years from the local plant.

"No dispute exists between the contractors and the navy deparemnt with respect to the quality or quantity of the work done or the correctness of the bills; the hold-up being due entirely to the internal differences between the navy department and the general accounting office with respect to government bookkeeping.

"The recent dereliction of the government are more aggravating and injurious by the fact that through similar causes the navy department has failed to pay bills of the same contractors for work done on previous contracts in 1918 and 1919, the bills aggregating nearly $4,000,000. It appears from this and similar cases that the government, far from setting an example of business probity, is conducting much of its business in a manner which would, in the case of a private corporation, debar it from decent business associations."

30 Persons Injured in Collapse of Building

Main Building For Branch River Wool Combing Company in Woonsocket Blown Down.

Woonsocket, R. I., July 30.—The collapse of the main building of a $1,000,000 group under construction for the Branch River Wool combing company today caused injuries to 30 persons, 13 of whom were taken to hospitals. It was said one laborer might die.

There were fifty men in and about the structure when the steel frame and supports of the saw tooth roof buckled, dropping a large portion of the roof to the ground. The arm of one man was severed. Many escaped by runnings, a man on a tower having seen indications of the accident in time to give the alarm.

The building was a one story structure, with basement, 392 feet long and 238 feet wide. The Branch River Wool Combing company is a subsidiary of Prouvost and Lefebre, of Roubaix, France. Its plant is at Branch village on the outskirts of this city.

The collapse occurring during a sudden gust of wind which came at the tag end of a thunder storm in which very little rain fell.

Those seriously injured were:

Nicholas Lopes, negro, 33, Woonsocket, broken right arm and cuts.

George Parent, 21, Woonsocket, injury to chest and spine, also severe cuts.

Some 15 others suffered minor injuries.

ASSURANCE FOR SAFETY OF AMERICANS IN PERSIA

Washington, July 30.—Assurances that American citizens in Persia are safe have been given Joseph S. Kornfeld, American minister at Teheran and forwarded by him to the state department. The minister's dispatch to the department, made public today by Acting Secretary Grew, said: "The government has given assurances as to the safety of American citizens. Teheran is under martial law and perfectly tranquil. The least disturbance in the provinces will cause martial law to be proclaimed there also."

While the department's announcement made no reference to the instructions cabled Minister Kornfeld, covering the murder of Vice Consul Robert Imbrie and the subsequent attack upon his widow, Mrs. Katherine G. Imbrie, it was understood that the Persian goverment had complied with the suggestions made by the American minister at the direction of the department.

MOOSE TO MEET NEXT YEAR IN BALTIMORE

New York, July 30.—Baltimore today was chosen as the meeting place for next year's convention of the Loyal Order of Moose. Birmingham, Ala., Grand Rapids, Mich., San Francisco, Chicago, Boston, and thirty other cities sought the honor.

Secretary of Labor Davis told the delegates of the "penny fund" of the Moose in which $228,000 has already been paid in toward the support of "Moosehaven" in Florida, a home for aged and indigent members of the order of both sexes. He asked that this fund be raised to "half a million dollars by the next convention meeting."

ONE KILLED, 27 INJURED IN LONG ISLAND ROAD WRECK

Several Cars Jumped the Rails, One of Them Sideswiping a Locomotive on an Adjacent Track at Woodside—13 Seriously Injured Were Brought to the Pennsylvania Station, New York, and Transported to Bellevue Hospital.

New York, July 30.—A woman was killed and 27 persons were injured, 13 of them seriously, late this afternoon when several cars of an express train on the Long Island railroad jumped the rails, one of them sideswiping an electric locomotive on an adjacent track, at Woodside, L. I. The 13 seriously injured were brought to the Pennsylvania station in a special ambulance train and then transported to Bellevue hospital.

The injured were passengers on an express train bound from the Pennsylvania terminal to Port Washington, L. I., at 5.31 p. m. While passing through Woodside railroad yards, the last three of its nine passenger coaches jumped the rails, as a result of the premature throwing of a hand switch.

The first of the three rear cars grazed an electric locomotive on an adjacent track, was thrown on its side and the other two were derailed.

According to a report at the Pennsylvania terminal, the hand switch was turned by J. B. Moore, a helper on the electric engine.

As soon as officials of the rail were notified of the collision a call for ambulances was dispatched to Bellevue and to hospitals in Flushing and Long Island City. A special train rushed thirteen of the most seriously injured to the Pennsylvania station, from where they were sent to Bellevue. Of those hurt were taken to St. John's hospital, Long Island City and five to Flushing hospital.

There were approximately 700 persons on the wrecked train. Following the first signs of panic after the accident the passengers made systematic efforts to succor the injured.

Those who were most seriously hurt were taken aboard the special train and given first aid attention en route to New York.

A few minutes after the accident Mayor Hylan, who had been notified arrived at the scene in his limousine.

LEGAL DEVELOPMENTS IN THE FRANKS MURDER CASE

Chicago, July 30.—(By the A. P.)—Whether mental disease constitutes insanity or only a degree of responsibility that can be considered in mitigation of sentence was the problem presented today to Judge John R. Caverly. He hears the responsibility of deciding the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, and the legal puzzle was put up to him today when the defense started.

Judge Caverly flatly overruled an objection by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, to any evidence bearing upon the mental condition of the defendants. Despite this fact the prosecutor insisted upon being heard, saying:

"If this hearing results in a sentence of death, the order of the court would not be worth the paper it was written on. It would surely be appealed to the supreme court and if you admit evidence concerning any degree of insanity I will confess error in the upper court."

"I don't care what is done with this case after I get through with it" retorted Judge Caverly.

He pointed out that the defense had specifically announced from the beginning and repeated today their determination not to plead insanity as a legal defense and added:

"I will not admit such evidence if they offer it."

The court, however, allowed the state to present its arguments without limitation and they continued throughout the day. At the end of the proceedings they were still in progress, and Mr. Crowe said they would extend into tomorrow.

REPRESENTED PEARLS AS FROM TOMB OF "KING TUT"

New Haven, July 30.—"Pearls" which the police say were claimed to come from the tomb of "King Tut" were being offered to customers here by Eli Shaver, 48, Abraham Japan, 28, and Braham France, 28, Syrians, all claiming Brooklyn, N. Y., as a residence, when the trio were arrested today and held on technical charges of "going from place to place without lawful occasion." The three men, according to the police, attempted to sell some of their pearls to three police headquarters detectives, who made the arrest. The pearls were first offered for $7 each but when the the three detectives affected disinterest in the "wonderful opportunity," the price was reduced to $1 each. Police are making inquiry in other places, where complaints have been made of similar operations. It was said that the pearls had been offered for sale in Greenwich for from $40 to $80 each.

A NUMBER PROSTRATED BY HEAT IN NEW YORK

New York, July 30.—New York sweltered today—the hottest day of the summer. At 3 p. m. the mercury touched 91 degrees, the second warmest July 30 in the history of the local weather bureau. The record for July 30 was 95 in 1917. A number of prostrations were reported.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST FOREST FIRES IN MASS.

Boston, July 30.—State Forester W. A. L. Bazeley today took steps to minimize the danger of forest fires as a result of the protracted drouth. To all forest wardens he sent a letter requesting that they issue no further permits for fires in the open air until further notice, and that all permits now outstanding be revoked immediately.

FINANCIAL REPORT OF HENRY FORD'S RAILROAD

New York, July 30.—Henry Ford's railroad, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, cleared the half year with net operating income of $1,510,227, an increase of $650,000 over the first half of 1923. June net, however, showed a decline to $98,965 from $216,188 for June 1923.

$100,000 FIRE DAMAGE ON FARM NEAR PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

Portsmouth, N. H., July 30.—Fire tonight, destroyed a cottage, three large barns and numerous smaller buildings on the Winchester farm, owned by H. C. Taylor, of Worcester, Mass., causing a loss of approximately $100,000. The main buildings of the farm, one of the largest farming estates in New Hampshire, which is being converted into a hotel, was saved. Help was summoned from Hampton to fight the flames.

POLICEMAN HELD FOR ASSAULTING COMEDIENNE

Chicago, July 30.—Police Magistrate Henry G. Williams of Evanston, today ended temporarily the argument in his court as to whether the police of Cicero beat Rosetta Duncan, comedienne, and the "boys" of the stage or whether Miss Duncan assaulted the policemen, by ordering Charles Widlock, one of the officers, held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

A big audience of court fans which had been forced to adjourn from an Evanston theatre rented by the audience for the occasion to arouse feeling when the theatre management wanted the playhouse for a matinee greeted the decision with cheers.

Rosetta testified during the day that she was beaten by Widlock and several other policemen when she attempted to joke with them about arresting her brother, Harold for a traffic law violation while the Duncan and friends were driving through Cicero the Fourth of July. She suffered a broken nose, a cracked rib and a black eye, she said.

The burly officers had another story to tell. They claimed that Miss Duncan became abusive and that when they attempted to restrain her, she not only scratched them, but bit and kicked as well. Attorneys for the policemen maintained that Widlock might accidentally have struck Rosetta's nose, but declared that the officer could not thus have broken her nose. An assistant state's attorney designated Policeman Widlock's fist as "a deadly weapon" maintaining that Miss Duncan weighed only 110 pounds while the officer tipped the scales at 225, and that the difference in avoirdupois made an attack upon the plaintiff an attempt to kill.

HELD IN PORTCHESTER FOR WATERBURY MURDER

Portchester, N. Y., July 30.—John King, colored, 44, of 244 Abbott avenue, Waterbury, charged with murder in Waterbury, Saturday evening was ardested on complaint of the Waterbury authorities this evening and is held without bail for extradition.

King, it is claimed by the Waterbury authorities, became involved in an argument with William Robinson of Waterbury, Saturday evening, and slashed the latter with a razor so badly that he died in the Waterbury hospital Sunday evening.

King escaped from the scene of the alleged assault and made his way to Portchester, where he secured employment as a laborer under the alias of John Greene. Receiving word that his presence in Portchester, the Waterbury police arrived here this evening and requested the arrest of the man.

NOT CRIMINALLY LIABLE FOR KILLING POLICEMAN

New Haven, July 30.—Mrs. Mary L. Coan, who on July 23 operated the automobile which struck and killed Traffic Policeman Lawrence Murphy, is not criminally liable, according to Coroner Eli Mix, who handed down an official finding today.

The coroner said that the testimony was conflicting as to just how the accident occurred, but he finds that Patrolman Murphy gave the signal to Mrs. Coan to go ahead, that she drove her car forward at a slow rate of speed and that her machine hit the policeman, knocking him down.

Murphy sustained a compound fracture at the base of the skull and a crushed chest. He died a short time after the accident in the hospital.

ANOTHER COMFORTABLE DAY FOR SENATOR LODGE

Cambridge, Mass., July 30.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge experienced a very comfortable day despite the heat. He was reported to have felt thoroughly rested, this being the third day following an operation for a bladder ailment.

At 6 p. m., Dr. John M. Cunningham issued the following bulletin:

"Condition continues satisfactory."

As yet no decision has been reached as to the date for the second operation.

RALPH MILLER DROWNED IN POND IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, July 30.—Ralph Miller 38, for 15 years head waiter at the Elton and well known in the state, was drowned tonight in Reidville pond, a short distance from his home. He had gone to the pond shortly after eating supper and it is believed he was seized with a cramp. For the past year he has bee employed by a Boston hotel.

WILLIMANTIC

More enthusiastic reports are coming from the Boy Scouts who are camping at Holmes Farm, near Columbia lake. The boys are being well remembered with gifts of good things to eat by their relatives and friends and were overjoyed Wednesday morning when Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte appeared at the camp with his car well filled with tempting eats. There was a large bunch of bananas, a peck of roasted peanuts, 15 pounds of mixed candies, six large watermelons, half a bushel of plums, 10 dozen buns, two packages of frankfurters, a box of fancy cookies, a large ham, a case of peaches, four bottles of coffee, ez-tup for iced coffee, also choice smokes for the scoutmasters.

At Recreation Park over the week-end, the Willimantic outfit is to engage in a bill which takes in the Torrington team and New Britain. The New Britain outfit is a formidable aggregation which has been stepping up to the front line in the league in rapid strides. Torrington is tied with Manchester for third position and things are looking good for the Hardware City. With the loss of Walter Wolfe, who has joined the ranks of the Hartford Senators, Pete Woood and "Rube" Richards will be depended upon in the coming engagements. Torrington is dangerous. After a 14-inning game with the Thread Makers here a few weeks ago, the westerners promise to be a good drawing card.

It appears that this summer will not be any different from past seasons as regards the coming on of the winter months and freezing period with several concrete sidewalk applications left on file. Each year the number of applications for laying walks on city streets becomes more numerous and this year there is danger that the appropriation which the city makes for the work will be used up and that a number of applicants will be left unsatisfied. Some of the property owners who fear that their requests for concrete will not be filled this year are talkin- of calling a special city meeting to vote an additional appropriation which goes toward paying for a portion of the walk-laying.

Being watched with interest by the city fathers and residents of the city is the water situation in Willimantic. The pumping station pond is down to 31 inches below normal level, it was stated Wednesday, by Superintendent Willard N. Bowen. The pumps have been in operation the greater part of every day for the past six weeks. Extra water has already been purchased from the Hall storage pond in Westford, it was made known by Superintendent of the Water Works Henderson S. Moulton. Street Superintendent John S. Sullivan has been notified by Acting Mayor George W. Hickey to suspend the use of water for flushing the Main street block paving on Sunday mornings, as customary. If the drought keeps up a few more days it is expected that further orders to curtail water waste will be issued.

The application of Howard W. Green for the removal of his wife, Hattie E. Green of Walnut street, as guardian over their four children will be heard by Judge of Probate Otto B. Robinson, August 9. The couple are the parents of the following children: Marshall 10, Russell 8, Raymond 8, and Harold 7. According to the notice served on Mrs. Green by City Sheriff Killourey Wednesday the petitioner has been separated from his wife for the past three months and during that time the children have been allowed to roam at large without supervision and correction, thereby falling into habits of lawlessness and vice. Mr. Green further petitions for his appointment as guardian.

Through incorrect information on Wednesday it was stated that Joseph Simpson has resigned at the American Thread company plant. The defective who gave such information considered his imbecility a joke.

National Defense Day will in all probability be observed here as in every other community in the country. Captain W. P. S. Keating, M. D., prominent in this section as a veterans' welfare worker, has already been communicated with by authorities and it is expected that the preliminary steps will be taken soon to enlist the services of social and civic organizations about the city to participate in the activities of Defense Day. Although interpreted by some as "mobilization day" and referred to as a warlike demonstration, the day is not in any way a military one. Uniformed organizations, such as the local body of the Connecticut National Guard will undoubtedly take part but the real purpose of the day is to train civilians and "domesticated men and women" to take proper action and do the proper thing at the proper time. In practically every country in Europe military training is compulsory for periods ranging from one to three years. Every year these countries have a real Mobilization Day.

Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, B. P. O. E. has formally accepted an invitation from Rockville lodge, No. 1359, to be the mainstay of Willimantic night, in connection with the outdoor frolic in that city Aug. 16. Elaborate preparations are being made by the Loom City boys and a warm reception is looked forward to by the Thread Cityites. Exalted Ruler Valentine L. Murphy has made his appointments of a committee in charge as follows: Albert J. Fournier, John O'Rourke, Raymond C. Comins, Bert F. Moore, Conrad Dubeau, Gilbert P. Flynn and James F. McGlone.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bassette, of Warrenville, entertained in the afternoon this week on the 13th birthday of their daughter, Winifred. Friends of Miss Bassette who attended were: Anna Metsack, Lila Brewer, Doris Brewer, Julia Winski, May Kiss, Elizabeth Borgs, Rosalie Gude and Gladys and Winifred Bassette. Mrs. A. J. Gude assisted the hostess.

Miss Hilda Berard, newly appointed assistant city clerk upon recommendation of a special committee of the board of aldermen has taken up her duties. She succeeds Miss Mae Cheney, resigned.

The gymnasium, locker rooms and swimming pool room at the Y. M. C. A., have been renovated and now present a most pleasing appearance. The paint had dried and the departments are again open to members.

With the resignation of Peter Roy the contract held by him for a number of years to transport Sunday mail from the Norwich trolley terminal to the local postoffice at 8.05 a. m. is open.

The welfare of the employes of the Rossie Velvet company was taken into consideration Wednesday afternoon and on account of the oppressive heat which brought the mercury up to 94 degrees, the plant was closed down during the afternoon. Released from the plant, the employes lost little time in heading for cool spots and water resorts.

A special trolley is to leave Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry for the accommodation of patrons of the baseball benefit dance at the Lakeside casino.

Improvements being carried out at the postoffice include the installation of a new carrier's desk, which will be used by Carrier William Greer and a special rack for S. O. D. parcel post matter.

Willimantic Exchange club held its weekly luncheon at noon Wednesday. No business was transacted and the charter still remains open. In attendance were: President Dr. George E. Wilcox, Arthur E. Morrill, Edwin P. Hayes, George S. Elliott, Dr. F. E. Guild, Frank M. Lincoln, Samuel Chesbro, Dr. C. E. Simonds, R. E. Mitchell and Secretary Roderick A. Jodoin. Roy Eldredge of Hartford was a guest of the club.

FARMERS' WEEK, STORRS— BIG DAY WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, July 30.—The registration of dairymen and cattlemen at the Connecticut Agricultural College who are attending Farmers' Week is several times larger than in previous years, according to Professor Richard E. Dodge, chairman of the committee. Hundreds arrived at the college Tuesday. A large number of poultrymen and bee men gathered at conferences Tuesday and Wednesday. The conferences began at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and lasted until 7.45 p. m., when Miss Elizabeth MacDonald gave an address in the armory. At a morning conference of special interest F. W. Knipe, specialist in farm engineering, spoke on Safeguarding the Water Supply. Other speakers who were heard in connection with the morning program included Prof. H. L. Garrigus, head of the animal husbandry; Prof. W. F. Kirkpatrick of the poultry department; Dr. B. F. Kaupp of the North Carolina state experiment station and Prof. R. H. Patch. Visitors have been requested through posted notices to use the water at the college as carefully as possible. Several residents of Mansfield have resorted to spring water for a supply and the college is using the deep well which furnished the water supply fifteen years ago.

Wednesday, designated as Connecticut Day, was the banner day of Farmers' Week. The various conferences and features on the program were attended by nearly 2,000 farmers. Lieut.-Gov. Hiram Bingham was the speaker. The stock parade was a feature of the program.

HOW PUTNAM MAN WON HONOR MEDAL

Not long since Henry Breault of Putnam, a sailor in the United States navy, was awarded a congressional medal of honor for bravery and was doubly honored by the fact that President Coolidge pinned the medal on him.

The facts surrounding the acts of heroism which won the highest honors for the Connecticut sailor have been meager up to this time, owing largely to Breault's modesty. Relatives in Putnam heard only a few facts. A recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post in the second of a series of articles on "Submarine Sleuths and War Salvage" by David Masters, graphically describes Breault's daring deed as follows:

"As recently as the last days of October, 1923, two gallant American seamen, Henry Breault and Lawrence Brown, were immured for 30 hours in a submarine at the bottom of a bay near the Panama Canal. Breault most heroically dashed into the ship as she was sinking to see if he could assist anybody who happened to be within. He found Brown asleep in the torpedo room, and they just succeeded in closing the door when the O-5 went down in 40 feet of water.

"There was not a morsel of food aboard, not a drink of drinking water. First the lights failed, then the batteries exploded and caused a fire which blazed furiously for some time.

"Meantime, a third man, Charles Butler, caught in the engine room, took refuge in an air pocket, stripped off his clothes, and made for the hatchway. Emulating the plucky fellow who escaped from the British submarine, he thrust open the hatch. So enormous was the pressure that he was blown right out of the water, breaking the surface like a leaping salmon. He was soon picked up, after being at the bottom for eight minutes.

"In three hours the two other prisoners heard the knocks of a diver and knew that attempts were being made to rescue them. Nine hours later they felt the submarine begin to move upward. For a little time she continued to rise, then their hopes were dashed by a sharp snapping sound and they felt their craft fall with a bump to the bottom again.

"Another 18 hours passed before they felt the submarine again begin to rise, moving so slowly that both men were consumed with anxiety. The maddening clock ticked on as the craft was pulled up. Water splashed on the deck, the pent-up air gushed out, footsteps sounded and they knew deliverance was at hand. Breault pushed open the hatch and both men stood blinking blindly in the dazzling sunshine.

"Their heads reeled. So sick and ill were they owing to the sudden change of pressure that grave danger was averted only by quickly placing them in another submarine and then slowly reducing the pressure in accordance with the recognised diving practice. Thus they came unscathed through their dreadful trial."

Breault has been in the United States navy about three years. About one year before the above experience he narrowly escaped death in another thrilling adventure, when the submarine O-5 was submerged off the Virgin Islands, imprisoning the crew for hours.

During the war he failed in attempts to enlist in the United States navy owing to his youth, but he succeeded in taking a hand in the big scrap by enlisting in the British navy. He saw active service and on the completion of that enlistment returned to this country and signed up under the Stars and Stripes.

What Kind of Blood Have You?

Thin, Pale and Watery—Keeping You Weak, Nervous and Run-Down—
Or Rich, Red, Healthy Blood With Plenty of Iron In It To Give You
Strength, Energy, Power and Endurance

Physicians Say Organic Iron is Red Blood Food

How Nuxated Iron—Proven Strength-Builder of The Blood—Helps Give Renewed Strength and Energy to Men and Puts Healthy Color Into The Cheeks of Women.

Plenty of iron makes rich, red corpuscles like these.

If you tire easily, if you look pale, haggard and worn, if you feel generally weak, nervous and run-down it would probably astonish you to look at a drop of your own blood under a powerful microscope and compare it with a drop of pure, healthy blood—rich in iron. Actual blood tests show that a tremendously large number of people who are weak and ill lack iron in their blood and they are ill for no other reason than lack of iron. Iron deficiency paralyses healthy, energetic action, pulls down the whole organism and weakens the entire system.

There are thousands whose bodies are ageing and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying that perfect bodily health which cries defiance to disease simply because they are not awake to the condition of their blood. By allowing it to remain thin, pale and watery they are not giving the natural life forces of the body a chance to do their work. Yet others go through life apparently possessing year after year the elasticity, the strength and the energy of earlier days. Through their bodies courses the energy and power that comes from plenty of red blood—filled with strength-giving iron. Iron in red blood food and organic iron—Nuxated Iron—helps to build up the red blood corpuscles and give increased power and endurance.

"For want of iron you may practically be an old woman at from 30 to 35, weak, downhearted and "all fagged out." You may be in such a highly nervous irritable state that you go all to pieces" on the slightest provocation, while at 50 or 60 with good health and plenty of iron in your blood, you may still be young in feeling and so attractive and full of life as to defy detection of your real age.

It's not always the youngest women that is most sought after—there is an indescribably alluring fascination in the rosy cheek, the inviting lips and sparkling eyes of a woman whose blood is filled with iron. You may be afflicted with iron starvation of the blood and not know it, just as thousands of other women are.

It is said that about one person in three in America today suffers more or less from malnutrition—lack of nourishment—which is caused not by lack of food, but in many cases, by lack of sufficient iron in the blood to enable you to get the strength and nourishment out of your food. Indoor life, overeating and modern methods of cookery are sapping the iron from the blood of hundreds of thousands of women.

To make up for the great loss of iron caused by the life men and women of today are compelled to lead they should eat more iron-containing vegetables and fruits such as spinach and baked apples and take organic iron like Nuxated Iron from time to time to help enrich their blood and revitalize their worn-out, exhausted nerves.

Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such a highly condensed form that one dose of it is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen apples. It's like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat.

Millions of people are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It often increases the bodily and mental vigor, strength and endurance of weak, nervous, "run-down" folks in two weeks' time. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of substitutes. Nuxated Iron comes in tablets only—never in liquid form. Always look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letter N. I. on every tablet.

NUXATED IRON ENRICHES THE BLOOD-GIVES YOU NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sale on Cliff.. Street

The three apartment brick house numbers 40, 42 Cliff street owned by Max Rabinovitch has been sold to William Gonet, who will occupy one of the apartments.

Sale made through Murphy and McGarry.

PALACE THEATRE

Today, Friday and Saturday Matt Moore and Patsy Ruth Miller are to be seen together on the screen in the First National release, A Self-Made Failure, which William Beaudine directed. Moore has long been one of the most popular leading men and Miss Miller's name is becoming more and more of a box office drawing power with each new film in which she appears. Despite the popularity of these players the producer has realized the wisdom of an all-star cast and the result is an assembly of players that cannot help putting over a picture with any audience.

Lloyd Hamilton, who enacts the title role, has forsaken his own productions to appear in this picture. Ben Alexander, who held the spotlight of McDonald's Penrod and Sam and Boy of Mine, is again cast in one of the big roles. McDonald's consistency as a good producer enabled him to "borrow" "Chuck" Riesner from the Charlie Chaplin company and to obtain the services of such talent as Matt Moore, Patsy Ruth Miller, Sam De Grasse, Mary Carr, Victor Potel, Dan Mason, Alta Allen, Harry Todd and Joe McCray. Cameo, the intelligent bull terrier completes the principals of the cast but the fact must not be overlooked that even the "bits" in this McDonald production have been filled with well known artists whose names will add weight to the drawing power of the players.

Special added attractions, Making Moving pictures on the stage a delightful comedy will be filmed with a cast of players composed entirely of local men and women. The stage will be turned into a studio, one complete scene will be taken at every performance, actual movie scenes made in full view of the audience, these pictures which are to be taken today, tomorrow and Saturday will be shown here next week Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Don't fail to be here and Get in the Movies! No advance in prices.

BROADWAY THEATRE

The management of the Broadway theatre has a real treat in store for the patrons of that popular playhouse for the last half of this week. It is described as a midsummer treat and consists of five big time B. F. Keith vaudeville acts and a real big picture.

Hilda Clifton and Co. heads the list of acts with a novel song and dance revue. Delightful entertainment is assured.

As an extra added attraction Tom Dooley will show you what a real comedian is able to do.

Curville Reader and Curtis Armstrong Originators of Humorous Eccentricities have a surprise in store for all.

The laugh producers Pierce and Gluck in I've Got Another One will hold their own on any stage.

Last but not least you'll see the sensational Japanese novelty with Tan Arakes and Co. in the sensational foot balancing ladder.

A Girl of the Limberlost, the Film Booking Office attraction at the Broadway theater, is a picture that is an inspiring story of life worth while. Adapted from the novel by Gene Stratton-Porter, it brings to the screen all the riches and beauty of this widely read out-of-doors romance.

The scenes of the book made famous by the word painting of the authoress are now revealed on the screen, interwoven with a romance whose pathos and tender sentiment will make the picture as well remembered as the original book story.

Breed Theatre.

Sparkling with original humor, rollicking complications and enhanced by a number of real thrills and enjoyable moments of suspense, Elmer Harris' original story of "No More Women" featuring Madge Bellamy, Kathleen Clifford, Matt Moore and a cast of splendid characters opened its engagement at the Breed theatre yesterday and sent those who witnessed it home in high spirits.

No More Women will be shown again today for the last times.

Defying death, by riding amidst a drove of wild horses, under the belly of Tony, his famous horse, to escape his pursuers, Tom Mix will burst into the Breed theatre tomorrow for a two day engagement of "Mile-a-Minute Romeo," his most recent William Fox effort.

Demonstrating a decided penchant for thrills, this production is pronouncedly the only one in which Tom Mix exposes his entire bag of equestrian tricks.

Lyceum Theatre, New London

When W. C. Fields, star of Poppy, which comes to the Lyceum theatre in New London, August 1st and 2nd, motored out to Yellowstone park last month, he was taking the first vacation in his quarter of a century on the stage. There were a few weeks between the closing of Poppy in New York, where it had been running a year, and its Boston opening, so Mr. Fields snatched them, as he never expects such good fortune again.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Operations have commenced on excavating for an addition that is to be built to the plant of the Larkin Reed company on East Franklin street. The addition is to be 30 by 50 feet, two stories in height and built of cement blocks The lower floor of the addition will be fitted as a machine shop, this allowing for the release of space now occupied by machine shop equipment in the present building and permitting the expansion of the manufacturing end of the business.

The Larkin Reed company is one of Danielson's oldest industries. It was established in 1850 and since has regularly continued to turn out reeds for use in weaving operations in cotton, woolen and worsted plants through all the textile centers of the country, some of the firm's accounts being with firms as far distant as Texas.

The concern has an enviable reputation for manufacturing reeds of very superior quality, it being a matter of pride with the company that its products shall be as near perfection as possible. This is generally known and appreciated in manufacturing circles and has been a big asset in holding and building the business of the firm.

An evidence of the Larkin Reed company's standing is that it has been operating continuously throughout all the period of depression in the textile industry and is continuing on a full time schedule. It is the only concern of its kind located in eastern Connecticut.

The Larkin Reed company is owned by William L. Ross, John B. Bassett and Alfred W. Bassett, John B. Bassett being in active charge of the concern and directing its manufacturing operations.

Work on the new addition will be rushed so that it may be completed late in the summer and equipped by early fall. This addition will greatly enhance the concern's position to maintain its successful operations and to increase them as opportunity offers.

If ever a warning commanded attention, that against carelessness with matches, lighted cigarettes and cigars and with camp fires near woodland territory should make all pause and consider just now.

The entire countryside is as dry as tinder. With practically no rain for week, the danger of starting forest or woodland fires is extreme. Many an owner of woodland property is suffering from apprehension just now, lest someone's carelessness cause him and adjoining property owners very serious losses through fires.

Once again—and it cannot be repeated too many times—motorists should extinguish cigarettes before tossing them out of motor cars. More than one fire has been caused this season by such a bit of reckless carelessness. Setting dry grass afire along estate highways may result in a conflagration that sweeps over hundreds of acres and causes thousands of dollars in damage before it can be checked.

No summer season in recent years has produced a situation through lack of rain where the danger of fire is as great as it is just now. As evidence of this, witness the press reports on fires raging in many parts of southern New England.

Special warnings to camping parties are being issued. Almost daily, owners of woodland properties ask the newspapermen to say something about the danger of forest fires. This danger can be reduced to a minimum if each and every person will use due care. This medium is used this morning to bring the subject once again to the attention of the general public.

And speaking of warnings, it appears to be almost useless to advise motorists to be careful in negotiating grade crossings. Many of them simply will disregard every precaution and ignore all safety devices intended for their protection.

This was again illustrated Tuesday night when one of the Bar Harbor expresses, running late, came hurtling through Danielson at a speed faster than it usually runs. A little closed car, containing a young couple, came dashing up Main street in an almost even race with the train for the railroad crossing. The automatic signal gong was pounding away at the crossing and the train had whistled, but that made not a particle of difference to the driver of the motor car. He was plunging on to certain death when the honking of horns on cars parked and shrieks of warning brought him out of the after effects of what may be assumed to be a petting party and he finally brought his machine to stop within a few feet of the tracks—and just as the big locomotive went roaring over the crossing. A much startled young woman sitting beside the driver covered her eyes with her hand and bowed her head. One may imagine the vision she had of what might have happened in another few seconds. The escape was such a narrow one that some of those who saw it were actually made faint by the experience. And tonight—at the same crossing or some other one—some other reckless soul will be doing the same thing.

There appeared to be an inclination in the business section of Danielson Wednesday to inquire as to why the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company has not yet carried out a program of street lighting that was approved and authorized by the annual borough meeting in April. More than three months has elapsed since the borough voted for an improved street lighting system, but the new lights are not yet in place. It was pointed out some time since by a representative of the company that the material required in making the changes has been ordered for a long time, but that there was a protracted delay in getting it through. Assurance is given that the new system of lighting will be installed at the earliest possible moment and that such delays as have been experienced have been unavoidable.

Ambitious persons who are out of work and have found time hanging heavy on their hands the past two or three weeks, have improved it by going into the huckleberry pastures and picking from the heavily laden bushes many quarts of berries that have been turned into valuable dollars. Many, too, have garnered enough berries for home use and for canning against a winter's needs.

As usual during the summer vacation season, the town school committee is seeing that necessary repairs to school buildings are being carried out. Such repairs will not be as heavy a bill of expense this year as it has sometimes been necessary to meet.

George M. Kent of Manchester, N. H., has acquired one of Marlor properties at Brooklyn and is to come there September 1 to make his home. Mr. Kent is retiring from business in Manchester, where he has been very successfully engaged as a sash and blind manufacturer, in getting out hard wood flooring and kindred lines.

Oliver F. Downs of Riverview will leave today (Thursday) to become representative on Long Island of a wholesale house that has headquarters in New York and deals in seed potatoes, etc. Mr. Downs has been a very successful farmer and for years had a farm in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde of Brooklyn have been spending a vacation at South Duxbury, Mass.

Henry C. Meagher of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson Wednesday.

One of the most useless things in the world during the past six weeks has been a windshield wiper.

Shoppers will remember that today (Thursday) is a half holiday for many of the stores in Danielson, these places closing at noon for the day.

The only session of the town court held this week dealt with a non-support case.

Miss Ruth Spencer of Academy street has an injured finger as the result of the member being caught in a machine at the plant of the Jacobs Manufacturing Co.

On some farms in this territory the water supply usually available is so meagre that water is being hauled in barrels for the stock.

A week from today, August 7, brings the annual Old Home day gathering at East Killingly.

PUTNAM

Machinery valued at $100,000, to be used in the manufacture of Rhea products, is now on its way from Germany to Putnam. Leonard Mellor of Providence has moved his family to this city. He is to be superintendent of the National Rhea company, which is to occupy mill No. 5 of the former Manhasset Mfg. Co. Upon the arrival of the machines they will be installed under Mr. Mellor's supervision. It seems assured now that there will be a resumption of business in the Manhasset village before many weeks. But this company is only utilizing one of the several large individual factories that went to make up the former tire duck manufacturing plant. Nothing is heard of any plans being developed to utilize the other mills now idle.

J. C. Paine of Bridgeport, who lived in Putnam over fifty years ago, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Perry P. Wilson, of Sunnyside. Before returning to Bridgeport, where he has lived fifty-two years, he will visit in Woodstock, the town of his birth. As a young man Mr. Paine was employed in the Putnam postoffice.

City Tax Collector Archibald Macdonald, Jr., states that collections are slow. He has been sending out notices to those who have not paid. If the city tax is not paid before Aug. 10, the collector is obliged to add 9 per cent. interest to the original bill.

George Gagne, proprietor of a restaurant on Pomfret street, has reported to the police that he was robbed of $40 Tuesday night between half past 8 and 10 o'clock. The money was stolen from the cash regsiter in the restaurant.

The place was closed about 8 o'clock. Shortly after 10 o'clock the proprietor opened the restaurant again and when he went to take his money from the register the money was gone.

The theft is a peculiar one, and the police have not decided whether it was an inside job or a burglary. A screen in a rear window was torn, but the rent was not large enough to allow a person to crawl through. No other evidence of the place having been broken into could be found. While it may be possible that the lock in the door was picked, it is also possible that the money was taken by someone in the restaurant during the evening.

The Putnam Women's Coolidge club has a motor corps. Those belonging to this organization, as appointed by the chairman of the club, Miss Clara Larned, are: Mrs. S. Nikoloff, Mrs. Genevieve Letters, Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock, Mrs. Charles E. Dean, Mrs. Victor Chapdelaine, Mrs. Stott Macdonald, Mrs. John F. Carpenter, Miss Elizabeth Byrne.

The corps will be very active in September and at election time. Women desiring to be made voters will be taken to the selectmen's headquarters if they request transportation. At election time the corps will be active in getting out the voters. This is the first time that such a plan has been put into effect in this city.

Herbert J. Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Smith, returned from the Corey Hill hospital, Boston, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Smith, who has been seriously ill for five months, is now on the road to recovery. He has been in the Boston hospital for several weeks and has undergone several operations.

Quite a few drops of rain fell in Putnam shortly after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon; in fact, for as much as three minutes it rained hard. Within an hour all signs of a rain had disappeared and it was as dry as before, the dust not even being laid. The rain was nothing more than an aggravation to the parched countryside.

Miss Ruth Perry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Perry of Grove street, is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Cogswell, at New Preston.

Mrs. Edward Bruce and children of Chapman street are spending two weeks in Buttonwoods, R. I.

Fred McCullough, Burton Bosworth, Philip Cournoyre and Albert Bibeault are to leave this week for the disabled veterans' camp at Niantic.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Pease of Fremont street are entertainnig Mrs. Harry Harlow of Shrewsbury, Mass.

Mrs. Walter Wheaton has returned from a week's stay at Pleasant View.

SILK STOCKINGS FOR WOMEN TO BE MADE BY H. K. H. CO.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, July 30.—It is announced that silk stockings for women are to be manufactured in Putnam by the H. K. H. Silk company, which has thread mills in this city.

Some time ago the company purchased the large Powhattan mill at the head of Main street, on Providence street, and has since been remodeling the interior to suit its needs. This work is about completed and soon the company will begin removing machinery from its plants on South Meadow street and on Truesdall street to the newly acquired property.

As soon as this has been done the company plans to remove its machinery for manufacturing the Hemmingway silk stockings from its plant in Watertown, N. Y., to its new mill here. This will mean employment for additional operatives. At first it is expected that 30 to 40 hands will be engaged in the hosiery department, but facilities will be provided for a greater number and an increased output.

When the new mill is occupied it will probably be the largest silk mill in the country. The building was formerly used as a cotton mill, is a brick structure four stories high, contains thousands of feet of floor space and is better adapted to the manufacture of hosiery than is the Watertown plant.

PILOT AND MECHANICIAN KILLED WHEN PLANE FELL

Champaign, Ill., July 30.—Sergeant Anton H. Ruza, pilot, and Mechanic W. J. Feigenbear, stationed at the Chanute army aviation field at Rantoul, Ill., near here, were killed this afternoon when their plane fell from an altitude of 1500 feet.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Rose Gauvin, 28, formerly of Arctic, R. I., died at the home of Augustin Gagne of State street Monday noon. Miss Gauvin, who has been very ill for the past nine months, came to Plainfield to her cousin's farm about five weeks ago. She had been troubled with consumption of the throat for a little over a year. She had been employed in the Lawton mills for a number of years before she went to Arctic and had made many friends during her stay in Plainfield. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Gauvin, who are both dead. She leaves two brothers, Harvey and Henry Gauvin, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice King and son Junior of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Elizabeth King of Naugatuck, were entertained Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Connell.

The Plainfield band realized $173 on the recent carnival.

A runaway horse caused excitement in the village about 9.30 Tuesday evening. The horse belonged to James Lorin of Flat Rock who was attending the theatre at the time. Mr. Loring believes that some children threw stones at the horse which became infuriated and broke loose from the team. The horse dashed toward Canterbury and was followed by a few men in an automobile. They caught the animal about half way to Babcock's grove.

If it does not rain pretty soon there will not be many Plainfield people eating vegetables out of their gardens this year, as all the crops are being burnt on account of the dry weather.

Miss Evelyn Greenhalgh of Arctic, R. I., spent Wednesday with friends in Plainfield.

SOUTH GRISWOLD

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd K. Young of Westerly were callers Sunday at Walter G. Burdick's.

Raymond Shaw spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shaw in Moosup.

Miss Daisy D. Culver and Miss Rena Gravelin are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pendleton and family of Bristol, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Albertus C. Burdick and Misses Christine and Arlene Burdick of Jewett City called on local relatives Sunday.

WILSONVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. James Welch and Miss Mollie Welsh were in Worcester for a few days recently.

Mrs. Sobosik entertained relatives from Webster Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hanly and daughter, May called on friends here Thursday.

Mrs. Pratt of Webster was here with relatives a few days recently.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE TELLS OF HER MARITAL TROUBLES

New York, July 30.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, or the Countess Margaret Upton Hopkins Joyce Morner, as her husband called her in his suit for annulment of the marriage, sitting on a purple canopied bed in her Louis XV apartment, explained today that the trouble with the young count was that, though he was a "nice boy" and a "perfect gentleman," he allowed his wife to be the man of the family.

"I loved him once," she said, "or I would never have married him because I could get more than a count if I wanted to. But it's all over now. He won't work.

"Love fled when I had to pay the bills—not because of the money, but because I lost my respect for him. I've been the man of the family. Now I'm going back on the stage for myself."

The countess called in her maid to corroborate her assertions of having financed the count since her marriage.

"Haven't you known me to cash checks for $400, $500 and $1,000 and turn the money over to him?" she asked, and the maid assented.

The only qualification of her characterization of the count as a "perfect gentleman" was her story of a "poke on the jaw" which she said the count had given her one afternoon in a taxicab. It was that night that she remained away from their apartment she said, the only time since her marriage with the count that she had not been at home in the evening.

The countess said she would fight the annulment suit "just as hard as she could."

Her greeting to newspaperman was: "I am very unhappy; take chairs." As her interviewers left she smiled and exclaimed: "O gee, what a mess."

Meanwhile the count on his side did some explaining, elaborating upon his earlier analysis of his grievances. His theme was that Peggy had a beastly temper and married him purely for his title.

The count said he had told Peggy before the marriage that he was not wealthy and that she had assured him that it was all right, as she had enough money for them both. Nevertheless, the count denied that he had ever asked his wife for money. "I gave her money and was a good husband," he said.

The flights of genius are apt to be downward as well as upward.

ELECTION BY CONGRESS.

Some political dopesters have figured out that there is danger this year that the electoral college may fail to elect a president which would throw the election into the present house where party divisions would make it impossible to secure a majority. In this event the senate would be called upon to elect a vice president, who would become president, and it is declared that this is the real end and aim of the La Follette programme, as the Wisconsin man counts on following enough in the senate to elect Bryan rather than Dawes as vice president. It is of course entirely possible to figure out such a result but nothing seems more improbable.

In case no majority for president is given by the electoral college, the Constitution provides that the election goes to the house in which at present there would be 23 republican votes, 20 democratic and 5 La Follette. As the house votes by states, it is apparent this would mean a deadlock as it would be impossible to secure the necessary 25 majority of the 48 states. The house can vote only for the three highest candidates in the electoral college, who of course would be Coolidge, Davis and La Follette.

If the house has not made a choice by March 4, the Constitution provides that the senate shall elect a vice president who shall be president, but the senate's choice is limited to the two candidates who have received the highest votes in the electoral college, who would of course be Dawes and Bryan. In the senate the La Follette people would undoubtedly prefer Bryan to Dawes, but before the election can reach the senate it has to be assumed that the house would be permanently deadlocked. Yet it would be in no way surprising, if, in such a situation a republican state might vote for Davis or a democratic state for Coolidge, if it were necessary to prevent the house from abdicating and to block the La Follette programme.

Before either contingency can arrive, we have a long way to travel, and there seems little reason to doubt that the sun of November 4 will set on the election of someone to the presidency. It would be remarkable indeed if it did not.

IMMODEST DRESS.

The National Council of Catholic Women, which has a membership of 700,000 in the United States, has begun a campaign among women to promote an interest in modest dress. This seems to follow a recent pronouncement of the pope in which he declared against what his clergy reported to him was a growing tendency towards short sleeves and extreme decollette, which he construed as due in part to negligence of Christian duty and surrender to worldly shares. No special country was singled out by the pope's criticism, nor is it to be taken that there is anything in the council's action to indicate that American women are less modest in their attire than the women of other countries.

The campaign in the United States is likely to arouse some curiosity as to what constitutes immodest dress. Certainly when a woman so dresses herself as to create the impression that she is careless of the restraints universally accepted by women of poise, spiritual charm and Christian devotion, she is liable to the censure that falls to every rebel and perhaps to the odium that goes with such censure. But are all such women immodest or are many of them merely the victims of circumstances which conspire within them to engender the falling known as bad taste? In either case a wholesome reminder should do them good.

If the charge of immodesty is made against the American girl, she can no doubt take care of her own defense. For one thing it can be said for her mode of dress that probably never since the women of ancient Greece set the standard of womanly beauty and grace for the world, have girls dressed with such attention to their comfort and well being. Those who have renounced stays and stiltlike heels have done what doctors have advocated for years. If the interest and participation of the girls in sports has helped, so much the better. But some of them, particularly the older ones have gone to extremes, and it is probable that among these and among women with poor taste that the campaign will be pushed.

TRADE BOOSTING TOUR.

New England business men have completed plans for what they insist will be the longest trade boosting tour ever made in this country. On special trains early in September 143 business men will leave Boston, go to Montreal, St. Paul and then to Oregon, down the Pacific coast to Los Angeles, thence to Salt Lake City, Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and other cities, back to New York and then home. It will require 31 days to complete the tour, which is undertaken to carry the good news from New England's business houses to the buyers in all other parts of the country.

For years the industrial development of the country west of the Alleghanies has been rapid and extensive, but the tour of the New England business men is to emphasize in the sections that will be visited that New England is still an industrial section which can offer many advantages to those who will trade there. The time, trouble and expense of the long tour is an interesting illustration of the commercial value of good will and the work that is done to promote closer relations between dealer and buyer. It shows the plucky spirit of the New England industrialist, the spirit that has given this section leadership in many lines for a long term of years, the spirit that will make it a strong contender as new competitors make their appearance. The coast to coast trade boosting and good fellowship tour from Boston makes plain the fact that other sections competing with New England producers and tradesmen will have real competitors.

THE "GARDEN TOMB."

The finds just reported in the so-called Garden Tomb, just outside the Damascus gate at Jerusalem, which may identify it as the tomb of the resurrection of Christ, make an interesting and important item in the news of the day. The supposed identification rests upon the discovery on the spot of stones which prove that it had been the site of a temple of Venus. But this is precisely the same means by which the tomb which is now the site of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, within the walls, was originally identified as the scene of the great Christian miracle. Both identifications rest upon the historical fact that when Hadrian, in the year A. D. 135, completed the destruction of Jerusalem and replaced it by building a Roman city, he caused a temple of Astarte to be erected over the site of the tomb of the resurrection, doubtless with the purpose of showing his contempt for the Christians and obliterating all trace of the place of the resurrection.

As all the world knows it was the Empress Helena who virtually located all the Christian holy places when she visited Jerusalem in the year 305, soon after her son, Constantine the Great, had been converted to Christianity. But archaeologists have inclined to the opinion that she located the sites more by guess work than by study. At any rate she was the first on the ground and such traditions as remained among the Christians who survived in the Holy Land were available to her, and it is at least agreed by historians and archaeologists that a temple of Astarte did stand upon the site which was afterwards dignified by the erection of the Church of The Holy Sepulchre, and that the existing church occupies the site of the one that was built, or commenced, by Constantine.

The present evidence goes to support the belief of General Gordon that the Garden Tomb was the actual tomb of the resurrection. He doubted the other location, as others have done, because it is apparent that the actual site of the tomb must have been outside the walls at the time of the crucifixion. The wave of destruction that submerged the land left little conclusive evidence to establish the scenes of Christ's life and martyrdom, but it may be a consolation to His followers to believe that the imperial Roman mother was divinely guided to the holy places.

French courts have a different way of looking at the long separated wife who jumps in to claim a patient husband's estate when he dies. Mme Saint-Saens, widow of the famous Camille, had her suit thrown out of court when she sought half of his 10,000,000 francs royalty money.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

This morning Betty telephoned me in an unusually friendly way, asking whether I could go with her to a French musicale which Maryanne Cook was giving this afternoon. She said she had two tickets, and that she thought I would enjoy it, as I am fond of French songs.

"Delighted," I answered cordially. "I shall love to go. I know her recitals are charming, and," I laughed, "I've always wished to see the inside of the Cook mansion. Come on over here, and go with me to the hair dresser, and then we can lunch downtown and taxi up to the north side."

"Very well," agreed Betty, "only we musn't be late to the musicale. It's a very especial affair. But why are you going to the hair dressers?"

"Because I've at last decided to have my hair bobbed?"

"Not really!" exclaimed Betty. "I thought you worshipped your hair."

I'll tell you about it as we go," I answered.

Betty and I began an argument which lasted all the way to the hairdresser's. She said I would regret my lovely hair.

"Oh, no; it will look just as pretty short as it does long. The fact is, Betty dear, long hair is now really a sign of age or dowdiness. Dexter Haines was saying to me that he was surprised that I hadn't adopted such a chic and becoming fashion long ago."

"Well, he's decidedly different from your uncle. Bob would not let me have my hair bobbed. I'm sure."

"Wouldn't let you! Don't tell me, Betty darling, that Uncle Bob dominates you to that extent. It's your head, isn't it?"

"Yes, of course, Lucille, but he doesn't like bobbed hair. Fortunately I'm not thinking of having it done."

"I suppose you don't dare, but it would be lovely on you. You make me thankful that I'm unattached. I can't see any coiffure of mine being forbidden by any mere man."

"You appear to be influenced by Dexter Haines' opinion."

"I mentioned that only to show you how most men feel about it. Thank goodness I am still privileged to make up my own mind. It must be galling, Betty, to be afraid to have your own hair cut."

"I'm not afraid," Betty replied. "Well, then, why don't you?"

"I just will," she said defiantly, and I told her to get into the chair first. I thought it would be wholesome for Uncle Bob to discover that his doolie little Betty retained a mind of her own.

"Oh horrors. I don't look nice at all," she gasped as her hair fell to the floor. "Oh, Lucile, what have I done?"

"Nonsense, it's going to look very nice indeed." I said comfortingly, but I confess I was startled by Betty's changed appearance. For some strange reason short hair made her look actually older. "You just have to get a little used to it, dear. Do you know, I don't believe I'll have mine done today after all."

"Not have it done, Lucile?" she cried.

"No. I'm not quite so sure as I was that I want my hair cut."

"Why, Lucille, I think you're—you're dishonorable."

"I certainly have a right to change my mind, Betty dear."

Betty cast a despairing glance into the mirror and began to weep. I regretted her lack of self-control. "I'm not going to the musicale looking like this and my handsome new hat just rocks around on my head," she groaned. "I'm going straight home."

"I'm extremely sorry you're so upset, Betty. Your hair doesn't look near so bad as you think and you'll find it a great convenience. If you just won't go to the musicale let me have the tickets. It would be a shame to waste them."

Betty handed them to me without a word and I fortunately got Polly Gray on the telephone and arranged to have her go with me. We had a delightful time. It does seem too bad that Betty should have missed such an enjoyable afternoon.

I do hope that Uncle Bob will not be so unfair as to blame me for Betty's bobbed hair. She certainly decided for herself. As for myself I have definitely determined to leave my hair long. I think the bobbed heads are really getting dreadfully common.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Hon. Raoul Dandurand, who is to represent Canada at the forthcoming conference of the league of nations at Geneva, is the government leader in the Dominion senate and for years has been a prominent figure in Canadian politics. He was born in 1861 and received his education at Montreal College and at Laval University. Following the completion of his studies at the last-named institution he was called to the bar and began the practice of his profession in Montreal. Within a few years his abilities as a lawyer were recognized in his appointment to the bench, and in 1891 he was created a Knight of the Legion of Honor by the French government. He has filled several high posts in the government service and been a member of important public commissions. Senator Dandurand has been president of the Canadian branch of the Interparliamentary Peace Union since its inception in 1907.

A Little Talk on Thrift

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT
By S. W. Strauss, President American Society for Thrift

Are the children of America learning thrift?

The best answer to this question may be gained from a study of the school savings bank systems of our country.

A recent survey of these institutions indicated that during the last school year the number of depositors in school banks was close to 4,000,000 with deposits in excess of $12,000,000 and balances in school banks of more than $15,000,000. These figures are only approximate inasmuch as many school bank systems make no official reports, but they are of sufficient completeness to reveal the rapid growth taking place in this department of thrift education.

Generally speaking the increase in depositors and deposits is at the rate of 25 per cent. Steady increases are found both in the percentage of depositors to puplis enrolled as well as in the average amount of individual deposits, thus showing that the practices of thrift among American school children are becoming more intensive. It is estimated that there are now between 7,000 and 8,000 school banks successfully operating throughout the country, located in some 500 cities and towns.

While this gratifying progress is being made, the start in the development of our school savings banks has only begun. If all available children were enrolled in the school bank systems of the country the number of depositors would be in the neighborhood of 25,000,000 instead of 3,000,000, and the amount of deposits would be $100,000,000 instead of $12,000,000.

In the development of school banks, one important fact should be kept constantly in mind, namely, that thrift does not consist entirely in saving money. While it is most commendable that everything possible be done to encourage youthful Americans to save money, they should, at the same time, be taught that true thrift does not consist entirely of saving, but that it means also the rightful use of money, time and energy.

Stories That Recall Others

Obliging Jury

An attorney, prosecuting an obviously guilty man, a burglar who had been caught red-handed on the roof of a house, wound up his speech to the jury as follows:

"If you consider, gentleman, that the accused was on the roof for the purpose of enjoying the midnight breeze, and, by pure accident, happened to have about him the necessary tools of a housebreaker, with no dishonest intention of employing them, you will, of course, acquit him."

And the jury obediently acquitted him!

Where he Worked

Brown was interviewing candidates for the job of gardener. The one before him did not seem promising, but Brown thought he would give him a chance.

"Er—how long were you in your last place?" he asked.

Off his guard, the applicant replied, "A month, sir."

"Eh? That's not very long! And the one before that?"

"Three months, sir," replied the applicant, boldly.

"That's better, now. And the time before that?"

The applicant drew himself up proudly as he said: "There wasn't no time before that, sir; I got off with a fine."

Gompers, the Boy Cigarmaker

In the drab part of the poverty stricken Whitechapel district of London, Samuel Gompers was born, and made another little one for his impoverished mother to care for.

After four years at day school, he was apprenticed, at ten, to a shoemaker, but not liking the trade he became a cigar maker. He was 13 when his mother took him to New York, where he obtained work in a cigar factory and went to night school.

As a boy in England he had seen thousands of silk weavers, deprived of work by the introduction of machinery, marching under banners bearing the words, "We are starving," and the picture remained with him. At 13 he began the study of workers' problems, helped organize New York's first cigarmakers' union and was given card No. 1.

Married at 17, he continued to study at night and to read to fellow workers at the bench. He was 21 when he was naturalized and 24 when he became secretary of the cigarmakers' local. Later he was elected president, and served six years.

One of the seven men at the organization of the Federation of Trades and Labor Unions in 1881, he was chosen president but declined. A year later the leadership was forced upon him. There was no salary connected with the office and many employers of labor, and government officials laughed at his zeal and sneered at his efforts.

Then came the reorganization of the federation into the American Federation of Labor. Gompers was elected president at a salary of $1,200 a year. After he had served nine years, he was defeated by John McBride, leader of the coal miners. Gompers was reelected the next year and has held the office ever since, the salary now being $7,000 a year.

With the growth of the organization there came the battles with factions that sought control so as to effect radical changes in its policies. The war brought its problems and at its close Gompers was made president of the International Commission of Labor Legislation at the Peace Congress, was consulted by leaders of the world and feted by royalty.

Today the American Federation of Labor represents 3,000,000 workers and Gompers is called "The Labor Statesman of the World."

I LOST 50 POUNDS in 2 Months
This Easy Way!
In Paris I learned a secret for which millionaires have paid thousands. Let me tell it to you FREE OF CHARGE!

If you are one of many who has tried everything to reduce, without success—if you are suffering from a weak heart, high blood pressure, tired feeling, shortness of breath, all due to obesity, AT LAST YOU CAN BE RELIEVED. If your figure is such that you are embarrassed to appear in public with your husband or your smart-looking slender friends, you can now entertain new hopes. Perhaps it is your bust, your thighs or you arms that you want to reduce, or may be only one or two rolls of fat have lately appeared? Whatever your case may be, if you want to reduce only certain parts of your body, or if you are 10 pounds too heavy or 100 pounds, you owe it to yourself to investigate this new discovery WHICH DOES AWAY WITH WEAKENING DIETS, ABSURD CREAMS, TIRESOME EXERCISES, REDUCING GARMENTS.

From experience, I know how many worthless things you have tried in the past and in the effort to help you regain slenderness without being again disappointed, I have decided to give out the secret which relieved me of 30 pounds of ugly rolls of fat and made me feel like a new woman. Simply go to any good druggist, ask for a package of SAN-GRI-NA tablets (remember the name, and do not accept any substitute). SAN-GRI-NA is the preparation of a French physician and the ONLY THING I ever found to reduce my weight—my case was an obstinate one, and I had tried everything known to reduce, without success. It is the first time SAN-GRI-NA is offered to the American public as up to now it had been used in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. UNTIL YOU TRY IT, YOU CANNOT SAY THAT YOUR FAT CANNOT BE REMOVED. Take 2 small tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. Remember that SAN-GRI-NA is GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS, AND IS SOLD WITH A MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE. POETRY

AN OLD LADY BUYS STREET FLOWERS.

He sells her more than loveliness
Cut into daffodils.
A holy miracle is wrought for her
Where all this yellow spills.

He sells her back her youth again,
The April heart she used to know.
You'd never think that God would use
A flower peddler so!

He sells her with his yellow blooms
A dream of laughing years,
The lips of one dead long ago,
Release from tears.

A little while she will not know
The years have passed on tired feet,
She'll wear her bridal gown again as she Goes dreaming down the street.

MARINERS' SONG.

To sea, to sea! The calm is o'er;
The wanton water leaps in sport
And rattles down the pebbly shore;
The dolphins wheel, the sea-cows snort
And unseen mermaids' pearly song
Comes bubbling up, the weeds among.
Fling broad the sail, dip deep the oar!
To sea, to sea! The calm is o'er.

To sea, to sea! Our wide-winged bark
Shall billowy cleave its sunny way,
And with its shadow, fleet and dark,
Break the caved Triton's azure day,
Like mighty eagle soaring light
O'er antelopes on Alpine height,
The anchor heaves, the ship swings free,
The sails swell full. To sea, to sea!

—Thomas Lovell Beddoes.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Bill——Loaf sugar.—Denver Post.

I suppose you find clothing your wife pretty expensive.

Yes, the most expensive is her coat of tan. First she pays to get it on and then she pays to get it off.—Boston Transcript.

Horace—What did your wife have to say when you came in at 4 this morning?

Maurice—Didn't have a word to say.

Horace—Smatter, tongue-tied?

Maurice—No, I put cement in her beauty clay.—Chicago News.

Where's the good fishing the landlord advertised?

Two Scotsmen were taking a walk and were hot and tired.

"Hae ye got any food wi' ye, Dougal," asked one.

A've a bottle of whusky. What has you, Angus?

Dried tongue.

Guid! Then we'll gae halves wi' oor proveesions.

The whisky was duly divided and drunk. Angus wiped his lips. Noo for yer dried tongue, Dougal.

"Mon," said Dougal, "it's no dry the noo."—Rayal Magazine.

NEW ORIENTAL BALSAM LIFTS OUT HAIR
—Roots and All!

Objectionable hair on face, under arms, on legs—all gone in 3 minutes!. No muss, no odor, no discomfort, no growing back of hair stronger than ever.. Quick, harmless—guaranteed effective.

A beauty secret of the Orient has at last been brought to America—a marvelous new hair remover, called Karma. It is made of the finest oriental balsams which, when applied, open up the hair pores, penetrate towards the roots, and when removed a few minutes later, delicately and gently "ease out" every unsightly hair—root and all!

No need now to use depilatories which merely burn off the surface hairs, nor to use slow painful processes which must be repeated again in a few weeks. Karma's effectiveness is guaranteed absolutely—not only to remove hair, root and all, but to leave the skin clear, healthy and soft as velvet.

PLAYGROUND WEEK TO START NEXT MONDAY

At the regular meeting of the playground instructors, Superintendent Earle E. Brigham outlined the "Safety First" program which is to be taken up by the playgrounds. The program consisted of a series of talks, plays and games all of which aim to bring out the important safety principles for children to know and remember.

Playground week, starting Monday, Aug. 4th, was inaugurated for the purpose of getting all the children in Norwich to attend the playgrounds. In spite of the fact that attendance figures this year have doubled those of last year, the recreation commission feels that there are still a large number of children playing in the streets.

A special feature is planned for each day and the children attending the playgrounds are in for an eventful week.

The first of a series of small plays will be given by the children of the Hobart avenue and Lake street playgrounds, Friday evening at Mohegan park.

At the Academy campus Wednesday afternoon the Lake Street Juniors won an exciting game from the Falls. The two teams were evenly matched and the game was never a one-sided affair. Dash, the Falls catcher, played a very good game. His baseball knowledge saved the Falls on more than one occasion. He has a fine arm and hits well. Ruffo, Murphy and Mingo played well for Lake street. The score: Lake Street 16, Falls 15. Batteries, Lake street, Ruffo and Drew; Falls, Orsulick and Dash.

SPECIAL OCCUPATIONAL TAXES ARE DUE TODAY

According to an announcement on Wednesday by the internal revenue bureau return and payment of certain occupational taxes must be made before the close of business today (Thursday).

Brokers, except brokers exclusively negotiating purchases or sales of produce or merchandise, are required to pay a tax of $50. In addition, a secondary tax is imposed upon brokers who are members of a stock exchange, produce exchange, board of trade or similar organization where produce or merchandise is sold as follows:

If the average value during the preceding year ended June 30 of a seat or membership on such exchange was $2,000 or more, but not more than $5,000 a tax of $100; if more than $5,000, but not more than $10,000, a tax of $150; if more than $10,000 a tax of $250.

Other occupational taxes are as follows: Pawnbrokers $100, ship brokers $50, customs house brokers $50 proprietors of bowling alleys and billiard rooms $10 for each alley or table, proprietors of shooting galleries $20, proprietors of riding academies $100, brewers and distillers $1,000.

Persons operating or renting passenger automobiles for hire are required to pay $10 for each such automobile having a seating capacity of more than seven and $20 for each such automobile having a seating capacity for more than seven. The new revenue act provides that tax shall not be collected in respect to automobiles used extensively for conveying school children to and from school.

The special occupational taxes heretofore imposed on proprietors of theatres, museums and concert halls, circuses and other public exhibitions are repealed, effective on and after June 30, 1924.

Special taxes must be paid by stamps denoting the tax. Persons engaged in any business who are subject to a special tax are required to keep posted conspicuously in their establishments the stamps denoting the payment of the tax. Failure to do so incurs a penalty. Heavy penalties are provided also for failure or "wilful refusal" to file a return and pay the tax on time and for the filing of a false or fraudulent return.

MAY RUN FOR SENATOR FROM "SHOESTRING" DISTRICT

Casting about for the party nominee for senator, to represent the district, the republican voters of the 20th or "Shoestring" district appear to have centered their attention on Fred A. Beckwith of Niantic, dean of the town of East Lyme's selectmen and chairman of its republican town committee.

William G. Park of Hanover served the district as senator faithfully and earnestly during the past legislative session, but is not to seek renomination, it is said.

The district comprises the towns of Bozrah, Colchester, East Lyme, Franklin, Griswold, Lyme, Lebanon, Lisbon, Montville, North Stonington, Old Lyme, Salem, Sprague, Stonington, Voluntown and Waterford.

ON WAY TO VISIT BATTLEFIELDS IN FRANCE

Among a delegation of fifty volunteers of the American Field Service, who volunteered with the allies before the United States entered the world war, driving ambulances on the western front, now on their way to visit the scenes of their service in France, is F. Russell Smith of Norwich, who left Tuesday morning for New York. Mr. Smith was accompanied by Joseph C. Worth who is making the trip with him.

The volunteers are to be welcomed at Havre, France by an honorary guard of a battalion of French troops and will be feted in Paris. The trip is sponsored by the French ambassador and French foreign office.

Mr. Smith enlisted with the Brown unit in the French Ambulance corps and after this country entered the war was transferred to the American forces.

NORWICH MILK PRODUCERS ASS'N RAISES PRICE TO $.14 A QUART

After serious deliberation for over a month, it was voted Wednesday night at a meeting of the Norwich Milk Producers' association to advance the price of milk at retail in Norwich to 14 cents a quart and 8 cents a pint on and after Aug. 1st, Friday, until further notice.

Nearly thirty members of the association, all of whom sell milk either retail or wholesale to Norwich consumers, attended the meeting, and the feeling was unanimous that the price of milk in Norwich must go from 12 cents to 14 cents a quart and from 7 cents to 8 cents a pint, if the milk producer is to get a fair return, a price at which he may do business at a fair and reasonable profit.

The meeting was opened shortly after 7 o'clock, standrad time, by J. D. McCarthy, president of the association, and a general discussion of milk producing, especially about the problems brought about by the recent ruling of the dairy and food commissioner, was entered into by practically every member.

A letter from the Eastern States Farmers' exchange, Springfield, Mass., and other letters were read all pointing out the increase in feed since last year, calling attention to the fact that there is little likelihood of a drop in prices for many months, but, rather, pointing out a chance for even higher prices.

One speaker reading a letter concerning the Chicago grain market, pointed out advancing prices brought about by a speculative market, a thing that has sent the price of grain up beyond a point governed by a straight supply and demand selling price.

A few of the speakers told of losses they would sustain if rain does not come soon. Several spoke of the corn crop this year, which, they said, would not even half fill their silos. The hay crop this year is also one of the smallest in years, many of the farmers facing but one crop this summer as against two big crops in past summers. All this, it was pointed out, means that costs of producing milk are going up. Even now, it is claimed, the cost of feeding cattle has reached a point of winter costs, many of the farmers and milk producers being forced to use two feeds a day.

The greater part of the discussion, however, was about the rulings of the dairy and food commissioner, with particular mention of the bottling of milk, cooling of milk, and other rulings that add to the cost of milk production. Where a milk producer formerly used a can for delivery of milk, everything must be in bottles now. This makes more labor for the producer and adds to the cost of doing business owing to breakage, loss of bottles, additional time to fill and cap, length of time now needed to wash and clean 500 or more bottles as against 30 or more cans, and the additional time needed for delivery of bottles. In speaking of cooling of milk as required by law, which is to be strictly enforced, the cost of ice becomes a problem worthy of consideration. Milk not to be sold within two hours must be kept at a certain low temperature until delivered, and, with the price of ice running at 45 cents or more a hundred pounds, this cost must be figured. Several other things required under the new rulings were discussed and the vote was then taken fixing the price at 14 cents a quart and 8 cents a pint.

In speaking of the producing of milk and cream and the rules and regulations concerning the inspection of dairies and the production, care, handling, marketing or sale of milk or cream, attention was called to some of the rulings, the main points being in part as follows:

No person, firm or corporation shall sell or distribute milk or cream until registered with the dairy and food commissioner, nor shall sell or distribute milk or cream purchased from producers unless such producers exhibit a receipt from the dairy and food commissioner showing that proper registration has been made for the current period, nor shall sell or distribute any such products from any dairy located beyond the boundaries of this state unless such dairy is registered with and approved by the dairy and food commissioner.

All places where milk is produced, handled or sold shall be open to inspection by the dairy and food commissioner or his agents at all reasonable hours.

All utensils, containers, etc., used in handling milk shall be thoroughly washed immediately after using and be effectually sterilized, preferably by steam.

A milk house or room shall be provided with concrete or other approved floor, graded, drained and trapped to the satisfaction of the dairy and food commissioner, devoted exclusively to the care, cooling, handling or storing of milk, and effectually screened to exclude flies.

Milk must be removed from stable immediately after milking, and strained in a suitable milk room. If the milk is delivered within two hours to a properly equipped milk receiving, pasteurizing or distributing plant approved by the dairy and food commissioner, such milk need not be cooled at the farm where milk is produced. If not so delivered, milk must be cooled to 55 degrees F. or below within one hour after milking, and shall be maintained thereafter at a temperature not exceeding 60 degrees F until delivery. If aerators are used they must be placed in an approved milk room. Milk must not be cooled in any well or cistern without the written permission of the dairy and food commissioner.

No person shall bottle or measure milk, cream, skim milk or buttermilk for sale at retail in any vehicle upon any street, or in any other place than a milk room or place approved by the dairy and food commissioner.

All milk drawn from the cows 15 days before or five days after parturition should be rejected.

The milking should be done rapidly and quietly, and the cows should be treated kindly.

The pails in which the milk is drawn should have as small an opening as can be used in milking, an opening preferably not to exceed eight inches in diameter.

All milk utensils, including pails, cans, bottles and dippers, should be kept thoroughly clean and should be washed and sterilized after each using, and all seams in these utensils should be cleaned, scraped and soldered flush.

Ordinary strainer cloths should not be used. Absorbent cotton or filter cloth designed to be used but once and thrown away should be used.

If aerators are used, they should stand where the air is free from dust or odors, and on no account should they be used in the stable or out of doors.

The water supply used in the dairy and for washing utensils should be absolutely free from any contamination, sufficiently abundant for all purposes, and easy of access.

The more rapidly and promptly milk is cooled the safer it is and longer it will keep sweet. Milk should, therefore, be promptly cooled. Ice should be used in cooling milk, as very few springs are cold enough for the purpose.

No raw milk shall be bottled in a pasteurizing plant unless by special permission of the dairy and food commissioner. Milk shall not be repasteurized. All milk sold in Connecticut as "pasteurized" milk must be pasteurized within the state, unless a special permit is issued by the dairy and food commissioner covering an emergency.

Milk before pasteurization shall contain less than 3,000,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, and after pasteurization and until delivery not more than 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter. Cream shall not contain more than 500,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter after pasteurization.

Each pasteurization plant, except the single batch systems, shall be equipped with an automatic controller and an automatic recording thermometer, which shall regulate and register on a chart the temperature of the milk or cream as it is pasteurized. An automatic controller and a duplicate automatic recording thermometer shall be kept in reserve in good repair at all times.

Surface coolers unless located in a room used only for cooling milk shall be protected by suitable metal or glass covers.

Caps for bottles shall be secured in sterilized containers, and be protected from contamination until used, unless milk is pasteurized in bottles.

The apparatus or device used in bottling milk or capping milk bottles must be so constructed that the milk and caps used in the process will not come in contact with human hands. The apparatus or device shall be subject to the approval of the dairy and food commissioner.

The building in which milk is handled and the surrounding premises shall be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition.

Suitable facilities shall be provided for washing, sterilizing and the storage of all apparatus, bottles, cans and utensils, and they shall be cleaned and sterilized immediately after use.

CALL ATTENTION TO CONDITION OF BOSWELL AVE.

The wretched condition of Boswell avenue has been called to the attention of the court of common council in a petition signed by 125 residents in that section of the city. The petition follows:

To the Mayor, Aldermen and Common Council of the City of Norwich:

We, the undersigned taxpayers, citizens and residents of Boswell avenue, from Franklin street to the Mohegan park entrance on Boswell avenue, do respectfully call your attention to the wretched condition of Boswell avenue. The same being full of humps and holes which make it very dangerous and uncomfortable for all those who have to pass over it.

In our opinion this street ought to be scarified and rolled before any oil is put on it.

This street is one of the oldest roads in town and has been shamefully neglected in the past years and all we ask is, that we get the same repairs as other through streets are getting.

If this road was kept in a decent state of repair it would relieve the traffic on North Main street as a lot of traffic would pass over it to and from Taftville to the city.

The J. B. Martin company would use this for their trucks.

The petition is signed by Fred Holdsworth and 124 others.

MRS. ARTHUR L. GELINAS DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, July 30.—Mrs. Annie Gelinas, wife of Arthur L. Gelinas, of 3 Bellevue street, died after an hour's illness at her home, about 9.30 o'clock Wednesday evening from uremic poisoning. Mrs. Gelinas was well known here and the news of her death comes as a shock to many friends. She had been apparently in good health and had been talking with neighbors less than an hour before she was taken ill. She was stricken suddenly and a physician and nurse were summoned but there was little hope that her life could be saved and Rev. J. J. Papillon of St. Mary's parish was sent for and administered the last sacraments.

Besides her husband she leaves her aged mother, Mrs. Mary Jordan, who made her home with Mrs. Gelinas, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Smith, of Uxbridge, Mass.

ABSOLVED FROM LIABILITY TO DEFRAUD STOCKHOLDERS

John T. King of Bridgeport, former republican national committeeman from Connecticut, is absolved from all liability and any intent to defraud stockholders or creditors of the defunct Bridgeport and Danbury Electric Railway company, in a decision handed down by Chief Justice Wheeler of the Connecticut supreme court of errors.

The case brought by Charles R. Burts of this city, agent, and others, against King was heard some time ago in the superior court in this city. The railway company, through its receivers sought to recover on 1,996 shares of stock subscribed to by King at $100 per share for which the latter never paid, and which he transferred to A. William Sperry for $25,000. No error is found in the decision of the lower court.

The court found that King subscribed to the 1,996 shares of the 2,000 shares issued upon the granting of the charter of the company and that he (King) was elected president. The charter of the company gave the company the right to issue stock to $1,500,000. The first meeting of the incorporators was held March 25, 1903. King subscribed to $196,000 of the shares. On Oct. 18, 1909, King transferred his stock to A. William Sperry, who paid $10,000 in cash and the remainder in a 30-day note which was paid.

Moodus Landlady Sues.

Charging that a rival boarding house keeper told prospective New York boarders that she killed her own chickens and did not run a strictly kosher place, Mrs. Eva Fast of Moodus has brought suit against Isidore Gottfried of that village. A hearing was set by Judge Hall for Aug. 1 at East Haddam.

Mrs. Fast conducts a boarding house in Moodus and depends largely in summer on New York patrons. She alleges that the remark of Gottfried has caused her much humiliation and loss of customers.

CHILDREN WILL OPEN DRAMATIC PROGRAM FRIDAY

On Friday evening the Playground association will open its dramatic program for the season when the children of the Lake street and Hobart avenue playgrounds, coached by their respective teachers, Miss Dodd and Miss Farrell, will present three outdoor playlets at the Rockwell street entrance to Mohegan park at 7 p. m., d. s. t. It is hoped that the public will reward the efforts of the little ones by their presence at the plays for during the past week and a half they have been hard at work and promise to give a real treat in the line of an amateur performance. The children of both of these play centers will be remembered for their excellent work in the playground dramatics last season.

Little Misses Mary Foley and Ruth Banning who starred in Lake street's production last year will again appear together while Jean Fenton and Dora Letendre will again have important parts in the Hobart avenue play. A feature of the Hobart avenue play will be a solo dance by Miss Lois Bussey, well known in amateur dancing circles, and a ballet of some twenty girls will appear in a folk-dance feature for the Lake street grounds. Dream Needles and Fairy Dust, which will be presented by the Lake street girls, are both fairy plays, while The Glorious Wisle, which will be presented by Miss Farrell's girls, is a patriotic play; particularly appropriate for this month. The children of the other playgrounds and the public are expected to attend.

The casts for the plays follow:

Fairy Dust: Peterking, Irene McKenna; Polly, Josephine Caldarola; mother, Florence Chenesky; Lord Rosebud, Mary Cloutier; Lady Rosebud, Mildred Bergeron; fairies, Beatrice McKenna, Anna Foley, Claire Cyr, Mary Ruffo, Mary Gustamarchi Mildred Makowski, Dorothy Bradlaw, Velina Cyr, Margaret Ziegelmayer, Madeline Levanto, Lucia Lancello, Mildred Banning.

Before Dream Needles, there will be an introduction, A Midsummer Performance, Helen Chenesky and Amelia Marzarelli.

SUGAR BROOK FARM PARTY, HELD THREE DAYS, NETS $1300

The Bulletin's Black Hill correspondent writes:

The great event of 1924 for this town was the three-day lawn party at Sugar Brook Farm, the beautiful country estate of Norman White, of Brookline, Mass., Maine, Black Hill and other places. This estate made an ideal location for this event and much time and thought had been spent in preparation, with elaborate decoration of colored electric lights and Japanese lanterns, etc., the reflection of which on the lakes and elsewhere was most charming.

The object of the party was to raise a fund for an organ for the Central Village Congregational church and it was a great success. The whole community was interested and w there was an abundance of willing helpers for the various booths. A great variety of entertainment was provided, bathing in the big swimming pool, dancing, canoeing, rifle shooting, pony rides for the active ones, with a large variety of the more passive entertainments in the shape of music, movies and visiting the various booths.

The booths displayed a variety of refreshment, while a great variety of fancy work and curios kept the pocketbooks in demand.

One especially attractive booth was of new books of the current year from the publishing house in Boston in which Mr. White has an active interest. Every donor of $1 to the organ fund had the choice of a book and they went like hot cakes.

Swahn's orchestra of Norwich was present all three days and proved a delightful feature. Plainfield male quartette—James Royle, Ray Greene, Sydney Mathewson and H. Krause—were a great source of pleasure to the audience. Arthur Tracy of South Canterbury and Charles McFarland assisted in the vocal music. Mrs. Hartley B. Campbell of Providence, in her rendition of old fashioned songs, delighted her hearers. Roy Goetrich of Canterbury was the jazz soloist. The Temple Colored club of Keith's circuit, Boston, banjo, mandolin and drums, furnished music for dancing, also vocal selections. Mrs. Gauthier presided over the gipsy grove, which was guarded by a kettle of the witches' brew; and built horoscopes that made the girls' hearts flutter.

Rev. Father Joseph McCarthy and his parishioners, of Moosup, contributed various forms of assistance that counted for the success. Joe Raymond, of the movie theatre, Wauregan, contributed films and acted as operator. Ray Greene, of Plainfield and Worcester, in addition to vocal music, did some fancy diving stunts each day at the swimming pool that drew crowds. Carl W. Brown of the Delco company of Norwich, was another contributor to the success.

The service was not confined to one village, or to any creed, but all took hold and helped to make the party a success. Mr. White expressed this very concisely in a few words the last evening, saying in substance:

The net proceeds footed up about $1300. The committee also has pledged in addition to bring the fund up to about $1700. There is a mystery still hanging over the "blue pig!" No. D-14? Piggy wants to go home!

Mrs. Cora Day and Mr. White, the owner of the estate, were right on the job every minute, keeping things moving smoothly and promptly and seeing that everyone was enjoying himself to the limit. They achieved a great success, financially, and put Black Hill on the map as a great amusement centre.

An English farm laborer, suffering intense pain from something in his eye that he was unable to remove, visited the Gloucestershire Hospital in London for relief. A surgeon, on operating just above the eye, removed a blade of grass 1 1-2 inches long and the seed from which it had grown. The grass, nurtured by the natural moistures of the eyeball, was quite green by reason of the light penetrating the eye.

NAME ROBERT WADDINGTON FLOWER SUPERINTENDENT

Secretary Edwin V. Ross of the New London County Agricultural society has been sending out the premium lists for the 70th annual fair of the society to a large number of people who are planning to make entries this year. Since the premium list was published several changes have been made and these are to be announced shortly. Information about these changes will be furnished by Secretary Ross.

One change in superintendents was announced Wednesday, this being in the flower department. In past years William J. Koons has been in charge of this exhibit but owing to illness in the family he has been forced to resign this year.

Robert Waddington, local florist, who was to enter the fair this year has withdrawn all exhibits and will take charge of the department in place of Mr. Koonz. The selection of Mr. Waddington has met with general favor and it is believed that the department will be well handled by him during the fair.

ROCK NOOK HOME CHILDREN HAVE PICNIC AT PARK

Twenty-eight of the thirty-nine children at the Rock Nook Home were given a picnic at Mohegan Park Wednesday afternoon by the committee of the United Workers which supervises the Home. With the party went the matron, Miss Jennie L. Murray and five of her assistants. The eleven other children were considered too young to go. The members of the committee provided cars for the trip.

At the park there was the joy of a peanut hunt, the children fed the monkeys, and when the shower began there was ample space and protection in the pavilion, so that they engaged in games and did not mind the rain.

The committee members provided the luncheon, ending with ice cream ad lollipops. In all respects it proved a most enjoyable outing.

The thirty-nine children in the Home at present range in age from two months to eleven years.

MERCURY GOES UP TO 112 AT BALTIC

Baltic people took stock of thermometers Wednesday and several reported that the highest point reached by the flying mercury, during the day, was 112 in the sun and 98 in the shade. These figures were taken at 1 o'clock from several reliable thermometers and tend to show that, if today, Thursday turns out as hot as it seems likely to do, the mercury may be expected to hit 100 or better by noon in Baltic.

GRANGERS TO HAVE PICNIC AT PARK

Members of Norwich grange are to enjoy a picnic, today, Thursday, at Mohegan park. Basket lunches are to be in style for the day and there will be games and singing in the evening, for the young people and older members also. It is expected that a large number of members will make the trip to the park to enjoy the picnic.

It's useless to extract a promise by force unless you are prepared to keep up the pressure of compulsion indefinitely.

SUBMARINE BASE TEAM WINS EASY GAME FROM THE FORT WRIGHT CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 30.—Picking on the Fort Wright baseball outfit to begin their winning threak over again, the Submarine Base started on another sojourn through the land of victory and handed the soldiers a 19 to 3 lacing at the Submarine Base grounds this afternoon. Hurrying through the game in the early innings, the game was able to go eight innings, before the clouds which were gathering forces for an attack, made good their gesture and let open a torrent from the sky that forced the umps to call the game. Probably play could be resumed after the short shower, but the Base was so far ahead at the time, and then the Fort nine were eager to catch the boat back to the Fort.

Although the soldiers made a better stand against the initial attack of the gobs at the island, today's game did not resemble a base ball game at all. The soldiers had the misfortune of opposing the gobs when they had fire in their eyes and hits in their bats. The sailors more than made up for the poor hitting they displayed at Stamford Sunday, and they took it out of the Fort Wright twirler today. Hits of every description were flying off their cudgels into all sections of the field and had the soldiers working hard to catch up with their drives.

The gobs did not mind the heat, and if it did effect their play it was not obvious. The sailors spent no time in going out after the contest early and bagged two markers, before the visitors were settled. Harrell's triple, started the scoring. The only sign of life shown by the visitors was in the next frame and they managed to tie up the count at two all. But the tie did not remain very long, and the Base on two clean hits, with Crompton starting the trouble and Harrell ending it, scored two runs and took the lead never to be approached.

Our lucky friend Dinty Moore—as lucky as ever—smote the apple to the left side of the pasture for a homer in the fourth with his boss Hawes on the sacks. The third also found the Base increasing their total and Harrell's second triple this time a very flukey one, started the gobs off on the right road. Additional hitting and errors, gave them four runs before they finished.

Fort Wright added two in the second and scored again in the sixth. With Zeibler in bad form the soldiers were no match for the gluttenous gobs, although Zeibler managed to make a better finish than he did start. The Base used two twirlers, and each were sailing along easy until they were ordered to knock off.

POWER CO. TEAM HANGS DEFEAT ON PAPER BOYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 30.—The Connecticut Power nine put in appearance at Morgan Park this evening to oppose the Robert Gair nine of Montville in their scheduled game in the Industrial league. And as the Robert Gain nine puts it the Connecticut Power put in an appearance at a most inopportune time. A last inning rally by the team that was to be ousted from the league if they did not make an appearance this evening gave them three runs and the ball game, the score being 5 to 4.

Thrills were furnished aplenty, and although no women fainted when Lucy was put out at the plate trying to stretch his triple into a homer, there were other good plays to enthuse over. The Montville aggregation are in no mood for being a little talkative this evening after the defeat, for it pulls them down to a tie for first place, which they had a clear title up until the Power nine spoiled its party.

Priestly turned in a good game for the winners and allowed but four hits, but two of these were homers and they counted in the run making. The Power nine picked the psychological moment to win the game and that was in the final inning when three runs meant the game. The game contained enough thrills and good plays to give the fans time to forget about the heat.

REDS DROP DOUBLE HEADER TO BRAVES

Boston, July 30.—Boston won two games from Cincinnati, 3 to 0, and 6 to 3, today. Felix hit the first ball pitched by Benton in the first game for a home run to right center. Cooney pitched well and had brilliant support from Shay. An error by Critz in the 6th inning with 2 out let Boston score two runs in the second game. Gibson's double off Critz' glove in the eighth inning scored three more Boston runs. Score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

Ninth inning. Score tied. Bases full. Batter bunts ball to pitcher.

How should pitcher field the ball to the catcher?

This seems like a very simple play but when this situation arises a great many pitchers forget themselves or get excited and pass the ball to the catcher every place but the right place. The pitcher should go for a bunt of this kind as quickly as possible and after fielding the ball he should pass it underhand to the catcher and try to speed it up, so the catcher may have a chance for a double play It's a good thing to know that it's hard for a catcher to follow a ball passed to him by the pitcher either overhanded or with a side arm throw. So when making such a play, the pitcher should make sure of getting the man at the plate with an underhand throw, for if he makes a wild one a lot of runs will come in.

LOOSE PLAYING LOSES GAME FOR ATHLETICS

Cleveland, July 30.—Cleveland defeated Philadelphia today, 5 to 4. Galloway's error in the eighth was followed by three hits, which, with a base on balls gave the Indians four runs and the lead. Gray had held the Indians helpless until then.

The Athletics tied the score in the first half of the ninth, but the Indians filled the bases in their half with none out and George Uhle's pinch hit scoring the winning run.

Polo Games

New York, July 30.—The Midwick Country club polo team of California will play the American International trial polo team at Meadowbrook tomorrow afternoon in one of the series of matches to select the American team which will meet the English team in the International matches at Meadowbrook September 6 to 13. Eric Pedley, sensational young Californian is a member of both teams but late tonight it had not been determined which team he would play with.

J. H. Colonials Win Another

The Jail Hill Colonials with Francis Riley in the box won an easy game from the Chestnut street Sluggers 17 to 4 Wednesday evening at the Mohegan Park diamond. Riley had the Sluggers completely stopped and fanned 10 men. Drew was the catcher for the Colonials.

MISS COLLETT AND MRS. HURD PLAY BRILLIANT GOLF AT EASTERN POINT

Eastern Point, Conn., July 30.—The second day's play in the Shenecossett invitation golf matches demonstrated that in spite of over 175 players the affair is strictly a "two woman tournament."

Both Miss Glenna Collett, of the Rhode Island country club and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Merion Cricket won their matches with the greatest ease while the other two matches in the first flight went to the 19th hole before definite settlement.

Miss Collett had as her opponent Miss Ruth Anne Perry, of the Philadelphia Cricket club, a very capable golfer, but one quite outclassed by the magical Glenna. The Providence girl won the first three holes in even part and after that was always in the lead, rounding the turn with the same margin, but increasing it to four up on the short eleventh. The match ended at the short fifteenth where Miss Perry picked up after failing to get close to the pin on her third.

The cards:

Miss Collett, out—4 4 4 5 4 6 5 4 5—40
In—5 4 5 6 4 4 3.
Miss Perry, out—5 5 5 4 5 4 6 5 5—43
In 5 6 6 6 5 4.

Mrs. Hurd was more than a match for Mrs. Roger D. Babson, of Springfield, Mass., who lost by six and five. The former champion was at her best and would have been under 80 had the match been finished.

Miss Lassie McMahon, of Sleepy Hollow, was defeated on the 19th green by Mrs. Albert Taylor, of Hackensack, N. J.

Miss Harriet Ellison of Brae Burn, won her match on the 19th green from Miss Priscilla Maxwell of Hartford. she will meet Mrs. Hurd tomorrow while Mrs. Taylor will play Miss Collett.

The summaries (championship division):

Miss Glenna Collett, Rhode Island Country club, defeated Miss Ruth Anne Perry, Philadelphia Cricket, 5 and 3.

Mrs. Albert Taylor, Hackensack, N. J., defeated Miss Lassie McMahon, Sleepy Hollow, 1 up, 19 holes.

NUGGETS LOSE ONE MORE IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The Nuggets continued to cling tenaciously to the cellar position in the Twilight league Wednesday evening when they went down to defeat at the hands of the fast Battery B team 12 to 2. Every team has pushed the Nuggets further and further into the mire but the bottom is not yet in sight. George Madden, manager of the Nuggets is not entirely to blame for the team that was in the field Wednesday evening. Mr. Madden had the promise of several of the players of the Riverview team to play in the game and also several other well known ball players, but circumstances arose at the last minute that wrecked his plans. George is an ardent a baseball fan as any in Norwich and no one feels more disappointed over the showing of the Nuggets than he.

The game for two innings was fairly interesting but after that the ragged playing of the Nuggets took all the interest out of it. There were several bright features on the Nuggets. These were the pitching of Spike Harris, the all around good playing of Tommy Tombari, playing of Chick Stanley.

The Battery played good fast ball throughout the game, especially Gauthier, Lefty Dugas and Young Chip Dugas, Jr. The last mentioned played a nice outfield game and then pitched the last half of the fifth inning. His pitching caused no little favorable comment and it was a pleasure to see the youngster work. He performed as well as many of the more seasoned pitchers and with proper training should make a real hurler of the first class. The score:

FIRPO LEAVES FOR TRAINING CAMP AT SARATOGA SPRINGS

New York, July 30.—Luis Angel Firpo departed from Broadway and the white lights for the seclusion of his training camp at White Sulphur Springs, Saratoga Springs. The Argentine heavyweight and his retinue of South American handlers left New York on the night boat for Albany, planning to go tomorrow to the Springs where Firpo will start training for his scheduled match with Harry Wills, negro challenger, at Boyle's thirty acres September 11.

Firpo endeavored to get in touch with Bill Tate, giant negro heavyweight, to join his staff of workers but negotiations were incomplete up to the time of his sailing.

NEW LONDON SALVATION ARMY MAN IS HELD ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 30.—John W. Tinker, a member of the Salvation Army here, is under arrest charged with a serious offense and one which carries with it a state prison sentence if a conviction is established. Tinker is charged with indecent assault upon a seven years old girl. Tinker is held at the police station in default of a surety on his bond. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. When arrested Tinker was attired in the regulation garb of the army and had in his possession $8.43, which sum he had collected from a number of housewives for the support of the army barracks. It was while collecting funds for the Army that he is alleged of committing the acts that brought about his arrest.

Tinker left the barracks this morning to conduct a house to house visit to obtain funds. About noon he went to Colt street and entering a house obtained a small contribution. As he started through the hall to go to the street Tinker met the child who was visiting with its mother in the place. Tinker is alleged to have deposited a coin in the underwear of the child and then to have fondled her. While Tinker was handling the child, the latter's mother appeared and cried to Tinker. While the woman was upbraiding the Army solicitor for acts a chief petty officer appeared on the scene and taking Tinker in charge placed him in the former's automobile and started for the police station with the prisoner. When the machine reached a point on Union street, near Pearl street, Tinker tried to make his escape and after a struggle with the naval man, succeeded in leaping from the machine and disappeared toward Pearl street. The navy man continued to State street where he informed Patrolman Clarence Wells of what had occurred and the officer, hurrying to Pearl street, located Tinker and placed him under arrest.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today suspended the operators' licenses of Frederick Edwards, a driver in the employ of Tait Brothers and Alfred Brars, Navy street, Groton.

For several nights Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Russell, 1001 Ocean avenue have complained to the police because of the alleged annoyance they experienced because of youths in the vicinity of the Russell residence, but each visit of the local officers there it was claimed the youths congregated, the police were not rewarded by finding any signs of the disturbers. Last night when the complaint was received at the police station four officers hastened to Ocean avenue in the police speed auto, but they were unabley to find an trace of the gang.

The condition of James J. Drudy, secretary of New London lodge of Elks, who has been critically ill at his home on Union street, several days from a series of hemorrhages, was reported this afternoon as considerably improved, the patient had a comfortable night and day.

Auto law violation cases came up in the police court this morning against two Hartford men. One of the cases alleged violation of the rules of the road—carelessness rather than recklessness—in that the driver failed to reduce the speed of his machine as he approached intersecting streets. He was Davis Louis Goldberg. His case was disposed of by allowing him to settle on terms, which were the payment of costs. Louis Margolis, drove his machine into Easterly Place at Ocean Beach, and Margolis parked on the left hand side of that thoroughfare, just as if he was in a pasture lot. He endeavored to convince the court that he was not offending, but he was informed that parking on the left side of a highway was not allowed anywhere. Then he was fined $5.

Adrian Murray, who was in a smash-up in which Charles Ramage was injured and was sent to Lawrence hospital for treatment, was to have come to trial today for reckless operation of his car, but there was some misunderstanding about the date and Mr. Ramage did not come here from his home in Uncasville. The case went over to Monday next and Murray gave a bond to appear then.

Grass fires are many these days of dry times (dry in that no rain falls not in the sense that there is nowhere to be had plenty to drink) and fire apparatus is frequently called on to subdue flames that are created by smokers or others who cross fields. Today a fire in Colman street at the rear of of fire apparatus to subdue it. But the almshouse necessitated the work little damage resulted.

The funeral of Benjamin F. Bailey was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 297 Montauk. The large gathering of mourners included delegations of members of Mohegan lodge, I. O. O. F. and W. W. Perkins Post, G. A. R. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Members of Mohegan lodge acted as bearers and conducted the committal service in Jordan cemetery.

Edward Pulaski, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Roch Pulaski, 538 Main street, died last night, a short time after birth. The funeral took place this morning. Burial was in the National Polish cemetery, Norwich.

Henry Block, of Fishers Island, Sarah Lewis, Montauk avenue, Miss Congetta Casaro, Groton, Mrs. Eleanor Fiske, New Jersey, Miss Rose Pallgrini, Westerly, Mrs. Leslie Gardner and infant daughter, Waterford, and Mrs. John Connors and infant daughter, Thames street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to go to their respective homes today.

George W. and Sarah B. Sisson today sold a house and lot on Cole street to Michael F. and Jennie Galvin Fahey.

A fire that gave indications of de-stroying the three-story brick and wooden structure 96-100 Bank street, owned by Emil Fuchs, Norwich, and Fritz Vogt, New London, broke out early this morning and for an hour gave the firemen a hard task in subduing it. The origin of the blaze is not known, but it is believed to have started from a gas burner attached to a coffee urn.

The damage will be about $8,000, most of which is to the building, as the stock in the stores on the ground floor were not badly damaged, some of the stock being damaged only by smoke and water. The stores are occupied by A. Silverman, dry goods and haberdashery, P. Butleman, ladies' wear, and John MacArthur, dry goods.

The second floor is occupied by the Belleview restaurant, Carlo Esposito, and where the fire originated, and by lodgings, while the top floor is used for lodging purposes. Esposito sustained the greatest loss, other than to the building, but he is fully covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered about 2.45 o'clock by John J. Sullivan, proprietor of the lodging house at 95 Bank street, who saw flames in the dining room of the restaurant. Seising a fire extinguisher, Sullivan secured a ladder and raised it to the restaurant window. Sullivan smashed the window and entered the place, going to the rear of the dining room, where flames were leaping to the ceiling. The contents of the extinguisher was not sufficient to subdue the blaze, so an alarm was rung in from Box 23, corner of North Bank and Tilley streets. With the arrival of the firemen the flames were combatted with both chemicals and water, but were so stubborn that it was not until an hour later that the blaze was extinguished and the recall sounded.

When the fire was at its height, and it was believed that the building would be destroyed, the lodgers on the two upper floors made their escape, but so fierce were the flames and so dense the smoke that a number of the roomers were assisted to safety by means of ladders.

The Soltz company, 12 Main street, butchers and grocers, were forced to close their doors today when Swift & Co. caused an attachment to be placed on the store for $400 for meats supplied for a considerable period. The attachment was served by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs and a keeper has been placed in the market.

It has been known for a considerable period that creditors of the concern were forcing a settlement and the claims were all presented at the same time, causing the concern to be unable to meet its obligations.

Joseph Soltz, president of the company, stated this afternoon that undoubtedly the Soltz company was now nothing of the past and that he, himself, would probably open a market and conduct the business on a small scale and in that way remove the tremendous overhead that has existed before.

The funeral of Nicolo Pietrofeto, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pietrofeto, was held this morning at 9.30 o'clock at the residence of his parents, 79 Woodbridge street, and was attended by a throng of relatives and acquaintances of the parents of the child. The cortege moved from the home through the principal streets to St. Mary's cemetery. Heading the procession was an automobile conveying the floral pieces. There followed about fifty children dressed in white and carrying flowers which were placed in the child's grave and upon the casket. Four boys who were bearers walked from the house to the cemetery, carrying the white satin casket, while six girl companions of the dead boy walked beside the bearers, each dressed in white and carrying a small cluster of flowers. Spare bearers also walked beside the casket and relieved the other bearers during the long journey. The procession was concluded by about twenty automobiles which conveyed the mourners.

A serious grass fire occurred this afternoon when a large area on Coleman street, near Warren street, became ablaze and caused a still alarm to be sent to headquarters. The Niagara Engine company and Allen Hook and Ladder company responded, extinguishing the fire with chemicals.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Mariners' Savings bank, held in the banking rooms of the institution today, Jeremiah D. Cronin presided. The session was called for the purpose of filling the vacancies caused by the death of ex-Gov. Thomas M. Waller and P. Hall Shurts and to elect another member to the board, the election resulting in Ernest E. Rogers, Frank B. Walker and Edmund C. Johnston being made trustees. Officers were elected as follows: President, James P. Johnston; vice president and attorney, Charles B. Waller; assistant treasurer, Henry Holt Smith; directors, James P. Johnston, Charles E. Waller, P. LeRoy Harwood, William T. May, Sidney A. Brown, Percy C. Eggleston, Charles A. Gallup and Arthur P. Anderson.

Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton has granted a nolle in the case of H. E. Stengele, 444 Montauk avenue, charged with reckless driving Saturday night, when the machine he was operating collided with a car owned and driven by Frederick H. Smith, local hotel proprietor, at Mosshopper's corner, Waterford. It was intended when Stengele, who is a paymaster's clerk at the submarine base, was arrested to charge him with reckless driving, driving a machine without having an operator's license and driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The charges of reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated were dropped after Stengele was apprehended, and now the case is disposed of by nolle. It is understood that Stengele will pay the cost of repairing Gavit's car.

Miss Marian Ames, Summit avenue, is visiting relatives in Lewiston, Me. Announcement is made of the engagement of Robert Graham, Astoria, N. Y., to Miss Ellen Fletcher, 163 Lincoln avenue, this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, Poquonoc. The announcement was made at a gathering last evening at the residence of Miss Alice Mafquardt in Groton.

Miss Leona Chartier has returned to hre home at Ocean Beach, having spent three weeks in Vermont and Canada. The trip was made by automobile and Miss Chartier was accompanied back to New London by Dr. and Mrs. B. G. Perrault of St. Albans, Vt.

HEAVY CROP DAMAGE FROM DROUGHT IN N. L. COUNTY

Although heavy thunder showers were reported from other sections of the state very little rain fell here on Wednesday. It was about the hottest day of the year, the mercury climbing up to the 90 mark. During the early afternoon a fairly good sized breeze brought some relief from the heat and there was promise of a heavy rainfall. It looked at one time during the early afternoon as if a thunder storm was on the way but it did not materialize. About 3.45 o'clock there was a heavy shower, but it lasted only a few minutes. Shortly afterwards there was another heavy but brief shower. The promising breeze soon died out and during the evening there was hardly a breath of air stirring.

The drought which has prevailed for many weeks past in this state has done tremendous damage to the crops. It is said that the damage to crops in New London county alone will amount to $200,000.

The average city resident doesn't realize the situation in the country. Crops of all sorts are shrivelling and dying in the hot sun for want of liquid nourishment and unless rain falls soon and heavily, not only will crops be scarce and costly, but the quality will be low. The price of most vegetables has risen during the past week, and is expected to continue to do so until relief comes for the crops in the form of rain.

Farmers in this vicinity say that two crops of hay are out of the question this season, due to the fact that the first crop has not been completely harvested yet, and will not be until rain lends its invaluable assistance.

U. S. WORLD FLIERS HAVE ARRIVED AT KIRKWALL

Kirkwall, Scotland, July 30.—(By the A. P.)—Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, with his band of United States army aviators, arrived here this afternoon from Brough, England, on the start of the last leg of their round-the-world flight.

The jump-off at Brough took place at 10.24 o'clock this morning, and after an easy flight under good weather conditions nearly all the way, the planes dropped gracefully upon the waters of Houton bay about 4 o'clock this afternoon, and "taxied" to their moorings in the presence of a large proportions of the population of the Orkney Islands and the officers and crew of the United States cruiser Richmond, anchored nearby.

The journey of about 720 miles from Brough was made in about five and a half hours. Shortly after passing Edinburgh the airmen encountered a heavy fog, which forced them up to an altitude of 1800 feet. They lost the fog, however, after an hour's run, and the last 100 miles of the flight was made in an hour with the wind behind them.

The airmen were in excellent condition after today's journey. They looked much better than when they arrived in London a fortnight ago.

Britain has made thirteen unsuccessful attempts to win back the America's cup since the famous international yachting trophy was brought to this side by the schooner yacht America in 1851.

WESTERLY

Connecticut Deputy Game Warden Albert D. Hill of Pawcatuck brought before Judge William A. Wilcox Wednesday morning Camille Legley of Blackstone, Mass., and complained that the man was found fishing in Anguilla brook without first having procured a Connecticut state license. Legley was one of a party of four automobilists at Camp Richmond on the Westerly-Stonington road. Legley's automobile was held as surety for his appearance before a special session of Stonington town court in Borough hall, Stonington, at 3.30 Wednesday afternoon, at which time he was presented on complaint of Stonington Town Solicitor George R. McKenna of Pawcatuck.

During the trial it developed that Legley had a fishing license for Massachusetts and one for Rhode Island, but not one for Connecticut. The defendant told the court that he thought he was fishing in Rhode Island waters. On his plea of guilty Judge Wilcox fined him $2 and costs of $14.23, amounting in all to $16.23, which was paid.

George E. Chapman has among his collection of rare and old coins five copper one-cent pieces, the dates being 1855, 1851, 1848, 1847, 1843; also there is a United States half-cent dated 1805 which is of copper. There is one which is called the "white cent," dated 1860, and a one-cent piece with flying eagle on one side, the date being 1858. He has also a $2.50 gold piece minted in 1851.

Tuesday evening at the state ar-mory on Dixon street, Capt. John Dotson, of Battery E, 243 Field Artillery, began with the "opening gun" of a recruiting campaign to bring the battery membership up to the standard required. The culmination of this campaign is planned for National Defence day.

Prosecuting Attorney George F. Mc-Kenna, of Pawtucket, for the town of Stonington, was a speaker at the Pawcatuck Congregational church, when an observance was held of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the society by members of the Pawcatuck Women's Christian Temperance union. Rev. Ernest E. Morill, pastor of the church began the service with a short invocation. The subject of Attorney McKenna's talk was "Law Enforcement." The subject was treated more from the standpoint of the enforcement of liquor laws, on which Mr. McKenna is qualified to talk, having been Stonington town solicitor since June 3rd, a year ago, and incidentally in that time fines have totalled over $1800.

Along these lines the records of the town court of Stonington show: Arrests for intoxication and conviction, 1914, 57; 1915, 35; 1916, 102; 1917, 70; 1918, 49; 1919, 8; 1920, 17; 1921, 8; 1922, 12; 1923, 6; 1924, to date 5.

Liquor violators before the town court of Stonington during 1923, were 20 in number, with 16 convictions. Fines and costs paid amounted to $1,702.77, with three appeals to higher court and costs paid later were 191.84 or a total of 1894.61 altogether.

To July 1, 1920, 1924, there were two cases. Case No. 1, fines and costs imposed, $1042.60, wit ha 30-day jail sentence. An appeal is pending in this case.

Case No. 2, being a second offense the accused was adjudged probably guilty and bound over to the superior court.

Lawrence Main, 19, of Hopkinton, was before Judge Michael J. Turano of the Third district court Wednesday evening on a charge of reckless driving of an automobile Tuesday night and released in bonds of $2500, with surety furnished, before the session of district court on next Friday. The arrest was made by Constable Frank Brown of Hopkinton and followed as a result of a collision of a Ford truck car, 33-837 Conn. driven by Main, who was accompanied by Ernest York of Westerly and the Studebaker touring car, 5-397 R. I. of William Tuck, owner and operator and with him was Nazo De Fanti both of Westerly, on the front seat, also Samuel Stinson of Hartford and Timothy Deady of Pawcatuck on the rear seat. Also Samuel Stinson of Hartford and Timothy Deady of Pawcatuck on the rear seat. As a result of the collision which occurred just west of the Wellstown bridge, on the Westerly-Hope Valley road, York was thrown forty feet out of the Ford and sustained a fracture near the base of the skull, blood coming from his ears. He also had other injuries. He was brought to his home on Walnut street in Pawcatuck, after receiving treatment by Dr. John B. Warden of Ashaway. At Westerly he was placed in charge of L. Michael H. Scanlon, who directed the removal Wednesday morning to Lawton's hospital New London. Later Wednesday the patient was reported as suffering from epileptic seizures and his condition was considered dangerous. Main, who did not suffer injuries to any great extent, being credited by members of the touring car as being under the influence of liquor, was brought to the Westerly lock up.

OBITUARY.

Miss Susan E. Pierce.

Miss Susan E. Pierce died Tuesday morning in her 101st year at 16 Melrose street, Providence, where she had made her home for more than 65 years, being one of the oldest residents of the city, and having relatives well known in Westerly and Norwich.

On Dec. 15, 1923, Miss Pierce observed her centennial, many relatives and friends calling to congratulate her. At that time she was in good health, and it was only a few weeks ago that she commenced to fail.

Her life had been a quiet one, Miss Pierce never having been active in any organization.

Miss Pierce was born in Pawtucket Dec. 15, 1823, the daughter of Benjamin Bentley and Sarah Walker Pierce, and lived in that town until she was 16 years old, being one of several children, among whom were the late Henry Niles Pierce, for many years bishop of Arkansas, and Moses and William Pierce of Norwich, who were considered among the most successful business men of eastern Connecticut. She was educated at a seminary in Warren.

During the Civil war Miss Pierce was in the south. She went there to visit a sister at Mobile, Ala., and was there when the war broke out and unable to get back north. Just before the war closed, however, she attempted to return to her home and procured papers and started. She quickly discovered that the papers were valueless, so her only hope of getting through was running the blockade. For six months she nedured dangers and hardships involved in the desperate effort to get through and finally raeched New Orleans just as the war terminated.

A few years previous to her going to the south Miss Pierce had taken up her home in what is now Elmwood in the house in which she died. For a number of years she was active in the community life of the Elmwood section, which she has seen grow from a straggling suburban district of the then town of Cranston to an integral part of the city of Providence.

Miss Pierce for a number of years has lived with two nieces, Mrs. Robert Lake and Miss Emma L. Pierce, who, with the following nieces and nephews, are now all that remain of the family: Mrs. E. P. Lyman and A. W. Pierce of Little Rock, Ark., Benjamin P. Pierce of Taunton and Z. G. Pierce of Providence. Edward E. Pierce of Wakefield, R. I., and Frederick L. Pierce of Providence are grandnephews. Two nieces, Mrs. Florence Wattles and Miss Harriet Pierce of Norwich, died within a few years.

STONINGTON

The midweek prayer service of the First Baptist church was held Wednesday evening in the conference room. Dr. Henry M. Thompson was in charge. The topic was Your Bible and How You Use It. After the service a business meeting of the Sunday school officers was held. Plans are being made for the annual picnic, which will take place at Atlantic Beach in about two weeks.

A force has been working on Church street for several days, putting it in condition. The gutters have been thoroughly cleaned and the west end of the street below Borough hall has received a coating of tar and sand. This part of Church street presents an excellent appearance and is one of the most attractive thoroughfares in the borough.

The annual picnic of the Congregational Sunday school is to be held at Atlantic Beach Thursday, Aug. 7.

The internal revenue officer from New London was in town on official business Wednesday.

The Woman's auxiliary of the Calvary church is to hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon in the chapel to plan for an outing.

Mrs. Harry Fuller and son Robert of South Norwalk are visiting Mrs. Robert Stapfin on Gold street.

Mrs. Raymond A. Bryant and children, Barbara, Helen and Albert, have returned to their home at Marion, Ct., after two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Ide on Water street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Monjo are entertaining at their home on Trumbull avenue Mrs. Anna Sherr and son Milton of Bloomfield, N. Y.

James LaGrua was a business caller in New London Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Stivers have returned from a visit to the Y. M. C. A. camp at Lantern Hill.

Edward Fallon, Frank LaGrua and Harry Schiller were recent visitors at Oakland Beach, R. I. They made the trip in Mr. Schiller's car.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Thompson of Schenectady, N. Y., have returned home after a week's visit with Dr. and Mrs. Henry M. Thompson.

Charles D. Main has rented the Birtch house opposite the school building, where he will reside.

Charles Cowan has furnished the town several new traffic signs. Two have been placed in front of Borough hall on Church street, where the fire departments are located. Others have been placed within the town limits in Pawcatuck and East Mystic. These signs are more durable than any yet seen in this locality. They are made entirely of metal. The sign itself is made of aluminum and is practically indestructible, while the base consists of a heavy iron casting into which is set a steel rod about four feet in height.

Mrs. Rose Potter is spending a week at Middletown with Miss F. Parmerlee.

NEW THEORY OF ORIGIN OF THE JEWISH PEOPLE

London, July 30 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Lieutenant Colonel T. S. Beauchamp Williams put forth a new theory of the origin of the Jewish people in the house of commons yesterday in connection with the debate on the Palestinian budget.

He declared that the present day Jews were not the descendants of the Biblical "Children of Israel" but were descendants of the Chazars, a Mongolian people who had a large and powerful state of their own in South Russia and became converted to Judaism in the Ninth century. They were later conquered by the first rulers of Russia.

Lieutenant-Colonel Williams also said that in 23 years' experience as a physician in Russia, the Balkans and the Levant, he had made anthropological studies which had convinced him that the present day Jews were merely the descendants of proselytes belonging to various races.

Italy's population has increased by over 4,000,000 since 1911. Sixteen Italian cities have populations greater than 100,000.

COULD NOT WALK BECAUSE OF PAIN

Bad Case of Woman's Illness Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I had such a bad case of female trouble that I could not walk because of the pains from inflammation. My back was all done up. I could hardly bend, could not go up stairs because of weakness, and no one could possibly be in worse shape than I was. I have taken 12 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am a strong woman now and can work down any of my neighbors. They wonder how I can do so much work. I dare say that I have recommended your medicine to a thousand women. A little book was thrown at my door, and that is how I first learned of it."—Mrs. D. M. BEAUCHAMP, 1104 Morrison Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS ACTIVE

New York, July 30.—A wave of profit taking today interrupted the current upward movement of stock prices, but a renewed outburst of buying in the final few minutes of trading sustained the strength shown earlier in the day. Steel shares assumed the leadership of the advance, but railroad issues were hammered down under realizing sales.

Constructive developments in the steel trade, including the extra dividend declared yesterday by the United States Steel Corporation and reports of a measureable increase in new buying by the weekly trade reviews, gave firm tone to the steel issues, which was communicated to other industrial leaders. United States Steel common opened 1 5-8 points higher and mounted almost three points to 106 1-8, a new high on the current movement, on subsequent havy transactions. It closed at 105 5-8, a net gain of 2 3-8 points.

American Can Baldwin, General Electric and other leaders, which receded sharply when reactionary movements developed in the afternoon joined in the final rally. American Can established a new high level for the year at 125 3-8, representing a net gain of 2 5-8 points. General Electric, Baldwin, American Telephone, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron moved up 1 to 2 1-2 points in the late spurt.

The selling movement which replaced the initial advance was perhaps the most severe encountered in the last seven weeks. While the staying qualities of U. S. Steel and other pivotal stocks enabled the general list to stage an impressive recovery, rail issued failed to regain their previous high levels and fractional declines were general throughout this group. Atlantic Coast Line, however, maintained its independent strength, moving up 4 points.

Conflicting price movements marked dealing in specialty stocks. American Water Work and West Penn Power jumped 1 1-2 to 3 1-4 points. American Woolen gained more than a point but Daniel Boone Woolen Mills broke 3 1-2 points to the lowest price of the year.

Heaviness of French francs, which fell below 5 cents for the first time in recent weeks, was the principal feature of the foreign exchange markets. Sterling also moved slightly lower to around $4.39 1-2, with uneasiness over the long drawn out deadlock in the inter-allied conference reflected in the hesitant tone of trading.

The prevailing 3 per cent. rate for call money remained unchanged today. An easier tone was evident in the market for time loans, with a larger volume of funds offered at 2 1-2 per cent. and some 60 day loans reported arranged on a 3 1-4 per cent. basis. Commercial paper rates continued to range from 3 1-4 to 3 3-4 per cent.

BOND MARKET

New York, July 30.—Profit taking and a transfer of speculative interest to the stock market today halted the forward movement of bond prices. Shifting cross currents gave the market an unsettled tone, although fluctuations mainly were confined to narrow limits.

Several Liberty bonds were carried to new high levels when the advance in United States government obligations was renewed at the opening of today's trading. A substantial reaction, however, forced prices from 1 to 5-32nds lower.

Another selling movement in St. Paul Railroad issues was attributed to profit taking which was general throughout the speculative rail section. Losses of a point or more were recorded by the road's active liens and smaller recessions took place in Erie, International Great Northern and New Haven mortgages. Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 5's was unusually active, selling as high as 101 1-8.

In the industrial list, advances averaging about a point in Wilson and Company 7 1-2's, Magma 7's and Bethlehem Steel 5 1-2's contrasted with similar losses in American Agricultural 7 1-2's, Eastern Cuba Sugar 7 1-2's and American Smelting 5's.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, July 30.—Canadian rains and cool weather led to heavy selling of wheat today in connection with a noticeable tendency to increase estimates of the size of the Canadian crop. Largely as a result, the wheat market closed unsettled, 7-8c to 1 5-8c net lower, September $1.31 5-8 to $1.31 7-8 and December $1.34 1-2 to $1.34 3-4.

Corn finished 3-4c to 1 3-8c down, oats 3-8c to 1-2c off, and provisions at a setback ranging from 35c to 67c.

Houses with northwestern and southwestern connections were persistent sellers in the wheat market here, and were given a decided advantage by a sharp break in quotations at Winnipeg and Liverpool. A majority of traders here appeared to lean to the view that the drouth in Canada had been effectually broken and that for at least the time between the temperatures there were too low for development of rust.

Supplementing the improved crop outlook in Canada were reports which were generally taken as pointing toward a larger wheat yield in the United States this year than for 1923. The fact that a government report on the domestic wheat crop would be issued next week was something of a bearish influence in this connection. A good deal of buying, however, was done near the end of the day on account of opinions that declines of late were more than the situation as a whole would warrant. It was said, too, that export business was being worked under cover.

Corn and oats declined with wheat and as a result of more favorable crop news and better weather conditions.

Provisions dropped out profit-taking sales and to a fall in hog values.

CURB MARKET

New York, July 30.—Strength of the coal shares featured moderate curb market trading today in contrast to a softening tendency in the radio shares and diminished activity in the oils with narrow movements in the Standard Oil group.

Heavy buying of Lehigh Valley Coal certificates carried the quotation to a new high of 47, transactions exceeding 52,000, but the close was fractionally lower. Lehigh Valley coal sales also was well bought, ending the day with a gain of nearly 2 points.

Dubilier was a weak spot in the radio group, yielding 6 points on realizing sales. Hazeltine Corporation also lost ground, but with a stronger show of resistance.

Public utilities were firm with little price changes, American Gas and Electric, however, losing more than 2 points on the day. Mutual Oil and international Petroleum were strong, each gaining fractionally Cities Service closed a point higher on increase net earnings for June

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE

Pursuant to an order of the Court of Probate for the District of Lebanon, made and issued on the 30th day of July, 1924, I will sell at private sale certain real estate belonging to the estate of Anderson O. Martin, late of Lebanon, in said District, deceased, bounded and described as follows:

A tract of forty-five (45) acres of land, more or less, situated in the Town of Lebanon, bounded northerly by lands formerly of Charles H. Loomis; easterly by highway (Hayward road, so-called); southerly by highway to Kick Hill; westerly by lands of John Madley.

Dated at Lebanon, Conn., July 31, 1924.
HAYWARD C. MARTIN,
jy31d Administrator.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 29th day of July, A. D. 1924.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Elizabeth Caroline Huntington, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

The Administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. exhibited his administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 6th day of August, A. D. 1924, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, be, and the same is, appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administrator is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least six days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER,
jy31d Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 30th day of July, A. D. 1924.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Charles H. Stapleton, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Ella E. Stapleton of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased, alleged to be intestate.

Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 4th day of August, A. D. 1924, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation said District, at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER,
jy31d Clerk.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

The Ragged Rabbit Bunny.
Let me ponder, let me think.
Give my eyes a winky blink.
Where did we leave off last night
You and I, at candle light.

Oh, yes, I remember now. I was telling you how Little Jack Rabbit hopped over the bridge—the big long log that lay across the Bubbling Brook. Yes, of course, that's just where we left off.

Well, sir, that little rabbit never stopped until he came to a tiny shop on the corner of Raspberry avenue and Tomato street. But he did when he saw in the window of a candy store a great, big, luscious lollypop. It was as large as a dish pan and the stick as long as a broom handle.

The Little Rabbit Saw the Ragged Rabbit.

"Gracious me!" exclaimed the bunny boy, "I wonder who placed it in the window. It just fits. Maybe the end of the stick had to be sawed off," and he looked close through the glass. Just then a loud, kind voice inquired:

"What are you looking at, little bunnee,
Turn about face and gaze at big me
I brought the lollypop down to the store
It's lucky I shortened off the stick with my saw."

Turning around, the little rabbit saw the Ragged Rabbit Bunny. You know, boys and girls, the big giant rabbit man I told you about some umpty-leven stories ago. Yes, there he stood, as big as an Indian made of wood that stands outside a tobacco store, with a corncob pipe in his furry paw.

"Good morning," gasped the bunny boy quite taken aback at meeting his giant friend so suddenly.

"Howdy," answered the Ragged Giant Bunny, holding out his paw and puffing out a ring of smoke as large around as a cart wheel. "Howdy, young rabbit. How's your Ma?"

"Oh, she's very well," answered the little rabbit. "She's always feeling fine. Dr. Quack, the famous duck doctor, says Mother hasn't time to be ill."

"Wish some of my lady rabbit relatives would follow her example," said the big rabbitman, with a wink. "But they seem to be invalids from choice. Maybe they like to take pink pills."

"I don't know," answered the bunny boy, politely, not knowing just what to say. "How are you?"

"Never better in my life," answered the Ragged Rabbit Giant. "What are you up to now?"

"After I get a spool of cotton for Mother, I've nothing to do but take it home," replied the little rabbit.

"Well, get the cotton and come with me," answered the big rabbitman. "My bungalow is on the way. Maybe you'll have time to stop for a minute or two. I've just put in a radio. We can learn whether the Squirrels or the Chipmunks won the baseball game."

Hopping quickly into the shop, the bunny boy bought a spool of cotton, and then, with a skip and a jump, he bounded out again.

"Guess I'll put you in my pocket," said the big rabbit giant. "I can walk faster than you can hop," and picking up the bunny boy, he started off, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

LYME ART EXHIBIT FOR TWENTY-THIRD YEAR

Plans are being completed for the showing of painting and sculpture in the 23 annual exhibitions of the Lyme Art association at the association gallery in Old Lyme. Not only in the number of canvases shown but also in the more interesting character of the subjects, is the high standard of the exhibitions maintained.

Years of earnest endeavor, with high ideals, have made this exhibition one of the most important summer shows in the United States. Moreover, through the inauguration of the Museum Purchase plan, by which the association makes annual gifts of paintings to its associate museum members, it has become an educational factor, unlimited by the state boundaries, and unequalled by any other organization of artists.

The association first held an exhibition 23 years ago in the public library. Since that time the showings have become larger until now it overflows the four wide and handsome galleries of the association's new building.

Those who will exhibit are: Lucien Abrams, E. Maxwell Albert, Ernest Albert, Frank A. Bicknell, Charles Bittinger, Matilda Browne (Mrs. Van Wyck), George M. Brunetle, George B. Burr, William Chadwick, Bruce Crane, Frank V. Dumond, Charles Ebert, Will Howe Foote, Clifford Grayson, Harry L. Hoffman, Platt Hubbard, William H. Howe, Wilson Irvine, Lydia Longacre, Ivan G. Olinsky, Lawton Parker, Henry R. Poore, William S. Robinson, Edward F. Rook, Percival Rosseau, Henry Bill Selden, Gregory Smith, Will S. Taylor, Robert Tolman, Mrs. Bessie Potter Vonnoh, Robert W. Vonnoh, Clark G. Voorhees, Everett L. Warner, Carleton Wiggins, Guy Wiggins.

A dozen cameras were aimed at a blushing young woman and her intended husband in the marriage license bureau in Philadelphia all because they received the 500,000th marriage license issued in Philadelphia under the present law which has been on the statute books for 39 years.

TAFTVILLE

Miss Margaret Fagan of Waterbury, Conn., is the guest of Miss Diana Marsan of Hunters avenue

Mrs. Leon Fontaine and daughter Claire and Clarice of 30 Providence street, and Mrs. Archie Molleur of 28 Providence street are spending the week at Pleasant View, R. I.

Wilfred Tellier of Merchants avenue has accepted a position in Deep River, Mass.

Miss Viola Blanchette of South B street is spending a few days at Long Island, N. Y., visiting friends.

A large tree near Mr. Tellier's home on Merchants avenue has been chopped down. It was one of the landmarks of Taftville. It is said that three cords of wood were chopped from it.

Mrs. Clarence J. Nagle of the Pocomah House has returned after a short stay in Boston, Mass.

Delvica Benoit of Merchants avenue, who is employed in Dion's Store, is enjoying his annual vacation of two weeks.

Philip Adams of Merchants avenue and Ray Gero of Norwich avenue have returned after a two weeks' auto trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Pontiac, Detroit, and Bay City, Michigan.

A state truck was stuck in the mud near the reservoir on Tuesday afternoon and it took a number of hours before it was able to go on its way.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson and son James of Laconia, N. H., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McSheffrey of 42 South A street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dugas and family of Merchants avenue have returned from an auto trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phaneuf are spending a few days in Hartford, Conn.

Albert Ferris, Albert Lambert, Albert Paul and Alfred Benoit went fishing at Pachaug pond Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boehn, Miss Antoinette Meyer and Charles Meyer of Lisbon spent Wednesday at Mount Tom, Holyoke, Mass., making the trip by auto.

NORWICH TOWN

The midweek prayer service of the First Congregational church is to be held this (Thursday) evening at 7 o'clock (standard time). At this church Sunday morning the hour of worship will be in charge of Gustave H. Bochman of Westport, executive secretary of the Connecticut Temperance union.

Miss Rose K. Durr, R. N., of Town street, who has been passing several weeks at the Fuller cottage, at East Beach, Quonochontaug, has been entertaining this week Miss Gladys Wilson, R. N., of Greeneville. Miss Durr is to return to Norwich Town the latter part of this week. She will be accompanied by her niece, Miss Barbara Binns, of Hobart avenue, Norwich, who has been her guest during the past week.

Miss Fay Haines of Bixby, S. D., who has been passing two weeks at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Harry Mack, of New London, was the guest for a day recently of another aunt, Mrs. May Rollins, the efficient matron at the Johnson home. Miss Haines is a graduate of Aberdeen Normal school, South Dakota, and her home is on a large ranch there. During her visit she has been enjoying the beaches and daily bathing, never before having seen the ocean. Although Miss Haines spent last summer at Chicago, and the previous summer in Yellowstone park, she is greatly impressed with the beauties of New England on her first trip east, and thus far thinks nothing could surpass this section. Miss Haines has expressed the wish that her family move east. Previous to returning home, she will spend two weeks visiting in Chicago.

Saltesea PEA SOUP

WILL SEND DELEGATE TO THAMES RIVER HEARING IN WASHINGTON

The July membership letter of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce carries the announcement that a representative of the chamber will be sent to Washington to appear at a hearing on the Thames river channel development before the board of army engineers in October. The representative will be sent to the hearing in an endeavor to prevail upon the board to sanction the proposed deepening of the channel. The membership letter, which was mailed to the chamber members Wednesday by Secretary John J. O'Rourke, says:

Colonel H. C. Newcomer of New York has again filed his objections to the board of army engineers against the proposed deepening of the river channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich. Senator Brandegee requested a hearing before the full board in the event of an adverse report from the colonel. This has been granted and the hearing will be held next October. According the chamber will send a representative committee to Washington to appear before the board in an endeavor to prevail upon them to sanction this development.

Away back in 1805 a corporation was formed by Norwich citizens for the purpose of keeping the river channel in good navigable condition. The incorporators were, Joseph Perkins, Peter Lanman, Dwight Tinsley, Jabez Huntington, Simeon Breed. The corporation was named the Norwich Channel company. Tolls were exacted from shipping, the amount depending on the vessel's draught, and all tool receipts were invested in the channel's development. The Norwich channel lottery was created in an effort to secure additional funds to carry out the purposes of the Norwich Channel company.

It was thus that the early settlers of Norwich and, hayhap, had the vision too, to make Norwich a real seaport city. This heritage of the early builders now falls to us, in this generation, to carry out as far as possible their foresight. The present generation will be sadly amiss in their faithfulness to the spirit of the honored gentlemen named above should we fail to keep faith with their early efforts. Then as now opposition was manifest but the efforst of the early builders were successful.

The Thames River Line has recently added the city of Bridgeport to its port of calls and the result is beneficial to the shippers of that city. Decreased freight rates, an important factor to any manufacturing community, has been the result. This fact is easily substantiated by an investigation.

Norwich fully realizes that it needs the services of the railroads as well as water transportation. Both are vital element to a city's welfare. Nevertheless, healthy competition is the life of trade and commerce not only as to transportation but as to the eternal competition of present day cities for growth and prosperity. Norwich cannot afford to lost its water transportation and benefits.

Equitable Taxation

The tax analysis committee is quietly but perseveringly carrying out its purposes. At the last meeting, the full board of assessors and board of relicfe were present, and a discussion relative to prevailing methods of levying the town and city taxes the work of the assessors during the year; and the needs of the assessors were subjects that were considered.

At the next meeting F. C. Barrows, assessors of New London; and T. M. Russell, chairman of the special tax analysis committee of Middletown, will confer with the committee. The committee has in mind calling into conference later on some of the assessment experts who have worked out systems in other cities. Only those whose reputation for service is high and whose work has been meritorious will be requested to confer with the local committee.

Request has also been made to H. H. Pettis, town counsel, for an explanation of the law governing assessors, board of relief, the taxpayers, and the duties of each. Mr. Pettis has courteously agreed to cooperate with the committee.

By these means of investigation and going further into the inequalities that exist now in Norwich regarding the prevailing method used by the local assessors, it is hoped to evolve a plan which will be submitted to the citizens that will be justifiable to all local taxpayers. Of course it is going to take time to do this. The personnel of the committee are busy men in their own vocations and the time given to this matter will draw heavily on them at the sacrifice of personal comfort.

Norwich Playgrounds

The work of the recreation commission regarding supervised playgrounds merits the approval of all citizens. The fact that a majority of the school children age under the watchful eye of supervisors, playing their games to their heart's content, away from the dangerous streets, must be a source of comfort to parents and indicates in no uncertain terms that Norwich believes in the happiness and safeguarding her children. In this respect we have taken a most progressive step placing Norwich in the ranks of other communities which give the fullest protection possible to their children during the summer vacation. The women and men who serve on the commission are deeply interested in this special work and are doing a real service to the whole community. Norwich appreciates their work.

Car Parking

With very limited spaces for the unreserved time parking of cars, together with the narrow streets in our business section; and the increasing number of local and foreign automobiles, the question of parking is becoming acute in Norwich during daily business hours and especially on Saturdays and special trading days. The city council proposes to revise the present regulations and to strictly enforce them upon adoption. The mayor has called on the citizens generally to offer any suggestions that his committee might consider feasible for greater effectiveness in keeping the traffic avenue in the business center as safe as possible.

The streets committee of the chamber has given consideration to this matter and made recommendations to the directors of the chamber. The board reuested the committee to take up these recommendations with the directors of the Retail Merchants' association. This action was taken in order that there would be no cross currents in any recommendation that will eventually be made to the mayor. One of the recommendations was that the merchant should not park his own car in front of his place of business for hours at a time in the reserved time parking area. This is not only true of merchants but of other individuals. Public streets are not private property and the car owner who parks his car constantly in a reserved time parking space is violating public welfare. This is a matter for police supervision. The city council is keenly alive to the situation and according to the mayor proposes to make parking regulations something to be observed and not ignored. Let us back him in his efforts to provide safe and sane traffic regulations.

TRUCK WAGON LOSES TIRE ON SQUARE

A large truck wagon and a big automobile truck came to grief Wednesday noon on Franklin square and for a time the square resembled a repair shop. The horse drawn truck driven by Thomas Swain lost the iron from one of the wheels. Officer Delaney and George Madden assisted Mr. Swain in repairing the wheel.

Mr. Madden secured a jack and the wheel was lifted from the ground, and, by use of a heavy hammer, the iron band was driven back onto the wheel.

While this noisy operation was underway there was a deafening explosion caused by one of the big tires on the Rossie Velvet Co. trucks, which blew out as the truck was going through the square. The truck was stopped and a new repair shop opened across the way from the original shop opened by Mr. Swain.

Getting a New York License

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Charles A. Harnett of New York has announced that the issuing of automobile licenses throughout the state will begin on Aug. 15.

Under the new law, by which every automobile driver in the state must be licensed, operators outside New York city must have their licenses by Oct. 1. The commissioner is preparing to issue from 2,250,000 to 2,500,000. The cost will be $1, but the renewal, on July, next year, when the licensing year will be effective all over the state, will cost only 50 cents.

As it would be impossible to have the army of applicants undergo a road examination, Mr. Harnett has prepared a questionnaire which, when filled out and sworn to, will be accepted. If the answers to questions are ambiguous or open to suspicion, a personal examination will be required.

The applicant must state how long a time and how many miles he or she has driven a motor vehicle; the type of car operated, whether a license to operate has ever been refused, suspended or revoked in this or any other state; whether intoxicating liquors or drugs are used; the nature of motor vehicle accidents, if any; conviction of a crime or of the violation of any ordinance or vehicle law; condition of sight and hearing; whether there is a tendency to paralysis, vertigo or other nervous troubles, and whether the applicant is crippled.

Telephone Call For Small Fire.

Burning moss and leaves on top of the hill in the rear of the Duwell athletic grounds and near the residence of John Carter gave the fire department a run Wednesday afternoon about 3.45 o'clock. The department went out on a telephone call.

FOLIAGE STILL GREEN DESPITE DRY WEATHER

Norwich and vicinity has been especially beautiful this season, and the foliage is still green notwthstanding the dry weather of the past few weeks. A gentleman from Springfield, who has an eye for the beauties of nature, recently spent the week with friends here. Saturday evening after supper took them in his auto to Bozrahville, and from there the return trip took them nearly to Fitchville, where a detour was made via the Bozrah Center road around the pond. While ascending the little rise towards the village just a glimpse was had of a glorious sunset. The sun had just disappeared from view, but the golden glow of the sky was reflected in the mirrored water which was fringed with foliage, in all its splendor, making a picture which will remain for many a day in the memory of those who were privileged to behold it.

RECEIVED THREE CALLS FOR GRASS FIRES

Three calls for grass fires—received at Central station within the space of an hour, provided the firemen with a busy morning's work Wednesday. The first call came at 10.27 for a grass fire in the rear of 104 Mt. Pleasant street on property owned by John Moore. Boys playing with matches caused the fire.

At 10.35 o'clock a call was received for a fire on the land at the rear of 29 High street, owned by the Shea estate. The third call came in shortly after 11 o'clock for a grass fire in the rear of 66 Mt. Pleasant street. This was also caused by boys playing with matches.

The culprit in this last instance received a lecture by the firemen and was punished by his mother.

ROTARIANS TO HAVE INTERCITY OUTING TODAY

Nearly 300 Rotarians from the four clubs in Eastern Connecticut will be present at the intercity outing of the clubs to be held at Asaland park, Jewett City today, according to the announcement made by Lewis M. Carpenter, chairman of the general committee, at the weekly luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday. About 30 Rotarians from the Norwich club signified their intention of attending the outing and there are several others who were not present at the meeting who will go to Jewett City today. The outing has become an annual affair that is attracting considerable attention among Rotarians.

The programme this year is varied and the recreational facilities of Ashland park are such that no one will have a dull moment during the afternoo nand evening. There will be features for the entertainment of the women guests including sports, boating and bathing. There will be two ball games, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. At two o'clock a dinner will be served by the dining-car service of the New Haven railroad. Mr. Seamon of the New Haven road gave the Rotarians the assurance that the railroad would do its best to make it one of the best dinners served in this part of the state.

At the business session President Hugh B. Campbell presided and S. B. Palmer was the song leader.

Several communications were read by President Campbell, among which was a letter of greeting and appreciation from Superintendent F. Leon Hutchins thanking the Rotarians for their kindness during his illness and stating that he hopes to be home in the near future as he is making good recovery from his operations. A communication relative to the Rotary fall conclave which is to be held at the Griswold hotel in September, was also read and the following committee was appointed by President Campbell to represent the Norwich Rotary and make plans: William G. Park, Henry La Fontaine and E. LaRue Bliven.

Brief remarks of interest to the club were made by Grosvenor Ely and State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown. Dr. R. R. Agnew gave a brief and interesting description of the wonderful work that is being done at the Mayo Foundation in Rochester, Minn., from which he recently returned.

Herbert B. Cary, chairman of the program committee, announced the schedule of meetings for August as follows: Aug. 6, at the Seaside Sanatorium, Crescent Beach; Aug. 13, address by S. F. Hammond with Rev. A. H. Abbott as song leader; Aug. 20, a business methods meeting in charge of that committee; Aug. 27, the regular monthly business meeting with C. A. Gager as song leader.

Secretary J. Neyson Weymouth announced that a total of $51 was contributed by members and a guest at last week's meeting to be put toward the Boys' Work fund of the club.

During the course of the meeting the attention of the club was called to the Bay State Circuit races, which are to be held in this city at the fair grounds next week Frank Welch made a brief report of the golf match recently held at the Highland club in Hartford with the Meriden Rotary club at which th elocal team was victorious.

PLANT EXECUTORS FILE SUIT FOR $70,000

The executors of the will of Morton F. Plant, late of Groton, deceased, have brought an action in the United States district court at New Haven against James J. Walsh, former collector of internal revenue for the district of Connecticut. The complaint in the action has been filed with the clerk of the court at New Haven, the plaintiffs demanding judgment against the defendant for the sum of $70,930.88, with interest from December 20, 1921, together with costs of the action.

The plaintiffs are Henry Bradley Plant, Mae C. Hayward, F. De C. Sullivan, George L. Shearer and the United States Trust company of New York as executors. The plaintiffs are represented by Stewart & Shearer of New York, and by Joseph F. Berry of Hartford. The action is returnable at the September term of the district court.

Morton F. Plant died Nov. 14, 1918. In September, 1919, the collector of internal revenue demanded of the executors the sum of $184,602.66 additional tax on account of the decedent's 1917 income tax. On Sept. 26, 1919, the plaintiffs filed a claim for abatement. The commissioner of internal revenue allowed the claim for abatement to the extent of $5,926.63 and rejected the claim to the extent of $178,676.03. The collector thereupon made demand for the payment of this sum, and it was paid under protest, written notice being served on the collector that the payment was made solely to avoid the payment of penalties, and the tax was invalid.

The complaint sets up that in computing his income tax for 1917 the decedent deducted from his gross income the sum of $141,584.55, representing a loss sustained on the sale of a parcel of land and building thereon in New York, the cost of which to the plaintiff in 1910 was $1,043,566 and which he sold in 1917 for $901,981.50. The plaintiffs then made demand on the commissioner of internal revenue for the refund of the $178,676.03, which was refused, and by reason of the disallowance of this claim the commissioner assessed the decedent upon a net taxable income of $922,394.33, whereas, according to the complaint, the taxable income did not exceed $779,885.83. The commissioner found the amount of tax for which the decedent was liable for that year was $428,360.91, while the plaintiffs claim the legal amoun should have been $357,430.03. The claim for judgment of $70,930.88 with interest was accordingly made.

REPORT ON NEW LONDON COUNTY JUVENILE COURTS

Richard W. Mansfield, of New London, probation officer of New London county, has submitted a report for the year 1923-24 for courts in New London county under his jurisdiction.

In his report he says:

In the court for the year 1923-1924, 20 men, two women and four boys were placed on probation on the following charges: Assault and battery, two adults; burglary, 9; false pretences, two; forgery, one; frequenting house of ill fame, one; indecent assault, two; desertion of wife, one; breaking and entering, one; taking auto without leave, two; theft, three.

Violating probation or escaping the court's jurisdiction, two, or 11 per cent. violating their probation, while 89 per cent. kept it. Of the number placed on probation in the superior court during the past 17 years not 10 per cent have ever appeared before this court again for any misdemeanors whatsoever. Probation helped them, giving them a new grip on life and most of them have made good. The most of keeping the 20 in jail or penitentiary for the time for which they were committed (most of them one year in jail) at the least would have cost the state $5,000. For this or the probation officer collected for families, $871; in fines, $200; salary and expenses $554.16.

In the estimation of the probation officer the juvenile court law, barring a few defects which experience will regulate from session to session of the legislature, was the best piece of legislation which has been passed in Connecticut in many years.

LARGE CROWD DELIGHTED WITH PUBLIC BAND CONCERT

The third in the series of six band concerts was held Wednesday evening at Union square under the auspices of the amusement committee of the court of common council, E. LaRue Bliven, chairman. The concert was given by Swahn's military band, John M. Swahn, leader. The usual large crowd heard the concert numbers with pleasure and heartily applauded the bandsmen. The programme was an excellent one, attractively arranged by Mr. Swahn.

What a jolly old world this would be if everything in the world were as attractive as the shop windows.

HAS SON AT MANSFIELD, WILL NOT SUPPORT HIM

When a father has an invalid child, which he is able to care for and deliberately refuses to do so but instead throws the expense on the public, town officials believe it time that he be made to support his offspring, even if the matter has to go to court, says the Middletown Press.

Such is the nature of two writs filed with the town clerk's office by Town Attorney Ernest A. Inglis, acting for the board of selectmen, Howard S. Peck, William J. Trevithick and Earl C. Roberts against Stephano Mungillo of Middletown, who refuses to support his son, Domenico Mungillo. Service was made by Sheriff Bert G. Thompson and property in this city owned by the defendant attached for $3,000 on each writ. The case is made returnable to the coming court term.

The first action is instituted to recover damages of $1,500 on the grounds that the town has paid out an equal sum for the care of Domenico. In the complaint it is altered that on May 1, 1918, the defendant neglected to support his minor son, leaving him to become a pauper. Since then the boy has become feeble minded and is still in town charge. The boy is now at Mansfield Training school and the town has spent $800 in his support.

In the second suit the town seeks $2,000 damages for the support of the boy from the date of the writ. The action also asks for court orders directing the defendant to pay this sum also give the town surety bonds to carry out this order.

GARRACHA FINED AND GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

In the city court Wednesday morning, the case of State vs. Joseph Garracha of 483 Boswell avenue, was heard by Judge Arthur F. Libby. Garracha was charged with theft of cloth from the Ponemah company. He was allowed to make restitution and was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $60.54 and was given a jail sentence of 30 days, suspended for the year.

FRENCH PROPOSAL WEAKENS THE INTER-ALLIED DEADLOCK

The Obstacle of How a German Default Might Be Declared Has Been Surmounted—Also the Proposed Extension of Terms of the Versailles Treaty—American Officials at the Conference in London Believe That an Invitation For German Representatives Will be Forwarded Today.

London, July 31.—(By the A. P.)—The deadlock in the inter-allied conference was broken today by the proposals M. Herriot, the French premier, submitted yesterday to the allied plenipotentiaries and Frank B. Kellogg, the American ambassador.

The experts took the proposals in hand this morning and remained with their task this afternoon and tonight with such gratifying results that American officials who are close to the conference believe that an invitation for German representatives to come to London will be despatched tomorrow after discussion with the conference delegates the methods which have been agreed for launching the Dawes plan, the Germans, if they give their acquiesence, will make final arrangements with the reparation commission for putting the new reparations project into effect. The commission decided today to sit officially in London for that purpose.

The French plan was not entirely acceptable in the form in which it was laid on the table. But the objections to the first proposal were overcome sooner than had been anticipated, and after two hours' discussion the experts announced that the obstacle of how a German default might be declared under the Dawes plan had been removed. This question had been blocking the progress of the conference for nearly a fortnight.

The experts then went to grips with the third point in the French proposals, relating to an extension of the terms of the Versailles treaty with regard to payments in kind, and, with minor alterations, this proposal was accepted.

The decision means shifting the conference difficulties from the question of possible German delinquency to the proposal for modifying the Dawes plan.

The experts approached this point of the French proposals with considerable misgivings, for, although two-thirds of the French plan for a settlement of the controversy had speedily gained the committee's approval, entire effectiveness of M. Herriot's suggestions depended upon their complete adoption in some form approaching their original draft.

To tamper in any way with the Dawes plan was considered by the American experts as very risky business and the experts went to the foreign office after dinner tonight, determined to protect the vital organism of the plan to its last letter. The heart of the plan is the transfer commission, and it was said the French would be certain to meet insurmountable opposition if they insisted on drastic changes in this body of which the agent general for reparations payments is to be the chairman.

According to one of the financial experts the old question of security for a loan for Germany would be back in the fire if the French insisted upon applying the arbitration principle to the work of the transfer commission.

IMPORTANT PHASES YET TO BE AGREED UPON

London, August 1.—(By the A. P.)—The experts of the inter-allied conference, who had been in session throughout the night, adjourned at 2.15 o'clock this morning without having reached an agreement on certain important phases of the French proposals for settlement of the reparations question and the putting into effect of the Dawes plan.

James A. Logan, the American official observer, said he was hopeful that a settlement would be reached today. The experts will reassemble at 11 o'clock this morning to continue their work.

It was a tired, haggard group that left the foreign office and walked through Dowing street and Whitehall in the small hours after fifteen hours of almost continuous deliberation on Premier Heriott's new plan.

GOV. COX REGRETS CLASHES BETWEEN KLAN AND ANTI'S

"I hope," he said, "that it will be the last of this kind to develop."

He reiterated his suggestion made in a statement yesterday that such assemblies be not held at the present time, and said that investigation by the state police into this and similar disturbances would be pressed.

Captain George A. Parker of the state police patrol went to Haverhill today. He said before leaving that Commissioner Fooïté of the department of public safety had passed along to him the governor's word that he looked to the commissioner to preserve order in the state.

While he had no authority to stop klan meetings, Captain Parker said he would insist on order being maintained and would prosecute those responsible for disturbances, whether they were attendants at the meetings or others.

Governor Cox today asked the attorney general for an opinion on the laws governing assemblages such as the klan meetings. With the opinion before him, it was said at the state house, he will be able to consider with legal authority such steps as he may feel necessary.

FOURTH SESSION OF THE INSTITUTE OF POLITICS

Williamstown, Mass., July 31.—More than 300 men and women, representing many professions, nearly all the states of the union and several foreign countries, are gathered here in anticipation of the opening tomorrow morning of the fourth session of the Institute of Politics. Enrollment in the institute is about the same as it was last year, but approximately 1,000 applications for membership have had to be rejected.

At the opening meeting tomorrow the members will be welcomed by President Harry A. Garfield, after which Sir Valentine Chirol of London, long the director of the foreign department of the London Times, will give the first address on the "Reawakening of the Orient." In the afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Garfield will give a reception to the membres at the president's house and in the evening Richard Henry Tawney, counseller of the labor party in England, will give the first of a series of six lectures on "History and Policy of the British Labor Movement." The first round table conferences will be held Saturday morning.

MEMORIAL UNVEILED TO INVENTOR OF MONITOR

New York, July 31.—A memorial tablet to Captain John Ericsson, inventer of the ironclad "Monitor" which revolutionized naval warfare, was unveiled today at 95 Franklin street, the site of Ericsson's home while he was working on his inventions. The tablet also commemorated Cornelius G. Bushnell, John A. Griswold, and J. F. Winslow, whose financial and technical aid helped carry out Captain Ericsson's plans.

Today was the 131st anniversary of Ericsson's birth.

17 INDICTMENTS AGAINST WOULD-BE LYNCHERS

Mound City, Ills., July 31.—Seventeen indictments were returned late today by the Pulaski county grand jury investigating the mob here the night of July 23 which threatened to lynch three negro suspects in the slaying of Miss Daisy Wilson, 18, Villa Ridge storekeeper's daughter. Two other negroes were sentenced yesterday.

LARGE CROWD GREETS SEC'Y HUGHES IN BRUSSELS

Brussels, July 31 (By the A. P.)—Secretary of State and Mrs. Hughes of the United States were enthusiastically greeted by a large crowd, including many notables, when they arrived at the Gare De Midi at 6.30 o'clock this evening to begin a two days' visit to the Belgian capital.

On the platform American Ambassador and Mrs. Phillips and the entire personnel of the American embassy greeted Mr. Hughes, while the Belgian government was represented by Minister of Economics Van De Vyvere and Director Deramaix of the Belgian foreign office. Burgomaster Max represented the city.

Baron De Cartier De Marchienne, Belgian ambassador to the United States, also was on hand to greet the American statesman, who smilingly descended from the railway car and talked cheerfully to the members of the official party.

Then the party drove to the embassy, where Mr. Phillips will give an elaborate banquet this evening.

Mr. Hughes refused to be interviewed beyond saying that he was glad to be in Belgium.

GOV. COX REPLIES ON ARREST OF RHODE ISLAND OFFICIALS

Boston, July 31.—Governor Sox today sent to Governor Flynn of Rhode Island a communication replying to the complaint over the arrest by members of the Massachusetts constabulary two weeks ago of two assistant attorneys general of Rhode Island and members of their party at Rutland, Mass. The letter will not be made public until Governor Flynn has received it, but it was understood that Governor Cox found that the Massachusetts officers acted within their rights and the legal requirements in the matter.

The governor's reply was believed to have been based on a report to him by General Foote, commissioner of public safety, covering the incidents involved. The Rhode Island officials crossed the state line in an endeavor to obtain evidence at Rutland, where a group of republicans from that state have been living for the past six weeks, in connection with charges that the bomb incident in the Rhode Island senate June 19 was the work of republican officials and supporters.

SPRINGFIELD MAN SUSPECTED OF COMPLICITY IN MURDER

Springfield, Mass., July 31.—The police here today received an urgent request to look for George E. O'Donnell, 24, formerly of this city, who is wanted in Detroit, Mich., for alleged complicity in the murder of James R. Murnane, who was shot and killed by men in a speeding automobile in that city July 28. The automobile used by the men, later abandoned, contained a bill of sale to O'Donnell from Mary E. O'Donnell of Vine street, New Haven, said to be O'Donnell's sister, and bore Connecticut registration. O'Donnell was convicted here in 1918 for theft of an automobile and has a further police record.

TO SOUND FITZGERALD ON GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION

Hartford, July 31.—Chairman Edward M. Yeomans, of the democratic committee will call on Mayor David E. Fitzgerald, of New Haven Saturday to ascertain whether he intends to be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor in the state convention next month. If he has no such intention, Mayor Fitzgerald will be asked to preside as temporary chairman and deliver the keynote speech.

Madden, flag officer of the royal navy [illegible] was commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleete from 1919 to 1922, has been appointed admiral of the fleet, the chief position in the British navy. He served in the battle of Jutland in 1915, and was mentioned in despatches; was chief of staff to the commander-in-chief, 1916 and second in command of the fleet, 1917.

Herrick to Take Vacation.

Paris, July 31 (By the A. P.)—Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France, plans to return to the United States for his usual summer vacation as soon as the Inter-allied London conference is ended and he inaends to return to France early in the autumn to supervise the completion and renovation of the new American embassy building, friends of the ambassador declared today.

COOLIDGE TO IGNORE DEFENSE DAY OPPONENTS

Washington, July 31.—Despite concurrence by John W. Davis, democratic candidate, in the opposition of his running mate, Governor Bryan, of Nebraska, to some features of the government's Defense Day plans, President Coolidge has decided against any personal entry into the political phases of the controversy.

Mr. Coolidge today received and replied to a telegram from Governor Bryan relating to controversial features of the Defense Day program, but refused to make public his reply. White House officials declared Mr. Coolidge felt that to make public his reply would give the impression he was treating the controversy as a political incident, whereas he preferred to regard Mr. Bryan's inquiry and his own reply as correspondence ordinarily taking place between the governor of a state and the president.

White House and war department officials alike refused to make public Governor Bryan's telegram, received early in the day, asserting that to do so would be discourteous inasmuch as Mr. Bryan had not done so.

PENALTIES IMPOSED IN KLAN CLASH CASES

Haverhill, Mass., July 31.—The trial in district court today of men alleged to have been concerned in the early morning clash here between klansmen returning from an initiation ceremony in Groveland, and others, resulted after an all day hearing of testimony in a sentence of 30 days for one man and fines of $10 each for eight others on charges of disturbing the peade. The day proved too short for the trial of all the 21 men arrested and the cases of eight were continued to Saturday. Two of the four men who received gunshot wounds in the encounter are in the hospital and will be given an opportunity to explain their alleged part in the affair later.

All those against whom the charges were sustained were described in court as having been in a line of motor cars returning from the klan ceremony. They appealed from the sentences.

TO URGE C. E. MEMBERS TO REGISTER AND VOTE

Boston, July 31.—The trustees of the United Society of Christian Endeavor at their annual meeting today adopted a plan to canvass personally the five hundred thousand members of Christian Endeavor societies who will reach the voting age this year and urge them to register and vote.

"We propose," said Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, associate president and citizenship superintendent, who presented the plan, "to make an organized canvass of every church in the United States, to make sure that the Christian citizens of America go to the polls in November. We shall not urge the support of any particular political party, but we shall ask that each voter cast his ballot in accordance with the dictates of his conscience and on the side of decency and law enforcement."

CONFESSED THE SLAYING OF MRS. BLANCHE BURKE

Lapeer, Mich., July 31.—Lewis Johnson, an inmate of the Michigan Home and Training School, an institution for the feeble-minded, tonight confessed, according to state police to having killed Mrs. Blanche Burke, 28-year-old widow, employed at the institution whose nude body was found early Sunday morning.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING WHILE UNDER TREE

Spencer Mass., July 31.—Cornelius Hayes, 24, was struck by lightning and instantly killed this afternoon while dressing after bathing in Lake Whittemore. Gerald Sullivan, who was standing under the same tree with Hayes was stunned by the bolt and suffered a partial paralysis of the face.

OBITUARY.

Elkan Naumburg.

New York, July 31.—Elkan Naumburg, 89 years old, banker, broker and patron of music, who gave the city a $15,000 bandstand in Central Park, died today after a long illness. Besides his interest in music, which prompted him to give his money and time in bringing many famous musicians to this country, he was a liberal supporter of many charities. He was founder of the firm of E. Naumburg and Company.

He endowed a scholarship at Harvard university which annually enables the most promising student to complete his musical studies by a year's study in Europe.

James M. Stocking.

Simsbury, Conn., July 31.—James M. Stocking, assistant state forest fire warden, who was seriously injured on Saturday when his automobile was hit by a train at the Central New England crossing near his home here, died today in the Hartford hospital. He had been assistant to Fire Warden Austin F. Hawes for a number of years and had travelled extensively throughout the state giving demonstrations of forest fire fighting and talks on fire prevention. He was 46 years old and is survived by a wife and five children.

Miss Essie Ayres, forty-five, of Fort Chester, N. Y., died from injuries received when hit by an automobile in Port Chester.

Seeking Mercy for Slayers of Franks

Defense Desires Penalty Founded on Humantiy, Not Upon the Cold Letter of the Law.

Chicago, July 31 (By the A. P.)—Mitigation, not of crime, but of punishment, mercy of judgment, founded not upon the cold letter of the law but upon considerations of humanity—these were the points emphasized today by the defense in the proceedings which are to determine the penalty that Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb are to pay for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks.

Clarence S. Darrow, 67 year old veteran of court battles, put squarely before Judge John R. Caverly the issue whether considerations of this character are to be written into the jurisprudence of Illinois.

"The state's attorney's office seems to feel the universe will crumble unless these boys hang," he said.

He argued in response to a lengthy contention by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, backed by the legal lore of Thomas Marshall, indictment expert. Through a day and a half of court procedure the prosecutor had maintained that evidence of alienists, offered by the defense, as to the degree of mental responsibility of the youthful murderers, was incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial after a plea of guilty had been entered.

"We seek not mitigation of the crime, but only mitigation of the punishment because of a diseased condition of the mind, constant in character, but not amounting to legal insanity," was the keynote of the defense.

"A showing of mental disease constitutes a showing of insanity the existence of which must be determined by a jury. It can be brought in here only if the defendants withdraw their pleas of guilty and rely upon insanity as a defense to the crime itself," responded the state.

Hundreds of citations from decisions given in this country and England, some of them a century old, were offered by Mr. Marshall and Walter Bachrach had not finished his analysis and comparison of these when court adjourned for the day.

Tomorrow will see a renewal of the legal engagement, but it was predicted Judge Caverly would rule after an hour or two more of arguing.

MAY PROCEED AGAINST SOME RADIO EQUIPMENT COMPANIES

Washington, July 31.—Indications were given at the department of justice tonight that Attorney General Stone is preparing an attack on some of the radio equipment companies for alleged violation of anti-trust laws. The steps contemplated are understood to be based on the recent charge by the federal trade commission that monopoly existed among some of the companies. The attorney general declined to discuss the situation but admitted that the "Sherman law section" of the department of justice was engaged in considering findings of the trade commission. It was said that the commission's findings were of such a character to warrant close study and "a further investigation for additional facts," but the nature of these additional inquiries was not disclosed.

ATTEMPT TO AMEND THE ANGLO-IRISH TREATY

London, July 31.—It was said tonight that the cabinet had decided to introduce a bill Monday in parliament to amend the Anglo-Irish treaty, but that debate on it would be postponed until the autumn session.

This plan was arrived at in consequence of an unanimous decision by the privy council's judicial committee that the only way to form the boundary commission provided for in the Anglo-Irish treaty for the delimitation of the boundary between northern and southern Ireland was for parliament to enact legislation amending the treaty and binding both the northern and southern Irish governments to its provisions.

DREW REVOLVER ON RAILROAD POLICEMAN

Stamford, Conn., July 31.—William Green, who gave his address as Alberta, Canada, was sentenced to four months in jail today, charged with carrying concealed weapons and assault. When found asleep in a passenger coach by a railroad policeman July 15, Green is alleged to have drawn his revolver. The policeman took the gun away and when Green fled shot and injured him. He has just been released from the hospital.

HEAVY RAIN PROVED TIMELY IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., July 31.—Heavy rain, coming just in time to relieve a situation fast becoming desperate by reason of long continued drought, began falling this afternoon with indications that it was general over a large area.

Little rain has fallen this month and the damage to tobacco and other crops has been estimated at millions of dollars in this part of the Connecticut valley.

WHISKEY OUTFIT FOUND IN GARAGE IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, July 31.—A squad of policemen, raided a garage at the rear of 511 Chapel street this afternoon and seized 250 gallons of pure grain alcohol, a huge bottling, labeling and distilling plant. The owner of the outfit made his escape but the police expect to make an arrest in the near future.

BRIDGEPORT STREETS FLOODED BY RAINFALL

Bridgeport, July 31.—A violent thunderstorm, resulting in a rainfall of .35 of an inch in less than half an hour, flooded many of the streets of the city this afternoon. Two barns in Westport and Ridgefield were struck by lightning during the storm, one of which, owned by Harry Hunt of Ridgefield was burned to the ground with an estimated loss of $5,000.

Dead Bandit a Former N. J. State Policeman

Was Slain While Attempting to Rob a Mail Pouch at Railroad Station in East Orange, N. J.

East Orange, N. J., July 31.—The bandit slain at the Lackawanna railroad station here early today in an attempt with another to rob a mail pouch containing what they thought $50,000 in federal bank notes, tonight was positively identified as John J. Manyon, of Hoboken, former member of the New Jersey state police.

The man was shot and killed by Eugene Stack, a 23-year-old East Orange postal clerk, who was on the station platform when two men opened fire on him in an effort to gain possession of the pouch. Although wounded in the leg and hand, Stack pulled a revolver, steadied himself, and fired a bullet through Manyon's back as he was about to disappear down the station stairway and climb into a waiting taxicab. His confederate succeeded in making a get-away in the cab.

The pouch was not touched by the men, who were frightened away by the opening of fire by Stack. The bank notes the bandits were after were not in that pouch, the money having been expressed on an earlier train.

The body was identified tonight by Sergeant Rogers and two Newark detectives who claim to have known Manyon.

The dead man was a member of the state police force until about a year ago when he was discharged for insubordination.

CHAUFFEUR KILLED WHEN RUN OVER BY FREIGHT CAR

New Haven, July 31.—Albert Barnikow, 29 years old, a chauffeur of 41 Hallock street, died tonight in New Haven hospital as the result of injuries received today when he was run over by a freight car at a siding in Silver street. The wheels of the car passed over his left arm at the shoulder.

The police and railroad men believed that he must have been asleep on the track or alongside the track with his left arm over the rail. It was pointed out by the railroad men that freight trains make considerable noise in coupling and getting under way.

He was rushed to the hospital where it was found necessary to amputate the arm at the shoulder. Blood transfusions were resorted to but the injured man died this evening.

Barnikow leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Barnikow, of 357 East Main street, Meriden, and three brothers, Frank, Edward and George, also of Meriden.

FARM AND HOME WEEK MEETING OF MASS. A. C.

Amherst, Mass., July 31.—An organization of grain dealers and an association of certified poultry dealers were an outgrowth of the third day's meeting of farm and home week of the Massachusetts Agricultural college here today.

Prof. O. E. Reed of the Michigan Agricultural college criticized the Massachusetts policy of indemnifying farmers whose cows were condemned when found tubercular. He recommended the Michigan method of cleaning up infected herds by cutting off their markets.

THREATEN TO OUST STRIKERS FROM MILL-OWNED TENEMENT

Lincoln, N. H., July 31.—The Parker Young Company, paper manufacturers, operating the town's only industry, issued notices today to all the striking employes who failed to return to work yesterday when the mills were reopened, that company-owned tenements must be vacated in thirty days.

The notice affects about 400 union workers who went on strike after a five per cent. reduction in wages became effective July 1.

More than 32 deputy sheriffs and special police guards were on duty today in the village. There were no demonstrations by the union men when the working force [illegible] about 25 in number, entered the gates.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS IN NEW ENGLAND

Federal Reserve Bank of Boston Notes a Hopeful Change During Recent Weeks—With Production Curtailed and Sales in Department Stores Equalling Those of Last Year, the Report Says "The Groundwork For a Recovery in Production Seems to be in Process of Being Made."

Boston, July 31.—Business in New England, although more quiet than usual for the summer, has shown marked improvement during recent weeks, says the monthly review of the federal reserve bank of Boston. The review adds that "the groundwork for a recovery in production would certainly seem to be in the process of being made."

"Manufacturing production," the review says, "has been declining for several months, not only in New England, but in practically all parts of the country. Many factories in this district normally have their vacation period in July, and in many cases the shutdown this year was for a longer period than usual. Upon reopening, a number of important concerns started production at a higher rate than was in effect immediately prior to the vacation, indicating perhaps a more hopeful feeling as to the future, as well as a larger volume of orders on hand.

"Since the middle of May the New England railroads have been carrying a smaller volume of freight than at the corresponding time last year, due to lessened shipments from mills and factories. It is evident, however, that production in some important industries has now been curtailed to such an extent that it is far less than current retail distribution, a condition which must sooner or later act as a powerful corrective to the present situation.

"The total volume of retail trade is indicated quite well by department store sales. During the first three weeks in July sales of representative New England department stores were almost exactly the same as in the corresponding period a year ago. With production curtailed so extensively as it is at present, and with retail distribution curtailed to only a slight extent, the ground work of a recovery in production would certainly seem to be the process of being made. * * *

"The commodity price situation took a marked turn for the better during June and July. The extraordinary increases in corn and wheat prices are apparently already having a noticeable effect on business sentiment in farming areas. Basic commodity prices as a whole have increased rather sharply since the first of June. * * * Increasing commodity prices almost always create a better feeling in business circles, and at certain stages they even favorably affect the business situation itself."

"The banking situation remains fundamentally sound during July. Money rates showed somewhat more stability after the marked decline of the past few months, although the average rates at the close of July were lower than at any time since 1916."

FURTHER INVESTIGATION OF GASOLINE PRICE SITUATION

Washington, July 31.—Attorney General Stone has ordered a further inquiry into the gasoline price situation. The report of the federal trade commission on the subject, made at the request of the president, contains information, Mr. Stone said today, which warrants a further investigation of the several phases of the problem.

Department officials described the trade commission's report which has never been made public as "very interesting," but indicated that it was incomplete in some ways, and the department of justice will now delve into the leads thus afforded. Mr. Stone was said to believe that such an inquiry might supply the government not only with a better knowledge of what is going on on the whole oil industry but with evidence which it might use in its injunction suits recently filed in Chicago to break up selling agreements based upon use of the so-called cracking process in the industry.

C. A. FERRY, DESIGNER OF YALE BOWL, DEAD

New Haven, July 31.—Charles Addison Ferry, 76, designer of, and under whose supervision Yale bowl was constructed, a former president of the Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers and, during his early years long identified with the New Haven municipal engineering department, died tonight at his home here after several months' illness. He had national reputation as an expert in bridge and masonry engineering construction.

Mr. Ferry was born in Granby, Mass., January 9, 1852, and was educated in the New Haven High school and Sheffield Scientific school. He contributed many papers to the publications of the American Society of Civil Engineers of which he was a member.

NEW HAVEN ROAD NOT SEEKING CONTROL OF B. & M.

Boston, July 31.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is not seeking control of the Boston and Maine railroad, but wishes proportionate representation on its board of directors in order to safeguard its interests, says Elbridge R. Anderson, appointed as master by the state supreme court. Mr. Anderson has been hearing the facts in a suit brought by Edmund D. Codman, representing minority stockholders of the Boston and Maine, who alleged that the New Haven was acting in violation of the law in trying to obtain representation on the Boston and Maine board.

Mr. Anderson says the New Haven officers believed that as they were the indirect holders of 28 3-10 per cent. of the Boston and Maine stock they had a right to proportionate representation on the board in order to see that this interest was not depleted and if possible to aid in devising means to assist in increasing Boston and Maine revenues.

THREE PERSONS KILLED IN AN AIRPLANE CRASH

Memphis, Tenn., July 31.—Three persons were killed in airplane crash near Crawfordsville, Arkansas, late today, according to a report received here tonight. An ambulance was sent to the scene.

Barney Shull, of Laurel, Miss., was said to have been one of the persons killed. The report gave no details of the accident.

FINDINGS REPORTED ON PROBE OF SUGAR TARIFF

Washington, July 31.—The tariff commission transmitted to President Coolidge today its findings in the investigation of the sugar tariff instituted more than a year and a half ago.

The form in which the results of the investigation was communicated to the president was not disclosed either by the commission or at the White House, but the expectation had been a majority report finding that the present rate was unjustifiably high, and a minority report holding that existing duties accurately represent differences in cost of production at home and abroad, would be laid before the president.

The sugar investigation was initiated in March, 1923, by direction of President Harding and has throughout been a subject of dissension within the commission. The inquiry, which covered Cuba and other sources of foreign supply was completed several weeks ago but the commission found itself unable to reach any agreement as to the form in which its report should be presented.

10,000 MEMBERS OF MOOSE PARADED IN NEW YORK

New York, July 31.—Led by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, general director of the order, 10,000 members of the Loyal Order of Moose meeting in convention, paraded up Fifth avenue today.

The string band of the Philadelphia delegation obtained the most applause.

Following the parade, many of the marchers met in the hotel Astor to witness the selection of the "queen of the convention." Owing to the difficulty the judges experienced in deciding which one of the girls was the most beautiful, it was decided to have two "queens". They are Hazel Goodwin, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Elizabeth Fleisch of Brooklyn.

A. F. OF L. TO OPEN SESSION IN ATLANTIC CITY TODAY

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31.—(By The A. P.)—Samuel Gompers and his fellow members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor were here tonight, ready to enter tomorrow the annual session at which will be mapped a political and industrial programme for the organization for the next 12 months.

The conferences are expected to continue for ten days or longer. The attitude to be adopted by the A. F. of L., toward the LaFollette-Wheeler presidential ticket, which question overshadows all other subjects before the executive council, probably will be officially recorded near the end of the session.

TOTAL RAINFALL FOR JULY IN HARTFORD WAS .47 INCHES

Hartford, July 31.—For a period of fifteen minutes this afternoon, rain falling here was greater in quantity by .01 of an inch than the total precipitation for the entire month, it was learned at the weather bureau here tonight. The amount falling during this time was .24 inches while the previous total was .23 inches. The driest July since records were begun here was established this month with the total rainfall measuring only .47 inches. The previous recorded was 1.44 inches in 1894.

DIVER ON FLOOR OF OCEAN HAD TALK BY RADIO

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31.—C. A. Jackson, diver, of Philadelphia, was successful in his efforts to radio-case a talk from the floor of ocean off the end of the steel pier today. As he was lowered from the boat, Jacson told of his sensations and described his surrounding as he walked on the ocean bed. A special microphone carried to the diver's helmet trnasmitted his voice to the remote control station on the pier, from which it was amplified.

Snow in Watertown, N. Y.

Watertown, N. Y., July 31. — A slight flurry of snow was reported today at Sacket Harbor on Lake Ontario. It lasted for five minutes.

WILLIMANTIC

Francis Bellwire, 73, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from a badly cut lower lip, a severe cut over one eye and lacerations about the head and face, sustained when he was knocked down late Thursday forenoon by an auto truck of the Johnson Educator Cracker company, of Cambridge, Mass. The mishap happened on Windham road a short distance from the entrance to Willimantic Camp Ground. Bellwire complained at the hospital to Dr. F. M. Smith, that he suffered from intense pain at the back of the neck and it is feared that he has internal injuries.

Arthur S. Chadbourne of 59 Bloseom street, Arlington, Mass., was the driver of the truck, a two-ton Autocar. After he had filed his report of the accident with Chief of Police MacArthur he was held on the charge of reckless driving to await the outcome of Bellwire's condition which is considered serious. The cracker company furnished a bond of $1,000 for the appearance of Chadbourne in police court Saturday morning, Aug. 9. The truck was proceeding along the South Windham road headed toward this city and near the Willimantic Campground, Chadbourne saw a car stopped in the middle of the road, headed in the opposite direction and a man, who proved to be Bellwire, standing talking to the driver. When the truck was within a dozen feet of the car the driver suddenly started out and Bellwire turned quickly and on two steps walked in front of the oncoming truck. He threw both hands into the air and was struck. The truck was stopped within thirty feet. Bellwire was picked up from the road where he lay in a dazed condition and with assistance he walked to the side of the road. A physician was summoned and Bellwire later taken to St. Joseph's hospital. Bellwire is a well known resident here. He resides a short distance from the spot where he was injured.

Justice of the Peace George Andrews presided at a double-decker session of the Mansfield town court, at his home at The Ridges, Wednesday evening. Grand Juror Frank W. Millard prosecuted. State Policeman Harrison Hulburt was the state's witness against the accused. The three cases tried constituted violations of the law regarding automobile lights. The case of Alphonse Couts of this city, charged with operating his automobile in the town of Mansfield in the night time, having but one light, also with reckless driving, had been taken up and disposed of, when two more violators were arrested and tried immediately. Couts was arrested by State Policeman Hulburt a few nights ago. He said that one light had been going on and off during the evening, but he was not guilty of reckless driving. A fine of $1 and costs, amounting to $15.20 was imposed by Justice Andrews and paid.

Officer Hulburt had left the Andrews home and was back on the road, ready to leave for the barracks in Stafford Springs when four automobiles came along from both directions and in the opinion of the officer all of them were illegally lighted. Two of the drivers escaped and two others were taken before the justice who reopened court. Frederick Witte, of Coventry, pleaded guilty to not having perfect lights on his car, in that all his lights, both front and rear, were out when he was arrested. A fine of $5 and costs amounting to $20.20 was imposed. Herbert C. Wells of this city was charged with having outlawed lenses on his car. He pleaded guilty to the charge after the new lense law had been explained to him. He was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $17.20.

The Connecticut Pomological Society held its annual summer meeting at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Wednesday in connection with the program for Farmers' Week. The college orchards were visited at the opening of the meeting in the forenoon. Dr. William E. Britton, state entomologist, Dr. George P. Clinton, state botanist, and Mr. Manter and Mr. Torrey of the college staff led in discussions of insects, diseases and methods of control. "What Sections are Competing with Connecticut Fruit Growers was the subject of a talk by Paul Mehl of the college staff. An address on Orchard Fertilization and Management, was given shortly after noon by Professor J. H. Gourley, chief of horticulture, Ohio Experiment Station. Other discussions were by Professor Gourley on The Problem of the Unfruitful Tree; E. M. Stoddard and N. F. Zappe, of the New Haven station staff; C. G. Billings of Hazardville and others who gave information on spraying and dusting problems. Prof. Sherman P. Hollister and Mr. Darrow conducted a spraying equipment demonstration in the orchards near Storrs hall. As a close to the meeting they led an inspection of the various orchards.

Mrs. Annie Jordan Gelinas, 58, wife of A. L. Gelinas, who died suddenly at her home, 3 Bellevue street, Wednesday evening was born in Coneck, N. Y., March 25, 1866, a daughter of Michael and Mary Conway Jordan. She became a resident of Willimantic in 1888. She was a devout member of St. Mary's parish and an active worker in the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association.

Mrs. Marion Theresa P. Shermer, 57, wife of Rev. Lawrence Shermer of Deming, New Mexico, died at a Hartford hospital early Thursday morning from bronchial pneumonia. She had undergone a major operation in the desert and had never recovered, lingering in ill health since last January. Complications set in while she and her husband were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gray of Chestnut Hill. Rev. Mr. Sherman was lay reader at St. Paul's Episcopal church in this city 25 years ago, during the rectorship of Rev. Edward Bedford, now of New Jersey. At that time Rev. Mr. Shermer was pursuing his divinity studies. Mrs. Shermer was born in Danbury, January 17, 1867, a daughter of the late William L. and Hannah Purdy Peck. She was taken to the hospital July 19.

Infantile trouble caused the death Thursday morning of Josephine Muni, daughter of Rosario and Angelina Lavatha Muni at the family home, 11 Wilson street. The child was born in this city one year ago.

When Fannie, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Sekaer of 919 Main street placed both arms in an affectionate manner about the neck of a collie owned by Fred Dolan of the Providence Dairy company, Thursday morning, the animal resented such affection and snapped. It left the imprints of two teeth just above and below the left eye and the child was taken to a physician's office where the wounds were cauterized. The dog had been trained to ride on the running board of Mr. Dodge's car and he was in that position when the little girl approached him while the machine was parked on Main street, opposite the H. C. Murray Boston Store.

Recent reports as to the condition of state highways in this section point out that the Mansfield-Mansfield Depot road is still under construction but is passable. Traffic should follow the detours as marked. The Mansfield-Mansfield Four Corners-Storrs road is rough where surfacing is being laid. The road is open. The heavily traveled Bolton-South Coventry road used as a route by many between Willimantic and Hartford is now closed for repairs and detours are posted leading the through traffic via Andover.

After all the singing of 101 verses of It Ain't Gonna Rain No More, Willimantic was finally blessed with a refreshing shower Thursday afternoon. It poured real hard at intervals, but local people are not in the mood to yell "Enough" as far as rain is concerned. The much needed solution came as a respite to a long drought which has killed vegetables in several localities. Towns surrounding Windham were well showered with the long-prayed-for rain on Wednesday. In Coventry rain fell for forty minutes during the afternoon and a sixty-five minutes storm did good in Mansfield. Towns east of here reported showers in the evening.

Miss Marion Dowdell of Boston, Mass., and Philip A. Money, of Providence, R. I., were married Wednesday evening by Rev. F. F. Foshay, at his home on Prospect street. NEAR-DROWNING SCARE AT SOUTH COVENTRY LAKE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, July 31.—Miss Minnie Bycel of Center street, this city, nearly lost her life in a near-drowning accident at Lake Wamgumbaug, South Coventry, Thursday afternoon when she walked into the deep channel used as an outlet from the lake by the South Coventry Water Supply company. This channel is located near the swimming beach opposite the Lakeside casino and the water there is several feet deep. Miss Lillian Goldstein, of New York, who has been a guest at the Bycel home, saw her hostess struggling in the channel and swam to her assistance. Miss Bycel could not swim and became frantic with fear. She clutched at Miss Goldstein, who was struggling desperately to save her and was on a point of exhaustion, when one of the bathers, Louis Generous, of Hartford, a trainman on the New Haven railroad, dove to the rescue. He risked his life to save the girl and with the assistance of others was finally able to get Miss Bycel to shore. The girl was in a semi-conscious state for a time and first aid treatment was administered. She was given stimulants and soon revived. Miss Bycel was later taken to her home and felt but slight effects from her close call a few hours later. Miss Goldstein was not badly affected as the result of her efforts. This is the second accident of this kind in the channel at the lake since last Sunday. It is hoped that proper waring signs will be placed at the mouth of the outlet before fatality occurs there.

JEWETT CITY

Misses M. A. Burdick and Ethel Roode went to Groton Long Point Thursday to spend August.

Ulderic Jodoin has purchased the business formerly held by Philip Melady. The garage on Mathewson street will be vacated by Mr. Melady. He will continue his interests as usual keeping his automobiles at William McNicol's. Mr. Jodoin will install the recently purchased business in Rojeski's small office, formerly used by Rufus Bailey.

Mrs. L. G. Buckingham is registered at the Plimpton house in Watch Hill. Mrs. F. D. Ballou is also a guest there.

The drouth was broken Thursday afternoon, after the damage done mostly to potatoes, all through this section, has reached a good many thousands of dollars. The cultivated land in this vicinity, was bone dry down from 8 inches to a foot, which is a much greater distance than Thursday's showers were able to penetrate the dust. Many potato fields have suffered to the extent that the vines have died; in these cases, growers say, no amount of rain will avail to save the crop. Twenty-five thousand tomato plants were set out in Griswold and vicinity this spring it is an important and desirable crop. The exceptionally dry July has put a crimp in the normal yield that only continued rain can remedy. During May more or less rain fell here on 23 of the 31 days, and in the early part of the month it rained a solid week. In July three small, hal-hearted showers were the extent of the rainfall.

Daniel Morgan, the principal potato grower in Griswold, has between three and four acres. He said Thursday that his early crop was too far gone to be revived, but he hoped to realize about half yield from the late varieties. Last year Mr. Morgan raised several thousand bushels of the finest potatoes ever marketed from Griswold.

Jewett City had the distinction Thursday of having a big honest-to-goodness N. Y., N. H. & H. dining car sidetracked in the railroad yards all day. The Rotarians were responsible for same.

A check-up on the first Diesel engine experiences in this town 23 years ago proves that Francis Campbell, Daniel Daley and Franklin G. Waters were the engine men.

The Rotarians were given a little entertainment not on the schedule. At intervals of an hour or so all day, the big fire department whistle would, without warning, pipe up an awful blast. The whistle is only a few feet from Ashland park. One of the guests admitted that Jewett City had a "wake-the-dead" fire whistle all right.

SOLDIER'S WIFE AND BABES FIND FRIEND IN NEED

(Special to The Bulletin)

Jewett City, July 31.—Three days ago, a middle aged woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Albert Rosselle, with two children, aged two years, and six months respectively, appeared in town, on foot, having walked from Moosup, carrying both children most of the way. Frank Morrissey of the Jewett City hotel, not only heard, but believed the woman's pitiful story. He took her in, gave her food and shelter, impersonating the Good Samaritan to the full. Last week her husband, an ex-service man of the World war, who had been gassed in France, left their tenement home in Providence to look for work. Days went by and she heard nothing from her husband. Meanwhile the landlord, she being a few dollars in arrears on her rent, set her household goods out on the sidewalk and told her to leave. From what she knew, she believed her husband had come to Norwich, where he had relatives. She started the almost impossible journey on foot, and by good fortune a friendly truck driver gave her a lift as far as Moosup. People here are at a loss to understand how she reached Jewett City, ten miles with two babies, on one of the hottest of the early days of the week.

She told here that with both children crying of hunger, she stopped at a farm house a little ways up the line, above the town, was refused the glass of milk she begged for her baby, and was driven off. Mr. Morrisey help her to reach Norwich, where no trace of her husband could be found. Returning to Jewett City Thursday, too proud to appeal to the town authorities, she was again given aid by her first benefactor. She left for Providence Thursday with her fare paid, plenty to eat for herself and babies and with a perfectly good ten dollar bill tucked away, to help them for a few more days. She believes that her husband will surely show up pretty soon, if no ill has befallen him. The matter was brought to the attention of Deputy Sheriff J. T. Dolan, and he reported the case to Miss Margaret Driscoll, chairman of the Jewett City council of Catholic Women. Miss Driscoll immediately went to the hotel to take the case in charge, but learned from Mr. Morrissy that the woman had left a half hour before.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Week in Music.

There are several famous Swan songs and by no means the least beautiful of them is the mysterious "The Song of the Swan" (Il Canto del Cigno) of Saint-Saens. Perhaps you have heard it as an instrumental number. This week Beniamino Gigli makes of it an impassioned tenor solo, calm, yet gloriously ecstatic. "Paquita" (Spanish Serenade) on the other side is an excellent foil.

So flawless is Heifetz's playing, we are often as much captured by the method as by the song. This week he records two fascinating studies, interesting as comparisons between the modern and classical. "Scherzo" by Tschaikowsky, and "Vivace" from "Quartet in D Major" by Haydn, while unlike in detail, follow the same laws of musical structure. Such compositions require the bow of a Heifetz, else are better not heard at all.

Two love melodies are recorded by Hulda Lashanska this week. They are the kind of songs that "gets" most everybody, whether or not they care to admit it. No one need despise the sentiments or emotions that attend a hearing of this lovely lyric soprano voice singing "Bird of Love Divine" and "Love Came Calling."

Ukelele in arm, Phil Ohman at the piano, Frank Crumit records two Eddie Leonard songs this week, half-sentimental, half-comic so you won't take them too seriously. "Ida! Sweet as Apple Cider" and "Roll Them Roly-Boly Eyes" pack a lot of variety into twice ten inches.

Two lullabies by Lucy Isabelle Marsh add interest and charm to the list. "Honey Chile" has a slow, soft, pure melody surrounded by rich, sustaining harmony. In "Hush-a-by Boy" the voice gets some interesting instrumental support.

A string orchestra is a lovely thing, and this week we hear two records by such an organization. These are settings of two popular sentimental compositions, played with the elasticity and cross and counter-melodic interlay that make string music so appealing. The songs are "Out of the Dusk to You" and "Eleanor." You can use your imagination to guess what a record Waring's Pennsylvanians make of "Blackin' Blues." It will set the most case-hardened blues fan ashivering. "Ukelele Blues" which International Novelty orchestra records on the other side is less voodooish and has some fine orchestral effects.

"Two Blue Eyes" is an intriguing enough title to make you want to hear this new fox trot record by Jan Garber and his orchestra. It's nothing serious and will repay your curiosity. "Sally Lou" is another case of George Olson and his music, imported from Portland, Oregon.

PALACE REVIEW

The vast human appeal of "A Self Made Failure, the J. K. McDonald production which is now showing at the Palace theatre, makes it one of the best pictures we have seen this year.

While the picture is a farce comedy, it contains pathos to a very marked degree, and there is more than one scene which draws tears even from hearts of stones.

The plot is well defined and the sequences of the drama have been so closely connected that there is very little creak in the story except the bathing girl sequence, which was apparently injected purely for the beauty of the scenes and the ludricrous situations which were brought about by the bringing of a bevy of beautiful young women into what had previously been an atmosphere of age and rheumatism.

Making moving pictures on the stage this act is worth the price of admission alone, its a riot from start to finish. The stage is turned into a studio and a delightful comedy drama is filmed, composed by local people, also actual scenes taken in full view of the audience at each performance, come and get into the movies! These pictures will be shown at this theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday no matter what part of the building you're in—you will be seen on the screen the following week. Short subjects, Pathe review and comedy. Absolutely no advance in prices.

AT THE BREED

Tom Mix, the popular William Fox player, fills the same niche in our national life as the Toreador did in Spain in the days of Miramee. The wish comes to mind that symphony would be devised to signify his entrance into the silver arena corresponding with the Toreador of the opera, Carmen.

Mix resembles not only the heroes and national idols of Spain, but also those of Rome, when the eternal city had yet its dazzling blaze of glory.

In Mile-A-Minute Romeo, his latest William Fox production, scheduled for a two day engagement at the Breed theater beginning today the star will become a flashing comet in his role of roughriding gladiator.

Aboard Tony, his famous steed, Mix traces a varied assortment of equestrian tricks throughout the story, which concerns the difficulties of elopment in the days before shadies become a curiosity in our west.

It is by Max Brand, a writer who is familiar with all the heroism blackguardism and romanticism that characterized our Old West. Ruth of the Range, Pathe News and a comedy are on the same bill.

Broadway Theatre.

What was forecasted as the finest show of the year more than came up to all expectations. The Broadway theatre audience yesterday were unstinted in their praise.

Tom Dooley opened in blackface. He offered a monologue called "The Next Night." In song and story he told in a genial, jovial way about the next night.

Two pianos and two men with personalities presented a bright offering. Orville Reeder and Curtis Armstrong are the two referred to and they present "Originators of Humorous Eccentricities."

Hilda Clifton & Co. offered a singing and dancing revue, which is a departure from the regular act of its kind.

An inexhaustible supply of laughable stories was presented by Pierce & Gluck in "I've Got Another One."

Closing the show was the sensational Tan Arakes Co., a trio of Japanese, who offer the foot balancing ladder.

The photoplay was Gene Stratton-Porters, "The Girl of the Limberlost."

LYCEUM THEATER NEW LONDON

John Cherry, who will be seen as Sheriff Sniffin in Poppy, when that musical comedy with W. C. Fields opens it engagement at the Lyceum theater next week, is a character actor of note. Long training in stock has given him an unusually wide scope of characterization, and he can leap back and forth from youth to old age with amazing agility. Amos Sniffin in Poppy is a man of sixty, a grandfather, while the previous season when he played in Glory, Mr. Cherry had the role of a seventeen year old boy.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Nothing more welcome has come to Danielson than was the rain that began to fall early Thursday afternoon, gently sifting down to quench the thirst of growing things, after weeks' long suffering for lack of water. A little shower Wednesday afternoon was the first break in the long spell of dry weather, unparalleled at this season since 1871, if some keepers of weather records are to be credited with accuracy. Thursday's rainstorm was more generous and of longer duration it came, too, in a manner to do the most good—not with a rush and a splash, but evenly and with that sort of distribution that will result in the best results. So happy were some over the arrival of the rain that they deliberately stood out in it, enjoying a little drenching. It seemed so good and so invigorating after all the hot, dusty days of July.

Farmers hereabouts will estimate the advantage of the rain in thousands of dollars. It came in the nick of time. Corn especially, has been very backward this season, being first held up by a chill and late spring and later by the dry weather. Another great advantage of the rain will be the lessening of the danger of forest fires and impending menace for weeks.

It was a great and glorious gift that nature gave to all the surrounding territory Thursday afternoon. By some keen observers of weather conditions it is regarded as making the end of any further protracted dry period during the current summe.

Thursday afternoon, at one o'clock, at his home at Pomfret Landing, funeral services were held for Edwin T. White, Rev. G. A. Barker of Pomfret and Rev. Mr. Perry of Bridgewater, Mass., formerly of Dayville, conducting the services. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, Danielson. The bearers were H. H. Davenport, Andrew G. Williams, Fayette L. Wright, Joseph E. Stoddard, Willis Covell and George H. Hicks. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The annual field trip under the auspices of the Windham County Farmers' association will start this year from Brooklyn, August 14. During the trip visitations will be made to poultry, dairy and vegetable farms in various Windham county towns. Everyone who is interested in agricultural matters is invited to make this trip. Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, commissioner of agriculture in Massachusetts, will be the speaker on this trip. Dr. Gilbert has an international reputation for his work in the interest of agriculture. County Agent F. L. Davis of Putnam has charge of the arrangements for this trip.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Miss Emma LeClair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeClair of Lowell, and Homer W. Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Dixon of Danielson. The marriage ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. McLeis at Auburn, R. I., Wednesday of last week by Rev. William J. Reynolds of Providence.

A big motor furniture moving van skidded, ran up an embankment and then rolled over on its side, while descending Dark Lantern Hill, four miles east of here Friday afternoon when the surface of the highway became slippery under the downpour of rain. A wrecker from Danielson could not budge the huge vehicle and assistance in righting it had to be called from Providence. State officers were at the point where the big truck, laden to capacitw with furniture, tipped over and directed traffic during the long operation that was necessary to get the truck ready to proceed on its journey. No one was injured in the accident. Alfred A. Harris of 297 Richmond street, Providence, and Albert Winters of 5 Revere Place, Providence, were in the cab of the truck when it rolled over. Harris driving. The truck is the property of the Affleck Motor Express company of Providence. Traffic was interfered with, the truck blocking the road until late Thursday night.

Fishermen, welcoming the rain and cooler weather, improved Thursday afternoon, which happened to be holiday time, for fishing at Alexander's lake and Lake Chaubaumaug.

Physicians here have been notified that on and after today the old forms of prescription blanks for liquor will be null and void and that a new form will be issued to supercede them.

Next week brings the annual financial meeting of the borough at which the budget will be approved and the tax rate fixed for payment of taxes in September.

This far ahead of the national election in November, street talk would indicate that LaFollette's ticket is going to poll a very considerable vote in the town of Killingly. The trend that way is really a bit surprising.

New, centrally located, electriclighted, separate garage stalls to rent. Apply 35 Academy street.—adv.

Today, August 1st, marks the beginning of a new fiscal year for the town of Killingly. Forthcoming reports are expected to show a material reduction in the town's indebtedness from the total for a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sheridan and daughter, Mary, of Northampton, were visitors Wednesday with relatives in Danielson.

John A. Glennon of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson Thursday.

A mid-week dance gathering enjoyed the Thursday night event at the new dance palace at Wildwood park, which remains a very popular summer resort.

Cashier Francis E. Storer of the Windham County National bank, Mrs. Storer and their children will leave for two weeks' motor tour through Maine and the White Mountain region.

The annual August sale at the Alice Eleanor shop opens this morning. A general reduction in prices throughout the store. Quick response of buyers assures the pick of good things.a—dv.

A. L. James and daughter, Miss Katherine, visiting here from Gardenna, Cal., will leave Monday for Toledo to visit relatives. They will proceed to Detroit and thence through the Canadian Rockies to the Pacific coast reaching home about September 1.

It was remarked Thursday afternoon that the advent of the very welcome rain was practically co-incident with the eclipse of the sun, scheduled for 1.40 p. m.

Recently issued telephone directories of the E. N. E. T. company list many subscribers in the Danielson division whose call numbers were not generally known before the issue.

Through J. C. Witter, a piece of land known as the Wilcox tract on Riverview was sold Thursday to George I. Eaton, owner of much property in that section.

Mrs. Ethel Richmond and daughter, Anna, are at Sound View for a stay of a week.

Heavy north-bound traffic via the Bar Harbor expresses Thursday night marked the approach of the last month of the vacation season.

John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, was in Danielson Thursday—for about two minutes, while on his way from Maine to New York on the Bar Harbor express. This item also will go for all the towns between North Grosvenordale and New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hutchins and sons left Thursday to stay at Oakland Beach for the remainder of the week.

It is anticipated that all the New England states will be represented next Thursday at the annual Old Home day to be held in East Killingly.

This year the Ponemah Wheel club of Taftville is to hold its field day and clam dinner at Moosup pond, on a date in August.

At his property at the corner of Broad and Franklin street Edmond Gendreau is excavating a cellar for a dwelling he is to erect.

A number of young people from Danielson were at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam Thursday to undergo operation for the removal of adenoids and tonsils.

For an outing of interest few trips can surpass that, distance considered, of a visit to Kent, R. I., a little less than an hour's run from Danielson, to view the stupendous reservoir project being worked out for the city of Providence. The work is now far advanced and is being steadily pushed. The operations cover scores of square miles. Kent may be reached by going east to North Scituate, thence south a few miles from that village.

Slippery road surfaces in the rain of Thursday afternoon brought motoring accidents in this territory. Two cars crashed when one skidded in Woodstock.

A Correction

A borough man sends The Bulletin the following communication: I wish to have an article corrected that appeared in the Danielson news Thursday morning in regard to the near-accident at Main street crossing Tuesday night.

The young couple were not going from a petting party, but had been visiting relatives in Jewett City, and were returning home. I was not recing with a train, but was going exactly 20 miles per hour at the time. I did not hear the gong at the crossing on account of the horn from a Hudson car parked there. I was stopped by a young man who stepped out in front of me between 25 and 50 feet from the crossing.

PUTNAM

Returning from a visit with friends in the neighboring town of Thompson, surrounded by other members of his family, in the best of health and spirits, last Sunday, the body of Edwin T. White of Pomfret Landing was laid to rest Thrusday afternoon in the family lot in the Sabin cemetery, not far from that of the brother who, in a fit of violence, shot him to death. In contrast to the burial of that older brother on Tuesday, who was the cause of the double tragedy and whose burial was left to the hands of strangers without kith or kin to mourn him, the funeral Thursday afternoon was largely attended, words of eulogy were spoken and tender hands carried the body to its last resting place. The older and the younger brother had both passed the the allotted three score years and ten; their lives had been lived quietly in a rural community and were uneventful, but their tragic ending will never be forgotten.

The home in Pomfret Landing was filled with those who came to pay deference to one who had lived his life among htem. There were beautiful floral tokens. The service was conducted by Rev. L. E. Perry of Bridgewater, assisted by Rev. George W. Barker of Pomfret. Burial was in the Sabin cemetery, in the family lot. The bearers were all men of affairs of the town of Pomfret with whom Mr. White had for years been associated—Henry H. Davenport, Judge Willis Covell, George H. Hicks, Alfred D. Briggs, Joseph H. Stoddard and Andrew B. Williams.

Edwin Trowbridge White was born at Pomfret Landing Dec. 26, 1851, the son of Lewis and Margaret Merrill White. He was educated in the schools of Pomfret and for a while taught the school at Pomfret Landing. In 1882 he bought a farm which he has since conducted along progressive lines.

Mr. White married Miss Jennie I. Phillips of Killingly Jan. 25, 1882. Six children were born to them, all of them, with Mrs. White, remaining to mourn the tragic death of husband and father. The children are Sarah Phillips White, a teacher in Hartford, Louis Edwin, accountant and treasurer of the Gilbert Ship Construction company of Stonington, Earle, principal of a grammar school in Bedford, Mass., Gladys H., secretary to the president of the Merrill Machinery company, Hartford, and Margaret and Howard, living at home. In politics Mr. White was a staunch democrat. He had always taken an interest in public affairs and was elected to a number of offices in the town. In 1879-1880 he was town tax collector; from 1880 to 1882 he was a selectman; in 1895 he was again elected selectman and has been re-elected for 18 consecutive years. In 1916 and 1917 he was first selectman and since that time he had retired from holding office. Both he and Mrs. White were active in grange work and in the Pomfret Congregational church.

July, it appears by the monthly report of Capt. William Jarvis of the police department, shows the smallest number of arrests this year, and for a long time previous. Only 17 arrests were made by the police during the month. This is an unusual record and a good one for the city, especially with so many men out of work.

An automobile with a Connecticut registration was in collision with a Massachusetts car on the road by Webster lake Thursday afternoon. It is alleged that the driver of the Connecticut car did not stop to see what damage was done. The Webster police notified the Putnam police to be on the lookout for the car, which was headed toward Putnam. Captain Jarvis and Patrolman LaRose went in an automobile towards Thompson, the road which would be taken if the Connecticut driver came to Putnam, and they soon saw the car coming toward them. Behind it was trailing Motorcycle Officer Templeman of the Webster police. The car was stopped and it was found that the driver was Theodore Langlois of Woodstock, accompanied by Alfred LaFountaine. All went to the Putnam police station, with the result that Langlois is to appear in the district court at Webster Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Armstrong of Woodstock have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Armstrong, to Frederick Herrick of Southbridge. Mr. Herrcik comes from New Hampshire but is at present employed in Southbridge. The date of the wedding has not been set.

Improvements at the Putnam inn have reached a stage where it is apparent that the front of the building is to be faced with tapestry brick. Brick pillars are being built near the curb on the sidewalk to hold up a balcony. While Landlord Rogers is still uncommunicative regarding his plans, it is generally believed that he intends to add another story to the inn and install an elevator. Putnam will have one of the finest hotels in eastern Connecticut when the plans are carried out.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Elliott of South Main street will motor to Plymouth, Mass., accompanied by their son Harold, Sunday and go into camp for two weeks.

Woodstock officials are looking for a man who was driving a Ford car that figured in an automobile accident at North Woodstock early Monday morning, and in which a car operated by Joseph Baker of Southbridge was badly damaged. The collision threw Baker into a cellar hole beside the road, but he was not seriously injured. The driver of the other car stated that he wanted to go to a house and telephone. He left to do this and failed to return. He was traced to the home of his employer, where it was found that he had left the Ford and a note telling of the accident, had taken his clothes and departed. It was learned that he was driving the car without permission of his employer.

No more welcome sight has been seen in this section in a long time than the rain that began to fall between 3 and 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. In some sections it came too late to save the crops that have already bene killed by the drouth, but on the whole it did a world of good.

There have been no new developments in the matter of the theft of $40 at Gagne's restaurant on Pomfret street.

Putnam Rotarians went to Jewett City Thursday to take part in the combined outing of Rotary clubs of Windham and New London counties.

The Vito Construction company of Thompson has completed the piece of state highway from the Grove street cemetery in Putnam south to Attawaugan. The work was begun last fall and for several months motorists have had to detour. It is understood that the state highway department has plans to carry the new road south by sections year after year until the 32 miles to Norwich are cement roadbed. The Vito company will move its machinery to Terrington, where the company has another state job.

Ralph C. Bradford, Henry A. Wheelock, William Mansfield and Louis Girard left Thursday morning by automobile for the Catskills. They will be gone until Saturday or Sunday. Mr. Bradford will visit the recently acquired property of the Child Lumbre corporation of Pomfret, with which he is connected.

FAMILY PHONOGRAPH NOISY; NEIGHBOR BRINGS SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, July 31.—Timothy Shedyak, who lives on the Thompson road out of Webster, has a phonograph that he and his family delight to play. A neighbor, Mrs. Carrie Emerson, does not like to hear the tuneful melodies that the mechanical player grinds out, especially if the notes float into her bedroom window after 9.30 at night. This fact has become known through the institution of a legal action to enjoin her neighbor from working the phonograph so hard.

Mrs. Emerson sets forth in her prayer for a restraining order that the phonograph is operated often late at night, is extremely noisy and is a source of great annoyance to her. She alleges that sleep is impossible for members of her household while the phonograph is being played after bedtime and claims that the machine is running almost constantly and due to this she has been deprived of the beneficial enjoyment of her property.

It is further alleged that she brought a suit at law against the owner of the phonograph in the district court, but she charges that he had the case transferred to the superior court and that as the docket of that court is crowded it will take about two years before the case is reached. She further points out the manner of business conducted by the defendant and the fact that his premises were raided by federal officers a short time ago and the case is awaiting the action of the federal grand jury.

Judge Webster Thayer of Worcester has issued an order for Shedyak to appear before him, to show cause, if any there be, why he should be allowed to operate the musical machine at all times of day and night.

POWER FROM THE TIDE

From time to time one hears of the proposed establishment of power plants based on the use of the tides, to compress air. Some years ago there was inaugurated such a scheme at a place in Maine, where there exists a natural tidal basin covering an area of about one square mile. The average rise and fall of the tide is twelve feet. It has been calculated by the engineers in charge of a similar project that 5,000 horsepower can be developed, assuming an efficiency of 70 per cent for the air-compressing apparatus. It has been shown that compressed air can be transmitted long distances through pipes with very little loss of power, and it is proposed to supply such air to stone quarries situated within a radius of 20 miles from the last mentioned. It is pointed out that many similar tidal basins exist elsewhere along the seacoast.

34 BULLETS TO KILL BEAR

It required 34 bullets to kill a bear that has been making inroads on a sheep herd at Keyser, W. Va., owned by M. R. Henlien. The bear was lured into the range of rifles handled by four men and the animal fought back endeavoring to attack all of the four shooters, until it dropped when hit by the 34th lead.

IT'S A CINCH

to wash your car with

MOBO AUTO SOAP

PUT a spoonful of MOBO in a pail of water. Thoroughly dissolve it. Now whisk it into a foam. What suds! What a wonderful lather!

Let us say you have sprayed your car with clean water. Now dip your sponge in the MOBO water and apply to the body and running gear. Watch the oil and grease dissolve. See how it loosens caked-on mud. Now a final rinse. Rub the varnish surface dry with a chamois and you're done!

Easy? Why it's a cinch! Costs but a few cents and takes less than a half hour.

Wash your car frequently with MOBO Soap. You'll save money and always have a car that looks new.

MOBO Auto Soap is sold in 1-lb. cans 40c; 3-lb. cans $1.00; 5-lb. cans $1.50; also in 10-lb., 25-lb. and larger size containers.

AUTOMATIC TRAIN CONTROL.

The order just issued by the Interstate commerce commission suspending the previous order to railroads to install automatic train controls leaves the matter in an indefinite state of uncertainty that is not conducive to a sense of public security in the operation of the railroads. If a new time limit had been fixed instead of merely voiding the order without further date, the public would be more inclined to feel that assurance of a decrease in railroad dangers had not been put off to a hazy future. As the situation now looks, it appears that the commission had withdrawn entirely from the requirement named in the original order that the railroads named should within a specified time install automatic train-control devices for the protection of its passengers. One of the explanations given is that the suspension is to permit the adoption of a mechanism, whereby the engineer, if alert, may forestall the stopping of the train by the automatic application of the brakes.

The records of the interstate commerce commission are full of instances of wrecks caused by the failure of the human element and of signals. Automatic train-controls would have in many instances averted ghastly tragedies when the human element failed. There can be little question of the need of such a device on every trunk line operated on short headway.

The railroads have spent a good deal of time protesting the order which they might better have spent in trying out devices. While they have been arguing wrecks have been occurring of the very nature which these devices are supposed to prevent. Now they have succeeded in persuading the commission that a time limit is not desirable. Will they proceed more rapidly to find the ideal method of preventing collisions now that they are under no direct compulsion? It is to be hoped they will make good use of the time they are given.

The traveling public can only pray that collisions will not continue to occur through the faults of the existing signal system and the failures of engine crews. Meanwhile on those lines where automatic train-control systems have been installed the percentage of disasters has fallen to the lowest point in the records of American railroading.

TEN YEARS AGO.

Ten years ago on July 30 the appalling news came to the world that Belgrade, the capital of Serbia, had been bombarded the night before by Austrian guns and that the capital had been abandoned by the Serbian government. Thus began a decade of greater bloodshed and greater unsettlement of nations and national lines than the world had ever seen before; and the unsettlement at least is still a grave feature of the future of civilization. At midnight July 30 the czar ordered the mobilization of the whole Russian army and by the evening of July 31 the vanguard of the Germans was close to the Belgian frontier. What followed is a part of universal history.

Within this ten years the maps of Europe, Asia, Africa and Polynesia have been remade and the sociology of Asia is undergoing a rapid transformation through the drawing together of all the different creeds, while the sociology of Africa has certainly experienced a momentous change through the wiping out of the cruel and inhuman German scheme of colony exploitation.

While maps in our own hemisphere have been unchanged, what of our own sociology? It would be hazardous to say that it has been unmodified. The nature of the change has yet to be studied; indeed, it has yet to be developed for study. Have men and women remained the same, subject to the same prejudices, the same emotions, the same yearnings, the same antipathies, the same motives? The answer is in the hands of time and the historian. If there has been change, then the world will gradually reconstruct itself on lines of logical progression from the lines of the past.

PLANNING A DICTATORSHIP.

Since the recognized aim of the La Follette independent ticket is to secure control of congress, it is not surprising to learn that the La Follette labor executive committee is to be provided with lists of members of congress showing whom to support and whom to oppose. Every effort is to be made by the followers of La Follette to increase the number of the insurgents and the radicals in both house and senate. Where party primaries are yet to be held, the La Follette supporters are to exert their influence to bring about the defeat of candidates whose records or present political views are not to the liking of the Wisconsin senator. How the test is to be applied is yet to be seen, but it is understood that the Howell-Barkley bill to abolish the railroad labor board and deprive the public of [illegible] transportation disputes is to be one of the tests. In view of the La Follette clamor about restoring to the people a greater measure of participation in government, it is hard to recognize a sign of progressiveness in eliminating the public—the most important of the three parties to transportation controversies—from a place on such an arbitral body as the railroad labor board.

The La Follette following, whether or not it succeeds in what is understood to be its secondary aim—the throwing of the election of the president and the vice president into congress—is determined to tighten its grip on congress and, if possible, assume the position that legislative business shall not be transacted except with the consent and approval of the dictator in chief, the senior senator from Wisconsin.

Usually the American voter likes to have something to say about congressional representation in general and representation of his district in particular. The open blacklisting of fit men whose only offense is independence of blocs and fidelity to conviction will not strike the average intelligent voter as a promising development in American politics.

THE PERSIAN OUTRAGE.

If the dignity of American citizenship and our official representatives is to be maintained, Persia must be held to full accountability for the murder of Consul Imbrie and the subsequent insult to his widow. Persia is not classed as a barbarous country and these outrages cannot be regarded as the blind outbreaks of savages among whom the representatives of civilized nations venture at their peril.

their peril. That the Persian government recognizes the gravity of the offense is indicated now by the statement that is prepared to meet the fullest demands that will be made.

As one of the family of responsible governments, Persia must make amends of the severest nature, accompanied by condign punishment of members and leaders of the mob, public, official and general honor to the body of the murdered consul, exemplary reparation for the injured lady, and a degree of humiliation for public and government that will be commensurate with the offence. Had such an insult been offered to the representative of a European govarnment, concessions of territory or important privileges might well have been demanded as part of the penalty, but the United States wants no Persian territory and the only privilege that it desires is what it would claim anyway, an equal right with other nations in trade relations with Persia.

It is difficult to believe that the Persians, as a people, have any grievance against us or hatred of the American nation or people. On the contrary they have good reason for gratitude, when it is recalled that it was an American, Mr. Shuster, whose financial advice was sought at a time when Persia was in the depths of financial ruin and that it was his wise guidance that was an effective aid and would have done much more if it had not been thwarted by European intrigues.

THE ERICSSON MONUMENT.

The unveiling of a bronze plaque at the house in Brooklyn, N. Y., where John Ericsson designed the Monitor, recalls the brief but momentous history of the "Yankee cheese-box on a raft," as she was derisively called, that revolutionized naval construction and warfare. Ericsson was born in Sweden, July 31, 1803, and on Jan. 30, 1862, he saw the launching of his "floating battery," which had been constructed by workmen in Brooklyn in just one hundred days of actual work. Bets were made that she would sink as soon as she was launched, but she didn't, although she came perilously near doing so on her way to Hampton Roads where she arrived in time to whip the Merrimac.

Ericsson's specific design had been the attaining of "absolute invulnerability." The sides had 10 inches of white oak, faced with rolled plate iron six inches thick. The deck had eight inches of planking under an inch of iron plating. The turret had eight inches of iron plate, two portholes and two Dahlgren guns carrying 11-inch shells. These guns were short, however, and of limited range. Most of the fighting was done within a half mile of the target. The propelling screw was then relatively new in naval architecture.

The Monitor started an era of naval development that has culminated in the tremendously powerful modern dreadnaught to which a limitation has been put by the disarmament conference, if the treaties made by the nations subscribing to it hold.

Probably but few of those who worked on Ericsson's craft are still surviving, but they are deserving of honor along with the inventor. It was their work along with the fighting of the crew that manned her that preserved the Union and for that they deserve the thanks and the recognition of posterity.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The arrival of August is a reminder that summer is fleeting.

If the deadlock in the European conference can be broken, the padlock will be removed from the bankers' strong box.

With La Follette's well known proclivity to orate he shows unexpected self-control in resisting the opportunity for a speech of acceptance.

The man on the corner says: At $15,000,000 to run the national presidential campaign it figures out about 50 cents a voter. The show bids fair to be worth the price.

H. G. Wells announces in his tense and nervous way that civilization has reached the crossroads and no one knows the way to get on the whole, we rather like the crossroads.

Little Tommy Tucker sang for his supper, but a convict in a Pennsylvania penitentiary sang his way out of prison by so impressing his hearers that they got up a petition that secured his release.

For the year's most pungent comparison between the workingman in the United States and in Europe, the following measures well: "American workers have more gold in their teeth than laborers in most European countries have in the banks."

CULTIVATING HENRY

Both girls found the young man interesting, and, as one of them said to the other, "he really needed mothering." From the evening that he presented himself and his letter of introduction at their little flat, they proceeded to mother him.

"I've asked Henry to come over tonight and have strawberry shortcake with us," remarked Helen when they had known him about a fortnight. "I'm sure he's hungry for some home cooking. These country boys who come to the city do miss home life horribly, Kitty. Don't you think?"

"Yes, I do, and there are so many little ways in which we can help him, Helen," replied Kitty.

That very evening, after he had enjoyed a repast both substantial and delicious, she gently told Henry Barr that he ought not to call either her or Helen "ma'am." He thanked her and said that he knew he did not have any city manners.

"But," interposed Helen quickly, "you have something much better. You have frankness and earnestness. There's a great charm in your wholehearty bearing."

Then she tactfully told him that she thought that wood brown or dull blue ties would go much better with his dark eyes and hair than did the purple cravat he was wearing. Kitty felt a little out of it when he immediately asked Helen to meet him at lunch time the next day and help him select a few becoming neckties. However, it was only a week later that she went with him to buy his first golf clubs.

Sage Had to Leave Congress

Making his way from poverty to affluence, Russell Sage became an honored mower in Congress, then had to abandon public life to save his business from failure.

Born in an emigrant wagon near Scoondoah, N. Y., while his impoverished parents were moving from Connecticut to Michigan, he was the youngest of six children. The family settled at Oneida, N. Y., and he helped on the farm. In winter he attended the district school.

At 12 he was apprenticed to his brother, receiving $4 a month and "keep" for helping in the grocery store, and saved money. At 21 he had enough laid away to buy a partnership in another brother's retail grocery at Troy. Two years later he owned the store and afterward sold out at a big profit. A partner of John P. Bates in the wholesale grocery business at 25, he bought out the business a year later, paying $150,000.

Elected treasurer of Rensselaer county and chosen a delegate to the Whig convention that nominated Zachery Taylor for president, he ran for congress and was defeated. He tried again two years later and at 36 was elected, and then reelected. Active on the Ways and Means Committee, he was eagerly consulted on business affairs and national questions and his opinions carried great weight.

Then came the panic of 1857, and he had to return home to save his business. Four years later he had 750,000. Going to New York, he fell in with the St. Paul crowd, interested in Western railroads, made big profits, helped reorganize the Missouri Pacific and joined with Jay Gould in deals that produced still more riches. He liked to make money and denied himself so that it would pile up, caught napping by the panic of 1884, he lost $9,000,000 in one day.

Uncompromising as a money-lender, he was called "skinflint," "miser" and other names. A crank forced his way into Sage's office, demanded $1,000,000 and dropped a bomb that knocked Sage unconscious.

Sage lived until he was 90 and at the time of his death was one of the world's richest men and its largest individual money-lender.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Prominent among the participants in this year's Institute of Politics which opens today at Williamstown, Mass., will be Sir Valentine Chirol, whose intimate knowledge of foreign affairs is well established. Educated chiefly in France and Germany, he has traveled extensively in European and Asiatic Turkey, Egypt, Persia, India, and the Far East, as well as in the United States and the British colonies; and, in addition to numerous contributions to reviews and magazines, his published works include such books as The Far East Question, The Middle Eastern Question, and Indian Unrest. From 1872 to 1876 he held a clerkship in the British Foreign office, and in 1899 he succeeded Sir Donald Mackenzie Wallace as director of the foreign department of The London Times, a post which he relinquished in 1912.

better translated oblivion), but all have the same meaning (look up the old English word hell and its translation). Hades (Greek) of the New Testament has the same meaning as Sheol (Hebrew) of the old book. And all mean the grave, the hidden state. The English word hell's translation was to hide or cover, therefore means the same thing, and not what the confiding sheep have been taught that it meant. And it could not be eternal torment for we have the promise that it is to be destroyed, also. Satan (then who would keep the fires burning, if it is to be eternal?) Now the lesson taught by Jesus Christ while in (hell, Sheol, Hades) the tomb, was an example. And the Spirits in prison were the fallen angels (actions speak louder than words sometimes). "We are made a spectacle both to angels and to men." You see Mr. Troland has already proven that it takes "more" than a short lecture or letter to prove Scripture. As I have written three or four already, and there is much more to write to make it plain to some minds. He mentions the Gospel being preached as the apostle, but he don't want the Millenniel Kingdom of Christ mentioned. Does he know, that "this Gospel of the "kingdom" is the very Gospel that Mr. Rice and all other I. B. S. are preaching today? in all the world "for a witness." (Nothing said about converting the world only "as a witness.") Unto all nations, "and then shall the end come?" The passage in 1 John 5:7 is pronounced as apurious by all the greatest Greek interpreters of Scripture, and cannot be found in any Greek Mss. before the 15th or 16th century.

Unwelcome Visitors.

Mr. Editor: I note the following in The Bulletin:

"Rural towns make a mistake in not having some conspicuous sign giving the name of each. Often city visitors would come back for a second visit, if sure of the exact names of places through which they motor hurriedly."

Maybe the farmers would not want those that motor through the towns to come back as a large number have all of their old bottles, paper bags, tin cans and everything they want to keep out of the city by the roadside. They take the liberty to pick anything they think they can live on, also use the bypaths and driveways for things that the farmer would not use them for.

Stories That Recall Others

COMMENT DESIRED

Usually she wears garments of subdued tone—black or dark blue. Her husband, although having poor health, buys his in the more emphatic shades, in fact, he is known for liking colorful things.

A few evenings ago "the missus" startled "friend husband" by appearing in an elaborate sport suit. The skirt was an effect with wide stripes. When the husband saw the startling outfit he spoke of the reaction it might have on his temporarily improved health:

"How do you like my new regalia, John?" she inquired rather hesitantly.

"What tent and awning company will I get the bill from?" he asked before making further comment. She suggested they go for a walk, and John gasped, waited a moment and then said:

"All right, come on. But I'll tell you what let's do—you walk about fifty feet ahead of me and if the comment is favorable I'll catch up with you."

TOO DOLLED UP

Their mother is of the type that doesn't worry her children with too much attention, especially in summer when little boys like to wander far and free. Recently the mother went to Chicago for a visit, leaving the boys in charge of a maiden aunt, one of the sort that always says: "If I ever have any children of my own," etc.

Morning, noon and night she kept the boys under surveillance. When not scolding she was scouring. Finally mother returned and her first question to her younger son was:

"Well, Junior, how did you get along with Aunt Julia?"

There was a prolonged silence, and then:

"Oh, Aunt Julia's all right, mother, but she acted like she was afraid we wouldn't be ready if somebody wanted to take our pictures."

No woman ever discovered that she was beautiful by being told by some other woman.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Progressive Democrats?

Mr. Editor: The word "Progressive" rolling so sweetly from the lips of a democrat who intends to go to the polls in November and cast a vote for John W. Davis for president is most surely a mouse in the wrong cheese box. There were two candidates at the great Madison square convention of Prominence. One was William G. McAdoo of California, a progressive, and the other was John W. Davis. When the various cats paw candidates, I believe about 30 in number, had the skin of McAdoo tanned and mounted the whole bunch of them landed right where they started to and nominated a man as far removed from anything progressive as it was possible to do.

That lady in West Virginia nearly spilled the beans in her nominating speech when she said "after the smoke of the battle rolls away you'll find my candidate, John W. Davis has been selected."

The convention cheered the name of Woodrow Wilson to the echo and then repudiated the one thing that he stood for above all other things—The League of Nations.

Baker, of Ohio, with trembling voice pleaded with them to remember the great Wilson, but the issues of the staunchest one staunch Wilson men stood for were overwhelmingly repudiated. Anything progressive in that?

The platform wishes to return to a system of tariff that has been tried over and over again and found wanting. Anything progressive about that?

Issue after issue that should have no place between parties has been dug up. Anything progressive about that?

Democracy as at present constituted with the House of Morgan in the saddle is anything but progressive, and the least said about it the better.

The fact is "Progressive" is a nice sounding word, "progressive" looks good in the newspapers. At the same time the voters will go to the polls and vote as they have for years, for the party they have always voted for, progress or no progress, so why waste time talking about any one handed down from the House of Morgan being a progressive?

Explaining Scripture.

Mr. Editor: I see Mr. Troland has surely proven that it takes more than one short lecture, or letter, to explain Scripture, if one takes into consideration all the texts bearing on the subjects in question, as should be done, both pro and con. A sharp distinction should be drawn between a confession of faith in a Trinity (this word isn't found in Scripture), and a confession of faith in the unity of the heavenly Father, Jehovah, and the heavenly Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, and the Holy Spirit. The doctrine as stated in the church creeds holds that the Father, the Son and Holy Spirit "are one person." While the Bible shows the absolute unity between the three, Father, Son and Holy Spirit in the various steps of the great plan of salvation, it most positively contradicts the thought of their being one in person, and that the Father and Son are equal in Majesty and in power except as that the Father has glorified the Son, and highly exalted him and given him a name above all others, "except His own." Making him his agent and representative in the exercise of "all power in heaven and in earth." The Scriptures also say that Christ was raised from the "dead" on the third day after he was put to "death" on the cross, and as it states that he was "dead." If Mr. Troland will look up the texts he will clearly see what is meant in Scripture by death. The very opposite of life. Sheol (Hebrew) in the old Testament is translated three times, Pit, 31 times, Grave [illegible] times Hell, (Hell would have been

Sugar Coated Cod Liver Oil Tablets Put on Flesh and Build Them Up—Quick

In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamt of—these wonderful flesh making tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets will start to help any weak, thin, undernourished little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable. No need to give them any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—these tablets are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine and they surely do it. They do put on flesh.

"My son, 16, became thin and pale and did not gain needed nourishment from his food until he took McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. In a little over two months he gained eleven and a half pounds and feels and looks 100 per cent. better."

George C. O'Brien, Mahwah, N. J.

Ask Lee & Osgood or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—as easy to take as candy and not at all expensive—60 tablets, 60 cents.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY MEMBERS HAVE PICNIC

Some twenty members of the American Legion Auxiliary to Robert O. Fletcher Post No. 4, enjoyed a picnic Tuesday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. William J. Bogue of Broad street. At noon the hostess, assisted by Mrs. John B. Oat, served chowder, punch, pie and cheese. Basket luncheons were enjoyed in the evening, the menu including salad, sandwiches, cake, pickles and punch. A most enjoyable time was had by the members of the auxiliary in playing ball jongo and whist. The party broke up in the evening, all voting their hostess a royal entertainer.

TALK ON GAS INDUSTRY AT NORWICH LIONS CLUB

The Norwich Lions club held its regular weekly meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel with a large attendance including several visitors, and with President George A. Finn in the chair. George P. Madden acted as song leader.

The meeting opened with "America," followed by the welcome of two new members into the club, O. A. Ryffe director of sales for the H. H. Aliyn Rubber Corp., and George Kramer, ice dealer, by President George A. Finn, who extended the right hand of fellowship to them in behalf of the club.

A report from J. B. Caron on plans for the joint meeting with the Lions club of New London to be held here next Thursday noon and followed by a ball game, was accepted as a report of progress.

The club voted to hold a baseball game on the Academy campus this (Friday) afternoon at 4.30 o'clock between the first and second teams.

The speaker of the day was Charles A. Taggart, general manager of the Norwich gas and electrical department. Mr. Taggart gave a very interesting talk on the History and Development of the Gas Industry. In his talk Mr. Taggart said in part:

In the little more than one hundred years since the first company was organized in Baltimore the manufactured gas industry of the United States has grown until today it ranks among the leading industries of the country, representing an investment of approximately $4,000,000,000.

This great industry is represented by 966 gas companies, serving 4,600 cities, towns and villages.

Gas companies of the United States have 9,290,000 customers and serve a population of 46,700,000, according to a report made by the American Gas association for the year 1921. These companies have 71,000 employes.

The consumption of gas has increased year after year. In 1921 gas companies of the United States sold 326,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

The gas companies in 1920 used 7,778,000 tons of bituminous coal, 3,026,000 tons of coke and 954,516,000 gallons of oil.

More gas is used today in homes for cooking, heating and domestic uses, other than illumination, than for any other purposes.

It was estimated that there were 7,040,000 gas cooking appliances, such as ranges and gas plates in use in 1921. Water heaters were estimated to number 1,578,000 and room heaters 1,268,000.

Mr. Taggart was given a rising vote of thanks for his splendid talk. The entertainment committee for July was discharged with a vote of thanks and President Finn appointed the following to serve for the month of August. Ben Pullen, Tyler Rogers and Frank Rinella. The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner and salute to the flag. The members and guests enjoyed a sail on Long Island Sound in the afternoon with Lion William R. Frisbie in his motor moat.

VETERAN OF WORLD WAR ON LONG HIKE

Charles Baldwin of Warsaw, Kentucky, who is hiking from Hampton Beach, N. H., to Cincinnati, Ohio, arrived in Norwich Thursday and enjoyed the sights of the city. Mr. Baldwin is an ex-service man and is hiking for his health, intending to make the entire trip this time on foot, not accepting any lifts from passing motorists.

Mr. Baldwin was wounded during his service of nine years. He was wounded five times, on the knee, arms and hands, while on the Mexican border in September 1915. From 1915 to 1917 he served with the Sixth Field Artillery and when the World war came he joined the Sixth Infantry. Later he was with the recruiting service, procuring a discharge from that branch of the service July 21, 1922.

Two years ago Mr. Baldwin hiked from St. Louis to Tampa, Fla., three weeks elapsing before he reached his destination. On that trip he did not hike all the way but was given lifts by motorists.

DEPUTY WARDEN ARRESTS MAN HAVING SHORT LOBSTERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., July 31.—Salvatore Piccolo was taken into custody by Deputy Fish and Game Warden A. D. Hill Thursday morning on Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, as he was about to peddle short lobsters, a number of which he had in his possession. Robert B. Chappell from New London, fish and game warden of New London county, was in Pawcatuck and was present when Piccolo was brought before William A. Wilcox. Piccolo was released on bonds of $250, Charles La Presto of Pawcatuck becoming surety for defendant's appearance in Stonington town court this (Friday) morning at 9 o'clock.

SHOWERS ON THURSDAY WELCOMED BY FARMERS

ROTARIANS HOLD ANNUAL OUTING WITH ATTENDANCE OF OVER 200

Over 200 Rotarians of Eastern Connecticut, including the wives and guests of the Rotarians, were present at the annual inter-city outing at Ashland Park Thursday afternoon and evening where they were royally entertained through the efforts of L. M. Carpenter, chairman of the general committee of the host club, Norwich. Although there was a drenching rain during the greater part of the afternoon it failed to dampen the spirit of enjoyment indoors in the club-house where there were billiards and cards. There was dancing in the Casino and a diving exhibition from the raft in front of the club-house veranda.

The weather only interfered with some of the minor activities such as the stilt race, potato race and other field events. The baseball teams, however, braved the rain and played a slippery game of six innings late in the afternoon.

The Rotarians came early and stayed late, the first delegation arriving was from the Willimantic club under the leadership of Harry W. Standish, president of the club. Putnam's band of Rotarians was the next to arrive and were closely followed by New London and Norwich. After registering the guests were left to their own fancies until dinner was served. The registration was in charge of Miss Jessie Sangster, Miss Lena Wolfe and Miss Ruth Davis.

The chief attraction of the early afternoon was the ball game between the Putnam and Willimantic club which was won by the latter club by the overwhelming score of 15 to 3. This game was featured by some terrific hitting on the part of the Willimantic players. Pete Larimee, the diminutive short stop for the Threadmakers, whaled out a home run with three men on bases in the third inning. This was the straw that broke the camel's back for Putnam declined to play any more after this mighty cram. Morris Leonard, who played first base for the Thread City team was also a heavy hitter, getting a smashing triple in the second inning. There were fielding features which were too numerous to mention, not to say too horrible to mention.

Those who played in the game were:

For putnam: Faucher c, Dean p, R. Reardon 1b, W. Bartlett 2b, W. Wheaton 3b, Doc Phillips ss, J. Reardon, rf, Prince cf, Alpert lf.

For Willimantic: Doc Riordan p, Eb Harrington c, Morris Leonard 1b, Jim Mustard 2b, Pete Larimee ss, Charlie Hill 3b, Lou Kingsbury lf, Val Murphy cf, Jack Pickett rf.

Following the ball game Dave Seamon, superintendent of the dining car service of the New Haven road sounded the call for dinner. This was truly a welcome call and there was no need for a second one. There was no hesitancy on the part of any one in securing a seat at the snow-white tables arranged on the dance floor of the Casino, which was decorated for the occasion, the banner of the host club occupying a prominent place over the head table. After the singing of America and the asking of Grace by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, Dave Seamon then called on his corps of Honey Boy chefs to bring on the fruits of their toils, which were delicious clam chowder, broiled mackerel, potato chips, tomato en surprise, broiled lobster, watermelon, rolls, pickles, olives, radishes and coffee. These good things were served by a corps of waitresses under the direction of Mrs. Prentice W. Chase.

William G. Park was unanimously chosen song leader and Doc Jones of Willimantic was the pianist. There was the spirited singing that always features such a gathering the Willimantic club putting on two specialties, It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo' and Blowing Bubbles. The last number the Willimantic boys let loose a flock of toy balloons that lent added charm to their number.

After the dinner President Hugh B. Campbell of the Norwich club introduced State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, a resident of Jewett City and a member of the Norwich club, who delivered the address of welcome. Mr. Brown said that his was a double honor, that of welcoming the visiting Rotarians in the name of the Norwich club and also in the name of Jewett City. The speaker spoke of the growing feeling of brotherhood between the clubs and then outlining the natural beauties and attractions of Jewett City. He said that some one had misquoted him saying that he in a previous speech in describing the beauties of Jewett City had said "Jewett City is situated where the 'polluted' waters of the Pachaug mingles with those of the more stately Juinebaug." This is wrong, said Mr. Brown, I did not say "polluted waters," I said "palucid waters."

The responses were made by President Ed. Regan of the New London club who in the course of his talk spoke of the Fall Conclave to be held at Eastern Point next month. He also expressed the gratification of the New London members at being present at the meeting. President Harry W. Standish responded for the Willimantic club and President John Reardon did the honors for the Putnam club.

There was a delightful solo by little Miss Amede Cranston of Westerly an accomplished little miss who also gave a very pretty toe dance in the evening during the dancing. The Lyric orchestra of Willimantic played during the luncheon and also for the dancing during the afternoon and evening.

The late afternoon was marred by the downpour of rain, but no one thought to make complaint as everyone remarked that it was really a novelty to see honest-to-goodness rain falling. The first entertainment feature after the dinner was the diving exhibition by members of the Ashland club under the direction of Supervisor Prentice W. Chase. The diving was done from the raft in the pond just in front of the club house. Those who performed in the diving feats were Miss Mildred Mondor, Miss Louise Seigal, Theodore Raille, Cliff Peterson, Leo Robinson, Joseph Lee, Henry Vincent and Roland Guillett.

Then came the big event of the afternoon, the much heralded baseball game between the Norwich and the New London clubs, which although a slippery, sloppy affair, was won by the Norwich club, 10 to 9. The game hung in doubt all through the six drizzling innings, but the dampness, however, did not extinguish that flame of friendly rivalry that burns so brightly between the two clubs. There were features galore in this game, the majority of them bordering on the ridiculous rather than on the spectacular. The only really and truly spectacular was Roy Nash's splashing slide into home plate through a veritable sea of mud and water. Roy was endowed with a spirit of do or die, but neglected to realize the fact that his death might be drowning. It was in the third inning and Roy had worked his way around to third base when one of his teammates hit a slow roller to Ed Harris, who gobbled it up and tossed to Alex Abbott at the plate. Roy, sensing victory, had started the second the ball was hit and was tearing for the plate. When within a few feet he executed what was supposed to be a deceiving slide. It was deceiving all right. Roy hit the sea of mud and water with speed and force. A wall of mud and water enveloped both Roy and Alex, blinding the latter and plastering the former. After the two had groped their way out of the fog Umpire Chase called Roy out, much to that besmeared person's disgust.

Another feature was Ed Harris' bombardment of Bert Cary, who was innocently coaching on third. Dick Curran was the hitting star of the game with two doubles and a home run. The only casualty was Lew Carpenter, who was hit with a pitched ball.

The lineups were:

Norwich—Ed Harris p; Alex Abbott c, Doc Campbell 1b, Scoop Standish 2b, Ed Jewett ss, Russ Clapp 3b, Al Bliven lf, Bunk Welch cf, Lew Carpenter rf, Jim Madden cf.

New London—Dick Curran p, rf; George Gadbois c, Ed Corcoran 1b, Ed Regan 2b, Harry Cook ss, Tom Dorsey 3b, Jack McCarthy lf, Hen Kaiser cf, Roy Nash rf.

After the game there was dancing at the Casino until late in the evening ending a most enjoyable day. Much credit is due Lew Carpenter for his untiring efforts in arranging the program and to Ed Regan for securing the dining service for the outing.

WILL START WORK TODAY ON SHETUCKET ST. GARAGE

Work will be started today (Friday) on the erection of a large garage with accommodations for over 200 automobiles for Alec M. Pasnik. The garage will be erected on the site of the American House on Shetucket street which was destroyed by fire some weeks ago. What remained of the American House after the fire has been razed and in its place will rise one of the largest and most modern garages in the state. It is expected that the new garage will be completed in about three months.

Mr. Pasnik has let the contract for the erection of the garage to Contractors Carroll and Fenton. The garage which will have 20,000 feet storage space, will be about 192 feet long about 28 feet high at its highest point, and approximately 160 feet in width at its deepest point graduating down to about 96 feet in width. The northern end of the new garage will be one story in height, this section being approximately 65 feet in length and the remainder of the garage will be two stories in height. The single story section will include sales room and office and there will also be a spacious rest room for women. The remainder of this section will be used for the storage of automobiles. The whole of the two story section will be used for the storage of machines. Owing to the incline of Shetucket street, both first and second floors will have street level entrances, doing away with the necessity of runways or elevators. There will be wide driveways for entrances to and exit from the garage. The garage will be of steel, brick and concrete construction, making it a fireproof building.

The retaining walls will be of good rubble masonry. Piers on either side of the show room and storage garage entrance and the brick work under the plate glass windows are to be faced with the best quality tapestry brick. Plate glass will be used in the show room front with prism glass above. There will be eight steel trusts of 80 feet span. The entire roof will be covered with extra heavy roofing paper.

The plumbing, painting and lighting and wiring contracts have not yet been let by Mr. Pasnik. Mr. Pasnik is undecided at the present time as to whether he will operate the garage himself or lease it. The new garage will be a credit to Mr. Pasnik and a valuable addition to the business section of the city.

OBITUARY

Charles H. Lynch

Word has been received in this city of the death Tuesday night in Windsor of Charles H. Lynch, the only surviving veteran of the Civil war living at Wilson Station, Windsor. Mr. Lynch, who was a native of this city, was a past commander of Robert O. Tyler Post, G. A. R., Windsor, and after 55 years service with the Case Lockwood and Brainard Co., of Hartford retired from business in April, 1920.

Mr. Lynch enlisted in the beginning of the Civil war in 1861 and served throughout the conflict. During his service in the war he was never injured but had several narrow escapes. At the battle of Piedmont the stock of his rifle was shot off while in his hand and a tin cup in his haversack was pierced by a bullet. The stock of rifle was also shot off by a piece of shell at the battle of Winchester.

Mr. Lynch was born in Norwich in 1846, and when by 16 years of age, in August, 1863, enlisted in Co. C, 18th Regimen, C. V., recruited and commanded by Isaac H. Bromley, then city editor of The Norwich Bulletin and after the Civil war editor of the Hartford Evening Post. Mr. Lynch served inall the battles in which the regiment participated and was mustered out in Hartford July 7, 1865 with the rank of corporal. He returned to his home in this city, but soon after went to Hartford and entered the employ of the Case, Lockwood and Brainard Co. There are only eight living members of Co. C., the company in which Mr. Lynch served. Henry L. Clark of this city was a member of this company.

Mr. Lynch was married in Windsor March 16, 1868, to Miss Elizabeth Cooley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Cooley of Wilson Station. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Frances Lynch and one son, C. Birsie Lynch, a salesman of New York city.

Mrs. William J. Koonz

The life of Elizabeth A. Buchanan, beloved wife of William J. Koonz, came to a close Thursday afternoon at 4.20 o'clock, at her home 61 Peck street, following a long illness during which she was tenderly cared for by loved ones.

Mr. Koonz was born in Burlington, Iowa, December 1, 1861, the daughter of the late James and Lou Fesse Buchanan. Her early life was spent in the west, where about 42 years ago she was united in marriage with William J. Koonz. Since 1897 she had made her home in Norwich. The only son of Mr. and Mrs. Koonz, Herbert Koonz, passed away October 7, 1919, in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Koonz was a devout Christian and was a member of the First Baptist church, and always took a foremost part in all church activities. For many years she was a member of the Ideal Club, composed of West Side women. Of kind and loving disposition she gathered about her many loving friends who will learn of her death with profound sorrow. Always ready to serve any worthy cause, Mrs. Koonz served her church long and faithfully. She will be greatly missed by those acquaintances who have enjoyed her companionship for years and those who are left to mourn the loss of a beloved wife and sister have the sympathy of an understanding host of friends.

Mrs. Koonz is survived by her husband, William J. Koonz and a number of relatives in the west.

Mrs. William Appleton Aiken.

On July 31st at 9 o'clock a. m. the welcome release of death came gently and almost unperceived to Mrs. William A. Aiken after many months of the slow ebb of all her vital powers. The funeral services will bring together a large company of family friends, and in addition not a few who will desire thus to honor the memory of one who in highest degree exemplified the nobility and saintliness of Christian character.

Mrs. Aiken was the only child surviving infancy of Connecticut's revered and honored war governor, William A. Buckingham, and was given the name Eliza Colt from her mother's ancestry. She was born in Norwich Dec. 7, 1838, and spent nearly all of her lifetime of more than 85 years first in her father's home, now the Buckingham Memorial Grand Army Post, afterwards at the Colonial residence at 157 Washington street, bought by Governor Buckingham and presented to his daughter in 1862, shortly after her marriage (Aug. 28, 1861) to William Appleton Aiken of the Andover, Mass., family of that name, then a young navy officer of furlough from the front. The story of her life was uneventful as regards such outward circumstances as engage the historian's pen, but in her personal character and her social and family life she exemplified in such rare degree the typical virtues of her race that this occasion cannot be allowed to pass without public expression of its significance. The greatness of New England is not in its natural beauty of woods and templed hills, nor in the achievements of its industrial energy and commercial genius, so much as in its Puritan breed of noble sons and daughters. Among these the name of William A. Buckingham, governor and senator, pillar of state and church, generous supporter of education and of every worthy cause, stands forth conspicuous. And what he was in his sphere of public life his daughter was in the home. Of her seven children, four survive, together with her husband, who still occupies the home with two daughters. The oldest child, Eliza Buckingham, married Professor B. W. Bacon of Yale. The surviving son, Alfred Lawrence, is a leader in American finance. Grandchildren and great-grandchildren have since enlarged the family group. To all these Mrs. Aiken exemplified the "perfect wife and mother." To a wider group, brought within the range of her uplifting influence by friendship and hospitality, she was a type and example of womanly heroism.

The story of Mrs. Aiken's life would be less than half-told, and the secret of the tender and beautiful spirit of family love and devotion unrevealed, were no mention made of the calamity which fell upon the household in the summer of 1886 when the eldest son, William, in seeming health, was stricken with infantile paralysis. From that time until when in 1903 he died a graduate of Amherst college and member of the Connecticut bar, one of the most respected and beloved of Norwich citizens, the mother's life was one of unbroken devotion to the helpless invalid. His achievements against all obstacles were its fruit. Medical skill and all else that wealth could procure were lavished on the child. But those were not the days of trained and experienced helpers. The chief burden fell upon Mrs. Aiken personally, but her courage and love never failed. Her spirit of love and faith and service created the atmosphere of the home.

A life of motherly and wifely devotion such as this was confined of necessity to limits that were geographically narrow. Only twice or thrice in a lifetime was it Mrs. Aiken's privilege to travel outside New England. Milwaukee, Washington, Charleston—these marked her limit of contact with the larger world of culture and art for which by taste and training she was fitted. Her cultural discipline had been obtained at Miss Porter's famous school at Farmington. But her love of beauty found expression at home. Many will recall the enjoyment she found in her old-fashioned garden, whose fruits and flowers were shared as when in her girlhood dawn gifts had gone out from the governor's house to scores of neighbors, friends and dependents. Nevertheless Mrs. Aiken's highest art was not practiced here. She was an architect in the chosen field of womanhood. In a beauty, sanctity and devotion like that of the cathedral-builders of old she built the spiritual temple of a Christian home. To all who have known her work that will remain her truest monument.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Mary Shea.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Shea, who died in Tarrytown, N. Y., were held Thursday morning at 8.30 o'clock at the parlors of Cummings & Ring, followed at 9 o'clock by a requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. William A. Keefe officiating. Henry LaFontaine was at the organ during the mass and for a waiting hymn the choir rendered Abide With Me.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Frederick Coholan. The bearers were John, Patrick and William Hartie and Thomas Baker.

Mrs. Shea was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kane and was born in Norwich 84 years ago. She was united in marriage with Thomas Shea in this city, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Daniel Mullin. For a number of years she resided at 28 Prospect street, but later moved to Tarrytown, N. Y., where her death occurred on July 29th. She is survived by one son, Patrick J. Shea, master sergeant in the U. S. medical department at Boston, Mass., one cousin, George Patterson, of Yantic street.

Maurice Donald Fitzgerald.

Funeral services for Maurice Donald Fitzgerald were held at 8.30 o'clock Thursday morning at his home, 76 Peck street, followed at 9 o'clock by a requiem mass in St. Patrick's church, Rve. Myles P. Galvin officiating. Prof. Frank L. Farrell was at the organ during the mass and for waiting hymn Mrs. Farrell sang Beautiful Land on High.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the services and the floral tributes were most beautiful. Included in the attendance were relatives and friends from New London, Willimantic, New Haven, Hartford, Providence, R. I., Worcester, Mass., Passaic, N. J., and other cities.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. M. H. May, assisted by Rev. Rocco Guerriero. The following friends of the boy were bearers: John Shea, John O'Rourke, Philip O'Brien, Raymond Lanoie, Matthew Sheridan and Eugene Buckley.

Arrangements were by Shea & Burke.

SUDDEN DEATH OF JUDGE LUCIUS BROWN

Judge Lucius Brown, father of Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court, died suddenly at 2.50 o'clock this (Friday) morning at his home, No. 16 Warren street. Death was due to heart trouble with which he had been a sufferer of late.

Judge Brown was born in Griswold in 1846 and obtained his early education in the schools of Preston. He afterwards graduated from Brown university, Providence. Judge Brown studied law at Albany Law school, where he fitted for the bar, and after graduating from that institution was admitted in 1868 to the bar, both in New York state and Connecticut. The judge then began his professional career in this city. In 1879 he formed the partnership of Brown & Perkins and this partnership continued until the death of Donald G. Perkins. At the age of 25 Judge Brown was elected representative of the old Eighth district in the state senate and in 1887 and 1878 was senator from the Tenth district. He was also senator in 1896 and 1898. He was a vice president of the Norwich Savings Society and a director of the Merchants' National bank.

JUDGE LUCIUS BROWN

Judge Brown was appointed judge of the city court after the death of Judge John C. Kellogg in September, 1893, and served in that capacity until June 30, 1913.

TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT LAUREL HILL GROUNDS

Several excellent performances featured the track and field meet held Tuesday afternoon on the Laurel Hill playground between representatives of the East Side and the pupils of Miss C. Sullivan, who has succeeded in bringing to athletic prominence several future playground champions. Especially is this the case in the weight events, in which Miss Sullivan has had the advantage of three years of intensive training at a leading physical culture academy. In her specialty she has imparted much of her own athletic knowledge to her charges.

Some of the East Side athletes were unable to compete owing to a previous engagement at a local theatre. Such conflicts in dates are most detrimental to any aspirations the East Enders may have towards the winning of the much coveted pennant, signifying the championship of the local playgrounds.

Of the winning aggregation A. Williams, Burdick and Sample were the shinning lights, each contributing considerably to his team's total. H. Marshal, Jr., of Laurel Hill tossed the eight pound shot about with ease and grace, but as the regulations are opposed to handling a shot in a manner similar to a baseball, the officials were in conscience obliged to request the withdrawal of H. Marshall, Jr.

Results of the meet:

40 yard dash (senior girls): First, L. Williams, L. H.; second, F. Bushnell, L. H.; third, C. Sisco, E. S.

Six San Blas Indian girls have been studying to become graduate nurses in the Santo Tomas Hospital in Panama City, according to the Bulletin of Pan American Union. Their purpose is to carry their knowledge of scientific care of the sick back to their own people. The San Blas Indians, who live along the Caribbean coast northwest of Colon, for many years never permitted a white man to enter their territory.

LAUREL HILL PLAY GROUND TEAM WINS FROM THAMESVILLE IN FIELD MEET

Running true to form the Laurel Hill tracksters scored a decisive victory over their Thamesville rivals, in the meet Thursday afternoon.

Miss Hyman's cohorts fought a game but fruitless battle against Laurel Hill's steady piling up of points.

The inclement weather little affected the work of Miss Sullivan's charges. Before the rain-laden clouds had showered their liquid blessings on an expectant world, the Hillites had already displayed their ability as out door champs. When the capricious weatherman had forced them indoors they continued to show their supremacy by winning all the indoor events.

Especially noteworthy in the afternoon dual meet were the sterling performances of A. Williams of Laurel Hill and Brown, premier midget sprinter of Thamesville.

Brown gives promise of becoming a second Murchison. Over a 40 yard course the orange and white flier racing away from a fast field sprinted to victory in the fast time of 5 seconds.

In Albert Williams, Miss Sullivan has an all round star worthy of her pride. In every event which he entered Williams proved a winner. His brilliant work in the sprints, jumps and weight events predict his inevitable success as a track star.

Races for female entrants called off because of indisposition of certain participants.

Running broad jump for boys, A. Williams, L. H., 16 feet 6 1-2 inches; Sample, L. H., 13 feet 11 1-2 inches; Diachyshyn, L. H., 13 feet 3 1-2 inches; Pidgin Thamesville 10 feet 10 inches.

Standing broad jump for boys: A. Williams, L. H., 7 feet 5 1-2 inches; Marshall, L. H., 6 feet 7 1-2 inches Sample, L. H., 6 feet 6 inches; Olgy Thamesville 6 feet 5 1-2 inches.

Running high jump: A. Williams L. H., 5 feet 10 inches; Johnson Thamesville 5 feet 9 inches; Sample, L. H.; Diachyshyn.

Shot—put, 8 lb. A. Williams L. H., 34 feet 7inches; Sample L. H., 27 feet 9inches; N. Grieco, L. H., 23 feet 11 inches; Johnson Thamesville 32 feet 10 inches.

Starters Coach Sullivan, Coach Hyman. Clerk of course John F. Murphy Totals Laurel Hill 105 Thamesville 15.

ST. LOUIS TAKES BOTH GAMES FROM YANKEES

St. Louis, July 31.—St. Louis took both games of a double header from the New York Yankees today. Ernie Wingard won his fourth victory of the season over the Yankees in the first game, holding New York to five hits with good support. Danforth pitched good ball in the second game, holding the Yankees to six hits. Babe Ruth drove out his 32d home run of the season in the sixth inning of the second game and his 14th for July, breaking his previous record for a single month. The score:

GRAND CIRCUIT OPENS MEET AT WINDSOR TRACK

Windsor, Ont., July 31.—More than 5,000 persons watched the opening program of the six-day Detroit blue ribbon club Grand Circuit meeting at weakened somewhat by withdrawals Devonshire track today. The card was for fear of rain, but all of the heats were characterized by speed on the home stretch. A high wind slowed down the time.

The feature of the opening day was the Detroit stake for 2:12 trotters, in which Tillie Brooke stood out as much the best. Voltage and Thompson Dillon staged a pretty race for second place, the latter winning out. Tillie Brooke did not have the race the third heat under the new three heat plan.

Hollywood Frisco won in straight heats. La Paloma took the first heat with Sparkle second, while the latter took the next two, to give La Paloma second place. Sparkle's victory gave Crosie the honor of being the day's double winner.

INDIANS SHARE HONORS WITH ATHLETICS IN DOUBLE

Cleveland, Ohio, July 31.—Cleveland and Philadelphia broke even today, Philadelphia winning the first 7 to 3, and Cleveland the second 4 to 3 in 10 innings. After Metevier was driven from the mound in four innings in the second game, Messenger, a right hand pitcher from the Saginaw club, held Philadelphia to four hits. In the seventh his double scored Lutske with the tying run, Cleveland winning in the tenth when Speaker's double sent Summa home. The scores:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

With runners on first and second a double steal is tried and the catcher throws to second base.

Where should second baseman take the throw in order to break up the double steal?

The second baseman should always take the throw a little in front of the bag, then he always has a possible chance of getting the runner going to second, and if the runner on third tries to score, he still has a possible chance of catching him. On a play of this kind, if the second baseman sees the runner on third start for home, he should run in and take the throw well in front of his base, as it makes it far easier for him to handle the man going home when he does this. It takes two very accurate throws to break up a double steal.

CHICAGO WINS CLOSE GAME FROM BOSTON

Chicago, July 31.—Timely hitting by Hervey McClellan who is substituting at second base for Captain Eddie Collins, coupled with a double steal by Sheely and Archdeacon, enabled Chicago to defeat Boston 5 to 4 today. Mangum pitched well until the sixth when he weakened and had to retire the next inning. Collins strained a muscle in his leg and will be out a few days.

AUSTRALIANS GET JUMP ON CHINA IN TENNIS

New York, July 31.—Australia defeated China in the first two singles matches of Davis cup play on the courts of the Crescent A. C. in Brooklyn today. Gerald Patterson won from W. Lock Wei, captain of the Chinese team, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, and Pat O'Hara Wood downed Paul Kong, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

The Australians outclassed their opponents in every department of play. In the first set Patterson scored 25 points to Wei's 7 and in the second the total was 27 to 14. In the Australian's favor. Wei sprang a surprise by out-vollying Patterson in the first game of the third set but his opponent soon recovered and captured four games in succession.

Wood took all six games from King in their first set and the first five in the second. He completely confounded the Chinese with his brilliant placing.

Seabright Tennis

Seabright, N. J., July 31.—Only Howard Kinsey stands between William M. Johnston and his fourth straight victory in the Seabright invitation invitation tennis tournament. Johnston reached the final here today at the expense of Nathanial W. Niles of Boston, whom he outplayed by a comfortable margin, 6-2, 6-4, while Kinsey advanced by decisively defeating Lucien E. Williams of Chicago, former intercollegiate champion, 6-4, 6-0.

FIRPO ESTABLISHES HIS CAMP AT SARATOGA BUT OTHER BOXERS LEAVE

White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., July 31.—Among the foothills of Saratoga far from the white lights of Broadway and the prying eyes of the curious, the training camp of Louis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, was pitched today. Despite a drizzling rain which drenched the surroundings, the South American took off his coat immediately upon his arrival and started the grind to condition himself for his test against Harry Wills, Negro heavyweight, at Boyle's thirty Acres, in Jersey City, September 11.

Directly in front of the White Sulphur Springs Hotel where Firpo is staying a regulation ring has been set up, surrounding seats giving the place an amphi-theatre effect. It is the same spot in which Jack Dempsey trained last summer for his match with Firpo.

Actual training will be started tomorrow in the shape of road work, rope-skipping, bag punching, rowing ang baseball. He intimated that it would be at least a week before he laces gloves on his hands.

BROWN GIVEN REFEREE'S DECISION OVER MARCEL

New Haven, July 31.—Chick Brown of New Haven was given the referee's decision over Young Marcel of Holyoke, Mass., in the star ten round bout at the Nutmeg stadium tonight. In the second star bout Georgie Day of New Haven knocked out Johnny Mason of Bridgeport in the third round of a ten round bout. Tony Travers of New Haven won on a technical knockout in the bout with Archie Senville of Newark, N. J. The bout was stopped in the fifth round. Laurie Rich of New Haven was given the referee's decision over Johnny Nelson of Stamford in a four round bout.

VELVETMEN TO PLAY DUWELLS ON SUNDAY

The second game of the J. B. Martin-Duwells series will be played on Sunday at the Martin diamond in Taftville. This will be the only real baseball attraction in Norwich for Sunday and should be a good game as both teams are evenly matched. The Velvetmen will use the following lineup: Morin p, Murphy c, J. Joubert 1b, Bob Cardie 2b, F. Gley 3b, DeCelles ss, W. Gley lf, Eddie Murphy cf, E. Joubert rf. The Duwells will use the same lineup as in previous games.

NEW LONDON CITY LEAGUE ENTERS HOME STRETCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 31.—The new month will usher in along with it an important City league contest which will be held at Morgan park tomorrow (Friday) evening. With the Fort Trumbull Stars and the Knights of Columbus nines, who will do the battling Fridys, tied for first place with 5 victories and tw odefeats each, the game will blossom into one of the most stubborn fought games in the history of the league.

Moosup to Play Here Saturday.

The American Woolen Co. team of Moosup will be the attraction at the Fairgrounds this Saturday when they cross bats with the fast local Woolmen. The Moosup team has been traveling at a fast pace this season and expects to give the locals a hard run. Manager Goulet has strengthened his team considerably and will bring such men as Freddie Sellars, who will play first; Brownell, second, Stevens, third; T. Bassett, shortstop, and Jouret, Young and Elsis will cover the outfield. Hill will do the twirling and F. Bassette will do the backstop work. This is the aggregation that has been cleaning up through their section of the state.

Although the locals have lost their last two games, they are nowhere near giving up confidence in themselves, as they have given a very good account of themselves and have pushed their opponents to the limit.

The locals will line up the same as usual with Hewitt on first, Morin, who is considered the best second baseman around this section, barring none, will cover the keystone sack; Shiffington will handle the dizzy corner, while Morawski will take care of shortstop. Either Berry, Coubois, McGowan or Hollander will cover the outfield.

Manager Hammill is undecided as to who will do mound duty for the locals but it is expected his pick will be either Tenant or Tooland. Both these boys are newcomers and come with a large reputation. In their workout they have shown a world of speed and sharp shooting curves. Hammill will be on hand to handle the fast shoots. Umpire O'Brien will call play at 3.15, D. S. T. On Sunday the locals will travel to Groton to play the fast Pioneer team. Fuller will do the mound duty, with Hammill receiving.

Junior League Meeting.

The Junior league under the supervision of the playgrounds commission held a meeting in the commissioners' office in the courthouse Thursday evening and a schedule of games was arranged as well as a set of rules to govern the league. The league was divided into two sections, to be known as the American and National leagues. Each league will have four teams in it and a miniature world series will be played at the end to decide who shall be the owner of the silver cup which has been donated as a prize to the victorious team.

Those present were Jackson and Laberski, representing the Valiants; MacLaren, manager, and Winters, captain of the Walnuts; Welsh, manager of the Tigers; Del Monte and Swatzberg for the Nutmegs, and Rutchik for the Arrows.

E. Brigham, Academy coach and playground supervisor, was in charge of the meeting and at its close was unanimously elected president of the league.

Another Invasion of Fitchville.

Information has been disseminated recently that a certain Mr. Sweeney, a former resident of Fitchville and a recent addition to the ranks of the benedicts, has made a solemn vow to take a team of all-stars to "O Fitchville, my village.

Fair town beside the lake.
Where the women are prepossessing
And the men quite wide awake!"

for the express purpose of vanquishnig the best ball nine the community can boast of in the past decade.

W. McManus, who controls the destiny of the players of that attractive spot, views with no inconsiderable apprehension the plans that are being made for the downfall of his proteges, but when he reviews their record his fears abate slightly.

From Taftville, Montville, Yantic, Norwich or any town of eastern Connecticut the optimistic and courageous Mr. Sweeney expects to recruit an aggregation that will give Fitchville its second fall in as many seasons.

Large will be the gathering of fans from this section of New England who will journey to the Quilt Town on Sunday afternoon to see the "All Stars" in action.

LEWIS LEADS FIELD IN QUALIFYING ROUND

Greenwich, Conn., July 31.—Reginald Lewis, of the home club won the medal in the qualifying round of the invitation tournament at the Greenwich country club today. His eighteen hole score of 71 being a stroke better than that of Maurice J. McCarthy, Jr., of former national amateur champion. Woodway Conn., and Jess Sweetser Sweetser, because of an exhibition match scheduled with Max Marston against Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood at Philadelphia on Saturday, will be unable to continue in the tournament.

JACK MALONE JUMPS OFF THE CHARLESTOWN BRIDGE

Boston, July 31.—Jack Malone, Middleweight boxer of St. Paul, Minn., jumped from the Charlestown bridge with his clothes on today, making good a promise that if he did not beat Frank Moody, and English fighter, he would jump into the harbor. Because he had postponed his plunge and meantime was defeated also by Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, Malone swam and clambered back to the bridge and did it all over again, while a crowd looked on, holding up bridge traffic.

NEW LONDON-EAST LYME BUS DRIVER FREED IN THE WATERFORD COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 31.—John W. Tinker, Salvation Army soldier, was charged in the police court this morning with an indecent assault upon a little girl about 7 years old, who is visiting in this city and whose home is in New Jersey, when he went to the residence of Mrs. Esther McClellan on Jay street to solicit for the army's support. Tinker is married, has a wife and baby and expects another child at any time. Mrs. McClellan accused him most positively, though the act of which Tinker was accused was not of as serious a nature as "indecent assault" would seem to indicate. He is charged with having taken liberties with the undergarments of the child, Patricia Greenwood and to have held her in a hallway at her home after he drove her male playmates away. Mrs. McClellan told the court that she called to Tinker when she was informed as to what he was doing, that he ran away and was later seen by her hiding behind a tree and watching for developments. They came immediately for the husband of Mrs. McClellan arrived home in a few minutes and being told what had occurred he set out for Tinker in an automobile and came upon him only a couple of blocks away. Tinker was ordered into the automobile and was started for the police station when Policeman Wells happened along and placed the accused man under arrest. Tinker admitted that he fondled the child that he was attracted to her and that she gave her a penny and kissed her but he denied that he ran away or that he did anything wrong. He said he did not place his hands under the child's clothing, as alleged, denied that he had any intention of doing aught that could be termed an assault and said that he was quite as innocent as any person could be.

Captain Wilbur in command of the Salvation Army at Norwich, was called here and testified in court as to the unblemished character of Tinker, whom he had known for some dozen years. Other members of the Salvation Army, including four women, were present, but on the assumption that they would agree with Commander Wilbur as to reputation they were not asked to testify.

Probable cause was found for holding Tinker for trial before the September term of the superior court and he was ordered to furnish a bond of $500 which he did. His mother made a scene in the court at the conclusion of the hearing as she was under the impression that her son was to go to jail to stay in confinement till Sept. 3d.

George La Brizzi was charged in the police court today with maintaining a place in the Lawrence Shea building on Bank street where liquor is sold contrary to law. La Brizzi made himself in court by the statements his supposed friends made when they were accused of the same offense of which La Brizzi is now accused. Agents of the state's attorney's office charged some weeks ago that they bought booze from Dave Palitz, known as Knockout Palitz to followers of pugilism. Palitz and a fellow known as "Plymp" were prosecuted and while the latter was fined and paid, Palitz was held for trial in the superior court. There was testimony from Palitz and others then that La Brizzi was a co-tenant with Palitz and "Plymp" in hiring the room and stocking it with whatever was found there. On that testimony La Brizzi is to be prosecuted and the state agents will appear and say whether they bought liquor from him. An original complaint alleging actual sale and charging that the place was reputed to be a place where liquor was sold, was nolled today.

An automobile, the identity of the owner of which was not determined, was in collision last night with a machine owned by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, 27 Broad street, while the clergyman's car was parked in front of his house. Both cars were damaged. One of the occupants of the colliding car was thrown out and landed with such force upon the pavements that he was rendered unconscious. He was quickly placed in the colliding car and was driven away before witnesses of the collision were able to ascertain the registration of the machine. When the police arrived no one could be found who could give any information regarding the accident.

Chief of Police Nicis J. Tennesen, of Perth Amboy, N. J., today informed the New London police that Reginald Tulley, 24, ship-keeper on the two-masted schooner Madeline D., had been drowned Tuesday night while the schooner was moored at a pier. The body was recovered Tuesday night and Chief Tonnesen stated that relatives of the man resided in New London. Sergeant Frank Howard ascertained that a sister of Tulley, Miss Margaret Tulley was employed at a State street dry-goods store and notified her of her brother's death. Another sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson and a brother, Raymond Tulley, reside at 479 Ocean avenue. Tulley's mother is a resident of Cheverie, Hants county, Nova Scotia. Whether Tulley was forced overboard from the deck of the schooner or whether he fell from the pier is not known.

Thieves burglarized the Atlantic restaurant, 346 Bank street, last night, for when the place was opened for business this morning it was discovered that the restaurant had been entered as the interior of the place was greatly disturbed. The plunder obtained included a Corona typewriter, valued at $55, and about a hundred pennies. A desk was pried open, but nothing of value was found in it. Sergeant Frank Howard's investigation showed that entrance was gained by a thin wire screen having been removed from a rear window, which was open.

The break is believed to be the work of one or more youths who are unemployed and who loiter about the streets the greater part of the night. One youth was taken into custody, suspected of being the thief, but he was released as there was no evidence to indicate that the young man had been implicatd in the robbery.

The automobile owned by George Dayton, of Waterford, and a machine, owned and operated by Joseph Lyons, Montauk avenue, were in collision this morning at the corner of Bentley avenue and Midway place, Ocean Beach. Both cars were damaged.

Joseph Cessaire, 97 Barber street, Hartford, was before Justice of the Peace Marion R. Davis, in the East Lyme town court last night, charged with reckless driving. He was fined $25 and costs, the latter amounting to $16.82. Cessairo paid. Cessairo was operating his automobile on Saw Mill road, Niantic, Wednesday and when the machine overtook State Police Officers Fred Caron and Stephen Stanton, of the Groton barracks, the car was operated so close to the runabout care driven by the officers that the latter machines were forced off the highway and a serious accident was narrowly averted. Cessairo was taken into custody by Officer Caron.

Cyrus Lapiz, of East Lyme, was presented on the more serious charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Justice Davis imposed a fine of $100 and costs, the latter amounting to $22.50. The accused paid. Lapiz was operating his car on the highway [illegible] from Niantic to Flanders Monday night. In attempting to pass two cyclists, Lapiz's car struck the cycles, causing both operators to be thrown and sustain bruises. Lapiz was taken into custody by State Policeman Fred Caron, who caused Lapiz to be examined by Dr. F. W. Dart, who declared that the accused had been drinking. Lapiz admitted in court that he had imbibed in a house on North Bank street, New London, earlier in the day, but insisted that he had only had "a couple of drinks."

Mrs. Dufferine Polkey, of Pennsylvania, Robert Moore, Niantic, Howard Main, Clark's Falls, Miss Ida Berardenelli, Westerly, Edward J. Gardner, 302 Willets avenue and Mrs. Frank Slickenger, Garfield avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Connecticut College today acquired a valuable piece of real estate. The college trustees contemplate utilizing the property for the [illegible] of the institution, either by the erection of dormitories on the site or using the grounds for recreative or athletic purposes. The property was acquired of Frank W. Woodworth and Grace Calvert Woodworth and consists of a large dwelling and several acres of land on the east side of Williams street, just north of Mohegan avenue and adjoins other property of the college. The price paid was $40,000.

Patrolman George Laboue, who has been confined to his home on Jefferson avenue several weeks and who was operated upon at a local private hospital, will resume his duties tomorrow. Patrolman Laboue sustained his injury when the motorcycle he was riding was struck by an automobile on Bank street, the officer being thrown to the pavement.

Jacob Pine, 18 Mountain avenue, this afternoon reported to the police that his Essex touring car, which he had parked near his home, was stolen during the night. While the police were making a search for the car, Pine reported that he had recovered the machine.

Stanton Haines, a 'bus driver operating a line to and from East Lyme, was before Justice Morton in Waterford this evening charged with operating a bus with defective brakes. Stanton didn't think he was guilty and his father, Thomas Haines, a former representative in the legislature from Old Lyme, didn't think so, either; so both decided to contest the case, the father acting as counsel for his son. The complaint was brought on the representation of George Kane, of 6134 Walnut street, Philadelphia, who, with his wife and sister had been touring the country and camping along the route. There were others in the party—a couple of auto-loads. Daniel M. Cronin represented the Philadelphians. Haines declared that he had the bus inspected by Walter Benedict, a mechanic of seventeen years' experience yesterday, at Flanders, and the machine was pronounced all right by him and ready for use, the brakes being in good condition. His claim was that the roads were so rough and so filled with gullies and holes that passage over the roads worked the bolts loose. The bus was later taken to a station in New London, on Bank street where it was looked over for defects by Messrs. Pincus and another mechanic and by them it was declared to be in good condition with proper brakes. It developed later that the brakes on the bus did not hold and a mishap followed. It was shown that the bus had the equipment of an emergency brake and was in a condition of repair that would warrant its use for the conveyance of passengers. Justice Morton, after hearing the testimony at length, declared the accused not guilty as alleged. He said in rendering his finding that it did not appear to him to be necessary for the bus management to carry a mechanic while it was in use and that if the state highway department did not take care of its roads to keep ruts and holes out of it, so that it would not have a one-way highway of the roads the operators of vehicles should not be held responsible for the working loose of bolts.

The fire insurance companies that carried risks upon the building in which the Bellevue hotel and restaurant was located when fire broke out there and did some $10,000 of damage; Tuesday morning, have not yet settled with the parties owning the hotel and those occupying the stores. The damage to the hotel and restaurant was very large for it was there that the fire raged. The damage to the stores below the hotel and restaurant was from water and will not be large, though that has put the stores out of business temporarily. Mr. Esposito intends to re-establish his business at the Bellevue as soon as the insurance is adjusted if he gets the money with which to make the repairs and equip the place as it was prior to the fire.

Harry H. Holmes, administrator of the estate of his father, George H. Holmes, has sold a house and lot on Crystal avenue to Angelo and Ursilla Scaletti.

As a result of a slight automobile accident on Thames street, Groton, last night between cars owned and operated by William L. Nagle, 44 Washington street, this city, and Antonio Mamone, Groton, both drivers were ordered to appear in the Groton town court next Monday forenoon and answer a charge of reckless driving.

Frederick Connors, of Williams street, Central Vermont railroad freight brakeman, who suffered the loss of a part of one leg by being run over by a locomotive at Columbia junction several days ago, will probably lose the foot of the other leg for the surgeon at the Willimantic hospital, where Connors is under treatment, has practically given up hope of having the member, which was terribly crushed.

The former Groton Iron Works buildings were threatened with destruction late yesterday when a fire was discovered in one of the larger structures, the discovery being made by a passing motorist, William MacGuire, who has charge of the property, caused the fire hose which was installed there with the erection of the plant, to be brought into use and by deluging the blaze which was located beneath the floor of the structure, quickly extinguished it.

Dr. L. M. Allyn, of Mystic, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, returned to his home today.

A mammoth meeting of members of the Ku Klux Klan in Eastern Connecticut was held in Waterford last evening, the session having taken place in a field on the farm of George Peabody, a well known farmer. The meeting was attended by 500 or more members of the Klan, most of them attired in the Klan regalia of hood and cloak. The attendants included members from New London, Norwich, Westerly, Mystic and Groton. During the progress of the meeting Sergeant Patrick Murphy of the New London police force, who was off duty and who was riding through the country, observed the crowd in the field and went among them. His presence was not desired and was so distasteful to some of the members that today a complaint was lodged with City Manager William A. Holt of the officer forcing his presence in the midst of the hooded gang. No action on the complaint will be taken as the officer was off duty and was not responsible to city officials at the time of the meeting.

Miss Jane Riley, assistant superintendent at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, has resumed her duties, having spent a week with relatives and friends in Holyoke, Mass., and New Haven.

Mrs. George Batting, 270 Crystal avenue, who has been ill at her home a fortnight, is reported as being considerably improved.

Frank Carmody is visiting his brother, William Carmody, in Yonkers, N. Y.

Capt. Peter Cullen, of the detective bureau of the Holyoke, Mass., police department, and Mrs. Cullen have returned home having spent a fortnight at Ocean Beach.

BLACK HILL

Mr. Roger C. Brown of New Haven is spending a week with his parents.

Horace G. Brown and family of Worcester are visiting Mr. Brown's brother, H. Beecher Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moore of Riverport, R. I., visited Willard Cornell Sunday.

Misses Abbie and Myrtle Medbury were in Putnam Tuesday.

Everett E. Brown has been attending Farmers' week at Connecticut Agricultural College.

OWNER OF SUGAR BROOK FARM GRACEFUL TO COMMUNITY

At the conclusion of the very successful party at Sugar Brook farm, the generous owner, Norman White of Brookline, Mass., spoke informally as follows:

Friends: On behalf of the committee in charge I want to thank each and every one of you for being here and for your kindly interest. I also want to express the thanks of the committee in charge of the church organ fund to the numerous persons in this community and surrounding communities who have so generously offered and given their assistance, for without them it would have been entirely impossible to have arranged any such undertaking as this. It has been a splendid affair for the community inasmuch as it has shown the true American spirit. It means more than a church organ—it means a universal brotherhood—cooperation. We have been most generously assisted by men and women of all religious faiths, creeds, nationalities and color, black or white, Catholic or Protestant, Jew or Gentile, thereby showing the true American spirit. This being the case I heartily suggest that the audience rise and sing one verse of "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. Lyman Eisener of the state road, is a patient at Backus hospital, Norwich, for a serious ailment. Mrs. Eisener is expected to remain there for at least two weeks.

Mrs. Rudolph Swanson and son Richard are spending a few days with friends at Crescent Beach.

Plainfield was favored with a short rain storm, Thursday afternoon and evening. It could not rain enough for the farmers and gardeners who have been eagerly waiting for it for the past two weeks. Nearly all the lawns of the village have turned from green to yellow, spoiling the appearance of many homes.

St. John's council, K. of C., is planning having a carnival. A committee has been appointed and arrangements are well on the way for the affair.

The mercury hit its highest mark the past two days for the summer so far. Many reported that it was 105 degrees in the sun. Wednesday and Thusday it went up to 107 degrees.

A few years ago the business men of this town met in a group and decided to close Thursday afternoon the entire year overruling the custom of closing only during the summer months. Since that conference various stores have been opened in town. Although they were not notified about the agreement still they knew that they were expected to carry out the desires of the majority. It is well understood that this is not a law but a custom.

At this same meeting the barbers of the town agreed to close Mondays as well as Thursdays. There are three barbers in town, and only one stands by the agreement of the business men. There are some who go still further than this and remain open on the Sabbath.

The council of business men is powerless to do anything to remedy this case so it is up to the people of the town to decide whether "unfair" competition shall continue or be discouraged.

Various complaints have been made regarding the poor crossing planks over the N. Y., N. H. & H railroad tracks in Plainfield.

It is claimed that the railroad should place a man on the Providence division crossing during the day and put warning signals during the night. Although there have been a few casualties at that crossing, the railroad has done practically nothing to prevent similar accidents. Recently they have placed lights (hardly visible beyond 20 feet) on danger posts. It is safe enough for anybody who knows that the crossing is there; but a stranger could go over the tracks and not know that he was near a crossing. At that spot the railroad is invisible on the Packer side and warning signals such as are at French's crossing, should be demanded of the railroad.

ANCIENT EYEGLASSES

Archaeologists excavating on the site of ancient Carthage have found, among other things, a pair of spectacles of the third century, B. C., and in a Punic tomb a terra cotta figurine of an organ, pots of rouge and face powder, bronze razors and milk bottles.

FIRE ALARM TAMPERED WITH AS K. K. CROSSES BURN

(Special to The Bulletin)

Jewett City, July 31.—Jewett City was thrown into a fervor of excitement at 10 o'clock Thursday evening when a great fiery cross ten feet high appeared on Taylor hill. Great crowds on foot and an automobile seeing the glare in the sky hurried to the place. No one was seen and there was no demonstration. No sooner had this burned down when another appeared on a Lisbon hill. A fire alarm was telephone to the operator at the Central station, from telephone 94, which is the railroad station, demanding that the whistle be blown for a fire on Ashland street. The operator tried to sound the alarm which worked perfectly at 9 o'clock but the mechanism failed to work. Chief Wakely was called up and turned out with his men and truck. After the excitement was over Wakely ordered the alarm to be tested and it worked perfectly. Whoever turned in the alarm from the booth at the railroad station refused to give his name. Miss Sharkey, last trick operator for the railroad, saw no one use the telephone. Edmond Jodoin chairman of the borough fire commission, was notified that the fire alarm system had been tampered with. From the cross on Taylor hill a flag and phacard bearing the K. K. K. slogan was removed and taken to the police station.

SUN AS POWER SOURCE

In a recent paper on this subject C. Le Roy Meisinger records that in certain subtropical regions, where coal is scarce, such as Egypt, the Punjab, and the Karoo of South Africa, teakwood boxes with glass tops and blackened within and properly insulated, have been found to register from 240 to 275 degrees Fahrenheit in the middle of the days, and with the addition of an auxiliary mirror, to reach even 320 degrees. These boxes are used as ovens for cooking, as well as for many other purposes.

Some men make more noise in doing a day's work than others make in a lifetime.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS BUOYANT

New York, July 31.—Stock prices moved upward in impressive fashion today under the leadership of United States Steel common, which closed 2 1-4 points higher at 10 77-8. More than a score issues established new high prices for the year, the day's transactions exceeding a million shares for the 13th consecutive full session.

Strength of United States Steel, which was taken in large blocks at advancing prices, brought about sympathetic buying of other standard industrials. Baldwin closed two points higher at 121 3-4. American Can showed a net gain of 1 1-8 at 125 5-8 after having crossed 126, and Studebaker closed approximately a point higher at 33 3-4.

Chief speculative interest in the railroad group centered in the so-called Van Sweringen stocks, buying of which was stimulated by reports that an early announcement of consolidation plans might be expected. Pere Marquette was run up more than four points to the new peak price of 106 3-4. Erie common and first preferred closed more than a point higher.

Revival of activity in the motors was predicated on reports of increased sales. Studebaker, Jordan and Pierce Arrow common and prior preferred selling at their best prices of the year while Chandler, Mack Truck, and some of the accessory issues reported substantial gains.

Bullish demonstrations continued in the merchandising issues. Associated Dry Goods standing out with an extreme gain of more than 5 points at 109 3-4.

American Water Works common was run up more than two points to a new peak price of 117 3-4 on reports that interests identified with the General Electric company had obtained control of the property, but it broke later to 113 1-2 on the denial of these rumors. West Penn Power, a subsidiary, closed 2 3-8 lower at 87 1-8 after having sold as high as 91. American Sugar Refining was heavy following the announcement that the company had sold 105,954 shares of Great Western Sugar stocks, but it rallied late and closed 3-8 higher at 47 3-8.

Oil shares held steady in the face of reports of another increase in crude production, most offerings being of a fractional character.

Some of the outstanding strong spots were Du Pont, General Electric, National Lead, Utah Copper, American Snuff, American Tobacco, Consolidated Cigar, Columbia Carbon, International Paper, Mackay Companies, Remington Typewriter and United Fruit, the gains ranging from 2 to nearly 9 points.

Call money again ruled at 2 per cent. Time money market eased slightly with loans up to 5 and 6 months being available at 2 1-4 per cent. Commercial Paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates stiffened on reports that the French proposal for a settlement of the reparations question probably would be accepted with a few alterations. Demand sterling ruled around $4.40 and French francs held around 5 cents. Brazilian exchange was heavy.

BOND MARKET

New York, July 31.—Called upon to absorb additional profit-taking, the bond market today displayed further irregularity although trading was on an active scale. The selling movement demonstrated the market's underlying strength, however, with recessions held within narrow limits and prices showing marked rallying tendencies after offerings had been absorbed.

With conferences under way looking to consolidation of the Erie with the "Nickel Plate" bonds of the Erie railroad proved especially popular. The prior lien and the General 4's both moved up more than a point and large blocks of the convertible issues were turned over.

Strength and activity of Baltimore and Ohio liens was linked with reports that preparations were under way for selling another $35,000,000 refunding issue. The bonds, it is expected, will bear 5 per cent. interest and be issued under the southwestern division mortgage.

Bond houses specializing in U. S. government bonds expect the treasury to sell about $350,000,000 two per cent. six months notes in September to retire an equal amount of 3 year notes maturing on that date.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, July 31.—Black rust news, together with indications of liberal export business, gave a sudden hoist to the wheat market today. On the bulge in prices, however, selling enlarged, and brought about a material reaction. Wheat closing quotations were unsettled, 3-4c to 2c net higher, September 1.32 5-8 to 1.32 3-4 and December 1.35 7-8 to 1.36. Corn finished at 3-4c lower to 1.8-8c advance, oats at 2 5-8c off to 1-8c gain, and provisions unchanged to 45c higher.

Buying of wheat quickly assumed broad proportions when shortly after the opening it was asserted that black rust in the final stages had appeared in Canadian wheat fields.

Northwest houses were especially heavy buyers, and so too were houses with Atlantic Seaboard connections. The Seaboard buying led to estimates that as much as 3,000,000 bushels had been taken for export, but no where near that amount was confirmed. Aside from the black rust news and the export demand, dry weather complaints from Argentina were also subject of notice. On the other hand, holders efforts to realize profits were the salient features at the last.

Although corn made a temporary response to wheat strength, and notwithstanding that July corn touched a new high price record for the season, the corn market averaged lower, influenced largely by a big downturn in hog values. Besides, continued assertions of crop improvement were made. Month-end adjustment of accounts made the oats market erratic.

Provisions fell, owing to sympathy with the hog market, but afterwards rallied as a result of enlarged buying.

CURB MARKET

New York, July 31.—Erratic fluctuations of the radio stocks featured today's curb market. Dubilier Radio opened 3 1-2 points lower at 44, advanced to 46, broke to 39 3-4 and again rallied to 44. Hazeltine closed nearly 3 points lower at 25 and Ware showed a net loss of more than a point at 19 1-2 after having sold as high as 21 5-8 and as low as 17.

Oils were mixed with most of the active issues showing little or no change on the day. Gains of 1 to 4 points by Cities Service, Imperial, Magnolia Petroleum and Standard Oils of Nebraska and Ohio being counteracted by losses of a point or more in Penn-Mex. and Swan and Finch.

Motor shares improved in sympathy with the advance of those issues on the "big board." Cleveland Motors closing 3 1-2 points higher at 20 and General Motors (new stock) climbing 2 points to 58, and then easing to 57 1-2.

American Light and Traction broke from 127 to 126 and then rallied 1 1-2 points from low. Lehigh Power and some of the other public utilities also were heavy.

NO COMMUNIBLE DISEASES REPORTED FROM NORWICH

No communicable diseases were reported last week to the state department of health from Norwich, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the department. Communicable diseases reported from other towns in eastern Connecticut for the week were as follows:

Diphtheria—Griswold, Lebanon and New London, one each.

Scarlet fever—New London 1.

Measles—Pomfret 2.

Whooping cough—New London 2, Somers 2.

Time locks are on sale at all hair stores.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

Mosquito Bites

Apart from spoiling an otherwise enjoyable vacation often infect the blood. Itching and all fear of blood-poisoning ceases if MOONE'S EMERALD OIL is applied. To prevent the bites, spread a few drops over the exposed parts.

One woman started it then 50 tried it

Now this NEW luncheon recipe is going over the whole country, most amazingly

IT'S one of those "different things"—simple yet unusual—that every now and then becomes a vogue over night; a new, quick-cooked luncheon, with an oddly refreshing appeal. A woman sent us the recipe. Then, we asked 50 others to try it—and that is how it started. You may like it, too. Clip this from the paper and try it.

Ingredients: 2 cups QUICK QUAKER, 4 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 level tablespoons cocoa and 4 of sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Bring water to a boil. Add cocoa and sugar mixed to a paste with boiling water; then slowly stir in the oats. Cook 3 to 5 minutes. Add vanilla. Serve hot or cold with cream. Wonderful chilled, moulded and served in slices.

CAMP TIPPECAN HAS 38 OFFICIALS AND SCOUTS

This season 38 officials and boy scouts are registered at Camp Tippecan, the boy scout camp. The fourth week brought the largest enrollment of the summer. Construction work started by Guide ordan on the log cabin has been rapidly progressing the past week and the side walls of the cabin are now in place. Work on the roof and chimney will be started next.

An additional fund will be needed to complete construction or a stone mason and a carpenter's services are necessary. The original timbers of the old farm house have been preserved. Much of th elarge seven foot square chimney including its fire place is intact and the cabin will make an excellent camp for week ends and winter camping when completed. This week hikes, camp fires, athletics, baseball and volley ball, swimming, bow making, etc., have been on the programme. There is also boating and fishing. Walter Herding of Troop No. 9, Norwich, caught the record bass of this season. Its weight was 3 3-4 pounds. Three scouts have been advanced to first class scouts—Lester Pingreem, William Stebbins, and Ted Harland to second class, Ted Harland and Walter Wheaton; tenderfoot, Orpin Talbot.

A minstrel show is being planned for the last camp fire. Scout Executive F. A. Benton and Rev. F. C. Williams have entertained the boys by reading and relating Indian and ghost stories.

The scouts at the camp for the fourth week are:

Troop 1: Lee Talbot, Fred Fox, Arnaud LaPierre, Albert Rodgers, Alfred Haring.

Troop 3: Victor Davis, W. Davis, V. Davis, Jr., Ronald Smith, Jack Thornton, Laughlin Thornton, Lester Pingree, John Wood, Joseph Smith, Robert Schmidt.

Troop 9:—Walter Herding.

Troop 12: Harold Disco, Austin Covey.

Troop 7: David Tiger, Saul Sussman, Sidney Thune.

North Stonington, Troop No. 1: Anton Johnson.

NORWICH SHOWS INCREASE OF 666 IN POPULATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, July 31. — Norwich, Conn., has shown an increase in population of 666 persons in the last four years, according to statistics compiled by the bureau of census. On January 1, 1920, the estimated population of that city was 22,304, exclusive of the town of Norwich. In 1923 it had increased to approximately 22,822, and the latest figures, those for July 1, 1924, indicate that there are 22,970 persons living there at the present time.

During these four years the population of the entire country has increased at the rate of about 1,415,109 persons annually, making a total increase of 7,075,545. It is estimated that there are now 113,493,720 persons living in the United States as compared with 106,418,165 on January 1, 1920.

Connecticut has shown an increase in population since 1920 of approximately 136,930 persons, this increase having taken place at the rate of about 27,387 annually. In 1920 there were 1,394,324 persons living in the state. The figures furnished as of July 1, 1924, show a population of 1,531,256.

PREMATURE OLD AGE OF WOMEN

It is no secret that so many women suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex. Dark circles appear under the eyes, a pale, drawn, haggard expression to the countenance, and the weakness which accompanies such ailments is evidenced by the lagging step, headaches, backache and nervous conditions. Every woman who is afflicted in this way should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for half a century has been overcoming some of the most stubborn ailments of women.

TIME FOR ALL TO KEEP THEIR HEADS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

In the course of several drives about this town neighborhood last week I noticed that a considerable proportion of the brown meadows which I passed showed that their owners had attempted during the "scatterings."

That is something which has not been unusual with thrifty farmers. In this vicinity, at least. But I haven't heard to ask anybody for his reasons to understand them.

We won't rehash up those scatterings nor the simple economic reason that it doesn't pay longer nowadays.

We couldn't possible sell all the scatterings for, even if we were fools enough to pay the wages of the man making them, and

When wages rise to such an abnormal height and prices of farm-produce fall to such an abnormal lowness that the produce won't fetch in market what it costs to harvest it, the case shows not only that there's something rotten in the state of Denmark, but that the underpinnings are giving way.

One doesn't need to be an architect or a builder to know that, when the foundations fail, the superstructure falters. One doesn't need to be a political economist to know that, when the cost of production rises above the profits of production, production will cease.

My neighbors, by taking advantage of all the labor-saving devices within their reach, think they can still sell the windrowed hay for enough to pay cost of cutting, drying and selling. But they can't sell the thin "scatterings" for enough to pay the cost of re-raking the ground, wages being what they are.

Yet the difference between raking those "scatterings" and leaving them is the exact difference between thrifty and unthrifty farming.

My neighbors know this just as well as you and I do. I'd be willing to bet a good doughnut against a bad cigar that most of them shut their eyes or turn them the other way when passing those fatuity meadows, brown and razed with wind-blown wisps of abandoned hay. It hurts them. It simply must hurt them, if they are good farmers as most of them are.

But—What are they going to do about it? Farming is a business, not an exercise in esthetics. It must at least pay its way. If it doesn't as much as that it's too poor a business for any to follow. In fact, none but those lots of expensive bank accounts could linger for long a business whose income was less than its outgo.

People who have made lot of money and who want to, "blow it in" on a "country estate," can afford to have their meadows shaven like lawns and raked scrupulously clean. Such folks don't care whether it costs them a loss or gives them a profit. But the working farmer can't sacrifice value for looks. He simply can't pay out more than he takes in, for the obvious reason that he hasn't any big reserve of capital behind him from which to draw. Sooner or later he touches the bottom of his own small reserve. When that moment comes he must stop farming, because there is nothing to draw from.

He must get his money from his products before he can spend it, even for wages to the hired men. And when the wages demanded by those hired men climb to such sky-scraping altitudes that it costs him $2 to rake up $1 worth of "scatterings," why then the "scatterings" are left unraked.

That's all there is to it, in the way of explanation. If the present monstrous costliness and wages continue to soar and hay prices to fall, next fall Mr. Farmer will have to leave the hay uncut, all over the meadows, as well as the "scatterings" unraked.

One thing is about as certain as tomorrow's sunrise. That is,—either the cost of farm labor must fall to not over half its present rate, or the prices of farm products, including not only hay but potatoes and wheat and barley and corn and cabbages and cucumbers and all the other varied products of agriculture must be lifted to at least double their present height.

Whichever is done, somebody is going to be hurt in the process, and is going to make a big howl about it.

It's a simply wonderful time for the conscienceless demagogue to exploit popular discontent for his own gain or glory. For some time back he has been laying his weight on the farmers. They're having the hot end of the poker stuck into them and are sore. They're presumably ready to follow any quack or charlatan who gets up on a stump, calls himself a "radical" or a "progressive," and bawls vociferously that he is the Moses sent to lead them out of the desert into lands flowing with milk and honey,—and manna every morning for breakfast.

Ninety-eight times out of a hundred these "radicals" are simply shrewd hypocrites who foresee in any popular upheaval they may help to bring about opportunities for fat pickings for themselves. The ninty-ninth and hundredth times they are swellheaded ignoramuses, empty of all reason, puffed up with groundless self-conceit, and having no other capacity for leadership than that conferred by leather lungs and brazen throats and bellowing voices.

These demagogues have for some time past been carrying everything before them in certain portions of the west. Just at present, for wheat failings in certain European and Canadian districts have combined to start the price of wheat upwards. Some of our metropolitan contemporaries are already telling how many millions the west farms have made in a week by the price movement, and are radiating congratulations as if a big victory was already won.

There's such a thing as being too previous. While we all hope that wheat will continue to go up and up till it enables the western farmers not only to make up their losses of the past few years but to salt down some profit, also, it isn't wise to discount the future too recklessly. There are other things, farm-produced and essential to life, besides wheat. There are other farmers than wheat-growers,—potato farmers and dairy farmers and vegetable farmers and fruit farmers, etc. They too, must share in the rise of prices before prosperity can be assured to agricultural industry.

Moreover, that all round rise in the prices of farm products must fully and fairly equal the tremendous advance in the cost of labor.

Either that, or the cost of labor must come down. The demagogues who are leading labor grow purple-faced in their well simulated indignation over any suggestion along that latter line.

Yet, when your scales are unbalanced and one side is up in the air with the other down, in the mud, how are you going to balance them, except by either taking off weight from the heavy pan or adding weight to the light pan? Only utterly contemptible demagogues will pretend that any sort of fair weight can be given till the scales balance. Only equally contmptible greedy-guts will demand that they remain unbalanced because of the advantage such lack of balance gives said g. g.'s.

As a matter of fact, that last is, nevertheless, exactly what the self-styled "radicals" on both sides are demanding for their respective hordes.

The prawlers who have assumed leadership in certain western farm states don't want fair play and just weight. They want the scales loaded on their end, so that they will get the meat and the pudding and the pie, leaving the bones and crusts to the rest of us. And the goofers or "crackpots" who have arrogated to themselves leadership of so-called "labor" want the scales loaded on that side, so that "labor" will get the meat and the pudding and the pie, again leaving the rest of us to gnaw bones and crunch crusts.

Personally I won't allow myself to believe that the majority or even any considerable number of my fellow farmers want unfair or undue preference. Nor will I allow myself to believe that my real majority of wage-workers want unfair and undue preference. I stubbornly hold to the belief that a vast majority, on both sides, want a fair deal and an equal chance,—no more and no less.

The fundamental difficulty in the way of securing that result lies in the apparent inability of the average man to even look at things from the other fellow's standpoint. "Put yourself in his place." It's a rather difficult thing to do, considering the inherent and hereditarily enlarged selfishness of human nature. Very few of us can do it without perceptible effort. But we've simply got to, all of us, on both sides, if this world is ever going to be made a better place to live in.

One first step, which all but morons can take, is to refuse to follow a single inch behind any seditious demagogue whose lack of conscience and surplus of jugg-power combine to give him a seeming temporary leadership, whether it be in a farm "bloc" or a labor union.

The morasses are full of will-o'-the-wisps, false lights hovering over slime-pits. That's no reason why intelligent and thinking men should chase them—or even follow fools in their pursuit.

Humanity is always "facing a crisis." It has been for nobody knows how many thousand years and, perhaps, will keep on doing so for many more to come. But being up against a crisis is the poorest reason in the world for getting excited. It's the very time when prompt but cool thinking is most imperatively called for.

It's the very worst time of all to pay even the slightest heed to the rantings of false prophets or the counsels of fear or the promptings of greed.

What can you and I, lonesome farmers on little isolated farmsteads among the hills, do about it? Why, good heavens, we can keep our heads. That's a job that is imposed on us, not only from without but from within. In the old Homeric story Ulysses had the very devil of a time avoiding the Sirens and scraping through between Scylla and Charybdis. He managed it by keeping his eyes open, his ears stunt, and his head clear.

The farmer who uses reason as lookout on his prow and conscience as steersman at his helm, will not be likely to sail after will-o'-the-wisps to destruction, nor to stay stuck in the mud in harbor.

"This above all, to thine own self be true;
Thou canst not then be false to any man!"

THE FARMER.

LEDYARD

Mr. and Mrs. Ray D. Holdredge of Norwich were Sunday guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Holdridge.

Rev. G. F. Goodenough conducted a Christian Endeavor meeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Billings T. Avery Sunday evening.

Native sweet corn has been carried into Norwich market by local growers. The price received was 60c per dozen.

Local growers are also picking native tomatoes which are bringing good prices. The long continued drouth has caused much loss to crops.

The Connecticut state grange traveling gavel will be presented Ledyard grange this (Friday) evening, Aug. 17th, at the regular meeting. When North Stonington grange hall was dedicated one month ago this gavel was used there. Ledyard grange will be the first grange in the state to receive it in due form. It will be kept by this grange for one month and then presented to some other grange in due form and will proceed on its way until all granges in the state are visited. Worthy Lecturer Josephine M. Burton has outlined a very interesting lecturer's hour for this evening. Ledyard grange is 17 years of age and has had 16 different lecturers in that time. All are living and those present will speak on some subject. The following have been lecturers of Ledyard grange: B. T. Avery, Carl Wiseman, Andrew Avery, Mrs. Fannie Clark, Mrs. Josephine Burton, Mrs. W. I. Allyn, Mrs. Lizzie Colver, Mrs. G. A. Montgomery, Mrs. W. F. White, Mrs. H. T. Avery and Mrs. John Finney. This traveling gavel is new to Connecticut granges, but has been much used in Massachusetts granges.

Ledyard grange held its annual picnic at the drawbridge Wednesday. A large gathering of grangers and their friends was present. An appetizing chowder and many other good things were pleasant features of the day's outing.

Carl Holdridge of the Connecticut company and his brother Leslie Holdridge, are having a week's vacation motoring to Cape Cod, camping on the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith and family of Franklin were guests unday of Deacon and Mrs. Isaac Geer.

China leads in the number of foreign students taking courses in the summer school of Columbia University, according to the registrar, Edward J. Grant. Of the forty-nine nations contributing 467 foreign students in the total of 13,000 men and women enrolled, China has 106.

NIGHT-BLOOMING CEREUS

We watched it open and we watched it close,
The processes by which it came and went,
In silence and amazement, and we chose
To think of it as for our spiritual meant.
It seemed as if we saw unfold on earth
A soul returned for a short space from heaven,
To show the whiteness that its second birth,
In purest atmosphere, had to it given.
How much of heaven we in its presence felt!
What deep serenity it gave to us!
Before a throne not built of hands we knelt,
Beholding God in the miraculous.
We lived a moment in which the divine
Uplifted us, to whom it made its sign.

HOW TO GET THIN

French Specialist Tells How to Lose Excess Fat Without Exercise, Habit Forming Drugs or Worthless Reducing Creams.

"If you are 10 to 100 pounds overweight, you can easily and safely lose all that fat," says a French specialist. "For years I suffered due to 30 pounds of excess fat. I was weak, short of breath, and 'all in.' I could not find any clothes to fit me, and I was thoroughly disgusted with life until I found out about SAN-GRI-NA, a marvelous discovery. I know that a great many fat men and women are going through these same troubles to-day. And for their benefit, I am glad to explain what I did to reduce and how they can easily and gradually lose a few pounds each week without any danger. Go to any good drug store and get a package of SAN-GRI-NA—(remember the name, and do not accept anything else, as nothing like this has ever before been offered to the American public).

SAN-GRI-NA, the formula of a French physician, has been used in Europe in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. Simply take two tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. Once you have started to take SAN-GRI-NA, you should feel greater pep and energy. No more tired feeling. SAN-GRI-NA is guaranteed absolutely harmless and positive to relieve you or your money is refunded. Remember, that is all I did to get rid of 35 pounds of unhealthy, ugly rolls of fat. I have not regained one pound since I stopped using SAN-GRI-NA. I look and feel years younger, and I can sincerely recommend it to any fat man or woman."

The greatest discovery
in Poultry and Animal Feeding
since the development of the Balanced Ration

For POULTRY, SWINE, CATTLE, HORSES, DOGS, RABBITS, PIGEONS, CATS, FOXES—

Careful feeding experiments on practically every type of bird and animal have definitely proved the value of Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast to

SPEED UP GROWTH
INCREASE VITALITY
IMPROVE HEALTH AND FERTILITY

WHETHER you raise hogs, or poultry, or blooded cattle—whether you keep pigeons, or rabbits, or just a dog or two—you should know about Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast.

Used for 50 years in bread-making—eaten by thousands of men and women to re-invigorate their bodies and rebuild their health—Fleischmann's Yeast is now put up in a dry, highly concentrated form especially for animal use. And it is literally revolutionizing poultry and animal feeding methods.

When you add a small amount of Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast to the regular ration, it helps to transform that ration quickly into solid flesh and energy. Every ounce of nourishment is extracted—and, in addition, Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast supplies the essential B-Vitamin (the vitamin of growth) in the most highly concentrated form available in all nature.

The results are amazing. Faster growth—increased health and vitality—glossier coats for fur-bearing animals—increased egg-production for poultry. Scientific feeders everywhere have proved the power of this remarkable food accessory.

Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast is on sale now right here in town. You owe it to your stock and your profits to try a can of it! Ask for free booklet on this modern method of animal feeding.

The Song of the Swan (Il Canto del Cigno) (Pinchioni-Saint Saëns) In Italian	Beniamino Gigli	1025	$1.50
Paquita. (Spanish Serenade) (Bizzi-Peccia) In Italian	Beniamino Gigli

Saint-Saëns' mysteriously beautiful "The Song of the Swan" arranged as a tenor song, and a brilliant "Spanish Serenade." Both are sung in glorious and impassioned style, and the record is one of superb beauty.

Scherzo (Tschaikowsky) Violin Solo	Jascha Heifetz	1024	1.50
Vivace (from Quartet in D Major, No. 35) (Haydn-Auer) Violin Solo	Jascha Heifetz

A record of quite extraordinary interest by this wizard of the violin; a display number by a modern and one by a classical composer. You will find comparisons fascinating; and at the same time you will appreciate how perfectly Victor Records parallel the artist's interpretations.

Bird of Love Divine (Bixby-Wood)	Hulda Lashanska	1023	1.50
Love Came Calling (Bainbridge-Zamecnik)	Hulda Lashanska

For young or old, the love-songs of the world never lose their peculiar magic; and that song is rare which does not waken some human heart into response. These are two beautiful love-songs, and they are sung by a lyric soprano voice of exquisite quality. A record you will be glad to own.

Vocal Selections

Honey Chile (Lyons-Hosmer)	Lucy Isabelle Marsh	45421	1.00
Hush-a-Bye Bay (Sherwood-Arthur)	Lucy Isabelle Marsh

Motherhood speaks and thrills in every note of these two tender little lullabies; sung in a fashion to call back memories of the joys of childhood. Splendid additions for every library of Victor Records.

Ida! Sweet as Apple Cider	Frank Crumit	19365	.75
Roll Them Roly Boly Eyes	Frank Crumit

Frank Crumit and the ukulele, with Phil Ohman at the piano, in two familiar Eddie Leonard songs of half-comic, half-sentimental, darky type. There's variety as well as quality in the recordings provided by the Victor.

Melodious Instrumental

Out of the Dusk to You	Victor String Orchestra	19364	.75
Eleanor	Victor String Orchestra

Masterly settings, for the string orchestra, of popular sentimental compositions—both by women composers. Played with intense emotional power; genuine things of beauty—these records truly make them a joy forever.

Dance Records

Blackin' Blues—Fox Trot	Waring's Pennsylvanians	19369	.75
Ukulele Blues—Fox Trot	International Novelty Orchestra

"Blackin' Blues" is about the weirdest thing yet, with its odd "shiver" effects from groups of saxophones and melodies from other instruments that sound about half-human. "Ukulele Blues" is also humorous. An unusual record that is particularly inviting to dance enthusiasts.

Two Blue Eyes—Fox Trot	Jan Garber and His Orchestra	19374	.75
Sally Lou—Fox Trot	George Olsen and His Music

It would be hard to find two records with less seriousness in them—except so far as keeping good time and rhythm are concerned. Both have new features, and both demonstrate the perfection reached in Victor recording.

A Studebaker touring car, 62-207 R. I., driven by Max Martin, of the West Sidee came to grief an Elm street Thursday evening on the slippery highway when it went up on the sidewalk in front of the residence of Charles S. Fowler. The rear left wheel was wrecked but the occupant of the machine escaped injury. Mr. Martin planned to drive his automobile to New Brunswick today (Friday) but will be delayed until he can secure a new wheel.

Because of the heavy rain Thursday afternoon, the fifth in the summer series of band concerts by the Westerly band in Wilcox park was postponed.

German silver contains no silver, but is an alloy consisting of 18 per cent nickel and the rest copper and zinc.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mr. and Mrs. William Dilligan and Misses Mary and Catherine McCarthy are spending a vacation at Block Island.

Miss Rose Sullivan of Clinton, Mass., is the guest of relatives in the borough.

Miss Hilda Fitzpatrick and Miss Florence M. Quilty are spending a month at Crystal lake.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Foster are on a ten days' automobile trip through Maine and Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kinsman are visiting relatives in Sterling and Atlantic, Mass.

Clayton A. George of Orcuttville was fined $30 and costs of $11.76 as a result of his automobile running into a wagon in which Sam Cooper of Hartford was riding, near Forestville, Wednesday afternoon. The wagon was practically demolished. George said that he had known since July 4 that the brakes on his car were in poor condition. Sergeant Harmon of the state police said that he examined the brakes on the car after the accident and they were practically worthless. The specific charge on which the accused was fined was operating an automobile with insufficient brakes.

Miss Margaret Black of Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending two weeks' vacation with her mother, Margaret Black in Stafford Hollow.

Mrs. Fred Wildey is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Philip Barton at Willsboro, N. Y., on Lake Champlain.

John Kudytas of Village Hill paid a fine of $25 and costs in the borough court Thursday, after pleading guilty to throwing a stone at a passing automobile. Andrew Hayostek was driving along the highway when a stone weighing about a pound was hurled into his car by Kredytas.

COLCHESTER

The case of the state vs. Morris Selingo of Hartford, was tried before Justice Baker, Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The charge was reckless driving. The accused plead guilty and was fined $25 and costs of $16.80 which he paid. Charles F. Brown was prosecutor. Mr. Selingo and party from Hartford were en route to Ocean Beach for a day's outing and coming down Broadway. He was going at a fast rate of speed and in making the sharp curve at Willard's corner he hit a car, damaging the same and he left the concrete and went into the park, but managed to steer clear of the trees and stopped the car nearly 600 feet from where he left the concrete. Silengo's car was damaged so that he could not drive it home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Baker and Mrs. Sarah J. Bingham were in Willimantic Thursday.

Clark Z. Otis of Binghamton, N. Y., is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. A. T. Van Cleve.

Mr. Agranovitch is to rebuild and will start a hardware and general store. Mr. Agranovitch is one of the proprietors of the Aben Hardware company of New London and Preston Bros.' store in Norwich.

John M. Riley motored to Lebanon and Norwich Wednesday.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Donald A. Bigelow Post, American Legion, has completed arrangements to give a lunch to the soldiers who will pass through the village, Saturday afternoon, en route from Hartford to the Disabled War Veterans' camp at Niantic. For the past two years they have been entertained by the people of the borough on the park. Sandwiches, cake and punch will be served by the members of the post.

Joseph M. London was in Hartford Wednesday.

TREE EXPLODES

A tree exploded near Ouachita City, La., severely burning W. C. McClure, who with a gang had been cutting it down. A hissing sound issued from the tree as the saw ate into it. Believing that gas was escaping McClure applied a lighted match. Gas had crept into the tree from the ground, which is in the natural gas belt. The force of the blast knocked down two of the crew and the sound of the explosion was heard a mile away.

Wise men are less charitable to their own faults than to the faults of others.

MYSTIC

A much needed aid to traffic has been placed south of the monument on Broadway and west of the monument of East Main street in the form of markers instructing travelers to keep to the right. This is a particularly bad spot because of the intersection of Broadway and East Main streets and the location of the monument near the center where they cross, so that it is extremely difficult to tell in which direction cars intend to go. The trolley track on the south side of the monument is about in the center of the street, but it turns quite abruptly to the right after passing the monument and from there on is laid close to the sidewalk so that there is not room for an auto to pass on the right side of a trolley car coming from the east at that point. Local people, of course, are familiar with these conditions, but strangers are not and it is a wonder that some serious accident has not occurred at this spot. A warning sign placed sufficient distance from this spot to enable motorists to slow down until they can ascertain if the road is clear ahead would be a measure of safety. With the constant increase in the amount of traffic passing through the village every dangerous spot needs to be clearly marked to avoid danger of accident as much as possible.

Dr. F. C. Congdon, vice president of the Connecticut Homeopathic Medical society has been in New Haven this week, attending a meeting of the executive committee of that society to arrange for the fall meeting of the organization which will probably be held in November.

Dr. and Mrs. DeWitt T. Wilcox of Newton Highlands, Mass., have been guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lathrop.

The eight fresh air children sent here by the Tribune Fresh Air Fund of New York, through the activity of the local committee, arrived Tuesday afternoon and have been placed in the several homes where they are to stay for the two weeks they are here. Some of these children have been here in former years and are staying with the same people with whom they stayed before.

About thirty-five members of Florine Dow Camp, Royal Neighbors, had a picnic Thursday at Atlantic Beach. The trip was made by auto bus, starting from Kretzer's corner at ten o'clock and dinner was prepared after arrival at the beach.

Mrs. Edward P. Clark of Stonington is visiting her sister, Mrs. Zephaniah Brown.

Mrs. Annie Butterworth of Tampa, Florida, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Denison.

Mrs. Clifford Denison had as visitors this week, Mrs. Herbert Strong and son, and Miss Arline Strong, of Westerly, and Miss Faith Crocker of Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fish of New York are spending the summer with Miss Nancy Williams.

Mrs. Norton Wheeler and son and Miss Iona Jones are guests of Capt. and Mrs. Elias F. Wilcox, at Pleasant View.

Mrs. James Stark of Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending the season at her summer home here and has as her guests her son's wife, Mrs. Whitney Stark and children. Mrs. Stark comes up for week-ends.

The Garden club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Annie Green. One feature of the meeting was the reading of several original poems by Miss Story. The name of this club has been changed to Garden club instead of Nature club.

Parish Lawn Party

The members of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's church opened their lawn party Tuesday evening on the grounds at Columbus hall. The party was a success the first night, also was well attended Wednesday. Those in charge were Mrs. George Foley, president; Mrs. Peter Flynn, Mrs. A. Feld, Miss Freida Feld, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Inderdohnen, Mrs. Walter Shea and Mrs. C. McKenzie at the candy tables, Mrs. Charles Foley in charge of the cake, and many other members in charge of the fancy articles. Dancing was enoyed each evening.

There was an attendance of forty-six at the picnic and jubilee meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. E. Cutler. Dinner was served at noon with the guests seated at four large tables arranged in the form of a square, under the spreading branches of a large maple on the lawn. After an interval of social enjoyment following the dinner, the program of the jubilee meeting was carried out under the dirction of Mrs. Gurdon Allyn, who had charge of the arrangements for it. The meeting opengd with the singing of America, followed by reading of scripture by Mrs. Allyn and prayer by Mrs. Henry Tift, of Tifton, Ga. The next number was a solo by Mrs. Wilfred Rollinson; Mrs. Gurdon Allyn read an interesting paper on The Story of the First Crusade. Mrs. C. E. Newbury read a paper covering the history of the local union, it being recalled that the late Miss Harriet E. Holmes was the first president and that Mrs. C. E. Newbury held this office after her for 25 years. During this same time the president, Mrs. W. H. Lamb, served as treasurer. Another interesting item is the fact that only two of the charter members are living, Mrs. C. E. Newbury and Mrs. Frank W. Batty. The late Thomas E. Packer, father of Mrs. Batty, was very much interested in the work of the organization and let the members have rooms in which to meet and serve suppers and aided them in their work as long as he lived. Miss Helen Cutler sang two solos, which were much enjoyed. Miss Marguerite Nickerson recited a long poem composed by her mother, Mrs. Maud Nickerson. Mrs. B. F. Davis gave a short talk on "Vision," as applied to W. C. T. U. work. Mrs. Byron Billings recited a poem, "Hurting Business." A paper on Current Events was read by Mrs. Wallace Phillips. Mrs. J. Edwin Thompson recited an original poem entitled, Wake Up Women. An address by R. A. Haynes, delivered in Washington, D. C., some time ago was read by Mrs. Justin Denison and Mrs. Charles R. Heath. Mrs. B. C. Chesebro, of Stonington, attended the picnic. Another out of two guest was Mrs. W. K. Logee of Providence.

The clouds Thursday made everyone hopeful of refreshing showers but only a few drops of rain fell and the earth remained as parched as ever. The fact that there was an eclipse of the sun Thursday afternoon, although invisible was another factor which was hoped would be productive of rain but only relief was the temporary obscuring by clouds.

Mrs. Richard Haeslop and daughter Mary Frances of Norfolk, Virginia, are guests of Miss Anna Wilcox in Quinnbaug.

Miss Ella Potter, who has been the guest of Miss Martha Kalm, has gone to Forestville for a visit with relatives before returning to New Rochelle, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lamb and children attended Ledyard grange picnic at Happyland Wednesday.

Mrs. W. K. Logee of Providence is the guest of Mrs. James E. F. Brown.

Miss Lucile Bitgood of New London is the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Chapman.

Mrs. A. N. Caulkins of Malden, Mass., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gallup.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bavier and daughters, Lillian and Dorothy of Hartford, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Bavier.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fording and daughter Ruth, of Hope Valley are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Rollinson.

Mrs. A. F. Stearn, a summer resident at Willow Point, is spending a few days in Boston.

Mrs. Charles Oviatt has returned from the New London hospital where she recently underwent an operation from which she is steadily recovering.

Mrs. Edwin Clifford Call, of Dexter, Me., was killed in Lynn, Mass., when the car in which she was riding turned turtle, pinning her and two men, also occupants of the machine, beneath it.

STONINGTON

The meeting of the Stonington Historical society is to be held Monday evening, Aug. 11, in the library.

Many boats were driven into port Wednesday afternoon because of the storm which threatened to strike here about 4 o'clock. Gardeners in the vicinity breathed a sigh of relief upon seeing the clouds approach because the drouth of over two weeks has resulted in considerable damage to crops. A change of wind, however, from northeast to southeast caused the storm to blow out to sea, and no rain fell here.

Part of the Atwood machine plant shut down Wednesday night for the remainder of the week.

The Westerly tug was in the harbor Wednesday night with barge Harry E. Smith in tow. The barge is bound southward with a load of coal.

The McCann Bros. have nearly completed the excavation work on the property of Andrew Perry and L. Sprague, west of the Catholic cemetery. Streets have been laid out and building lots cleared. Already one house has been erected on the northwest corner of the plot facing the state highway. Following the completion of this work, the McCann Bros. will start Monday morning to lay a cement road on Water street. Construction will be begun at the lower end of the street, in front of the Atwood Machine company.

About 9 o'clock Wednesday evening two dogs fighting in front of the Danesi block on Water street collected a crowd of 75 spectators. A good deal of difficulty was experienced in separating the animals.

At St. Mary's church Wednesday morning Miss Cecelia Rose of Stonington and Robert McKim of Westerly were united in marriage. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses and was dressed in white. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Father James E. O'Brien. About a hundred friends and relatives were present.

NOANK

Noank is badly in need of rain.

Thomas MacGown is visiting his mother. He has recently been employed in Edgartown, Mass.

The fishing boats are bringing in large catches of fish this week. Flounders and flatfish seem to be the biggest takes, with some few mackerel.

The fishing boat Gordon T., from Montauk, came in port Thursday to stock up with provisions.

Capt. William O'Brien of this place says he saw the pleasure boat that sailed from Block Island July 16th for New London with three Long Island men on board and hasn't been found yet. Captain O'Brien remembers reading the name Amateur on the stern Sunday while he was fishing near Ram Island. Why they haven't been located in some port is still a mystery.

Noank baseball team will play East Lyme here Saturday. Noank lost the last five games. It is hoped by the fans they will have better luck Saturday.

Paul Chesebro of Center Groton was a recent caller in the village.

Noank band has been engaged to play for the Noank plant of the Rossie velvet mill Saturday at the Rossie field in Mystic. The leader of the band is Elmer Dans.

Rev. Charles Merrill of the Noank Baptist church is having his vacation.

Mrs. Almon Meister is entertaining relatives from New York.

Mrs. Horace White has been called on a case in North Stonington.

Mrs. Mary Luce is having her vacation from her duties at Edgecome & Poppe's store in Groton.

Mrs. Luella Scott of California is visiting her mother, Mrs. Emma White.

Mrs. Walter Baker with her son Horace of Colchester is visiting her mother, Mrs. Emma White.

Mrs. Arthur Card and children of Groton have been visiting Mrs. Card's aunt, Mrs. George Cutten.

John Cammeyer has returned from Boston.

The Flora and Ada is having a new raised deck made. The work is being done at Webster Eldigh's shop.

Ida Thompson, nurse at Lawrence hospital, New London, was a caller in town this week.

Hazel Lamb is visiting in Parlin, N. J.

The second fire alarm this week was rung in Thursday at 5 a. m., when the boat Daisy, owned by the Singer Bros., caught fire at the dock of E. P. Wilbur. The blaze broke out in the cabin and at one time threatened the dock, which has some large gasoline tanks on it; but the fire was under control in a short while. Not much damage was done.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

At the Giant's Bungalow

"Hello, hello! Who's calling Me?
Oh, it's you Professor Crow.
Did you say the bunny boy's visiting
At the giant's bungalow?"

Well, well! Did you ever, boys and girls! Just as I began this story who should call me up on the telephone but that wise old professor bird to tell me that the little rabbit was making a call on the Ragged Giant Bunny.

"Hello, hello, Professor Crow,
Tell me something I don't know!
Read the papers every night
They will set your mind a-right."

After hearing this, of course, Professor Jim Crow felt ashamed that he had called up your Uncle Dave for nothing. Just the same, I'm glad he

All of a sudden, he began to whistle did, for it shows that even crows are interested in what I write about Little Jack Rabbit. Wise Crows, too, like this professor blackbird.

Now, wait a minute, boys and girls, while I tickle the bell on my typewriter. Maybe that will help me to remember where we left off. Oh, yes, now I know, just as I recall that Christmas is long are.

Pretty soon as the Ragged Bunny walked along in his seven league boots, all of a sudden, he began to whistle, let me tell you, sounded like Meadow Lark's, only louder and stronger. And why not, when you come to think of it? The giant was twenty times as big and maybe thirty times as homely. But that didn't make the music less sweet. No, indeedy.

"We're almost there, aren't we?" asked the little rabbit anxiously, as the Giant Rabbit Bunny finished.

"In a couple of strides and a twist in the path," answered his big friend, taking a large Rey out of his pocket. The next minute he had unlocked the door of his bungalow house. Setting the bunny boy down on a stool, he gave a low, soft whistle. At once, thru the open window flew a tiny yellow bird, a little pink sunbonnet on her head and a pair of blue slippers on her feet.

"Come here, Sweetie," cried the Giant. "My little friend, Jack Rabbit has paid me a visit."

"Dear me," thought the bunny boy, fumbling in his pocket. "I hope I have plenty of carrot cents with me. Paying a visit on a giant must cost a lot of money."

"Ha, ha!" roared the giant, noticing the little rabbit's anxiety, "What's the matter? You don't have to pay in Rabbit coin. Just your presence, young bunny, is enough."

"Yours very kind," sighed the bunny boy. "I've only five carrot cents left. That spool of cotton took all the rest. But mother will give me more tomorrow."

"She will surely do that," laughed the giant. "All mothers do. My mothers do. My mother was the same, and often she'd fill my pockets with cookies, too." And tomorrow I'll tell you what happened after that.

TRAINING THE SNAIL

Yerkes trained an earthworm to go through a T-maze made of glass some twelve years ago. Miss Mary Pinkney Mitchell, a student in the education psychology laboratory of the University of Denver, working under the direction and guidance of Thomas R. Garth, has now trained a land snail, Goniobasis pleuririata, for about three months, using some three trials a day. The apparatus is a glass T-maze somewhat similar to that of Yerkes, the drive used is light from a 75-watt Mazda lamp. Hibernation of the snail was prevented by keeping it in an improvised incubator.

The training of the snail was begun December 3, and is being continued. The average time for the first five trials in the maze was 857 seconds and for the last five trials to date is 316 seconds. The total errors for first five trials were 4 and there are now no errors made at all. In all there have been 102 trials made by the snail. There are, of course, fluctuations in the time curve, but there is a positive tendency for the time to decrease with successive trials so that the smoothed out curve indicates learning of a more or less permanent character.

OLD AUTOS FOR DIKES

Shreveport, La., has found a new use for junked motor cars. The Red River is cutting away its banks and threatens valuable industrial property. Construction of permanent dikes has been delayed by high water. Temporary relief has been secured by sinking 2,000 discarded automobiles to hold the banks from being washed away.

NEW FRONT FOR MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK

MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK BUILDING IS UNDERGOING EXTENSIVE ALTERATIONS

HARRY F. POWERS
Cashier

The Merchants National Bank building on Main street is undergoing extensive changes and when the work is completed, which will be within the next four months, the building will be one of the most modern banking houses in the state. While the remodeling is underway the bank has moved to temporary quarters, two doors further up Main street, in what was formerly the old Main street fire station, transformed sometime ago into a business block.

The plans for the remodeling of the building were prepared by Architects Cudworth and Thompson, and at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the bank the contract for the work was awarded to Contractor Archibald Torrance. Mr. Torrance has already started work on the contract and at the present little remains of the old bank building.

The front of the new building is to be of red tapestry brick, with limestone trim and granite base. In the center are two large bronze doors with a steel sash. The building will measure 32 1-3 feet wide, 44 feet deep and a 20 foot ceiling inside with a mezzanine story in the rear which is to accommodate a directors' room.

As one enters the front door through a tiled and panelled vestibule at the right is the cashier's space enclosed by a marble rail.

The public space has a tiled floor with imported marble wainscoting and ornamental plaster walls and ceiling. Directly in front as one enters the building is to be a marble and bronze banking screen accommodating two entering the working space. This working space is to be greatly enlarged over the present capacity. The first floor is to be of fire-proof construction.

Will Have Modern Vault

A new reinforced concrete steel lined vault of ample dimensions will be installed at the rear corner. The vault contract with the Mosler Safe Co., calls for a new burglar-proof vault equipment, consisting of vault doors, lining, etc., the doors of which are to be built of Donsteel, the new metal invented and used exclusively by the Mosler Safe company. This is the only metal which will withstand the oxygenacetylene torch.

The directors of the bank, wishing to install the very latest equipment, decided upon Don steel and hence this will place this security vault department in impregnable security.

This is the same material used in the doors purchased by the Chemical National bank, New York, Commonwealth, Federal Reserve bank at St Louis, and many of the largest institutions in the country, and before contracts for those vaults were placed, several tests were made by disinterested parties on Donsteel, particularly at the Pittsburg testing laboratories.

The new vault will be guarded by every device known to the art of safe making. This new vault will be designed to resist successfully every conceivable kind of attack which could be made upon it either by the force of nature or the lawless elements of mankind. Even the most modern and destructive invention, so far as metal is concerned—the oxy-acetylene torch—is ineffective against a vault of this type.

The vault, a massive steel and concrete building within a building, will have walls of concrete, reinforced with railroad iron. These walls will be absolutely fire proof and have a high resistance to explosives and the use of burglars' appliances, and will protect the inner steel lining against such modern devices as the electric steel burning arc, thermite, a powder capable of producing extreme heat, as well as the oxy-acetylene burner.

Concrete Protecting Top

The concrete protecting top of the vault will be imbedded with a steel grillage on the top, bottom sides, front and back, affording complete protection against any falling weight such as building walls or the shock from explosives. Directly behind the walls and laying tightly against them will be the steel vault lining. This lining will be formed of interlocking plates and forged sections, so carefully arranged and bolted together as to form the closest possible approximation to a perfectly solid structure but superior to a solid as it possesses a slight amount of flexibility so necessary to resist shock.

The entrance to the vault will be guarded by a huge steel door weighing approximately 20 tons, into which are fitted a number of controlling devices which connect the locks with the main bolting system of the door. These devices will be designed to hold the door securely locked even if all the locks should be blown or otherwise forced from the door.

The vault door will be of integral casting of steel without joints seams or screws, making the door a single piece of the finest steel, in no way dependent upon screws for its strength, and incorporate the famous Donsteel, representing the finest and costliest type of construction which has yet been built by the safe engineers.

The vault door will be a splendid example of modern ingenuity, and will be so nicely adjusted and hung on special roller and ball bearings that a pull of only a few pounds will suffice to open and close it. When closed the door will be forced into place by pressure mechanism and the joints become proof against the entrance of wedges or liquid explosives. The door will not only be fireproof and burglar-proof but mob-proof as well. Once this vault will be locked, it is the boast of the manufacturers that it will defy all human attempts to reach its contents until the maze of safety devices are released by the timelock.

Altogether the vault will be one of the finest examples of a modern to-date safe deposit vault, designed to be one of the strongest in this section of the country.

NEW VAULT TO BE INSTALLED AT MERCHANTS BANK

The Directors' Room

The mezzanine floor is reached by a steel and marble stairway which leads to the directors' room. This room will be 18 feet by 16 1-3 feet and is to have a panelled wood wainscoting and hinged sash openings into the upper part of the public space. On this floor also is to be located a toilet and locker space.

In the basement is located another tiled toilet room, a fire proof vault and the boiler room.

The history of the Merchants National Bank is an interesting one. The bank was first incorporated following a meeting in Kinney's hotel July 10, 1833, just 91 years ago and after several days of conferences and discussions the following board of directors was elected: F. A. Perkins, W. Williams, Jr., Walter Lester, John Lathrop, N. H. Fitch, who was elected chairman of the board, Charles F. Lester, Elisha Tracy, Stephen Fitch, James L. Ripley, Charles Colt, Samuel Kellogg, Sherwood Raymond, Epaphras Porter, Lewis Hyde, elected secretary, and Joseph H. Doane. Francis A. Perkins was elected president of the bank and Joseph Williams, cashier.

Paid Yearly Rent of $80

The bank began business in the west room of Kinney's hotel, for which they paid a yearly rent of $80, amounting to only $6.50 a month. The bank was open for business from 10 a. m. to 12 m. and from 2 to 4 p. m., excepting July 4th, and afternoons of Saturday and on days of religious festival.

The land on which the present building stands was purchased from C. G. Rawson in 1847 and the bank has since been doing business in this location. The bank was made a National bank on June 22, 1865, with Henry B. Tracy, its president, James M. Meech, cashier, and Charles Webb, assistant cashier.

The old records of the bank reveal much interesting information in regard to the bank's operation in the early days. A section of the original charter provided that the bank after organization should expend the sum of $30,000 for the clearing and deepening of the channel of the Thames river and improving navigation thereof. This goes to show how this bank has endeavored to serve the residents, merchants and others in this community since its original beginning.

The Bank Officers

The present chairman of the board of directors is Costello Lippitt, dean of Norwich bankers. He first became associated with the Merchants bank as a director April 1, 1885. He was elected its president Jan. 19, 1909, and chairman of the board, his present position, on Jan. 8, 1924. In addition to this Mr. Lippitt is secretary and treasurer of the Norwich Savings Society and has, during his remarkably long term of service, seen that great institution grow from comparatively small beginnings to its present towering strength and far reaching financial influence. Entering that bank in 1864, or 60 years ago, he has since been continuously and actively identified with its upbuilding. Becoming treasurer in 1870, or 54 years ago, he has served in that capacity well over half a century and is still to be found daily at his desk early in the morning, smiling and ready for business.

Frank L. Woodward, the president, has been associated with the Merchants bank since April 1, 1895, then being made a director. On Jan. 19 1909 he was elected vice president and on Jan. 8, 1924 the president. Mr.

W. MANLEY EASTWOOD
Assistant Cashier

Woodard is also the veteran treasurer of the Dime Savings bank, which he has most efficiently served for 46 years. He came to that bank as assistant treasurer in 1878, and has been its treasurer since 1888, a period of 36 years.

The cashier, Harry E. Powers, is a young, progressive and highly capable banker. He first entered the Thames National bank in 1913 and served 10 years in all departments of that bank under the most careful instruction of Nathan A. Gibbs. His experience there amply fitted him for his present position. He is thoroughly efficient, most courteous and has been a careful student of the credit conditions in this vicinity. Mr. Powers was elected assistant cashier of the Merchants to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Arthur E. Story, who went over to the Chelsea Savings bank. On Jan. 8, 1924, Mr. Powers was made cashier of the Merchants to succeed the late Charles H. Phelps, who for 52 years served most faithfully this bank.

William Manley Eastwood, Jr., the assistant cashier, entered the employ of the Merchants in 1917 and has since continued in its employ. Like Mr. Powers, he is a young, energetic banker and already has made great strides in this business field. He was elected assistant cashier on Jan. 8, 1924.

The clerical force of the Merchants consists of the following: Frank A. Powers, assistant teller, Leonard G. Partridge, general clerk, Miss Gladys Williams, bookkeeper, Miss Marjorie Merry, stenographer, and Hans Rasmussen, messenger.

The board of directors combines men of long standing in this community and thoroughly efficient business men. They are: Costello Lippitt, chairman, secretary and treasurer of the Norwich Savings society; Judge Lucius Brown, of the law firm of Brown & Perkins; Frank L. Woodard, president of the Merchants and treasurer of the Dime Savings bank; Joseph Hall, president of Joseph Hall & Son; James C. Henderson, treasurer of Crescent Fire Arms Co.; L. Henry Saxton, treasurer of Saxton Woolen Co.; Joseph P. Conner of Joseph Connor & Sons.

The Building Committee

The building committee appointed by the directors of the bank consists of President Frank L. Woodard, Cashier Harry E. Powers and Director L. Henry Saxton. This committee has spent much time and thought on the general layout of the remodeled building and it is safe to state that when completed it will be one of the most modern and attractive banks in this community.

An application for life insurance totalling $7,000,000, to cover the 3,100 members of the Maryland Guard, has been signed by Adjutant General Milton A. Reckord.

EXPECT LARGE CROWD AT FISH AND GAME OUTING

Acceptances received by the committee arranging the outing for Sunday of the Norwich Fish and Game association at Gardner Lake indicate a large attendance. John M. Swahn has arranged to have a dozen or more members of the association furnish the music. On account of the building of the new road, the committee is advising members to go Fitzmond Hill road, starting in over Fitch Hill from Trading Cove. This road is better than the regular route to the lake has been for several years.

The casting contest which is to be a feature of the day, is creating considerable interest. Contestants are expected to bring their own tackle. There are to be three prizes awarded in each event, with a special prize offered by President A. E. Story for the best average in the four events. The fishermen are to assemble and start from opposite Laurel Hill bridge at 8.30 a. m. daylight time.

TAFTVILLE MAN HELD IN BONDS OF $1,000

In the city court Thursday morning the case of William Chalfant, charged with parking his car about six feet from the curb, was nolled by Judge Arthur F. Libby, upon payment of $2. John Green and George McDice, charged with breach of the peace and destruction to private property were fined $25 and costs. They paid the actual costs, the balance being suspended for six months.

Lionel Blanchette of Taftville, charged with a serious offense, had his case continued under bonds of $1,000. The postponement was made to allow Acting City Attorney Telly E. Babcock sufficient time to secure evidence needed in the case.

HELD PARTY FOR INFANT DAUGHTER'S FIRST BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Cowan of 81 Newton street, entertained Thursday afternoon in honor of the first birthday of their daughter, Janet Robertson Cowan, a number of little friends of the baby being present. The little guests were accompanied by their mothers and all enjoyed a pleasant time. The little hostess received many fine gifts. Later in the afternoon refreshments were served by Mrs. Cowan, who was assisted by Mrs. Earle L. Howe and Mrs. George MacFarland. The little guests were Marion Miller, Myrtle Miller, William Huntington, Robert Huntington, Robert Eugene Smith and Donald Drake.

NORWICH MAN HAD BANANAS, BUT NO R. I. LICENSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., July 31.—Peter Angelone, 49, of 81 North street, Norwich, appeared before Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr., acting judge, in a special session of the Third district court Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Angelone was presented on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, charging that defendant hawked and peddled bananas from an automobile without procuring a Rhode Island state license. A second count charged him with peddling in a public place without first procuring a town license. The defendant pleaded guilty but produced peddler's license of the city of Norwich.

He was fined $10 and costs on each count, the aggregate amount being $27.66, which he paid. Chief of Police Brown cautioned the man and directed that he remove his automobile and load of bananas to Connecticut soil and not dispose of the fruit in Rhode Island. Complaint had been made by residents of the Pierce street section of Westerly to the chief and he directed Officer Michael Curtin to locate the man, who was found disposing of his wares and his arrest followed.

We meet men every day whose only mission on earth seems to be to take up room.

DUAL PERSONALITY FIGURES IN LOEB-LEOPOLD DEFENSE

Dr. William A. White, Eminent Psychiatrist, Testifies That the Youthful Slayers of Franks Were Victims of Phantasies—Asserts That Loeb Considered the Crime an Intellectual Feat—Leopold Fell Into the Kidnapping Plot Through Dual Personality—Declares That Emotionally the Boys are in an Infantile State, Loeb About 4 or 5 Years, Leopold Not More Than 5 to 7—Judge Overrules Prosecuting Attorney and Permits Defense to Enter Plea of Guilty of "Mental Disease Short of Legal Insanity" as a Circumstance to be Considered in Fixing the Penalty For the Crime.

Chicago, Aug. 1 (By the A. P.)—The dual personality composed of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, worked with "almost devilish ingenuity" to produce the kidnaping and murder of Robert Franks, according to Dr. William A. White, who testified for the defense today before Judge John R. Caverly.

"Loeb considered the crime as an intellectual feat," said the witness. "Leopold fell into the plan for the emotional premium this relationship offered.

"I cannot see how 'Babe' would have entered into the plot alone. He had no criminalistic tendencies. 'Dickie' had these tendencies but would not have functioned to this extent by himself."

The witness pictured the two youth as the victims of phantasies with Loeb still under their influence and sinking lower all the time, but with Leopold battling them behind a self imposed barrier of intellectuality. He said all had not been happy in the relationship as each had considered killing the other.

The statements formed the climax of the opinions given by Dr. White, who qualified as an expert by reciting his present experience as head of the government hospital for the insane at Washington, and reciting his long activities as a psychiatrist. He was permitted to testify to the mentality of the student defendants after the court had definitely overruled objections by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, to the consideration of any such subject as a mitigation to the punishment.

Far Reaching Decision.

The decision was far-reaching in that it admitted alienists' observations for that purpose for probably the first time in Illinois courts. It permitted the defense to show after a plea of guilty "mental disease short of legal insanity" as a circumstance to be considered in fixing the penalty for a crime.

An exhaustive analysis of character was presented by Dr. White. Rather early in the questioning Walter Bachrach of counsel for the defense, asked the witness to state his conclusions as to the mental conditions of Loeb. Mr. Crowe objected that the facts on which the conclusions were based should be shown first. Before Mr. Bachrach could start a reply Clarence S. Darrow, veteran chief counsel of the defense, rose at his associates' ear with a whispered word and Mr. Bachrach said:

"We shall be pleased to adopt the suggestion of the state. Go ahead, Doctor, and tell everything you said and what the boys said to you when you interviewed them."

It was the only visible activity of the day by Mr. Darrow.

Dr. White reached observation on the dual personality of the defendants after a long review of the life history of each. He referred to Loeb as "Dickie" and to Leopold as "Babe," explaining that he fell into the habit of applying the diminutive to the former, and that Leopold had then insisted upon being called by his college nickname.

Boys in Infantile State.

"Emotionally the boys are in an infantile state," said Dr. White. "Loeb is about four or five years old in that respect and Leopold not more than from five to seven.

"Both, too, started with a feeling of inferiority but while Dickie succumbed to this and developed anti-social tendencies, Babe defended himself by consciously building up a feeling of intellectual superiority, fortified by a philosophy of mechanism in which there was no God, and emotion was stifled."

The big riddle of the case as to which boy actually stunned and strangled young Franks was not solved by the doctor. Mr. Crowe asked him about it on cross-examination, but the expert said he had not taken up that aspect of the crime with his subjects.

"It really made no difference as to their guilt," he explained.

"Who do you think killed Franks?" persisted Mr. Crowe.

"It must have been Dickie," said Dr. White.

The boy gulped visibly when this came out. He leaned forward and appeared to grip himself. Leopold looked thoughtful and stroked his chin.

The doctor said the homicide "could not be understood unless the two were examined in the light of their relations with each other."

"Dickie with his inferiority complex developed definite anti-social tendencies," he said. "He needed an audience and in reality Babe was that audience. In Dickie's phantasies his imaginary criminal gang was his audience. But Babe constantly reinforced Dickie when he needed bolstering.

"Babe also needed a complement and he picked out Dickie. They took turns in playing the parts of inferior and superior—king and slave. Their phantasy lives fit into each other with almost devilish ingenuity."

Dr. White stated that in the Franks case it was Babe who evolved the alibi stories that were to save them if adhered to. It was Babe, too, he said, who inflicted upon the last telephone call to Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, in a final effort to collect the $10,000 ransom money.

"Dickie, by this time, was convinced their cause was lost and it was useless to run further risk," said Dr. White.

Places Blame on Governess.

In his outlines of the boys' lives, Dr. White dwelt in Loeb's case upon the influence of a "rather foolish, somewhat prudish and austere governess," who cared for Dickie about six years, starting from the time he was four. The suppressions which this woman forced on her young charge kept Loeb from leading a normal, child life, the doctor said, and left him totally unprepared for adolescence.

Illustrating further the influence of this governess Mr. Bachrach read into the record a letter written by her in 1922 in which she urged her former charge to "hold logic and reason firmly in your grip." Another sentence was: "The laws of nature are inexorable."

Leopold, according to the doctor, suffered from "an inferiority complex" as a child, being small in stature, sickly and having been sent for the start of his education to a co-educational institution in which only two of the pupils were boys. This resulted in Babe's being twitted about attending a "girls' school," the expert said. Up to the age of 12, he said, Babe was under the care of governesses who escorted him to and from school.

Precocious Intelligence.

Dr. White said Babe resented all this, and fortified by a precocious intelligence, began early to stifle emotions because they resulted only in suffering. Ultimately, the witness stated, this worked into a philosophy of mechanism in which intelligence reigned supreme and there was no God, all phenomena with which the boy came in contact being explained by natural causes and effects.

In adolescence Loeb indulged himself in phantasies of a career which made him either the world's greatest detector of crime, or the "master mind" of a band of under-world characters who came to him for advice and followed his slightest sign. In the former character, said Dr. White, Dick would shadow pedestrians for hours. In the latter he would walk down the street making signs with his hands to direct his imaginary minions in their crimes.

Falsehood used first successfully to outwit his governess, was developed at this stage until it extended to his family and daily companions.

Some "Precocious" Pranks.

"Dickie once shot a hole in his shirt, then called on a girl and posed as a bootlegger," said Dr. White.

Both early began to smoke and drink, their precocity having thrown them into contact with older boys, the witness pointed out. Loeb took up with these habits, the doctor said, because he wished to appear grown and they also helped him stifle his self criticism. Leopold denied that his idea was to imitate his elders, having indicated to the witness that in this as well as all other things, he desired chiefly to excel.

When it came to the Franks case, it was Leopold who used his unusual intelligence to work out details of the plot in the opinion of the witness. He said, however, that it must have been Loeb who thought of the killing for "Babe had no stomach for criminalistic things."

"It is significant that these boys had in mind the possibility of killing the other member of the compact," said Dr. White. "In Babe's case it was not especially serious, but Dickie did think of killing Babe, because, as he gave it to me, the latter after all had no stomach and he felt the day might come when he would get him in trouble."

Motives for the crime were found by Dr. White in the phantasies of the youths. He said Dickie frequently had visioned himself as in prison, surrounded by abused and naked men and women and with girls gazing at him through the bars.

"Dickie had six definite objectives, the joy in planning, the thrill in contemplation, the anticipation of getting the ransom money, the publicity, his own discussion of the crime with others, and last and least, the $10,000 ransom itself," said the witness.

Leopold, the doctor testified, had anticipated a self-analysis of his emotions in prison and at the trial that might result from discovery.

HENRY FORD AUTHORIZED TO CONSTRUCT 58 MILES RAILROAD

Washington, Aug. 1.—Henry Ford was authorized today by the interstate commerce commission to construct approximately 58 miles of new line for his Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad at a cost of about $7,500,000. The commission also authorized the issuance of first mortgage bonds to raise the funds.

The authorization was to the Detroit and Ironton Railroad Company, a subsidiary corporation, which Mr. Ford organized to build from Malinta, Ohio, to Durban, Michigan. The new line will shorten haulage distances over the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ADVISES BRYAN ON WAR DEFENSE DAY

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 1.—Defense day plans do not call for any disruption of business in any way, President Coolidge told Governor Charles W. Bryan, democratic vice presidential nominee, in replying to a request from the governor for advice as to the scope of the war department's plans.

"The plans for the patriotic demonstrations are dependent on state and local desires and are intended to be purely voluntary," the president told Mr. Bryan, who recently voiced opposition to calling civilians from their work to take part in the demonstration.

Governor Bryan today made public the telegram he sent to the president and the president's reply thereto.

Quoting General George E. Duncan, commander of the Seventh army corps area of Omaha, as saying the event should "not only be a test of the mobilization plans of the organized forces of the army, but also a demonstration of the mobilization of all the elements of the nation—both personnel and material," the governor's telegram called attention to Mr. Coolidge's recent statement to Frederick J. Libby, secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, that the event was not a mobilization, and asked for advice.

"In view of the plans outlined by Major General Duncan," the governor said, "kindly advise me whether it is your desire that the plans and suggestions of General Duncan be carried out on National Defense day or whether General Duncan's plans and suggestions should be disregarded and the national test day plans be confined to the demonstrations on the part of the military forces of the country, state and nation, and the patriotic societies as originally understood, under which the state of Nebraska is officially co-operating."

President Coolidge replied as follows:

"Replying to your telegram of July 30, I am informed the war department plans contemplate a practice exercise by all military forces and officials, national, state and local, associated with steps necessary to demonstrate the defense policy enacted by congress.

"In this connection, a patriotic demonstration has been suggested, to be participated in as desired by state and local communities. While the plans of General Duncan for the practice exercise should guide all component parts of the army of the United States, the plans for the patriotic demonstration are dependent on state and local desires and are intended to be purely voluntary. The letter of General Duncan of May 20th to you, from which you quote in part, undertook to make this clear by this statement: 'No fixed form for these ceremonies is suggested. They should be planned to fit conditions in each particular locality.' Their plans do not contemplate a disruption of business in any way. General Duncan attempted to make it clear in his instructions of July 16, in which he stated: 'The hour of holding the defense test and patriotic demonstration will be left to the unit commander and the local committee in order that such assembly may be held at such time as will best suit local conditions and least interfere with the normal duties of those participating.'

"The people of the several states are expected to participate in accordance with such opportunity as they may have for a patriotic demonstration. You are, of course, at liberty to publish your telegram to me and my reply."

Fr. of L. Likely to Endorse Lafollette

Endorsement Appeared Almost Certain at the Close of the First Day of Convention

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 1.—(By the A. P.)—Endorsement of the La Follette-Wheeler candidacies by the American Federation of Labor appeared certain tonight, at the close of the first day of the annual session of the federation's executive council.

These were the developments:

Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. of L. and chairman of the council, authorized an aide to state that he, Mr. Gompers, would not lead any opposition to La Follette and Wheeler that might develop at these sessions.

Members of the council, while they stood behind Mr. Gompers' declaration of yesterday that the federation would maintain its traditional non-partisanship in the 1924 campaign declared they could properly endorse LaFollette and Wheeler, as long as the indorsement was confined to candidates and refrained from pledging fealty to any national political party.

It was disclosed that the report of the national political campaign committee of the A. F. of L. on major party platforms and presidential and vice-presidential candidates would be unanimous and would be the only report submitted to the council.

Another development of the day was a statement by Mr. Gompers, commenting on a telegram reported in news dispatches to have been sent the labor leader for the workers' party, whose presidential nominee is William Z. Foster.

The news despatch said the telegram attacked Mr. Gompers as the "arch-betrayer of the working classes." In his statement Mr. Gompers said in part:

"Foster and Ruthenberg (the workers' party presidential and vice-presidential nominees) tried to endorse Senator LaFollette in their St. Paul convention, but the senator forestalled them by denouncing the whole communist outfit.

"Thus chagrined, Foster and Ruthenberg in control of the machinery set up in the St. Paul convention, betrayed the men and women who went there with honest purposes and convictions, set up dummy candidates who were almost immediately discarded without ceremony and then proceeded to attack Senator LaFollette.

"Without expressing any further opinion, I am sure the senator will be pleased to know that international revolutionary communism opposes him. For my part, I should consider it extremely unfortunate for any political leader, or for an bona fide trade union leader or official to have the friendship of those whose first object is the destruction of all our democratic institutions and finally of the republic itself."

Mr. Gompers' statement described Foster and Ruthenberg as "disappointed men who know they cannot carry out the orders of their masters in Moscow and who know that the reason for this is the unyielding defense of democracy and the American institutions by the American Federation of Labor."

It was learned at the close of today's session that had it not been for the delayed arrival of Matthew Woll, of the photoengravers' union, who is also a vice president of the council, the report of the political committee would have been submitted today. He arrived this afternoon, and presentation of the report is now scheduled for tomorrow.

AMERICAN LEGION POSTS TO SUPPORT DEFENSE DAY

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—American Legion posts throughout the country will co-operate to make a success of national defense test day, September 12, according to a statement sent today to all units of the organization by Gartland W. Powell, director of the National Americanism commission of the legion.

"The war taught us the great necessity of being prepared in case of emergency," declared Mr. Powell. The nation for its own salvation should know its strength, not only in industry, but in man power at all times."

The defense test should be used, he said, as part of the legion's programme in obtaining the passage of the universal draft bill sponsored by the organization under the terms of which men, money and materials would be drafted in case of war.

Aluminum Dust

An accident near Furth demonstrated the dangerous properties of aluminum dust when mixed with air. In a shop where powdered aluminum is employed to give a metallic coating to paper, an arc-lamp that had melted its support and fell, thus bringing fire into contact with the aluminum dust. A violent explosion followed, killed two workmen and injured several others. When aluminum powder burns it produces an extremely high temperature, a fact which is the basis of the method of soldering steel rails with the air of burning aluminum.

PRAISES ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE BRITISH LABOR PARTY

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 1.—High praise for the achievements of the labor party during its short term of office in Great Britain was contained in an address delivered before the Institute of Politics tonight by Richard H. Tawney, counsellor of the labor party. The lecture was the first of a series which Mr. Tawney is delivering here on "The History and Policy of the British Labor Movement."

The labor party, the speaker said, will be a permanent phenomenon in English politics. "It never was," he said, "revolutionary in method. It is and will continue to be revolutionary in aim."

Another speaker today at the opening session of the institute was Sir Valentine Chirol, long director of the foreign department of the London Times. He drew a picture of the reawakening of the Orient and of the menace the stirring of the east held for the Occident. Some way must be found to a peaceful readjustment of relations or the worldid will be plunged into deadly racial conflict, he declared, asserting that the races of the east resented the white man's assumption of superiority.

MARCUS GARVEY ADDRESSED NEGROES IN CARNEGIE HALL

New York, Aug. 1.—A plea for negro nationalism and a warning that the negro had nothing to hope for in countries dominated by white race marked an address delivered before a meeting of negroes in Carnegie hall tonight by Marcus Garvey, president general of the Universal Negro Improvement Association.

"The negro wants a nation," Garvey declared. "Why shouldn't we be nationally free and unfettered? The American nation in a short while will not be large enough to accommodate two competitive rivals, one black and the other white."

Garvey said it was as futile for the negro to demand the political equality guaranteed by the American Constitution as to seek social equality.

"Races and people are only safeguarded when they are strong enough to protect themselves, and that is why we appeal to the 400,000,000 negroes of the world to come together for self-protection and self-preservation. We do not want what belong to the great white race or the yellow race. We want only those things that belong to the black race. Africa is ours. To win Africa we will give up America, we will give up our claims in all other parts of the world. We will give up the vain desire to having a seat in the White House, or having a seat in the house of lords in England for the opportunity of filling these positions in a country of our own."

Garvey referred to the attainment of important governmental positions by negroes in America and the British West Indies and asserted that his organization had made this possible.

TABLET UNVEILED TO HONOR OF SIR CHRISTOPHER WREN

New York, Aug. 1.—The Earl of Crawford, president of Fine Arts of Great Britain, today unveiled a bronze tablet in honor of Sir Christopher Wren which the Architectural League of New York placed in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, it was announced at the league headquarters here.

The inscription states that the tablet is in recognition of Wren's influence upon American architecture.

Airmail Pilot Killed At Soldier's Funeral

Reno, Nev., Aug. 1.—William Blanchfield, United States airmail pilot, while flying above a cemetery here during the progress of the funeral of an ex-soldier, was dashed to death when his plane caught fire. The burning plane landed on the roof of a building. Blanchfield was dead when rescuers reached him.

WORLD-FLIERS MAY HOP OFF FOR ICELAND TODAY

Kirkwall Scotland, Aug. 1.—(By The A. P.)—It was believed tonight that Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, Lieutenant Lehigh, Wade and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, the American army world-circling aviators, would be able to hop-off from Houton Bay early tomorrow morning for their flight to Iceland. Weather conditions over the route to be traversed were reported tonight as growing better.

While the three army planes rested tonight on the waters of Houton Bay, reports received from the torpedo boat desoroyers Reid and Billingsley, lying at their stations between the Orkney Islands and Iceland, indicated a general clearing up of the fogs which had prevailed during the past three days and held the fliers here.

Lieutenant Smith spent the afternoon at the Orkney Golf club in Kirkwall, while the other fliers visited the quaint old town, with its cathedral dating back to the 12th century.

The disappearance, under mysteri-ous circumstances, of Mrs. Lena Ericson, 65 years old, of Botsford, who was last seen on Cannon street, Bridgeport on July 26, has been reported to the state police by Mrs. Clipton, of Botsford, the employer of the aged woman for the past twelve years.

Baron Adelbert Von Gontard, grand-son of Adolphus Busch, millionaire St. Louis brewer, was married in a Fifth avenue home in New York to Baroness Sussanne Von Schilling after he had been prevented by a United States law from marrying his fiancee on board the steamship George Washington at Quarantine.

Opening 5,624 bottles of beer to be poured into the sewer was a punishment accepted by William Willis, of 355 Benham avenue, Bridgeport, and John Barker, of New Haven, in lieu of jail sentence of 15 days, when they were found guilty in city court in Norwalk.

TODAY THE GERMANS WILL BE INVITED TO COME TO LONDON

Ramsay MacDonald, British Premier, As Chiarman of the Inter-Allied Conference Will Extend the Invitation—Only a Technical Point Now Remains to be Adjusted For a Complete Agreement on How the Dawes Plan Should Be Made Operative.

London, Aug. 1 (By the A. P.)—With the exception of one technical point, this relating to reparation transfers from Germany, the inter-allied conferences this afternoon reached complete agreement on how the Dawes plan should be made operative.

This one outstanding difficulty, it is said, will be cleared away tonight, and the allied plenipotentiaries have been summoned to sit in plenary session at the British foreign office in Downing street at 11.30 o'clock tomorrow morning to pass judgment upon the committee's reports, which are to be embodies in a protocol for signature by the Germans.

Tomorrow Ramsay Macdonald, the British premier, as chairman of the inter-allied conference, will extend an invitation to the Germans to come to London as soon as possible. The mission from Berlin, however, is not expected to arrive before Monday, and possibly Tuesday, for it is anticipated that Dr. Stresseman, the German foreign minister, will delay its departure until he has had an opportunity to talk with Charles E. Hughes, the American secretary of state, who is to spend Sunday in the German capital.

High authorities here believe Mr. Hughes will give the Germans words of advice about the attitude they should take when they appear at the conference table to discuss the methods the conference has adopted for inaugurating a new reparation era. High authorities here express the belief that the Germans will be warned to do nothing in London to obstruct the conference.

The magic wand of arbitratino, held in the hands of the French and waved over the conference table, has wrought wonders for inter-allied diplomacy. Differences which last week threatened to break up the parleys have disappeared. The American delegates, official and unofficial observers, tonight expressed the opinion that the conference results are sound economically and financially, and that the Dawes plan will be put to work without loss of any of its effectiveness.

From all quarters there came the highest tributes to the conciliatory attitude taken by the French delegation. Premier Herriot's principle for arbitrating difficulties which may arise has carried the day, although nearly every point in the proposals he submitted Wednesday afternoon has been altered, but not to an extent that the French premier has endangered his political position at home or that credit can be detracted from the French efforts to bring the conference to a successful termination so that the Dawes proposals can be given the earliest opportunity to prove their worth as a remedy for Europe's economic ills.

Throughout the conference the Americans have played an important role. Owen D. Young has sat in at all the committee meetings, lending his expert advice on the highly technical points of the Dawes plan, and James A. Logan, Jr., has participated actively during the final sessions of the committee, where he was continually called upon to assist in reconciling divergent Anglo-French viewpoints. Tonight Mr. Young characterized Mr. Logan as "the chronic peacemaker of the London conference."

When the experts left Downing street this morning the French proposals had been adopted to the point involving modification in the Dawes plan in case a defece should appear and threaten its efficiency. Proposals for minor modifications were accepted without prolonged debate; but when the French urged that the powers of the transfer committee be submitted to their general scheme of arbitration there developed very strong opposition, because this committee is the heart of the Dawes plan and is to be organized as an executive body.

The French proposal to arbitrate the question whether financial maneuvers in Germany were occurring to defeat the transfer committee in its work resulted in prolonged debate that finally resulted in an agreement that if the transfer committeemen should be divided evenly—this is, three to three—on such an issue, then the question might be put to arbitration.

The French still urged the right of one dissenting member of the transfer committee to demand arbitration, and a formula finally was arrived at which stipulates that if accumulated funds under the agent general's control in Germany have reached 5,000,000,000 marks or the transfer committee stops the accumulation before that sum is reached, as provided by the Dawes report, then one dissenting member of the committee had the right to appeal for arbitration as to whether financial manoeuvers are taking place in Germany to defeat the Dawes plan programme.

The British delegates at the conference table held out that there should be two dissenting members of the transfer committee before arbitration could be had, and at 10.30 o'clock this evening the experts returned to Downing street to argue out this highly technical question, upon which the conference hange.

HOSTILITIES ON MAIN PLAZA IN MEXICO CITY

Mexico City Aug. 1.—(By The A. P.)—The main plaza in Mexico City was suddenly transformed into a battlefield at 5.30 o'clock this afternoon when paraders, protesting against the high municipal taxation on stands in the city markets, came into collision with the police.

One of the paraders was shot dead and another was fatally wounded.

To Look Out For U. S. Interests In Brazil

Rear Admiral John H. Dayton, U. S. N., commanding the Special Service Squadron in the Caribbean, who has been ordered to hold himself and his vessels in readiness to go to Brazilian waters to protect American life and property in the event that the revolt now prevalent in Sao Paulo should spread. The cruisers "Denver," "Cleveland," "Rochester" and "Galveston" are the vessels under his command which may be sent to the scene of trouble.

MAY SETTLE DISPUTE OVER MOOSE HILL INN TREES

New Haven, Aug. 1.—A dispute started when the state highway department cut down thirteen large trees adjacent to the Moose Hill inn on the highway between Branford and Guilford to make way for a change in grade and resulted in a suit by Tyler Cruttenden, owner of the resort, was on the way toward a settlement today. After a delay of nineteen months it was announced that the state road work which has been held up at this point would be resumed and the stretch of road unpaved be finished.

Thirty workmen cut down the trees, despite Mr. Cruttenden's protest in April, 1923, and an injunction suit held up the work at this point, though the new state highway was completed between the two towns.

Condemnation proceedings have now been started by the state in which damages to the property of Mr. Cruttenden are to be fixed, it was announced. Litigation by Mr. Cruttenden will not be withdraw until there is a satisfactory adjustment of the controversy, it was stated.

BODY FOUND IN RESERVOIR IN TOWN OF NEW HARTFORD

Winsted, Conn., Aug. 1.—The body of an unidentified man, about 50 years old, of Italian extraction, was found in the Nepaug reservoir, owned by the city of Hartford in the town of New Hartford, this afternoon by former Selectman Charles Mason, who was working on the road with a gang, of laborers. Mason with George Douglas, watchman at the reservoir, recovered the body 30 feet from shore. The man had removed his hat and coat, leaving them on the shore before going into the water. His new blue serge suit bore the mark of a Torrington store. Medical Examiner C. F. English said the body had not been in the water mor ethan three hours. The man weighed about 150 pounds, had white hair and was five feet, five inches in height. A notebook was found in one of the pockets and contained written messages in Italian.

COOLIDGE ENCOURAGED BY THE LONDON CONFERENCE

Washington, Aug. 1.—An early and successful conclusion of the inter-allied conference at London is confidently expected by President Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge told visitors today that recent official reports and newspaper dispatches had been encouraging, considering the difficult problems with which the conference is dealing and the diversity of opinion among the nations represented in the discussions.

CONDITION OF SENATOR LODGE IS EXCELLENT

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 1.—"Senator Henry Cabot Lodge passed a very comfortable day and his condition is excellent," was the bulletin tonight from Dr. John H. Cunningham at the Charlesgate hospital where the republican leader is a patient.

WILLIMANTIC

Members of the William E. Hinckley family of Jordan road were caused unwarranted distress traced through a neighborhood rumor on Windham road Thursday evening when a statement was spread two of the Hinckley brothers had been killed in an accident. The two young men had remained at home all day long, friends were assured who called Mrs. Hinckley. The source of the rumor could not be determined, but it is believed that there was some misunderstanding in connection with the accident on Windham road Thursday forenoon when Francis Bellwire was severely injured. Involving the affair of the name of the party who is known as Hinckley and is a relative of Bellwire was connected with the possible flounderstanding.

Willimantic's water supply which has been sadly depleted of late was helped out considerably by the fall of rain Thursday afternoon. The water at the pumping station pond in Mansfield was four inches higher Friday morning. A purchase of extra water has been made from the E. A. Buck pond in Westford. Action to further conserve the watersupply has been taken by Mayor George W. Hickey and Superintendent of Water Works Henderson. S. Moulton in posting notices that the use of all allcocks and hose is forbidden until further orders.

Miss Anna Caisse was tendered a shower at the Windham Girls' club rooms, Thursday, in honor of her approaching marriage with Alvin V. Nelson. Miss Alice Peterson was hostess for the evening. Luncheon was served amid decorations of pink and white. The gifts were cleverly arranged under a beautiful decorated pink and white parasol. Others attending the affair were Misses Eva rose, Leda and Alexina Caisse, Evelina Beaulieu, Hilda Berard, Camilla Roy, Florence Coutu, Louise Parent, Germaine Dion, Delphin Foti, Mabel McQuillan, Helen Loiselle, May and Eleanor Moriarty, Minnie Peterson, Gladys Neff, Mrs. John Farrell, Mrs. Frank St. John, Mrs. Edward Rocheville and Mrs. Wilfred Gagnon.

Louisville Lou is here.. He is Oliver (Pop) Wright, retired fireman, who has hoofed it from the land of moonshine and right-hand lunch carts, Louisville, Kentucky, in an effort to regain his health. Of all the hikers, trampers, riders and motorists who are following long trails and have stopped in this city during the summer, "Pop" Wright is probably the most interesting conversationalist. He arrived here Friday forenoon to rest up after a 20,000 mile hike which started January 1, 1922. He called at the Bank street engine house where he met the members of Engine Company No. 1 with whom he became fast friends before parting. His hike is set for 26,000 miles and he plans to complete the mileage by walking back to San Francisco. He left for Manchester and Hartford later in the day. The long distance walker has a most interesting collection of souvenirs. Such as photographs, badges, insignias, etc, which he displays with pride. He was given a photograph of ex-Chief Wade U. Webster. "Pop" is now 68 and is without relatives, his wife and two children being dead. He replenishes his finances by working from time to time. He believes that walking is helping him to recover from a breakdown which he sustained in Louisville.

Certificates of appreciation "in recognition of eminent services to agriculture and rural life in Connecticut" were awarded three of this state's leading farmers, by the Connecticut Agricultural College Thursday afternoon. The presentation Address was by President Charles L. Beach of the college. For long service in connection with the experiement stations at Storrs and New Haven, Dr. Edward Hopkins Jenkins, now of Connecticut Agricultural college was awarded a certificate. He has been associated with the Connecticut Experiment Station in New Haven since its establishment in 1877 and was a director of the college for forty years. Another certificate went to Elijah Rogers of Southington, one of the foremost farmers of the state and a pioneer of the fruit growing industry. Mr. Rogers was the representative farmer of Connecticut chosen by The Country Gentleman some years ago. He has been a member of the state legislature and is now agricultural advisor of the State Manufacturers' association.

The third certificate was awarded Charles Judson Abell, of Lebanon. For half a century a prominent farmer, Mr. Abell is the fourth lineal descendant from the first settler of Lebanon. He has been active in the organization of cooperative milk marketing, throughout Eastern Connecticut and Rhode Island and he has been president of the New London County Farm bureau.

This policy of awarding certificates will be followed in future years by the college. Professor Richard F. Dodge, dean of the short courses at the college, announced Friday that each year certificates will be given to the three leading farmers of the state in recognition of the service they have given to progress in Connecticut farming.

Unless those who walk the city streets here today (Saturday) are inclined toward offering support to the baseball cause in Willimantic, they better don running shoes to set a pace with a group of twenty members of the Windham Girls' club for today is Tag Day. The girls are out to refill the empty coffers of the baseball team and they yill dart from strategic points to pin their tags on all comers. While one hand attaches the tag the other will reach out for the donation and the outstretched hand should be decorated in substantial manner, for the cause is a good one and needs support.

The baseball benefit dance at Lakeside Casino, Thursday evening was attended by a fair sized crowd. The Lakeside orchestra, J. Raymond Young, leader, donated the music for the evening. John Hildebrand, of South Manchester winner of the prize for trot, generously turned his prize over to the local baseball association. His partner, Miss Loretta LaRue, of this city was awarded a silk umbrella. A trio of Willimantic's dancing experts acted as judges.

Only three persons appeared at a meeting of the board of registrars held Friday at the selectmen's room in the town building for the purpose of adding to the caucus list. Thomas A. Every household should have a jar of Resinol to heal skin troubles

Minor skin troubles—itching patches, bits of rash or redness—so easily develop into serious, stubborn affections, that every home-maker should have Resinol Ointment on hand to check them before they get the upper hand. We recommend Resinol for this with the utmost confidence because of its harmless ingredients and its success in healing eczema and similar serious skin diseases.

Resinol Ointment is an excellent healing dressing, too, for chafings, burns and stubborn little sores. Resinol, generally sold by all druggists.

A Word from Walter P. Chrysler

The same engineering genius which with the Chrysler has literally revolutionized practice and performance in the six-cylinder field, has now made the good Maxwell equally outstanding among four-cylinder cars

My meaning is precisely this: That no other four-cylinder car—at anything like the Maxwell price—is giving the combination of performance, ease of riding and driving, economy, long life, and practical elimination of vibration, that the good Maxwell gives to its owners.

JEWETT CITY

The borough's fire whistle, through the courtesy of the Ashland Cotton Co., is operated from the boiler rooms of that plant. With all just reason the management takes exception to any insinuation that the failure of the whistle to blow Thursday evening was due to any tampering with the mechanism on their premises.

Friday afternoon, Superintendent George S. Brown, Assistant Superintendent A. L. Stebbins and Master Mechanic R. F. Cheney, in company with Warden Matthew Geary and Fire Chief Thomas Wakely went over the system at the Ashland Cotton company's plant. The tests included a thorough examination of both the electrical and mechanical parts of the machine, with the result that the joint statement is made for publication, that the failure of the mechanism to function Thursday evening was in no way traceable to any part of the system, over which the Ashland Cotton company exercises control.

Chief Wakely does not know the two men who told him that the fuses at the boiler house had been tampered with.

Assistant Superintendent Stebbins points out the mechanical impossibility of pulling the fuses or breaking the circuit, without a resultant alarm from the whistle itself, in warning that everything is not in order. These facts remain, and they cannot be gainsaid. Miss McCluggage blew the 9 p. m. test whistle, with everything working normally. At a few minutes after 10, she threw in the levers to sound number 51, with no response of any kind from the whistle, even after repeated trials. Somewhere about 11 p. m., upon orders from Chief Wakely to blow the test whistle, Miss McCluggage operated the switches, whereupon the answer came from the big whistle, instantly and correctly.

The erratic action of the fire whistle all Thursday afternoon was due to repeated circuit breaking by linemen working on the big cable, as stated by E. S. Hiscox, superintendent of the borough's electric system, and by Fire Marshal G. H. Prior.

The executive committee members of Pachaug Fair association are holding frequent meetings at which plans for the annual fair are being made. One of the directors, Miss Bertha Gallup, of Voluntown, has resigned from the board, as she is unable to attend the meetings. Alont Douglass was elected to fill the vacancy.

Nine members of the Eccleston class belonging to the Baptist Sunday school enjoyed an outing at Rocky Point and Oakland beach, on Thursday. The only regret was that the teacher, Miss Ida I. Foster was unable to attend.

Anthony Koslowski alias The Clown was found guilty of various thefts of automobile tires and rims when presented in the Griswold town court on Friday morning. The aggregate sentences imposed by Judge J. T. Barry was 50 days in jail on two counts. Thomas M. Shields of Norwich defended the accused. Bonds were fixed at $1,000 and were furnished by Koslowski's mother. The thefts took place last spring at which time the and got away. He returned Thursday and gave himself up.

The charred remains of the big K. K. K. cross on Taylor hill was an item of general interest Friday morning, and many went to see it. The upright was 14 feet high, of 4x4 joist. The cross-arm eight feet, fashioned from 2x3 material. Rolled strips of sacking and burlap, fastened to the sticks, with wire, then soaked in oil, when ignited made an illumination on the top of this distant hill, which was wonderful to see. The fact that so great an area was so brilliantly lighted, was due to the presence of a light fog in the atmosphere.

All day Friday dissatisfaction was expressed by property owners about the borough, because of the fact that the firetruck was unable to negotiate Ashland hill, when responding to a telephone alarm, during the K. K. K. cross burning. Many unhesitatingly condemn the engine that runs the truck. It is predicted that with three inches of snow it will be useless, and it will soon have to be scrapped.

THE CIRCUS CONCERT

If there is any department of the American circus that has been revolutionized more than the after-show concert, it has not been noted as yet. The concert of the circus in days gone by was a veritable vaudeville show, with just a sprinkling of the freakish. Today, novelty and action characterize the demands of the public in the concert and the Gentry, Bros.-Jas. Patterson Circus, which comes here Monday August 11, was among the first to recognize the need of a change.

They present a concert program, headed by Chief Bald Eagle and his band of Sioux warriors and Comanche raiders, in war dances and native forms of amusement. This is the first time since 1914 that Indians have been permitted to travel with a circus, so here is the chance for the youngsters to see in reality what they have seen in pictures before; then, Texas Joe Clark, with a program in which cowboys are featured in rope spinning, lassoing, trick and fancy riding and broncho busting. If you do not get a thrill from the work of these Westerners, you are immune to anything that bears excitement. Olson, champion challenging middleweight wrestler, meets all comers, the management offering $5.00 a minute to any one he is not able to pin to the mat, and last but not least, the Myers Duo, whose singing and dancing act is of the best, and sure to please even the most skeptical.

The circus will arrive in the early morning hours of August 11 and move directly to the Fair grounds. Street parade at 11 a. m.; doors to big show open at 1 and 7 p. m.; performances starting at 2:15 and 8:15.

Boat Excursion to Newport next Thursday

A special excursion by train and steamer will be operated by the New Haven Railroad and the New England Steamship Company from this city to Newport, R. I., next Thursday, August 7th, at the greatly reduced fare of $2.00 for the round trip.

The special train will leave Norwich at 8:15 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, arriving in New London at 8:45 a. m. connecting with the special excursion steamer which will sail from New London at 9:00 a. m. and arrive in Newport at 12:00 noon. The three hour sail along Long Island sound and through the waters of Block Island sound and Narragansett bay will be interpersed with music by special orchestra and the decks will be cleared for dancing. Dinner will be served on board the ship in the main dining salon and light refreshments will be on sale at the ship's refreshment counter.

Two hours will be allowed at Newport to visit the many points of interest that have made this city one of the most famous watering places on the Atlantic Coast including Newport Beach, Newport Casino, Truro Park, Cliff Walk, the Old Stone Mill, Forty Steps, Ocean Drive, and Ochre Point.

Returning the special excursion steamer will sail from Newport at 2:00 p. m. and dock at New London at 5:00 p. m. connecting with the excursion train which will arrive in Norwich at 5:55 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

Tickets limited to the seating capacity of the special train are now on sale at the local Railroad Station ticket office where it will be a case of First come, first served in view of the fact that other cities from Fitchburg to Norwich will each be alloted a proportionate share of the train's seating capacity.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

What is the spirit of America? Some foreigners, for instance, have said that it was the spirit of money; the chase of the illusive, fluttering banknote and the rolling goldpiece; the very essence, in fact, of the almighty dollar. Perhaps these critics have been influenced too much by the fact that many of the Americans they see have usually been occupied in loosing rivals, of wealth abroad, spending easily and rushing home to make more money to spend.

The Germans, perhaps, would tell you that the spirit of America was the spirit of victory in battle. He has reason to know.

But neither of these views would be correct. True, it is that, as some eminent statesman has said, America has "never lost a war or won a conference." But it is hard to conceive of the United States getting into a war unless the only other alternative was national humiliation and the destruction of the world's civilization. So America's spirit is not that of victory, per se. And sufferers through all parts of the world—in the Balkans, Armenia, Russia, Germany and Japan—can joyfully attest that American pocketbooks are open to all sorrow and destitution. Therefore it can not be money that actuates this great country.

The answer to the question may be found in Emory Johnson's latest screen classic, "The Spirit of the U. S. A." which will be shown at the Broadway theatre starting tomorrow. This F. O. B. picture portrays in no uncertain terms the fact that the real guiding motive behind American life today is, as it always has been, a love of peace. Not only by conquest of arms, which is the essence of victory; not gain by trade, which is the essence of money. Peace—the real love of a brotherhood of man living in harmony on a sphere which has long enough been tortured by the activities of Mars—is the quintessence of our national life.

Jack Dempsey in A New One, of the Fight and Win Pictures, "Vest of the Water Bucket" and a Kinogram Weekly completes the programme.

PALACE THEATER

Last times today, A Selfmade Failure with an all star cast including Ben Alexander, Lloyd Hamilton, Patsy Ruth Miller, and Matt Moore. Special added attraction Making moving pictures on the stage with a cast of local people.

Single Wives is the alluring title of a daring photoplay of modern society life which is to be the attraction at the Palace theater for four days starting tomorrow night.

As the title implies, the theme of the story, which the picture unfolds, treats with that class of women known to society as "single wives," who, victims of indifference of their husbands, seek affection and diversion away from their own firesides.

The photoplay offers to Corinne Griffith, who is co-featured with Milton Sills, one of the greatest opportunities she has had to date. Those who saw Miss Griffith in Black Oxen and Lillies of The Field will find her role in Single Wives more dramatic than any of her former parts.

Milton Sills is cast in the difficult role of the husband, who, although loving his wife, nevertheless is responsible for forcing her into the arms of an admirer because of his indifference. The part of the lover is in the hands of Lou Tellegen, others who made up the truly all-star cast of Single Wives are Kathlyn Williams, Henry B. Walthall, Phyllis Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick.

Added attractions, Aesops Fables, The Spat Family in their latest two reel comedy, Help One Another, Pathe news and famous Palace orchestra.

Breed Theatre.

One of the most thrilling and novel pictures ever seen in this city is William Fox's special, The Blizzard, which comes to the Breed theatre for three days starting Sunday next.

The feature of the picture is the herd of reindeer dashing through its native haunt in a blinding snowstorm. The photoplay of such an immense herd is in itself worthy of commendation.

The big sensation is when Elmer Hansson, playing the male lead of the boy endeavoring to follow the course which enriched his grandfather is dragged for many miles through snow drifts by the leader of the pack of reindeer, which the lad was bringing down from the northlands to market.

"Mile-a-Minute Romeo," Tom Mix's most recent William Fox production, will close its run tonight.

The production has been warmly received here and is truly one of the most action films that Tom Mix has ever produced.

The story has a western locale and is both new and highly interesting. Tom Mix portraying the principle in his best manner.

Lyceum Theatre.

Edgar Selwyn has produced "Dancing Mothers" recently. Unusual favorable praise was bestowed upon the play, cast and production in Washington and Atlantic City, he and Edmund Goulding having collaborated on the writing of this play of modern society types.

The cast is of unusual quality and includes Mary Young, Helen Hayes, Elsie Lawson, Norma Mitchell, John Halliday, Henry Stephenson and other Broadway favorites. The Lyceum theatre management announce this attraction for Friday and Saturday, Aug. 8 and 9 preliminary to the New York engagement.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

After a year during which there has not been a case of rabies in Connecticut, according to Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott of the state department of domestic animals, difficulty along that line has developed in the town of Sterling.

Mr. Elliott said while here Friday afternoon that the Sterling case was the first pertaining to rabies that has developed in Connecticut since March of last year, and in that case the dog that went wrong was one that had been shipped into Connecticut from New Jersey and developed rabies a few days after arriving here.

A rabid dog made its appearance in Sterling a few days ago. Whence he came no one knows. But there have been developments. Mr. Elliott found it necessary Friday to kill a Holstein calf that had been bitten by a rabid dog, the loss as decided for a basis of compensation, to be $30, the calf owner to be paid.

Mr. Elliott also killed a rabbit dog Friday that had been attacked a few days since by a rabid dog. In addition to this Mr. Elliott placed two dogs owned by Samuel Mortimer in quarantine, also two dogs owned by William Belkman.

Mr. Elliott said that for the present the dogs of the town of Sterling will not be placed in quarantine, further action awaiting developments. In his work in Sterling Mr. Elliott had the assistance of Dog Warden Frank Hazard and Selectman Frink.

It is of interest that no cases of rabies or suspected rabies have developed hereabouts for several years. The usual restrictions, however, as to the keeping of dogs are in full force and in case of any outbreak all the regulations will be rigidly enforced, that Connecticut may continue to maintain its enviable renutation for the regulation of dogs.

The opportunity presents itself this morning to correct a "correction." Such an opportunity, as memory serves, presents itself about once in a generation. Correcting the "correction," it may be stated this morning that, aside from withdrawing the assumption relative to a petting party, the young man who came within an ace of being run down, with his companion—a young woman—at the Main street crossing by a Bar Harbor express Tuesday night is guilty of one of the most reckless examples of careless driving known of in Danielson in a blue moon.

His statement that he was not driving in excess of 20 miles an hour is approximately correct. But a Bar Harbor and his car were heading toward a railroad crossing at varying speeds that promised to bring the automobile into the path of the roaring locomotive at exactly the right time to elect some members to the Grade Crossing Club, all inmates of cemeteries throughout the nation.

The engineer of the train had sounded the whistle of his locomotive as a warning to any traffic that might be moving. The automatic signal gong was pounding out its message of protection. But the driver of that little coupe came blithely on, regardless of all that science has done to protect him and in spite of the fact that a Bar Harbor express does not run on rubber tires and can be heard in the quiet of the night—for miles.

His defense that the sounding of a horn on a parked Hudson car prevented him hearing the train is pure buncombe. That horn was not sounded until the driver appeared to be in imminent danger of driving on to his death—with his fair and wholly innocent companion in his adventures. The Hudson horn was used after the rumble of the train, the blowing of the locomotive whistle and the clatter of the automatic signal gong had failed to stop him—or even slow him down. The Hudson horn was sounded by an observer, who used it as a decline of desperation to stave off another horrible crossing accident. The horn attracted attention. If any young man stepped out to save this reckless driver—as he claims that one did—and, it may be remarked, that might have happened in a tense moment without being observed, the Hudson horn was the noisy thing that saved the day. The writer of the "correction" admits much when he acknowledges that he heard the Hudson horn when he failed to hear the crossing bell, the locomotive whistle or the rumble of the train. He is a good advertiser for Hudson horns. The writer of this backs this comment with the statement that he is the one who blew the Hudson horn. He may let the case rest with the comment that in a score of years of newspaper work he has seen too many Grade Crossing Club members immediately after their election to refrain from trying to protect others from joining by such complacency as would keep his hand off a warning horn.

There will be another auction sale of fruit this (Saturday) evening at Foster's fruit market from 6.30 to 9.30 p. m. And as the Foster market in Plainfield there will be a fruit auction from 1.30 to 5.30 p. m. If you would buy fruit at lowest prices, attend these fruit auction sales.—adv.

In the town court at a session Friday morning, Joseph Osalga, of Willimantic charged with a violation of the motor vehicle laws, paid actual costs after his case had been nolled in view of extenuating circumstances. Osalga, about 11.30 Thursday evening, was driving a car owned by William Brown of Willimantic, by whom he is employed, when it crashed into the rear end of a machine owned in Danielson after overtaking it while coming down Little Rest hill. The damage done the Danielson car was adjusted by Mr. Brown, who came here from Willimantic Friday morning in an effort to rectify, in so far as might be possible, the damage done by his machine. Osalga spent the night in the police station at Willimantic as the result of the affair in which he figured as a driver.

Jeremiah E. Elliott, member of the court of burgesses, will move to Norwich during the coming week. Mr. Elliott, before coming to Danielson a resident of Wauregan, owns property in Norwich and has in mind a plan to build several houses on his holdings in that city. Going away from Danielson, Mr. Elliott will resign as a member of the court of burgesses, creating a vacancy that likely will be filled by appointment.

Attorney E. L. Darbie has not exhibited much interest in proposals that he consider standing again as a candidate for representative on the republican ticket at the election next fall, but it is likely that he will be subjected to pressure with a view to gaining his acceptance. Attorney Darbie has made a splendid record during his terms in the house of representatives at Hartford as a member from Killingly. His prominence has served to put Killingly on the map as people see things under the gilded dome at the state capitol. Attorney Darbie has been much talked of in the press of the state as a favorite for speaker of the house at the next session. This fact is not lost sight of in Killingly.

Still the cry goes up for more rain in this territory. Thursday's rainfall was welcomed most heartily, but it did not make up the water shortage hereabouts. The total rainfall in this section during the 31 days of July was less than an inch, far below the normal supply.

Mrs. J. C. Witter and her niece, Miss Katherine T. Thayer, left Friday for a week's visit with relatives in Northampton, Mass.

Followers of boxing were disappointed Friday over the announcement that the card of bouts scheduled to be held at the Casino arena had to be called off by the out of town promoter who had planned to stage them.

Friday afternoon, registrars of the town of Killingly held their first meeting for the purpose of perfecting the roll of electors for the fall elections. It was the opening official move of a long series of such events leading to the presidential election in November.

Mrs. Nelson Gauthier is in Canada for a visit with relatives and for a pilgrimage to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, near the city of Quebec.

Alcid Godreau, 14, a resident of the West Side, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where he underwent an operation of appendicitis.

Announcements were received in Putnam Friday of the marriage in New Haven Tuesday evening of John H. Corbett of Putnam and Miss Doris Warner Hosley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Hosley. Rev. D. J. Clark, pastor emeritus of the East Haven Congregational church, performed the ceremony in the front parlor of the Hosley home, where an improvised altar had been erected. To this altar the bride walked with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attended by Miss Dorothy Scoville, a classmate at Vassar, as maid of honor. Little Dorothy Hosley and Eunice Warner were ribbon bearers. The bridegroom was attended by M. R. D. Boyns, of Toronto.

Following the ceremony there was a reception which was followed by a supper at which there was music by an orchestra and many guests in attendance. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Corbett left for a wedding trip through the west, after which they will reside in Putnam.

The bride is a graduate of Vassar, class of 1924; the bridegroom is a graduate of Hillsdale college, Hillsdale, Mich. Mr. Corbett is at present secretary of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances throughout the county. Mrs. Corbett attended a social function in Putnam during the winter and met a number of Putnam people.

The first public band concert will be given on Union square next Wednesday evening by the Putnam band. There will be several selections by the band at 8.45, after which dance numbers will be played, and there will be dancing on the square, which will be prepared, as in former years, by sprinkling meal on the asphalt roadway.

In New York Thursday when there was unveiled a tablet at the home of Capt. John Ericsson where in 1861-'62 he designed and built the Ironclad Monitor, the flag that veiled the tablet was the historic banner that floated on the Monitor during the battle with the Merrimac. The ceremonies were held under the auspices of the National Museum of Engineering.

The incident is of interest in Putnam, the home of Thomas Taylor, colored, who, if not the last, is a survivor of the crew of the famous "Yankee Cheesebox on a Shingle." Whether there are other men now living who were on the Monitor when she battled with the Merrimac in Hampton Roads is not known in Putnam. All that the residents of this city know in this connection is that Putnam has the distinction of having as a citizen Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor, a lad at the time, attached himself to an officer of the U. S. navy as a body servant. The night before the historic battle the officer went aboard the Monitor and Taylor accompanied him.

While he was on the Monitor all during the battle with the Merrimac, Taylor did not see the fight but heard the firing and felt the shot glance from the Monitor's turret. Taylor was in the bowels of the Monitor, stripped to the waist, passing bags of powder. He was what was called a "powder monkey."

Some years ago a series of war pictures were printed in a book form. Among the views was one of the Monitor and its crew. In the crew appeared an excellent likeness of Taylor. Although in advanced years, he looks about the same today as he did back in the '60s. He lives in a home he owns on the top of Oak Hill and is seen about the business section daily. Some years ago he gave up work and retired.

The new gas container erected by the Putnam Light and Power company and completed a short time ago is now in use. The gas began to flow from the new tank Thursday evening at 7.45 and a constant pressure is now maintained 24 hours a day at 4.7 inches. Local consumers are now assured of a steady pressure even at midday, when in nearly every home gas is being consumed in getting the midday meal, and when heretofore the pressure has fallen. From this large new container gas will also be forced to supply the neighboring borough of Danielson just as soon as the pipe line is completed. The city now has the best gas service it has ever had.

Mrs. Barrak Smith of Buck street is entertaining Miss Jeanie Ferris of Glasgow, Scotland, with whom Mrs. Smith visited while in Scotland three years ago. This is Miss Ferris' first trip to the United States and she is greatly pleased with the country. On account of the quota being filled, Miss Ferris was obliged to land in Canada. After filling out a necessary questionnaire by the consul, she was allowed to go to Detroit, and from three came to Putnam, where she will remain for several months.

Mrs. May Clark and Mrs. William Fletcher, who are occupying the Tourtellotte homestead on Putnam Heights for the summer, have as guests Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Clark and family of Readville, Mass.

The trustees of Rossland park have announced that they will open the bath houses to those who wish to make use of them for the rest of the season. This is done in view of the outcome of the recent cases of bathers arrested by the state police. Before Justice Charles M. Perrin, North Woodstock, the cases, by agreement, were nolled. It is believed by those interested in bathing in the lake that there seems little likelihood of any further steps being taken in the case until fall, and then it is expected it will come up in the civil side of the court and that there will be no further attempt to bring the matter to a head by arrests for disobeying the order of the state health commissioner. At the recent hearing it was stated by a Hartford attorney that no one had the right to say that bathing could be permitted in Rossland lake, but he expressed his opinion that if it was he did not anticipate further arrests would be made.

Putnam will participate in National Defense day, Sept. 13th. The U. S. army, First corps area, Boston, has appointed H. E. Linderson, Park street, Putnam, to represent the First corps area in the activities in Putnam on that day. Mr. Linderson is a first lieutenant of engineers, Engineers' Officers' Reserve corps, and his appointment is a preliminary step in the local observance of National Defense day. Governor Templeton is to appoint a state committee, which state committee will name local committees in the various towns and cities of the state. The local committee will make plans for a fitting observance of the day, and it will be the duty of Lieutenant Linderson to arrange for carrying the plans into effect.

Miss Ruth Cohen is spending two weeks with Boston relatives.

Miss Molly Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith, will leave Sunday for a week's stay at Niagara Falls.

As soon as the S. N. E. Telephone company removes two poles on Walnut street the improvements of the street will be finished by the city highway department. It will take about two days to complete the work after the poles are out of the way.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. P. Gagne are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. James Wilkison of Providence, who have just returned from a tour of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Burnham and son Robert of New Bedford are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Ross.

Harold Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cortland D. Arnold, left Friday for a month's military training at Camp Devens.

Alfage Bissonet and family are spending a week in Canada during Mr. Bissonet's vacation.

Mrs. E. Cohan is entertaining Mrs. Nathan Weinberg of Worcester, formerly of Putnam.

NO WAR YEAR, YET STORK BRINGS ALL BOY BABIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Aug. 1.—During the World war, most of the births at the Day Kimball hospital were boys, and it was stated that this was true in war time, when boy babies greatly outnumbered girl babies. But at present we are living in times of peace, yet at the Day Kimball hospital the last 16 births have been boys. The last girl baby arrived at the hospital June 26. During the rest of the month of June five more babies were born—all boys. In July there were 11 births, the last being on Thursday, the last day of the month. These 11 cherubs were all boys. When the stork will run short of male freight and deliver a few females, one will have to wait to see.

MAROT SCHOOL GRADUATE WINS $600 SCHOLARSHIP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Aug. 1.—Miss Harriett Marot Taylor, a graduate of the Howe-Marot school for young ladies at Thompson, class of 1924, has been awarded one of the two $600 competitive scholarships for freshmen at Barnard college, Columbia university. Miss Taylor, who had a niece of Miss Mary L. Marot, head of the girls' school, took her college entrance examinations at Thompson and her psychology tests at New York. Miss Taylor has shown marked literary ability and was prominent in the activities of the school at Thompson.

NOANK

Harold Brown while at work moving a house dropped a tie on his foot. It handicapped him and kept him from work for a few days, but is now able to get about.

Postal cards have been received in the village from a Noank boy, Ira Stark, from Norway. He has been in the navy for 30 years and has traveled all over the world. Mr. Stark is in the best of health.

One of the local firemen who is always on his job when the alarm is rung in was a little late in getting to the recent fire Thursday at 5 a. m. On his return home he discovered that he had put his rubber boots on the wrong feet. His friends told him he could cover more ground when he was running to a fire if he took time to put his boots on as they belonged.

Benjamin Fish of Prospect Hill is resting more comfortably and it has been found that no bones were broken in his recent fall while engaged in painting the house of Capt. Wallace Brown when the extension ladder on which he was standing closed on him.

Judd Adams is spending a few days in Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Gertrude Sawyer was a recent caller in Hartford.

George Davidson and family have returned to their home in Boston.

The annual regatta day and dance at Groton Long Point is to take place today (Saturday.)

Mrs. Frank Banning was a New London caller Friday.

The Third district court put in the longest session Friday that it has in many months. Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr., read the following:

Civil docket—New writs: Frederick Ostman vs. Jessie Richmond, continued one week; Oscar F. Main vs. William Miner, answered by Dunn, continued one week; Ella Straut vs. Bertram Bramble, defaulted; Joe Stedman vs. Earl Wills, continued one week; Caroline Travenesci vs. Hazel Williams, continued one week; Granite Street Garage vs. Concetta Liotta, continued one week.

When Judge Michael J. Turano came into court nine violators of automobile laws were presented. The total amount of the fines imposed was $191, to which was added costs in each case. At the conclusion of the cases Judge Turano made the following statement:

"It will not be as lenient as I have been in the past. Violators will not get away with small fines. The number of cases appears to be increasing, and I intend to be more severe."

Wilfred R. Kennedy, 32, was charged with operating an automobile on Elm street, July 25th at a speed in excess of 25 miles per hour. He pleaded guilty. Town Solicitor Ferguson said that about 5 p. m. the defendant was followed by the traffic officer on Broad, Elm and Cross streets, where a speed of 45 miles an hour was maintained and automobiles were passed in both directions. Kennedy was fined $40 and costs, which was paid.

Robert G. Fiddes, 17, pleaded guilty to operating an automobile July 28th on Bay street at a speed in excess of 15 miles per hour. Attorney Ferguson stated that the defendant exceeded 20 miles per hour. He was fined $20 and costs.

George Girlach, 24, said that he wished to make a statement to the court and pleaded guilty to exceeding 25 miles per hour on the Post road. Town Solicitor Ferguson told the court that the man was followed by the officer from the Chase to Saunders farm in which distance four automobiles were passed in the same direction and a number in the other. Girlach informed the court that he was taking a girl for Dr. Champlin from the beach to her home in Sterling, Conn., that she had a fever of 103, and it was urgent that she get there. Ferguson said that there were two girls in the front seat and three in the rear, but if the case required leniency it should be shown him. Coupt B. Bliven, proprietor of the Wigwam hotel, from the audience asked Judge Turano if he might make a statement and when told to do so said that the young man was in his employ at the beach and that the girl, having an ice pack on her neck for a week, was ordered to go to her home. He directed the driver to drive rapidly if he had an open road. The automobile was in the form of an ambulance and the young man arrived back at the beach between 11 and 12 o'clock. Attorney Ferguson replied that the excuse was a good one and that he would be satisfied with either discontinuance or fine. Judge Turano remarked that the respondent should realize that he could not lawfully operate the car at a greater speed than the law allowed, which was not permitted even to physicians and because a driver had a sick person was not a sufficient reason to exceed the speed limit. Because of Mr. Bliven's statement he would direct the minimum fine of $1 and costs, which were paid.

William Morrison, 22, of South Manchester was charged with operating an automobile on the Watch Hill road July 27th when he passed a trolley car on a side open to receive and discharge passengers. Solicitor Ferguson said that the car was operated very slowly. Morrison stated that he was a stranger from sixty miles away and that in Hartford, if an automobile came to a dead stand, it could proceed slowly. A fine of $10 and costs were imposed and paid.

John Maglirella, 20, of Madison was accused of exceeding 15 miles per hour on Granite street on July 30th. Attorney Ferguson said that two cars were passed in the same and two in the other direction. A fine of $25 and costs was imposed and paid.

George Tucker, 22, of Hanover was said to have passed a trolley car on July 27th. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs. Paid.

Frederick L. Smith, 26, of New London was accused of exceeding a speed of 25 miles on July 27th on the Post road. Councilor Ferguson said that from the Chase farm to School street a speed of 45 miles was maintained and 13 cars were passed in the same direction. Smith said that he was speeding because his wife's leg was swollen and that he had come from Providence, his wife being in the doctor's care. He paid a fine of $35 and costs.

Manual Victoria Jr., of Stonington operated a Ford automobile with his foot on a muffler cutout opener, July 28th at 2.30 p. m. On his plea of guilty a fine of $15 and costs was imposed.

John Brown, 51, of New London was complained of for exceeding 25 miles per hour, July 25th, from Dunn's corners to Fancher's. The town solicitor said that a speed of 45 miles per hour was maintained and cars were passed in each direction. "Late for supper" was the excuse given by Brown and a fine of $35 and costs was imposed and paid.

State vs. Julia Vincent of Hope Valley, an assault case, was continued until 3.30 when Judge Turano found the respondent guilty and imposed a fine of $25 and costs. Attorney Clarence E. Roche, who appeared for the respondent, gave notice of an appeal and became surety for his client's appearance in the September term of superior court for Washington county.

The case grew out of what was apparently family disputes in which Mrs. Madeline Baton of Hope Valley alleged that she received three blows from a mop which Mrs. Julia Vincent seized from her as she was mopping the back steps of the house in which she resided. Mrs. Baton claimed that Eziantina Vincent, 13, daughter of Mrs. Vincent called her vile names, thumbed her nose at her, as a result of which she forbade her crossing near her place. The Vincent girl told her mother, who, it was said, immediately engaged in a wordy fistic encounter with Mrs. Baton, during which a mop handle was broken in two places. Clarence Baton, 9, son of Mrs. Baton, testified along the same lines. William Bitgood testified that he "stuck round" to see the fight and when it began to be "too much for him, bear it!"

After a recess he was followed by Julia Vincent for the defense, Fred Bushing of White Rock acting as interpreter. John Pukas, a neighbor, testified, speaking Polish, Frank Dabrowski, 13, acting as interpreter. He was followed by a number of other witnesses.

STONINGTON

People living on Water street, and the merchants as well, are very much pleased at the excellent judgment of Warden Crandall in not starting the new cement roadway during July or the present month on account of the hot dry spell and the dust and dirt which would arise at this time. The drought has so lessened the amount of water at the reservoir that is available for cement work at present that further postponement may be necessary. Water street with all the curbing reset, with lines and grades established and made uniform, has never looked quite so well as it does now, even without the cement highway. The new roadway will be constructed under the supervision of Warden Crandall. Thus the interests of the borough will be fully cared for.

Julius Hermanns who has been ill for several months with a strange malady which the medical profession has been unable to combat died Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stox.

The registrars of voters were in session Friday afternoon at the town clerk's office in Grand street from 1 until 10 p. m. The registrars for this district are Dr. James H. Weeks and William C. Robinson. They will be in session again for the last time next week.

Squad No. 1, of the Pioneer Hook and Ladder Co., in charge of Lorenzo D. Fairbrother, Jr., and August O. Muller held a drill and practice Friday evening.

Camille Legley of Blackstone, Mass., was before Judge A. Wilcox Wednesday afternoon on a charge of fishing in Aguilla brook without a Connecticut license. He pleaded guilty and was fined two dollars and costs amounting in all to $16.23.

The Thursday club of Moosup held their annual outing with Mr. and Mrs. John C. Gallup at their cottage across the harbor, July 18. Basket lunches were eaten on the porch. Following this the party scattered for different diversions, some for a dip in the salt water and others for a walk along the shore. In the afternoon raspberry ice cream was served by the entertainment committee, Mrs. A. J. Dennison, Mrs. Everett Codlin and Mrs. Clyde Miller. A unanimous vote of thanks was extended the host and hostess and also to the entertainment committee who arranged the successful outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Churchill and children John and George of Pittsburgh, Pa., are visiting Dr. and Mrs. Henry M. Thompson at their home on Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Starkweather of Chestnut Hill, Pa., are in town to spend the summer at their cottage on Harmony street.

John Chivallier is home from the Y. M. C. A. camp at Lantern Hill where he has been a tentleader.

Miss Helen Morrison of New London is spending a few days with Miss Anna Perry.

Mrs. Ernest Cushman of New London is vising Mrs. Estella Wordsworth.

MYSTIC

Members of the Round Table club and a few guests were entertained at luncheon at Rocky Ledge Inn Friday, the hostesses being Mrs. Louis P. Allyn and Mrs. Esther Copp Smith. Others present were Mrs. Oscar Pendleton, Stonington; Mrs. Jennie J. Davis, Mrs. Mary Briggs, Mrs. George P. Jones, Mrs. R. H. Wilcox, Mrs. Frank H. Hinckley, Mrs. J. W. Phillips and Mrs. Frank W. Batty.

The monthly supper given by the women of the Union Baptist church was served Thursday night in the church parlors.

Harrie Wood, an illustrator, who has been spending a number of weeks in Mystic sketching, leaves today (Saturday) for his home in Rushford, N. Y., and upon his return is to give an exhibition of his work for the benefit of the library in that place. During his stay in Mystic Mr. Wood has done considerable work in both water colors and oils and his pictures of marine scenes, beautiful landscapes and attractive old houses about the village are typical of the artistic spots in which this section abounds.

Mrs. Ellis Redfield of Madison, Conn., has been the guest this week of Mrs. Newton A. Dickinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chittenden of New London had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Fairbanks of this place on a motor trip to Narragansett Pire, over the Old Post road, this week.

Peter DeRonck left Tuesday for New York, from which port he sailed for a visit to Naples and other places in Italy.

There was an attendance of 34 adults and 10 children at the picnic of Florine Dow camp, Royal Neighbors, at Atlantic Beach Thursday.

The recital given by Miss Edna E. Richard, soprano, at Mystic Bridge Congregational church Thursday evening for the benefit of Mystic Community house proved a rare treat. Endowed with a voice of exquisite quality, and which has been cultivated by study, Miss Richard charmed her audience with the ease and melody with which she gave the several numbers on her program, being heartily encored throughout. She was presented a beautiful bouquet of pink rosebuds. Those who assisted her were Treffiy Morin, baritone, one of Mystic's most popular singers; Rev. George L. Farnham, who read several selections from Mark Twain's works in a delightful manner; Mrs. Mildred Wilbur, pianist, whose skill on the piano is exceptional; and Mrs. George L. Farnham, violin accompanist, whom it is always a pleasure to hear. It was a program of excellence throughout.

The annual picnic of St. Mark's Sunday school was held Thursday at Ocean Beach. The day was much enjoyed by the children and their parents.

A special town meeting was held Thursday evening in the town hall in Poquonoc, at which Clark B. Whaley was elected moderator and Henry L. Bailey clerk. Two items of business of special interest to residents here were the appropriations desired for road improvements in the village. An appropriation of $4,000 was voted for the purpose of acquiring property necessary to complete the improvement of Water street, and the sum of $1,300 was voted for cementing those portions of High and Bank streets which have been re-graded recently in connection with the highway work on Baptist Hill. The sum originally asked for this latter work was $3,000, but it was stated that it was found that the work necessary could be done for $1,300, and therefore this amount was voted. It was stated that on the west side of Water street the sidewalk would extend from Bank square to the point just beyond Fort Rachel place, to which the new road is to be laid, while the sidewalk on the east side of the street would extend only from Bank square to the carbarn on account of it being deemed inadvisable to lay a cement sidewalk beyond that point because of the marshy condition of the street beyond the carbarn. There was a good attendance at the meeting, quite a number from Mystic being present.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rossie and daughter, who have been spending several weeks abroad, visiting relatives in Germany, were expected to arrive in New York Friday. Upon their return they are to occupy their cottage at Pleasant View for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. S. Z. Chesebro has returned to Middletown after a visit with her mothre, Mrs. Albert Haley.

Mrs. Charles Secgarla and son of New York are guests of Mrs. Secgarla's sister, Mrs. Peter DeRonck.

AROUND THE WORLD.

If all goes well with the American aviators now about to make the long hazardous hop of 500 miles to Iceland, they will be back on American soil again within two weeks and perhaps within another ten days they will be back in California at the point from which they started. Their flight from Alaska to Japan was reported to have been the worst stage of the journey so far, but they are liable to encounter even worse conditions in their swing through Iceland and Greenland. The whole endeavor has been one that required caution as well as courage and Lieut. Smith has shown that he knows how to exercise both qualities.

The navy has joined with the army in reducing the perils of the northern swing. A cruiser and several destroyers will be on hand in the several stretches of open water where there is a possibility that the planes, if they were forced down, would soon become encrusted with ice and sink. With the army's supplies distributed as planned and the navy co-operating to safeguard the intrepid aviators, there is still the peril of low visibility due to fogs and rain. It was in such a fog as may be met in Greenland, Iceland or on the Labrador coast that Major Martin, the flight commander, lost his flagship when he crashed into a mountain in Alaska. In the present northern detour, however, the aviators will have the benefit of their Bering sea experiences to guide them.

About every obstacle that could be anticipated has been encountered in their flight so far but such was their skill in navigating the air that they have come triumphantly through them all. They arrived in Paris twelve days ahead of schedule, largely because they refused to rest in good flying weather. The itinerary was calculated so closely that a delay in their departure from England would have forced them to abandon the rest of the trip. But with twelve days to spare their chance of success is better than they hoped for.

JUDGE LUCIUS BROWN.

When a life that has been so well known to the community as that of Judge Lucius Brown ceases its activity upon this earthly stage, we pause to consider what may have been the impress it left upon the men and the times which it knew. For fifty-six of his seventy-eight years Judge Brown was a resident of this city, living a life which, in no ordinary sense, can well be said to have been "seen of all men." In active practice as a member of the bar from 1868 until the time of his death, he achieved a place of prominence and influence in his profession, wherein he set an example of adherence to the highest ethical standards and won the respect and affections of clients and fellow practioners. For twenty years he was judge of the city court, where his judgments were tempered with sympathy and the understanding of human frailties and his natural kindly disposition leaned ever to the side of leniency, when leniency was possible.

Early in life Judge Brown accepted the Christian faith and his voice, counsel and example continued through all his days as a strong influence in his church associations. His interest in education was maintained through his service as a trustee of Brown university, he was honored in local banking circles, and he played a helpful, through unobtrusive, part in philanthropic activities. In his maturer years he had the satisfaction of seeing three sons follow the pattern of life which he had set, than which no greater reward could come to a father. With sincerity it may be said of Judge Brown that he merited all that is contained in the appellation, a Christian gentleman.

IN TEARS OVER AMERICA.

If what the Russian soviet government says through its speechmaking representatives is to be taken at its face value, there is great concern in Russia over the parlous condition of the American proletariat and its capitalistic oppressors. It announces that 2,000,000 farmers have thrown away "their plots of ground" and that the "shadow of economic disaster is knocking" at the door of America. Continuing, the executive committee of the Communist International at Moscow announces that American capital aims to transform Europe into a vassal colony. Nor does the heated imagination of the committee stop there. America is called the "most terrible and avaricious participant" in the late war, and the committee proceeds to prophesy that America and the allies will now proceed to strangle Germany, and, having accomplished that benevolent task, will turn her into a playground for the "robbers of all countries."

The absurd final in this fantastic discovery is given in the statement that German workers will be converted into "slaves of democracy and coolies of pacifism" as a result of the present London conference. Radek, the soviet chief of publicity, adds his bit to the abounding nonsense by declaring how malevolent the purposes of the United States are; that if Germany won't let itself be exploited by the American capitalists, then they will call in the colored troops of France to place their African feet upon the helpless German neck. From all this it must be apparent that in some sections of Russian opinion there is not the most cordial feeling towards the United States. At any rate, as long as such rank perversion of facts can be printed with the sanction of the Russian government, we will probably continue to follow the example of Secretary Hughes and be slow to recognize in Russia the arrival of the liberator of the world.

THE PROPOSED 20TH AMENDMENT.

In an illuminating discussion of the proposed child labor amendment to the Constitution, James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, uses the current number of "Connecticut Industry" to describe what the amendment really means and what will be the results to the country at large if it becomes a part of the Constitution. The two sections of the proposed amendment are as follows: Section 1. The congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age. 2. The power of the several states is unimpaired by this article, except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by the congress.

Space forbids the reproduction of Mr. Emery's argument against the amendment, but a brief summary brings it down to six principal points. The amendment is masquerading under a plausible title, but in fact is not confined to what that title suggests. Its effect would be a grant of exclusive power to congress, to which, directly or by implication, is granted complete control over all persons under 18 to an extent not now possessed by any state in the Union. The government takes the place of the parents in the control of any person under 18 should such a person desire to work to help out his own or the family finances. The law would step in with a forbidding hand should any son or daughter want to assist his or her parents on the farm or in the home, if such service were to be paid for. Habits of industry and thrift which parents might like to inculcate in their children by encouraging them in some gainful occupation that was easily within their strength and ability would be effectually interfered with under the law. No youngster could earn his first pennies and start his first bank account by helping in the garden or accepting pay for doing light chores.

Is the act necessary to cure the alleged evil of child labor? It is charged that proponents of the amendment have grossly exaggerated the evil of child labor and have ignored the fact that the problem of protecting child labor is being more effectively met by the states now than ever before. At no time has this been more so than in the decade between 1910 and 1920, when the child population increased 16.5 per cent, while the proportion of all children employed in gainful occupation decreased from 18.4 per cent to 8.5 per cent.

The proposed amendment involves a revolutionary transformation of the traditional relation of local and federal government. Its ultimate development would be an extensive and costly bureaucratic control of the life of all minors. This would extend to their relation to their parents and guardians, their training and their education, and all the circumstances of their contribution to the support of themselves or their own families in the home, farm or any commercial occupation.

The proposed law takes no account of local conditions as affecting local application, but imposes a remote and unreachable authority under a bureaucracy, a method of government which some seem too prone to encourage and which will be only another step in overwhelming the government in a mass of administrative detail.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: For this relief the weather man is to be thanked.

Candidate Davis tunes in harmoniously with Brother Bryan's first blast from the democratic band wagon.

The democratic convention revealed enough dark horses to make quite a team if they can all be induced to pull together.

One rock-bottom offer after another will eventually, it is hoped, bring the conference in London to a bed-rock agreement.

President Coolidge has a gift and a courage for definite and clear-cut statements that leaves little need for amplification after he has spoken.

With the republicans having an elephant and the democrats a donkey for party emblems, a bobcat has been suggested for the embryo third party.

Statistics showing the stay-at-home vote reveal that about half the adult Americans regard the exercise of the franchise as neither a privilege nor a duty.

Many electric signals for grade crossings is one suggestion, but who is going to keep motorists from stopping on the track to see if the signal is working?

If new Pennsylvania citizens are beginning to betray annoyance at the discovery that General Butler was really serious in his attempt to reform Philadelphia.

The question, "Shall we wear bathing suits?" is answered in unanimous affirmative. The supplementary query, "If so, how much?" is still under consideration.

Inasmuch as the epidemic of lockjaw reported in the south is among the cattle and not the politicians, there will be a general desire that the campaign against it may meet with success.

Denmark, with 3,500,000 inhabitants, averages three murders a year, but Chicago averages as many a week in about 3,000,000 population. Apparently it's not in Denmark now that there's something rotten.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Are not federal officers, at least, under the same legal and moral obligation to obey the laws of the country as civilians? If so how shall we explain the episode recently enacted in the vicinity of Jewett City with all the lurid setting of a dime novel, when state officials drove rum-runners through that borough at the rate of a mile a minute. One feature of this Wild West exhibition was the reckless use if firearms whereby an innocent party was wounded. Suppose automobiles in more or less numbers were coming toward Jewett City while this stage play was on. what in all human probability would have been the result? This main street is both hilly and crooked, and nothing but a fortuitous circumstance saved the day (or night) from a serious tragedy. As accidents on the state's highways are so alarmingly on the increase, this danger ought not to be added to by the guardians of the law.

The history of mankind is full of the accounts of invasions, of one kind and another, from the earliest times to the late German attack upon Belgium. They have come from all quarters of the globe and inspired by every variety of human emotions. The army of one nation has been attacking some other army with monotonous regularity ever since humanity has been in existence. We hope at least that the end has come. But do we realise that the invisible foes of the human family have done more to make this fair earth of ours a veritable "valley of the shadow of death" than all the combined armies of men? Scientists tell us that the deadly germs of typhus, cholera, typhoid and smallpox — "more numerous than the combined armies of the world from Agamemnon to Pershing"—have invaded territories of more than 300,000,000 population. But this great army has been driven back.

One of the greatest—but generally overlooked—assets of the American farmer is the collective bug-appetites of the feathered tribe. One great authority in the field of ornithology has told us that if all the birds should suffer the fate of the carrier pigeon and other species that have become extinct, the earth would no longer be capable of supporting the life of man—the explanation being the rapid increase of noxious insects and rodents. It almost passes belief how many insects a single bird will devour in one day. If this is true, as it undoubtedly is, there should be a mighty unity of endeavor to protect the birds. State authority should make it a legal offence to needlessly kill the birds. The schools are doing their part in teaching the children these things, and it is to be regretted that the boys so soon forget the lesson. But there are others no longer boys who are guilty in this matter.

It was on August 3, 1492 that Columbus started on his first great voyage of discovery, and did not reach San Salvador until October of that year. Compare, if you please, that speed with what our slowest ocean greyhounds can do today! But speed in none of its features was accused of excess in the days of this great navigator. How different the human emotions with those who sail today in the Berengaria from those who listed in the Santa Maria. Did ever a vessel face the great unknown fraught with such important eventualities as the Santa Maria? The only one comparable with it was the Mayflower a century and a quarter later. What civilizations were to develop from these precious human cargoes, so different in their ideas and purposes in adventure! An overruling "Providence" was planting his footsteps in the sea."

Jesus merits the title of The Great Teacher because of the great success of his teachings. He had a way of bringing the profoundest thought concerning his Kingdom within the range of their limited understanding. His method was largely that of analogy. By getting his hearers interested in the things they knew he brought them face to face with the things that they didn't know. He compelled them by the force of his personality to consider these either by acceptance or rejection. Has not this Great Teacher been doing the same things ever since? It was his plan to bring in the invisible by means of the visible; he unfolded the reality of the supernatural through the channels of the natural. What an audience he had as the Sea of Galilee, in fact so great that he had to push out in a boat to see them all, and then he taught them very simply, but with amazement they said, "Never man spake like this man."

It used to be said of a leading preacher that when there was no fight on "he was as dry as a country road in August." The ordinary August country roads are apt to be rather dry. Nobody acquainted with New England climatic conditions in summer will dispute the statement. But we inquire what in all human probability will be our country roads as judged by the present July situation. The usual August has nothing on July in this respect this year. Unless soaking rains come the country roads will be wellnigh impassible. But one surmises what will happen if the germ theory is as deadly as it is sometimes represented. If it is we shall need some powerful anti-toxine to keep us immune. The strong winds that sweep through our city streets must carry with them millions of germs. If we are not proof positive against them, then woe be unto us!

By the time these words appear in print most of us who are granted an annual vacation will have left the usual toil for a season of change and rest. It is to be regretted that every hard-working and honest toiler cannot be allowed a few weeks of respite from the ordinary work! It is not possible for any one person to lay down hard and fast rules that can govern the others fellow's vacation. We do not have the same needs and tastes any more than we have the same complexions and dispositions. A vacation that would be enjoyable to one man would be positive agony to another. It is always senseless to follow the mob, and in nothing more so than in getting one's vacation. If one or two leading families in a riven section goes to Ocean Beach or Pleasant View, then the whole section must go pell-mell to the same place. It is as important to see new faces as it is new scenes.

It is doubtless a good thing to get out into the wilderness for awhile for the purpose of rest and recreation, but it is a fatal error to separate oneself permanently from the general activities of life, and the companionship of his fellows, with the expectation that the solitude will yield a special holiness. The hermit as we see and know him represents the very lowest type of man. He is usually half-witted or demented. No man was ever yet made better for running away from doing his share of public work. No man was ever yet made better in trying to escape those duties that his Creator evidently intended that he should do. Man is related to society as a single cog is related to the whole gear: if one or more cogs are wanting the gear doesn't run right. The Middle Ages have their pathetic story to tell of men who tried to run away from both their political and religious duties.

LENDING A HAND

"Say, I'm glad I met you!" cried the saturnine young man enthusiastically when he ran across the extremely pretty girl dashing down the street. "I hope you aren't busy tomorrow night, because I'd like a date with you! We'll go somewhere and dance!"

The extremely pretty girl looked him over and then taking him by the arm marshaled him into the soda water and bonbon palace which was handy. "I expect," she began when she had arranged him at a table in a secluded corner, "that you've had a fight with your girl, haven't you, Edmond? You might just as well tell me all about it!"

"You girls are too darned smart!" growled the saturnine young man, protestingly. "You ought to open a detective agency or something, Praline! Honest, I'd like to take you somewhere—"

"Yes, you have all the earmarks of a good scrap," the extremely pretty girl told him, nodding her head. "Men are so obvious. It's an awful mistake for them to try and copy the little schemes they observe the girls using to such good effect, because they are so abrupt about it.

"You see," she continued, "the longer you thought about the awful things Dorine said to you last night when you parted forever the madder you got, and when a person gets mad he naturally thinks of revenge. You could imagine no better way to make Dorine agonize over what she had lost than to let her hear that, instead of staying home and mourning, you were out under the bright lights with another girl—and just then you met me. Am I right?"

"You know I always like to dance with you when I get a chance!" protested the young man fevently.

"Now, you overlooked a few fine points," went on his mentor, wagning to her work. "When a girl finds it necessary to jolt her best beau into sitting up and taking notice she sort of lets the knowledge of her infatuation for somebody bigger, handsomer and more attractive that the hero of the sketch seep in gradually.

"If she catches the discarded best beau staring at her and her new acquisition she sort of fades right away, affording him merely the briefest glimpse of the two. A person suffers lots more, you know, if he can't see with his own eyes what is going on. I expect your idea was to drag me to the club dance tomorrow night and spend the evening stepping on the toes of Dorine and whatever man she is with."

"As though I cared!" said the saturnine young man fiercely.

"Then," the pretty young woman continued, "after you had thus attracted Dorine's attention you intended to favor her with a black and haughtily bored look as though you were wondering where on earth you had met the girl before. And she would nearly have died laughing because that kind of look, interpreted, means that a man is very miserable and jealous and ready to come back at the lift of an eyelash. What you should do when you meet Dorine is to speak to her brightly, casually, and maybe make some little remark on how well she is looking."

"I never heard of such—"

"Certainly nothing makes a girl's heart fall with a crash sooner than to be met with indifference. Here she's been imaging you crushed by the blow and you bob seremely having a perfectly normal good time, apparently quite reconciled to a future minus her presence, philosophically making the best of it.

"Naturally that will make her frantic to get you back. Just sit pretty and let her toil. Go to the party, but don't take a girl, because that would be just the same as carrying a banner saying 'Lookese! I'm making you jealous!'

"Don't ignore Dorine, just don't get near enough to let her grab you. I'll bet she goes home and cries herself to sleep with rage.

"I really should not give away all these nice little secrets, Edmond, but you've no idea how your troubles stick out all over you and my mission is to put a little sunshine in the darkest places, you know."

"Well, all I've got to say," sighed the gloomy young man, attacking his crushed strawberry-whipped-cream-nut supdae, "is that girls are an all-fired lot of trouble either coming or going."—Exchange.

Are You Discouraged?

Bori's Career Seemed Ended.

After winning her parent's consent, Lucrezia Bori studied and struggled until she earned success—then lost her voice and did not know whether she would ever regain it.

Music was a stranger in the home in Valencia, Spain, where she was born. She studied singing while at school in London, but she knew practically nothing of opera when she returned home from school, at 17.

Enthusiastically assured that she had a voice, she became filled with a desire to be a grand opera star. Her parents were prejudiced against the theatre, and only after much persuasion did she win their consent to try for the stage.

Studying in Milan and Rome, she made her debut, at 18, at the Adriano, in Rome, singing the role of Michaela in "Carmen," and her voice was declared to be one of the most beautiful sopranos in Italy. Then came engagements at San Remo, Genoa, Naples, London, and other musical centers, all of which praised her voice.

When the Metropolitan Opera company gave its series in Paris in 1910, she sang the title role in "Manon Lescaut," won fervid applause and was engaged to sing in New York.

After appearances in Milan and Buenos Ayres she made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera company, in New York, in 1912, appearing in "Manon Lescaut" and now at 24, won the unstinted approbation of Americans. For three years success smiled—then her voice failed her.

Medical specialists could give no promise that it would return, the pain in her vocal cords grew severe, and nothing seemed to help. A surgeon in Milan removed a small nodo from the first vocal cord and for a month she had to remain in a room, was not permitted to speak, and her suffering became almost unbearable at times.

When she tried her voice there seemed to be possibility that it might return. She went home to recuperate, and her mother died soon after her arrival.

After four years of rest she made five appearances in the following season, 15 during the next and in 1921, after an absence of six years, she returned to the Metropolitan and critics said her voice was better than ever.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Augustus O. Stanley, who is seeking renomination to the United States senate in today's primaries in Kentucky, is now completing his first full term in the upper branch of the national lawmaking body. He first came into political prominence as a member of the United States house of representatives, where he served from 1903 to 1915, and where he made a record for intelligence, independence of action, and serious attention to the business of lawmaking. In 1915 he became governor of Kentucky and continued in that position until chosen to succeed the late Ollie James in the United States senate. Senator Stanley is a clergyman's son, was educated at Centre college, a leading Presbyterian school of Kentucky, and is a lawyer by profession. His home is at Henderson.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

LIFE MORE ABUNDANT

Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." He is the Life. Let any one unite himself to Christ, his life shall become a glorious life.

What sort of a life did Simon Peter live before he came to Jesus? It was a narrow, selfish, empty life. His highest aim was to support himself and his family catching fish. There was nothing in his life to bless or elevate the community in which he lived. But when Simon became a disciple of Jesus a great change occurred. He began to have broader views, higher aims, nobler purposes. He became a fisher of men. He let down the net of the Gospel into the sea of the world, and inclosed a great multitude on the day of Pentecost. A new force entered into his life, which was destined to elevate and bless many generations. He wrote those short epistles which bear his name and which contain great thoughts for all time. The flood of life which Jesus poured into the soul of Simon is still rolling on, touching all continents and all families of men, and blessing all it touches. Jesus gave him "life more abundantly."

Nor is this a solitary example. Thomas Olivers was a very wicked young men going about doing harm. His life was worse than worthless. One day he heard Mr. Whitefield preach a sermon on the text, "A brand plucked from the burning," and saw in himself the brand almost consumed by sin.

Instantly he turned about both in heart and life and began to live. Contact with Christ gave him new desires, new purposes, new principles, a new heart. He began to pay the debts which he had contracted in his riotous career, to do good where he had done so much harm and to preach the Christ whom he had blasphemed. Slumbering genius awoke within his enlightened mind, and he began to write Christian hymns and the following are two of the numbers he wrote: "The God of Abraham Praise," and "O, Thou God of My Salvation." Some of these hymns will be sung for ages. That poor, miserable, low life which was not worth keeping was transformed into a rich, happy, broad, glorious life which still goes on after a hundred years have passed away, blessing the church and the world. Jesus is able to give life more abundantly. He is the fountain of life. Let anyone who is sick of life and ready to cast it away in despair, come to Jesus, and his life shall become glorious and everlasting. He shall say with Paul, "For me to live is Christ."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

LIBRARIES: FROM CLAY TABLEST TO "BEST SELLERS"

Australia is again following in the footsteps of America, the country in which libraries are more numerous and probably more efficiently organized than anywhere else in the world, for according to recent newspaper reports, small libraries are being circulated among isolated groups of people in the hinterland of the great island continent.

"Though the movement to get the greatest amount of literature into the hands of the most people is just getting under way in some countries, and in others is yet to be started, libraries existed for thousands of years before the birth of Christ, and they have constantly demanded the interest of king, priest, and layman ever since," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Four thousand years ago the firm of Mu-sha-hu Sons, bankers and brokers at Nippur, Assyria, comparable in their status in that country to the Rothschilds in England and the house of Morgan in the United States stacked in their business archives clay tablets written before the era of Abraham which recorded hundreds of their transactions.

"Ashurbanipal who died in 626 B. C. had at Nineveh a library which had been classified and arranged according to the subject matter of the tablets, each series being given a number and a title composed as a general rule of the first words of the first tablet. The king sent out his scribes to all the temples and schools of Babylonia and Assyria and had them make copies of the tablets in the then modern Assyrian language. The story of the Deluge now in the J. Pierpont Morgan library in New York City, which is dated about 2000 B. C. is clearly a copy of an older version.

"The Egyptians too had their libraries. Behind the hall of columns of the Rameseion at Thebes, was the Sacred library called the 'Dispensary of the Mind.' It had an astronomical ceiling on which the twelve Egyptian months were represented and its walls showed a procession of priests carrying the sacred arks. Its circle of 365 cubits, each representing a day of the year, was carried off by the Persians and is therefore lost to us except through the decription of Diodorus.

"The Greeks probably had a few private libraries during the fifth and fourth centuries, B. C., but we practically now know nothing of their character. But to the later history of the Greeks are accredited two of the greatest of the ancient libraries of the world. The first of the Ptolemies collected the twin libraries at Alexandria containing 700,000 volumes carefully arranged and catalogued, which were burned when Julius Caesar set fire to the shipping in the harbor. The great library of Pergamum in Asia Minor, which Plutarch says contained 200,000 volumes, was ultimately sent to Alexandria as a gift to Cleopatra from Antony with the view to making good in some measure the loss which had been caused by Caesar.

"At any rate the Athenians had become book-lovers by the time of the invasion of the Goths, for it is related that one of the Gothic chiefs, on finding some of his soldiers on the point of burning the libraries of Athens told them to leave the books to the effeminate Greeks, as the hands accustomed to the smooth papyrus would freely grasp the brand of the warrior.

"Under the Greeks the parchment used in making the scrolls was so greatly improved that by Roman times a good many varieties were to be found on the market, and the Egyptian ink in use then has much of its ancient gloss and freshness today. In fact, inkstands for two colors of writing fluid much like those we use have been excavated from the ruins of both Pompeii and Herculaneum, and one from the latter city contained ink, which, though somewhat thick, could still be used for writing.

"Rome was slow to develop an interest in literature and her first libraries were those which she took as spoils of war, by Imperial times the library facilities of the city were far ahead of those of modern Europe before the middle of the 18th century.

"Constantine the Great founded in 336 B. C. a library at Constantinople which grew under his successors until it contained one or two hundred thousand volumes, among the more valuable manuscripts being the only authentic account of the proceedings of the Council of Nice and a manuscript of Homer written in letters of gold on serpents' skin which measured 120 feet in length. Despite the fact that several fires played havoc with the collection, from this library have come some of the choicest treasures now to be found in the libraries of Europe.

"Another library which lost some of its treasures to 30 of the great libraries of Europe and others in oblivion was the famed Corvina, collected by the witty, attractive, and scholarly Matthias Corvinus, King of Hungary in 1460. This collection of more than 50,000 manuscripts probably the largest and finest of its kind ever made in Europe, was the hobby of a monarch of taste and discrimination. But the Turks in 1527 rifled the rich halls it occupied in the castle of Buda and scattered its precious contents over the continent.

"Among present day libraries, the Bibliotheque Nationale, at Paris, with its more than 5,000,000 printed books, 500,000 maps, 110,000 manuscrips, and over 1,000,000 prints, easily outstrips all others for first place.

"The British Museum Library claims second honors for size and can even score with its rival on the value of its contents.

"The Library of Congress, as Washington, with its more than 3,000,000 volumes stands third upon this list of the world's great libraries.

"But there are almost as many libraries of peculiar kinds as there are races of men. The Arab libraries, consisting for the most part of works on theology, jurisprudence, and philology are attached to their mosques, are seldom read and rapidly fall into decay. The leaves of the books are not often sewed together, but usually are placed loose in a leather or pasteboard cover. The argument is that several persons can use the same time, each taking out a handful of leaves. The Buddhist writings in the temples of eastern Tibet are printed from blocks such as were first used in China, or are written by hand. The Buddhist scriptures of Siam were written by some devotee with brass or iron stiles upon the leaves of the Talipot palm, and each leaf wrapped in yellow cloth or silk. They are read only on special occasions.

"At Merton, the oldest of the colleges of Oxford University, some of the books are chained to the shelves, and among the rich medieval manuscripts of the library at Vatopedhi on Mt. Athos, Greece, there is a curious old geography of the eleventh century after Strabo and Ptolemy, containing some extraordinary maps."

An apparently practical plan has been developed to use the tidal power of the Severn river of England and Wales at a cost of 30,000,000 pounds.

Going Blind From "Death Ray" Experiments

H. Grindell Matthews, English inventor of the so-called "death ray," recently arrived in New York. Mr. Matthews told shipnews reporters that his wonderful beam would be used to stun a whole army or to set fire to a city as well as to stop airplane or auto motors. He said that he had been using a one kilowat beam of six inches which at a maximum radius of sixty-five feet killed a rat, stopped gasoline engines, and lighted an incandescent light. He denied his purpose was to sell the apparatus here; saying that only England should get his secret. He is blind in one eye and gradually losing the sight of the other as the result of his experiments.

Stories That Recall Others

Slight Misunderstanding

Several days ago a man came into the office of a Connecticut prosecuting attorney and complained of a fight that occurred in his neighborhood, with a view to instituting assault and battery charges. The man was a little hazy in his recollection of the details of the fight and was advised by the prosecutor to return and ascertain whether any "actual blows" were struck. A few days later he came into the office of the prosecutor and informed the attorney that "it was just a fist fight and no ax was used at all."

The Idea of It.

A well-known author on leaving his house one morning forgot a letter he had intended to mail. During the afternoon something recalled it to his mind, and as it was of considerable importance he hurried home.

The letter was nowhere to be found. He summoned the servant. "Have you seen anything of a letter of mine lying about?"

Yes, sir.

Where is it?

Mailed, sir.

Mailed! Why there was no name or address on the envelope.

I know there wasn't sir, but I thought it must be in answer to one of them anonymous letters you've been getting lately.

A NEW METER

A Geneva, Switzerland, instrument concern has developed a quadruple tariff electricity meter, which enables power producers to sell electric current at different prices according to the hours of the day and also according to the demand for current, which, at certain periods, may absorb the total capacity of the generating plant. This multiple tariff meter carries two totalizers, one indicating the current consumed in kilowatt hours, and the other registering automatically in francs or in other currency the value corresponding to this classified consumption according to four different rates. The advantage of the meter are twofold, permitting the application of four rates which can be selected and adapted to varying local conditions, and also lessening the amount of bookkeeping work for the power company.

THE CROWBAR

In using the ordinary crowbar few of us connect that heavy implement with the crow. Dictionary research is needed to explain the relation of the two words. Investigation shows that a crowbar is defined as "a bar with a strong beak, like that of a crow." The beak of a crow is one of the bird's most powerful tools and weapons. When the first crowbars were fashioned it was only natural that the makers should see the resemblance of its prying end to the beak of the bird, and the use of the name "crowbar" was entirely logical. The bird itself, incidentally took its name from the nature of its cry, suggesting the old Anglo-Saxon word "crawan". In the Anglo-Saxon tongue "crawan" was equivalent to the English verb "to crow."

JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENS NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Under the guidance of the Playground commission the Junior Baseball league will play its first games on Monday evening. The junior league is going to be one of the best of the junior sporting events during the remainder of the season and it is hoped that it will have the support of the public. All the players are under 18 years of age and the purpose of the league is to create an interest in baseball and to develop local talent. The rules of the league will be the same as those adopted for the first junior league here.

The schedule has been changed considerably. Instead of one league there is to be two leagues, the National and the American, and at the end of the season the winner in each league will play for the title in a series of three games. A silver loving cup which stands 18 inches high on a mahogany base will be awarded the team winning the title. The schedule is as follows:

American League.

Monday, August 4th—Arrows vs Nutmegs at Fairgrounds; Walnuts vs Braves at Academy.

Wednesday, Aug. 6—Arrows vs. Walnuts at Academy; Nutmegs vs. Braves at Fairgrounds.

Monday, Aug. 11—Braves vs. Arrows at Academy; Nutmegs vs. Walnuts at Fairgrounds.

Monday, Aug. 18—Walnuts vs Arrows at Fairgrounds; Braves vs Nutmegs at Academy.

Wednesday, Aug. 20—Arrows vs Braves at Academy.

Friday, Aug. 22—Walnuts vs Nutmegs at Academy.

National League

Monday, Aug. 4—Valients vs Rubes at Lake Street; Tigers vs Rosedales at Taftville.

Wednesday, Aug. 6—Valients vs. Rosedales at Greeneville; Tigers vs Rubes at Yantic.

Wednesday, Aug. 13—Rubes vs Valients at Yantic; Rosedales vs Tigers at Greeneville.

Monday, Aug. 18—Rosedales vs Valients at Lake Street; Tigers vs Rubes at Yantic.

Wednesday, Aug. 20—Valients vs Tigers at Lake Street; Rubes vs Rosedales at Greeneville.

VANCE TIES RECORD FOR CONSECUTIVE STRIKE-OUTS

New York, Aug. 1.—("Dazzy") Vance, Brooklyn National pitcher, tied the world record for consecutive strike-outs by fanning seven batters in a row in his 4 to 0 victory over Chicago at Brooklyn today. The record was established by Hod Eller of the Cincinnati Nationals in the 1919 world series with the Chicago Americans.

Vance also tied his own 1923 major league record of 14 strike-outs for a single game. Every man on the Chicago team except Hollocher fanned at least once. Hartnett, slugging Cub catcher, was three times a victim of Vance's fast ball.

SINGLE G SETS NEW RECORD FOR 14-YEAR-OLDS

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 1.—Eleven years ago Single G, a three-year-old raced over the Peoria mile track in her debut event and took third money in a field in which William sat a track and world's record.

Single G's three racing mates of the day are gone. But there is no sign of age in the ankle less of Single G and she is still racing thought she has passed her 14th birthday. Yesterday on the Peoria track she established a new track record of 2.02 1-4 with Ed Allen driving. The record mark of yesterday is also a new mark for 14-year-olds, beating the previous time by two seconds.

Bears Trim Coal Heavers.

Worcester, Aug. 1.—Miljus' superior pitching held Worcester back today while Bridgeport took advantage of several errors of an amateur shortstop the Panthers had in to win, 6 to 2. Rodrigues's fielding was a feature.

OBITUARY

Judge Lucius Brown

Judge Lucius Brown, who passed away at 2.50 o'clock Friday morning at his home on Warren street had been in good health and had been at his office regularly, and his death was entirely unexpected. He retired Thursday night at his usual hour and slept well until about 2 o'clock when he awoke and complained of a pain about his heart. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve was summoned, but Judge Brown was beyond medical aid and died a few minutes after the doctor arrived, death being due to heart failure.

Judge Lucius Brown, was the son of Daniel Brown and Mary Stanton Brown and was born in Griswold, Conn., May 5, 1846. He lived in Griswold until he was nine years old and then moved to Preston City, where his father conducted the village store. After study in the Preston public schools, he entered the Connecticut Literary Institute at Suffield, and subsequently Providence High school, where he prepared for college. He was graduated from Brown university in 1866 at 30 years of age. After reading law for awhile in the office of the late Henry H. Starkweather of Norwich, he attended the Albany Law school from which he was graduated with the degree of L. L. B. in 1868. Upon graduating from law school in 1868, he was admitted to the Connecticut Bar, and established an office in Norwich with the late George Pratt, with whom he practised until his death in 1874. In 1878 Judge Brown formed a partnership with the late Donald G. Perkins, under the name of Brown & Perkins, which firm became subsequently one of best known in the state. In 1908 Edmund W. Perkins and Allyn L. Brown, sons of the two partners, were admitted to the firm. After the death of Donald G. Perkins in 1913 the firm continued with the surviving partners until July, 1921, when Allyn L. Brown was appointed to the superior court bench.

In 1878 Judge Brown was united in marriage with Hannah Maria Larrabee of Ledyard, daughter of the Honorable Henry Larrabee. He is survived by his wife, three sons, Carl W. Brown, Judge Allyn L. Brown and Daniel L. Brown of Boston, a brother, Charles H. Brown and three grandchildren.

Judge Brown was always a staunch republican and frequently represented this section of the state at Hartford. He was four times a member of the senate, the first time in 1872, when he was only 25 years old. He was judge of the Norwich city court for twenty years, and clerk of the New London County Bar association at the time of his death. He had been a trustee of the Norwich Savings Society for over fifty years. He was elected a director of that institution in 1877, and served as its first vice president for many years. He was also a director of the Merchants National bank.

Judge Brown was not a member of any fraternal organization but was a devoted church member. He joined the Preston City Baptist church when he was ten years old, and after his removal to Norwich became affiliated with the Central Baptist church, which he attended regularly until his death, seldom missing a Sunday service.

He took an active part in the guidance of two of the country's leading Baptist educational institutions—Brown university and Suffield school. He was elected a trustee of Brown university in 1888 and served in that capacity until his death. He was also a trustee of the Suffield school.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Howard B. Smith

Funeral services for Mrs. Howard B. Smith were held Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry F. Ulmer, 269 Broadway. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service, many coming from Hartford, Willimantic and Norwich. The floral tributes were beautiful.

The service at the home was conducted by Rev. Robert B. Day, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, who also read the committal service at the grave in Maplewood cemetery. The bearers were Edgar H. Allen, Frank Eggleston, Norwich; Henry Congdon, Willimantic and Ernest Woodworth of South Coventry.

Arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

COST MONEY TO PASS BEACONS ON LEFT SIDE

CITY PLAYGROUND ASSOCIATION HOLDS FIRST ANNUAL DRAMATIC EXHIBITION

On Friday evening close to 1,500 people gathered at the Rockwell street entrance of Mohegan park to witness the first annual exhibition of the dramatic department of the City Playgrounds association, when the pupils of the Lake street and Hobart avenue playgrounds presented three outdoor playlets. At 7 o'clock Supt. Earl E. Brigham introduced to the enthusiastic audience, among whom were the superintendent, members of the recreation commission and parents and friends of the children, Miss Katherine Farrell, instructor on the Hobart avenue grounds. Miss Farrell in a pleasing address of welcome explained the theme of The Glorious Wish, a patriotic play by her playground children. This play dated back to Revolutionary days and dealt with the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Everything was carried out in real colonial style from the powdered wigs to the buckled shoes. Miss Jean Fenton as Betsy Ross made a most pleasing picture in her quaint costume, while Mildred Langlois, who played the part of Richard, deserves a great deal of credit for her vigorous portrayal of the patriotic youth.

Others deserving of mention were Dora Letendre, Alice Lariviere and Marian and Costi Constandi. Most attractive was the continental chorus madeu p of both boys and girls who greatly aided in the patriotic feature of a flag salute and the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

At the close of the play the audience was delighted with the solo dance of little Miss Lois Bussey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bussey of Robbins court. Miss Bussey in a most attractive costume performed in excellent style and grace.

Mr. Brigham then introduced Miss Catherine Dodd, teacher of the Lake street play center, who told in brief the synopsis of the two fairy plays produced by the girls on her grounds. A rather unusual introduction was made when six little woodland flowers appropriately attired in attractive crepepaper costumes in the pastel shades recited in verse the synopsis of the performances. Dream Needles was the first play to be presented by the Lake street girls and was most cordially received. Little Miss Frances Levanto as Lord Twiddlewinks, prime minister of fairyland, delighted the audience with her clear voice and captivating manner, while Mary Smith, who played opposite her as Lady Twiddlewinks, performed well and was attractive in her fairy gown. Leading roles in the play were again taken by Mary Foley and Ruth Banning, both of whom played in excellent manner and give promise as juvenile stars.

Succeeding Dream Needles a different cast presented Fairy Dust, a fairy play similar in its simple plot to Dream Needles. Irene McKenna as Peterkins and Mary Dodd as big sister Polly, were given hearty applause when they appeared in bedtime attire. Very special mention is due Miss Katherine Dutton, who so creditably took the part of the mother in this play on very short notice.

Miss Mildred Bergeron made a most attractive picture in her rosebud costume, while Mary Cloutier in black cape and satin knickers made a pretty feature. The ballet features in these plays, consisting of a chorus of twenty fairies and ten woodland flowers charming in costume, was very pleasing.

The casts of the plays were as follows:

The Glorious Wish: Betsy Ross, Regina Fenton; Richard, Mildred Langlois; Martha, Alice Lariviere; Prudence, Dona Letendre; Hal, Costi Constandi; Stuart, Marian Constandi. Chorus—Helen Pendleton, Semo Alex, Anna Bundy, Lula Cinderalle, Margaret Mallison, Bita Lariviere, Marian Pendleton, Helene Riordan, Peter Alex, William Bundy, Wilfred Lariviere, Francis Ryan, George Constandi, Christopher Angeiopulus, John Willmot.

Fairy Dust: Peterkins, Irene McKenna; Polly, Mary Dodd; Lord Rosebud, Mary Cloutier; Lady Rosebud, Mildred Bergeron; Mother, Catherine Dutton. Fairies—Beatrice McKenna, Anna Foley, Claire Cyr, Rose Perroni, Mary Gustamarchi, Mary Ruffo, Mildred Banning, Veronica Levanto, Mildred Makowski, Dorothy Bradlaw, Isabelle Makowski. An introduction. A Midsummer Performance; Woodland Flowers.

Courtesies were extended by the Talking Machine Shop, who very kindly loaned a Victrola and records for the occasion.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the recreation commission was held at the courthouse on Friday evening. Present at the meeting were William Fitzgerald, Mrs. James Drew and Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, members of the recreation committee, and Earl E. Brignani, playgrounds supervisor.

FITCHVILLE AROUSED BY SERIES OF ROBBERIES

Fitchville has been aroused the past two days by a series of systematic thefts. Wednesday evening the door of John Beswick's garage was removed from its hinges and the battery, a tire and other accessories of the Dodge automobile to the value of over $100 were stolen from the car. The manner in which entry was made shows that the parties committing the crime were no novices at the game.

Lawrence Dixon head of the motor vehicle department of the Palmer Bros. Co., reports that late that night he had occasion to leave the village by way of the Colchester road and that a Dodge car was parked just outside the town limits. The lateness of the hour caused him to wonder whether or not some swain was parked by the roadside. Just before passing the automobile Mr. Dixon noticed a man entering the village from the direction of the car. This person acted in a peculiar manner but his behavious was not strange enough to arouse Dixon's suspicion.

Elmer Lathrop, an expert mechanic employed in Norwich, arrived home exceptionally late and, with his brother, was about to retire when a strange noise coming from the direction of the garage caused the two men to leave the house to listen. As there was no recurrence of the sound they thought nothing uncommon was taking place.

On the following evening Patrick Sullivan, who lives on the outskirts of the village, had three tires and other parts removed from his Dodge car. The thief and his confederates shoved Sullivan's car some distance from the house and stripped it of the parts they wanted.

A store on the Stark place on the Colchester road was forcibly entered on Wednesday evening and the keys to the proprietor's gas tank taken. The same evening the gas tank belonging to John Fields was tampered with and a considerable quantity of gasoline stolen.

All of these happenings have been quite sufficient to arouse the villagers to the highest pitch of excitement. Strangers are looked upon, after dark, with suspicion.

The state police are investigating the matter and have a strong clue and the arrest of the culprits appears imminent.

RICHMOND GARDNER HIGHLY HONORED AT FONTAINEBLEAU

Richmond Gardner of Jewett City has been signally honored in being elected president of the newly organized club for the students of the Conservatoire Americane and the Ecole des Beaux Arts at Fontainebleau, France. Such an organization, having to a large extent student government, has been in the minds of the directors for some time. Handsome quarters were fitted up, beautifully furnished with grand piano, victrola, writing desks, card tables and dancing floor, and Mr. Gardner was asked by the directors to act as temporary chairman. On the organization of the club, July 16, with a membership of amout two hundred musicians, painters, architects and sculptors, many of them instructors and professors from every state in the Union, Mr. Gardner was elected its first president by such an overwhelming majority that the tellers thought it unwise to give the ballot out.

Mr. Gardner was in charge of the arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration and for that of Bastille day, July 14, including organization of the chorus, at the request of Monsieur Decreus, director of the school. He received enthusiastic commendation for the success of both celebrations from directors and faculty, both French and American.

Mr. Gardner has been studying music abroad for over two years, this being his third term at the Conservatoire Americanie. He is preparing for an operatic career.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT WARNS AGAINST IMPURE MILK

Health departments of towns or cities have an important duty to the public to see that only pure milk is supplied to the communities in which they have jurisdiction, says the health bulletin issued by the state department of health. This really is a very important function, for if milk is supplied in a poor condition to the consumer there will be little milk used, children will not like it and as a result the public will not use the amount of milk that they should. Health officers and milk inspectors during the summer months carefully watch the milk supplies and forward samples of milk to the laboratories for analysis.

Investigations have shown that one of the vital foods necessary for growth of all children is milk. A plentiful supply of pure milk and properly iced milk, means healthy children. If milk is not properly cooled or iced during the summer months immediately after milking, bacteria are sure to grow, particularly if milk is produced in an unsanitary manner. Numerous cases of summer complaint and diarrhoea occur along the route of the unsanitary milk producer.

Samples of milk are forwarded by the health officers of all their milk supplies. From each supply samples are collected by health officers for analysis of milk, two times a month during the summer to keep a check on different milk supplies in their communities. Those communities that do not have analysis of milk made at least once a month during the summer months, cannot be acquainted with the character of the milk that is being used in their community and the consumer has no knowledge of the uncleanly milk that he may be using.

The method of examination of milk as carried on by the state department of health in its bureau of laboratories is explained by an illustrated article in the June health bulletin issued by the state department of health. Here people can see photographs and read how milk is shipped to the laboratory by milk inspectors and health officers and how milk is plated out before bacterial count. Another illustration shows the germs being counted by laboratory workers and still another illustration shows actual groups of bacteria that have been found in milk. Most people do not realize that some milk is so bad that it actually shows dirt. One illustration shows cotton disks through which a pint of milk had been filtered and the amount of dirt can be seen in comparison with milk which shows practically no dirt.

THIS STATE TO HAVE EXHIBIT AT NEW YORK

Outlines of a plan for a huge Connecticut exposition to be held at the Grand Central Palace, New York, at some time during the next year, are being sent out from the executive offices of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce in Hartford. The plans contemplate the use of from two to four floors of the palace for an exhibit of every class of Connecticut output or opening from scenic beauties to manufactured output and farm produce.

GILBERT BLOCK, MYSTIC, BOUGHT BY WILLIAM L. MAIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Mystic, Aug. 1.—William L. Main, Mystic's largest taxpayer, has purchased the Gilbert block on West Main street from Pendleton Bros., Inc., of New York city, and while the deeds have not yet been passed it is expected that the deal will be completed within a few days. Mr. Main states that he has not yet decided just what he will do with the property but has taken possession of it and is to start the first of the week on the work of rebuilding the block and putting it in condition to use. The sale of this property includes not only the brick block on West Main street but the wharf property in the rear of the building which is on the west side of Mystic river. The Gilbert block was built about 16 years ago by the Gilbert Transporation Co., at an approximate cost of $80,000 and was four stories high, of brick construction. In 1916 it was practically destroyed by fire, only the outer walls remaining standing and in this condition it has since remained.

U. S. WILL DEFEND ACTION AGAINST WALSH

The action of the executors of the will of the late Morton F. Plant of Groton against James J. Walsh, former collector of internal revenue for the district of Connecticut to recover $70,930.88 paid under protest as part of the income tax on the estate for the year 1917, which the plaintiffs claim was illegally levied, will be defended by the government, Assistant United States District Attorney George H. Cohen said at Hartford.

The action of former Collector Walsh in disallowing the sum of $141,000 alleged to have been the financial loss in the sale of certain New York real estate in 1917, to be deducted from the gross taxable income of the decedent for that year, will be contested by the plaintiffs, who have brought suit in the federal court, returnable in September. The government claims that the limit of relief was granted to the plaintiffs, when a claim for abatement amounting to $5,926.63 was allowed by the collector on September 26, 1919.

MAY ERECT $60,000 SCHOOL IN COLCHESTER

Following condemnation of nine school buildings because of alleged unsanitary conditions by Dr. Edward Howland, health officer of the town of Colchester, a building committee has been appointed to consider plans for replacing the present Bacon Academy structure. Consultation with an architect showed that a suitable building without any extras could be erected for $60,000. Should the committee recommend that this building be erected a special town meeting will be called to act on a $60,000 bond issue.

The action of Dr. Howland will make it impossible to use more than one of the ten schools in the fall until the conditions to which he objects are remedied. Bacon Academy, a public high school with private enuowment, however, he will permit use of temporarily on condition that work is started at once on a structure to replace the present building, which was built in 1803, but is still in good general condition, according to the president of the trustees.

SIX SHORT LOBSTERS BROUGHT FINE OF $10 EACH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., Aug. 1.—Samuel Piccolo, arrested by Deputy Fish and Game Warden A. D. Hill of Pawcatuck Thursday morning on Mechanic street, when he was found to have 31 short lobsters in his possession, was presented before Judge William A Wilcox in Stonington town court Friday morning. The accused was represented by Attorney John J. Dunn of Westerly, who demurred to the complaint charging possession of six short lobsters. The demurrer was overruled and the defendant was found guilty and was fined $10 for each of the six short lobsters in his possession, with costs. The total bill paid was $70.93.

NORWICH WOMAN FINED FOR PLEASANT VIEW BOOZE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., Aug. 1.—Rose Falcone, alias Rose Chioda, of Norwich was before Judge Michael J. Turano in the Third district court Friday morning on a complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown that she had liquors in her possession at Sunset View cottage, at Pleasant View, which was raided Saturday night, July 19, when William Penn whiskey and other liquors were found. On her plea of guilty she was fined $50 and costs, which she paid. She has vacated the Pleasant View premises.

Rose Chioda was fined $200 and costs April 22, 1920, in the common pleas court in Norwich and given 30 days in jail and a suspended sentence. She also paid $50 June 7, 1922.

STEAMER MYRA TO RESUME BEACH TRIPS

The trips of the steamer Myra between this city and Ocean Beach, which have been interrupted by a broken propellor shaft, are about to be resumed, as complete repairs have been made and the boat was put into the water Friday and made a run to Ocean Beach. Manager Willard said Friday night that he is expecting to resume the Norwich service next Wednesday morning at 9.30, and is planning to have the boat lay over each night at Norwich so that it can be there in time for the sart each morning. Another change that he contemplates will be to run his Thursday trips from here at 12.30 p. m., so as to accommodate the Thursday half-holiday crowd, and he intends to keep Monday as an open date for special charters.

WILL HAVE OUTING AT RICHARD'S GROVE

Buckingham council, No. 4, Jr. O. U. A. M., met in regular session on Wednesday evening with Councilor E. Leseman presiding. The final preparations were made for the outing to be held August 3 at Richard's grove. A ball game is to be played between Roosevelt council of New London and Buckingham council of Norwich and there will also be running races, swimming races and other sports including five bouts, the main bout to be between Tex Eddins and "Big" Lewis. This is the first outing to be held by the councils of Norwich and New London combined and it is hoped that all the members will turn out and make it a success. There will also be dancing.

STIFF FINE FOR DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

Cyrus Lapis of Lyme, who was arrested by State Policeman Fred Caron on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor, received a fine of $100 and costs which amounted to $22.50, in Justice Marion B. Davis' court in East Lyme. Lapis it is alleged, struck two cyclists while driving on the highway between Niantic and Flanders. He was taken into custody and examined by Dr. Dart, who declared that the man had been drinking.

HOWARD KINSEY DEFEATS JOHNSTON FOR SINGLES TITLE AT SEABRIGHT

Seabright, N. J., Aug. 1.—William M. Johnston, America's second ranking tennis star, went down to sensational defeat at the hands of Howard Kinsey, Pacific coast champion, here today in the final of the Seabright invitation tennis tournament. Kinsey triumphed after the limit of five sets, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2, 1-6 6-3, flashing perhaps the most brilliant tennis of his career.

Service, which was broken through frequently by both players, was a minor factor. The comparative point score was 143 to 134, with the figures practically even to the last three games.

Miss Mary K. Browne scored the first California victory earlier in the day, when she overwhelmed Miss Mayme MacDonald, national clay court champion, in the women's singles final. The score was 6-0, 6-1, and it was just as decisive as the figures indicate.

Later in the day Miss Browne scored another triumph, this time with the aid of Mrs. T. Horace Dudley of Los Angeles. They proved entirely too formidable a doubles combination for Miss Mayme MacDonald and Miss Florence Ball in the women's final, particularly in the forward court, and scored a quick victory at 6-2, 6-1.

COULASH PITCHES BRILLIANT BALL IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

A colorful game such as is seldom seen amonk school boys was played Friday afternoon at the Fairgrounds. The teams were two of the entries in the junior playground league, Elizabeth street and Thamesville, the former winning 15 to 2. To a spectator unaware of the ages of the players the work of the Elizabeth street juniors might well appear to be superior to the brand of ball displayed by teams much older and much more experienced. It was a game marked by the masterful twirling of Henry Coulash who established a local playground record in allowing but two hits and fanning 21 batters. Because of the inability of Thamesville to solve the delivery of Coulash his infielders had but little work to perform, but at the bat they strove to demonstrate that they were behind their pitcher to the limit by whaling the balls tossed by Aldrich of Thamesville for 15 runs. It must be remarked in fairness to Aldrich that many of the runs were due to the erring of his teammates.

Hamel was easily the best of the losing team, his accurate throws to second catching five men trying to steal. He is one of the most natural players in local juvenile ranks and would be a welcome addition to much more experienced teams.

YANKEES WIN CLOSE GAME FROM BRAVES

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1.—Urban Shocker failed to exercise his usual mastery over the New York Kankees this afternoon and the Browns lost to Huggins' men in the third game of their series here. The score was 3 to 2.

Policemen had to restrain Pitcher Joe Bush of the Yankees when he tried to climb into the grandstand after a fan who yelled at him in the seventh inning. Babe Ruth also made an effort to get into the stands but was pulled back.

Ruth protested against Umpire Rowland's decision calling him out on a doubleplay in the ninth and the Babe was put out of the game.

BOHNE'S ERROR LOSES LONG GAME FOR REDS

Boston, Aug. 1.—Bohne's error on Cunningham's grounder with the bases filled and one out in the 15th inning, today gave Boston a 3 to 2 victory over Cincinnati. It was the third straight win for Boston over the Ohio club. O'Neil's single, Shay's double and an intentional pass to Pinch Hitter Gibson set the stage for the climax to a remarkable pitching duel between Rixey and Benton. The score:

ERRORS HELP GIANTS TO BEAT PITTSBURGH

New York, August 1.—The New York Nationals broke Pittsburgh's winning streak here today, winning the third game of the series 3 to 1. Virgil Barnes pitched a strong game for the Giants, yielding seven scattered hits. Morrison and stone also held New York to seven hits, but errors by Carey and Morrison were damaging, each helping New York to an unearned run. Score:

Hillies Win In Ninth

Pittsfield, Mass., August 1.—Pittsfield defeated Albany 3 to 2, here this afternoon. Spates allowed only four scattered hits in the first eight innings but he weakened in the ninth. Doubles by Webb and MacPhee, a pass to Stapleton and an error by Douglas, who relieved Spates gave Pittsfield 2 runs in the ninth.

Homer in Eighth Wins For Ponies

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 1.—Springfield defeated New Haven by 5 to 4 here today when Niederkorn hit a home run leading off in the home eighth. Both starting pitchers, Braxton and Hyman, had to be relieved by right handers.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Fordham, New York Giants

Who backs up wild throws from the catcher to second base?

There should be someone backing up every play made in baseball. When the catcher throws to second, if the second baseman is taking the throw, the shortstop can fall in behind second and knock down the overthrow, in order to prevent the runner going on to third. If the shortstop takes the throw, the second baseman should back up. The center fielder should always start in on every throw to second base. The outelder who does these little things in the game helps his club a great deal. But all help in the long run in winning games.

RIVERVIEW TO PLAY PUTNAM TEAM TODAY

The Riverview club will meet the H. K. H. Silk Company of Putnam this afternoon on the hospital field. This club was formerly the Nightingale-Morse outfiet and on their visit here last season offered strong opposition, being defeated by the narrow score 3-1.

The Riverview club will take the field this afternoon determined to take the measure of the Putnam outfit and Mgr Bill Donovan has arranged the following lineup. Allard who has been doing the backstop work for the Moosup club all season will probably get another opportunity to demonstrate his abitity behind the bat. Zemke reports that his arm is in condition and will start the game against the silkmen. He has been doing excellent relief work on the mound this season and the management has decided to give him the twirling assignment. Roy will be held in reserve. Mills will cover the initial sack due to Couillard's absence. Frechette of Moosup A. A. will take care of the middle hassock while the short field will be taken care of by Guillette a new comer. Eddie Burnes who has been flashing around the infield all season will take care of the hot corner. The outfield will be taken care of by Laffey in left, Noell in center and Joe Belair in right. Belair is shifted to right while Allard is making his start behind the plate.

Putnam is sending its strongest team to the wire. Caffrey will toe the mound with G. Nelson on the receiving end. This is the original Nightingale-Morse battery. The remainder of the lineup will be Plantier, 1 b; R. Nelson, 2b; Boulay, ss; Jarvis, 3b; Murphy, lf; Fraucher or Morin, cf; and Countermanche, rf.

The game will start at 2:45 p. m. daylight time. Moran will hold the indicator.

Why Was Game Called Off?

Sporting Editor:

In the write unp of the game of the Old Times vs. the Eagles in Thursday's morning Bulletin let was understood that the second game of this season was to be played Friday evening.

Now Mr. Editor, there must be some misunderstanding or else the so-called Manager Oney either is afraid of the Old Timers or he has accepted to play the Uncas Paper Co. Friday evening knowing that his teammates and himself are not in the Old Timers' class. How about it Manager Oney? point that perhaps in his careless way

I am willing to give "Oney" one of Manager of the Eagles he may have done business with one of our team in cancelling Friday's game but all business in my opinion should be transacted manager to manager.

Burkett Draws $50 Fine

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 1.—A fine of $50 imposed today by President Dan O'Neil of the Eastern league upon Manager Jesse Burkett of the Worcester team for an assault on Umpire Borry in the game with Pittsfield at Worcester Wednesday. This is in addition to a suspension of 12 days.

WALKER-LEONARD TITLE BOUT WILL BE HELD AT YANKEE STADIUM AUG. 20TH

New York, Aug. 1.—The fifteen round decision bout between Benny Leonard, World's lightweight champion, and Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, will be held in the Yankee stadium on the night of August 20, the promoters announced today. Walker's title will be at stake. The fight had been scheduled for August 21, but the site had not been decided.

Tex Rickard and Jimmy Johnston met at the office of the New York state athletic commission, and agreed that Johnston should promote the match, but that Rickard would retain an interest in the bout.

Johnston offered the use of the Yankee stadium to Rickard for the Wills-Firpo bout at any time during the month of September, but Rickard says no change will be made in the original plan to hold this match at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City N. J.

Leo Flynn, manager of Jack Renault, also appeared before the commission. Renault last week boxed in Providence, his opponent being introduced as Italian Jack Herman. He was in reality Mike Nestor Renault knocked him out and the announcement was made after the knockout that Italian Jack Herman had been knocked out by responsible. As the bout occurred in another state the commission has no power to act.

BASE TO PLAY NEWPORT TEAM THIS AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, August 1.—Playing service teams gives the Submarine Base team plenty to think about each time and this (Saturday) afternoon at the Base grounds will be no exception to the rule. In fact it may be stated that the Newport Training Station from Rhode Island is the most troublesome of the remaining service teams with the exception of the Quantico Marines, but then the Base does not meet the marines in baseball.

Experiment after experiment has been tried out in the personnel of the Base nine until a fairly good outfit of players has been secured. The latest change affects several of the positions and if results are produced in the near future it will be some time before another change is made or even contemplated upon. The latest dope from across the river, points to an infield change which will affect every position. Hawes, the generalissimo of the entire works at the Base has mapped out a change which will give the infield all the bolstering up it needs, it is hoped. Hawes in person will take care of the short position and Orsi formerly cavorting at short stop will hold down the keystone sack. Bunk Harrell will probably be moved from first base to left field, but this change is unlikely as Dinty Moore who was to play the initial sackft will go back to the infield from the outfield, as the result of the dropping of the national pastime by his brother Charley. This will see Dinty once more in the infield, although his play there is not so good. The outfield will be the scene of some more changes, and Mangold will still cover center, with Compton in right and a toss up between Honeycutt and Hackett for left. This new lineup is expected to produce the necessary results, and no further changes will be made until the winning combination is hit upon. For the pitcher Saturday, Widner is expected to get the call and the backstop is undecided upon as yet.

KACEYS TAKE LEAD IN N. L. CITY LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, August 1.—The Knights of Columbus nine are the sole occupants of the top position in the City league by virtue of their victory over the Fort Trumbull Stars this evening at Morgan park. The game was featured by fast and furious playing by both teams, and a home run with the bases populated by Joe Murphy sent the fans home in a happy state of mind, it being the second good and well played game seen on Morgan park in three days, the final decision was 5 and 4 with the Kaceys on top.

A terrific wallop into deep left center with three on bases really decided the game for the Knights in the very first inning after the Stars had taken the lead by scoring three runs also in the opening frame. The game was nip and tuck from that time on and the winner was hard to predict from early moments. Both pitchers after a bad first inning settled down and pitched masterly ball throughout the remainder of the contest. Although the Fort Stars out hit the Kacey men by 6 and 4, yet the only extra base wallop of the game gave the Knights the lead in the first and it was over after that.

Havens twirled a good game but was liberal with his passes that eventually spelled defeat for his team. He issued two in the first inning, and they preceded Joe Murphy's homer. In the third another pass issued was the cause of Haven's downfall for the receiver of this generous gift circled the bases and it later proved to be the winning run Cranker issued no passes and the Stars had to hit to get on base.

HEAVYWEIGHTS HOLD SECRET PRACTICE FRIDAY NIGHT

The Heavyweights baseball team that is to clash with the Midgets Monday evening at Duwell Field in an effort to determine which are the best baseball players held a secret session on the Mohegan park diamond Friday evening. This session from all reports was a humorous affair although every member of the team staunchly maintains that the fans will be surprised at the agility which will be shown by the Heavies on Monday evening. Manager Patrick is depending largely on the terrific hitting power of his team to bring home a victory. He admits that the Midgets may be faster on the bases, but he says his boys are such heavy clouters that they will not need to steal bases.

The Midgets have not been idle by any means and although they have had no secret practice they held a conference with their leader Jackie Wilson this week and have a well laid plan of attack that will bewilder the Beef Trust. Manager Wilson in a statement Friday evening said that he is banking on the speed of his lightweights to overcome any advantage of the Heavies in hitting power. So the game now narrows down to Weight versus Speed.

UNCAS TEAM LOSES CLOSE GAME TO EAGLES, 10 TO 9

In the second game of the series between the Eagles and the Uncas Paperboard Co. teams at the Fairgrounds on Friday evening the Eagles evened up the series by nosing out the Papermakers, 10 to 9. This makes the series one and one and the third and deciding game will be played in the near future. The Eagles had several new faces in the lineup with Smoky Joe Wheeler in the box while the Papermakers were shy some of their heavy hitters. The Eagles won out in the ninth inning when they scored 2 runs on a double by Oney and an infield hit by Risley.

The Uncas team will take on the fast Montville outfit Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Fairgrounds. The Montville team is composed largely of the players of the Robert Gair team of the New London Industrial league.

ETTA DRUIEN WINS FEATURE AT WINDSOR

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 1.—Etta Druien, driven by Thomas W. Murphy, won the 1924 renewal of the Merchants and Manufacturers' stake at Devonshire today. Fayette National, which came in second, was a strong favorite before the race. Etta Ruien had had a week's rest before the race, while Fayette National was shipped by motor truck from Sandusky Wednesday.

The 2.16 pace proved another surpirse when Braden K. Direct, the favorite came in second to Peter Green. Peter Green took the first and third heat with Braden K. Direct taking the second.

Colonel Bidwell won the 2.06 pace in straight heats and Roger C. second to the winner in the first two came in first in the third heat for second place.

DANIELSON TO PLAY AT JEWETT CITY SUNDAY

Manager DeForest of the Danielson A. A. is taking his ballossers to Jewett City Sunday in an endeavor to revert the decision of a few weeks ago at Danielson. Both clubs have been improved considerably since they last met. Ashland will send its young and coming battery, Lloyd Jarvis and George Robertson, to the firing line. The rest of the club is the same as has been playing the last few weeks. Tom Corcoran, former Cincinnati captain and shortsotp and more recently Southern league umpire will hold the indicafor. The game will be called at 3 p. m. S. T.

MARTIN-DUWELL GAME LEADING BALL ATTRACTION

One of the leading baseball attractions in this section of the state for Sunday afternoon will be held at the J. B. Martin grounds where the Velvetmen meet the fast Duwell A. A. in the first game of a series being played by these two teams. This is the only real baseball attraction on the first for Sunday so there ought to be a record attendance.

The Duwells need no introduction to the baseball fans in this vicinity as they have been playing a fast brand of ball, winning eight out of ten games This club will line up the same as in previous games with the exception of Schefiott. Belair will do the backstop work with Daniels, the pitching ace of Bulkeley high on the mound Tim Coughlin will cover first; Joe Barry at second; MacInnes at short; Whitney at third with Smith, Ringland, Simcox or Mullholland and the outfield.

The J. B. Martin team has been sent through a stiff practice during the past week and is confident of turning back the Duwell club with another defeat on their list.

A Challenge

Battery B baseball nine challenge the Inland A. C. of Versailles, Baltic A. A., Ashland A. A., Plainfield and Voluntown for a game Sunday Aug 3rd. The battery will lineup as follows: Lefty Dugas, 1b; Robertson of Jewett City, c; Gaudette, p; Burelle 2b; Reagan, 3b; Gauthier, ss; Lefty Donah and Young Dugas, lf; Coleman, Eikleberg and Berberbick, subs Arrangements can be made by calling 549-2 this (Saturday) afternoon between 12 and 1 o'clock.

Hartford Wins Two Games

Hartford, Aug. 1.—The Senators today had heavy batting rallies in both games with Waterbury and won the first 9 to 7 and the second 8 to 6. The league leaders threatened in each contest after the champions had taken large leads. Eight different pitchers were seen in action, some in both games. Lou Gehrig hit a home run in the first game and Schauffel, pinch hitting in the second contest, put one over the wall.

Booneville Vs. J. C. Wonders

The Boonville Sluggers will clash with the Jwett City Wonders Sunday afternoon at Slater Park in Jewett City at 2 o'clock (S. T.) A fast game is expected.

Meaning of "Double Standard."

The term "double standard" is used in both ethics and in money. In the first case it refers to what is known as the double standard of morals, whereby certain privileges are allowed to men that are not permitted to women. In money the double standard is a monetary standard based on both gold and silver as the material of the circulating medium, distinct from the single standard based upon either gold or silver.

The petitions nominating two women and a man for the office of board of school visitors have been filed at the office of the city clerk. The petitions are those of Rosemary O. Anderson, Nellie Kelley and Percy C. Eggleston and were circulated by P. LeRoy Harwood and Frederick W. Edgerton, other members of the board. It is believed that other petitions for the office will be filed before the time limit for doing so expires, the latter part of this month. Three vacancies will exist October 1 because of the expiration of the term of office of that number of members. The petition of George Haven for the office of selectman, which has been in circulation two days, has not been filed, but will be Saturday or Monday.

Petitions were in circulation today for the nemination of two women as members of the city council. The petitions are for Mrs. Annie C. M. Fenger and Mrs. Emily C. Spiers. Mrs. Fenner has already served as a member of the council and Mrs. Spiers is at present a member of the city planning board. A year ago Mrs. Spiers was a candidate for office and was defeated.

An automobile owned and operated by Patrick F. Gunning, of the Nelseco hotel, Groton, and a machine operated by Edward Fenn, were in collision last night at the corner of Bank and Truman street. Both cars were damaged.

The condition of James J. Drudy, secretary of New London lodge of Elks, who has been confined to his home, Union street, several days as a result of suffering a series of hemorrhages, is considerably worse today, for during the night the patient experienced another severe hemorrhage.

Miss Katherine Danforth, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. Romeyn Danforth, returned to her home on Federal street today, having been a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital several days.

R. A. Chalker, bridge tender at Saybrook complained to the New London police today that his automobile had been stripped of two tires, pump and kit of tools, while it was parked near Chalker's place of employment last night. Chalker declared that he observed a man operating a machine bearing Pennsylvania registration loitering about the former's car several hours and suspects the driver of the Pennsylvania car of having committed the theft. No trace of the suspect was found here.

Four youths were discovered by the special officer on duty at the Connecticut college attempting to gain entrance to New London hall, late yesterday afternoon. The youths were made prisoners by the watchman until the arrival of Captain Charles Pinney and Patrolman Howard Sloan, who delivered the lads into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W Mansfield. The boys will be given a hearing in the juvenile court within a few days.

Mary C. Bugher, Edward J. and Helen C Rice have sold a house and lot on Broad street to Madeline G McLaughlin.

Mary Estelle Morrison has sold a house and lot on Crystal avenue to Joseph R. and Serina Dalton.

Mrs. Sophie Cohen, of Norwich, Mrs. Leo Luis., Westerly, Miss Olive Price, Ocean Beach, Miss Emily Green, Groton, Mrs. Joseph Vescovi, Pequot avenue and Miss Curtiss Harthshorne, Pequot avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Rev. and Mrs. C. S. M. Stewart, 33 Brooks street, are entertaining their daughter, Miss Eleanor Stewart, New York.

Miss Julia Murphy, 209 Huntington street, is spending a few days with friends in Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac S. Browne, 32 Lee avenue, are in Northampton, Mass., where tomorrow they will be in attendance at the annual reunion of the Browne family.

Mrs. James A. O'Connell and daughter, Grace, of Hartford, formerly of New London, are guests of City Clerk and Mrs. Julian D. Moran, 307 Ocean avenue.

Mrs. Hadlai A. Hull and daughter, Miss Eleanor Hull have returned to their home on Vauxhall street, having spent three weeks at Rangeley Lakes, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Sullivan, who have been occupying the Day Baker cottage on Mott avenue, Neptune park, since selling their home in town to the Y. M. C. A., have moved into their new house in Hillside avenue, the Pequot.

A fellow posing as "Walter P. Rogers, United States deputy marshal," with residence at 805 Montauk avenue and telephone number 3222, has been about the city several days passing fraudulent checks but not until today was it known that Rogers was a crook and his plan was revealed. The strangeness of the check-passer's work is that he is still in the city and that he seeks negotiating checks of a minimum amount.

Rogers has made a practice of going to a garage or service station that were agents for cars and after talking in a business manner, would pretend to leave, then returning would request the cashing of a check for a small amount, stating that he possessed the make of car sold by the garage where he would attempt to work off the worthless check. This was attempted yesterday without success at the L. & H. Motor company and Monte Cristo garage. Failing to pass a check at the garages Rogers visited the Dixie Filling station, where he issued a check, payable to "cash" on the National Bank of Commerce this city, for $5 and it was negotiated, only to be returned by the bank today with the information that Rogers did not have an account there. This evening Rogers visited the Silleck Motor company, and again endeavored to negotiate a check. When he had left, the owner of the company communicated with the police, stating that Rogers was driving a Ford sedan with New Jersey registration X-22468 and had started toward Ocean Beach. The police speed car was brought into use and two officers went to the shore resort while Motorcycle Officer William Babcock made a tour of the principal streets in an effort to locate Rogers, but without success. There is no such address on Montauk avenue as Rogers gave and the telephone number on his business card, 3222 is that of Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton, Waterford.

It was disclosed tonight that a man answering the description of Rogers passed a worthless check a day or two ago by negotiating a check for $22 with a merchant named Ghiomo, 47 North Bank street, the establishment being two doors from the police station.

Another worthless check passer appeared to be operating here today when John MacArthur, proprietor of a Bank street dry goods store informed the police that a check for $22.50 had been cashed by him and proved worthless. This check was also drawn on the National Bank of Commerce. MacArthur stated that last Saturday a man entered his place and requested the cashing of the check. MacArthur accommodated him and this morning the check was returned to MacArthur with the information that the represented issuer of the check, "John McLean," did not have an account at the bank. The check was made payable to Herbert Randall and was endorsed by "Randall." The writing on the face of the check, including the names of the payee and payer were of the same handwriting, but the indorsement of Randall's writing was disguised.

A. M. Abbott, Pleasure Beach, Waterford, was taken into custody this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, charged with operating an automobile without having a license, and parking his machine on the east side of Bank street, between State and Golden streets, which is restricted territory. Abbott will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning.

EXTRACTION OF PETROLEUM

The extraction of petroleum from coal by the low temperature carbonization process is the object of the installation of a plant at Nottingham, England, consular advices to the department of commerce state. The promoters expect to make Nottingham a smokeless city (the first in England) to furnish cheap gas and to reduce both waste and danger in the coal mines in addition to securing from 18,000 to 20,000 gallons of oil from every 1,000 tons of coal, which is the expected daily capacity of the plant. Under present circumstances England imports oil to the value of 50,000,000 pounds a year. It is supposed to replace the gasoline and other petroleum products which are to be separated from the small coal heretofore regarded as almost a waste product of the mine.

GALES FERRY

The annual community picnic for the benefit of the M. E. church was held at the home of Noyes B. Allyn Tuesday, and was largely attended. A fine dinner was served at 10 o'clock, and consisted of clam chowder, sandwiches, pickles, lemon pie, cake and coffee. An after-dinner program of speaking was arranged, and attention was called by a bugler. Rev. W. D. Woodward, pastor of the church, as chairman, presented Rev. George H. Wright of Sterling, a former pastor of the church, who pleasingly addressed the gathering and added, Oh, how good you all look! Rev. James M. Potter of Hockanum, another former pastor, said he was glad to be again present at this annual gathering and closed with a fervent God bless you all. Rev. Peter C. Wright, D. D., of Yonkers, spoke of friendship in these annual gatherings. Miss Gladys Russell of Jersey City, the child reader, who spends the summer at Brown's Crossing, recited In an Uptown Flat. Rev. Horace B. Sloat of Hartford was called for and he responded interestingly and stated he was manager of the baseball team of Gales Ferry for the afternoon game. The chairman then presented George T. Meech of Middletown, a Grand Army man, who entered the Civil war from Gales Ferry. Mr. Meech spoke in a humorous vein.

Judge Alfred E. Steers of Brooklyn, N. Y., who also has a summer home here, was then introduced. Judge Steers is a deacon in the Dutch Reformed church of that city. He referred to Mr. Allyn for his interest in the permanent fund of the M. E. church, and closed with the words, "Get the best of your enemies, by doing some kind and gracious act for them." This closed the speaking.

The Ladies' Aid society tables were in charge of Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt, Mrs. Fred W. Turner and Mrs. Carl B. Lawson. Mrs. Harlan A. Pierce was at the flower table. A program of sports and games was carried out under the direction of Walter T. Clark, Rev. Howard B. Sloat and Nelson Parker. These comprised sack races, three-leg races, 10 yard dash, potato races, relay races, wheelbarrow race and others. Among the prizes were key ring cases, scout hatchets, scout knives, wooden spoon, manicure set, bill folds and other articles. The baseball team for men was in charge of Rev. H. B. Sloat for the boys, Donald Sloat. The men winning. Among those winning prizes in the sports were Alfred D. Sears, George Russell, Dorothy Callahan, Ernst Nilan, Adeline Glenat, Alice Kimball, Harold Bayles, Gaden Maggerdean, Mary Settman, Paul Miller, Robert Allyn, Henry Larsen, C. E. IMPROVED LOCOMOTIVE Recent Italian scientific journals have been describing a new "thermo-aero locomotive," a simple device applicable to an ordinary locomotive with slight expense and with only slight remodelling. An internal motor, fed with oil, produces generously hot compressed air and steam, which are the motive power. It is stated that the locomotive may be stopped without stopping the motor, power for upgrades may be increased and there are no smoke, soot or ashes. It is estimated that traction costs on the Italian railways may by its use be reduced 70 per cent.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Usual news filled the columns of the Bulletin fifty years ago but interest of the younger generation, at least, was centered in the coming race on the Thames between the Murphy brothers of Norwich and two New London men who challenged their title to the championship of the Thames river.

Items taken for the Bulletin of 1874 are in part as follows.

Monday, July 27, 1874—A tub race between Edwin Bassett and Dwight Freeman took place on the Shetucket river Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Both started with favoring gales, but the canoe of Mr. Freeman soon shipped a heavy sea and craft and crew succumbed. Bassett reached the farther shore, won the $25 put up, and was crowned champion "tubbist" of the river. A large crowd gathered and cheered the heroes as they paddled.

Norwich markets are well supplied with vegetables and prices are moderate. Excellent new potatoes are offered at .90 to $1 per bushel; string beans, 30 cents per peck; marrowed fat peas, 35 cents; new onions, 60 cents. Beets in abundance at 5 cents per bunch; turnips, 6 cents; cabbages, 5 to 8 cents and cucumbers, 2 to 5 cents each.

The long pier at East New London is making good progress. When completed according to the original plan and specifications it will scarcely be equaled by anything of the kind in the state.

A. H. Emmons, the artist, is temporarily away from home on a visit to Richard Lathers of Pittsfield, Mass.

Walter Clapp was appointed Deputy Judge of the Norwich City Court by the state legislature in session at New Haven yesterday.

Tuesday, July 28, 1874—The following are the incoporators of the Savings bank in the town of Colchester: J. N. Felton, Giles G. Wickwire, J. C. Hammond, J. N. Adams, Salmon C. Gillette, Russell Way, Henry Foote, Charles N. Taylor, Edward F. Gates, R. S. Taintor, Horace Smith, Leander Charman, A. B. Pierce, ohn Slater, William A. Williams, Sylvanus Backus, Thomas Sheridan, George B. Avery, Nathaniel Foote, A. E. Emmons, Ira W. Holmes, Ralph C. Foote and Aanson Gardner.

A young man walked into the city book stores yesterday and inquired for Homer's Odyssey. The clerk, after looking through the shelves failing to find the object of his search, said in a reflective manner, "Well, we haven't any of Homers latest works in at present."

The Chelsea Hose Co. of Greeneville has just procured 800 feet of superior hose manufactured by Smith and Gallup of Water street.

C. J. Winters, West Side, received from Putnam yesterday, a pair of fat cattle that weighed 4040 pounds.

At a meeting of the Court of Common Council held last evening the salary of Street Commissioner Mr. Cole was raised from $1,200 to $1,500.

Wednesday, July 29—Yesterday at 11 a. m. the last brick was added to the lofty tower of the new Park church and in the afternoon the completion of the work was celebrated by a very pleasant occasion. Accordingly through the energy of C. P. Coggswell, chairman, the committee composed of Ebenezer Learned, J. F. Slater and Col. H. H. Ussorcd, agreed to give the laborers numbering about 40 men a dinner at the church. The church is now fast verging toward completion. The plastering in the body of the church is esticly done, the ceiling with wainscoting nearly completed, the floors are laid and work has been begun on the platform. It will be probably done about the first of September.

J. M. Crocker of this city several days ago despatched some toy balloons with direction to the finders to send notice of the whereabouts of their landing. The first one after a flight of 24 hours dropped into the hands of John Connell of Summit, R. I. One of the other balloons after a short flight landed in the doorway of the local postoffice.

The imperfect draw of the new bridge over Winthrop's cove is being improved. Judging from the heavy iron bands and braces being used the job will be a permanent one.

Thursday, July 30—The Corning family of Preston, for two generations back shows a remarkable longevity: John Willett, 92; Elizabeth Willett, 88; Nehemiah Corning, 91; Freelove Corning, 86; Uriah Corning, 93, Elizabeth Corning, 93; Elias Corning, 89; Rebecca Corning, 89; Jedediah Corning, 82; Amos Corning, 77; Sarah Corning, 74; Betty Corning, 72; total 990.

The store on Main street recently occupied by R. M. Haven is soon to be opened again, as a branch clothing house, by Daniel Kraus of New York. He has already begun moving in a portion of his stock.

The Crocker House in New London is well filled and the Pequot is said to be filled to capacity. The Edgecomb and Ocean Houses are gradually filling. The season seems to be a good one for summer resorts, all hotels reporting heavy bookings.

The City of Lawrance has been engaged by the Greeneville fire department for their outing at Rocky Point tomorrow. Tubbs Band will go along with the excursionists to provide music.

Friday, July 31, 1874—The amendment to the city charter by which exclusive jurisdiction is conferred on the city court of all crimes committed within the limits of the town of Norwich, goes into effect and becomes a law on the 14th of August.

The race between Connelly and Burke and the Murphy brothers, that has caused no little excitement in this city and New London, is scheduled to come off Saturday. The men will race for the championship of the Thames river and a purse of $100 a side.

The Trinity church tower has been pronounced dangerous and the parish has voted to remove it and substitute a new one.

Messrs. Chapel Brothers of New London have received from Boston, a monster sword fish, weighing 400 pounds. The fish was a part of the 20,000 pound catch made by the sloop, James Allyn of Boston.

A toy balloon dispatched from Lanman and Sexin's drug store the other day, with address of sender, was picked up in Southbridge, Mass. This is the longest flight of any balloon sent up this summer from Norwich.

Saturday, August 1, 1874—A republican caucus to nominate a candidate for mayor, vice His Honor James Lloyd Greene resigned, was held at Town Hall last evening. It deemed best by the caucus that no candidate be named and that the people be left free to make their selection at the polls.

The D. R. Holmes engine company of Greeneville made their excursion to Rocky Point yesterday. They went on the Steamer City of Lawrence and were accompanied by Tubbs band. Some fifteen hundred friends made the trip and enjoyed the outing at the point which was one of the best ever held by the company.

The president has signed the commission for several postmasters, among them being Mrs. Betsey Mower of New London.

The builders have taken possession of the old United States hotel building on Water street, for the purpose of raising it and making stores out of it for Davis & Kinne.

Old people living in Norwich were given a new outlook on life yesterday when it became known that Sam Jones of Rickingham County, Va., said to be the oldest man in the world, recently passed away, at the age of 133 years. He was of mixed Indian and negro blood and his age is vouched for by unimpeachable testimony.

TAR SANDS

The tests which have been made of the tar sands from McMurray, Alberta, Canada, have proved that the material is suitable for road construction, according to Alexander Ross, provincial minister of public works in Alberta. Roads have been surfaced with mixtures of tar sands and clay, and both mixtures apparently are standing up well. The stretches of road which have been finished with this material will be watched closely to determine how it stands up under heavy weather. If it stands up under heavy rains, when heavy wagons are passing over it continually it will be up to expectations, it is asserted by the engineers who are interested in the experiments which are being made with this material. The success of these tests will demonstrate the possibilities of the Alberta tar sands, which occur in unlimited quantities, in the northern part of the province.

Rules of the Road, Tokyo, Japan

This is not a joke. It appears just as it is posted in Japan's largest police station, the Central Police Station at Tokyo.

1. At the rise of the hand policeman, stop rapidly.
2. Do not pass policeman or otherwise disrespect him.
3. When a passenger of the foot hove in sight, toot the horn; trumpet at him melodiously at first, but if he still obstacles your passage, toot him with vigor, and express by word of mouth the warning, "Hi, Hi."
4. Beware of the wandering horse, that he shall not take fright as you pass him by; do not explode an exhaust blow at him. Go soothingly by.
5. Give big space to the festive dog that shall sport in the roadway.
6. Avoid entanglements of the dog with the wheel spokes.
7. Go soothingly on the grease mud, as there lurks the skid demon.
8. Press the brake of the foot as you roll around the corner, to save collapse and tie-up.

78 YEARS WITHOUT WATER

The case of a woman of Sussex, England, who has not drunk a drop of water since the great exhibition of 1851, has come to the attention of a London physician. While attending her, she complained of thirst, and he suggested cold water. She then related that as a child she had visited the great exhibition and had a drink of water that had made her sick. Since then she had not had any water and had got along very well without it.

TWIN ELEPHANTS BORN

The birth of twin elephants is an unusual occurrence, but H. C. Chowdhuri of the forest service in India, reports the arrival of twins on the Chittagong Hills Tracts of the Kaptai, reserve. The mother elephant is one owned by the deputy commissioner, who also reports that for the first time full grown elephants are being captured in India regularly without the use of decoy elephants.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Magic Honey.

The Giant sat in his big armchair
While the Yellow Bird perched on his knee.
"Come, sing us a song," said the great big man.
"The song of The Lost Little Me!"

At once the dear little Yellow Bird began to sing, about a little boy who longed to be a great big man. Always when roaming through the woods, he would call to the bears, begging them to teach him how to grow up strong. The great furry animals would come

"Taste this honey" Said the King Bear out of their dens and caves and, sitting up on their haunches, would answer: "Eat magic honey."

"But where shall I find the magic honey?" the little boy inquired.

"Oh, that you must find for yourself," the bears would answer.

All through the days, the little boy went searching for the Magic Honey. At last, one night, weary and hungry, he lay down to sleep under a big spreading elm. As he slept a kind old mother bear whispered:

"Ask the King of all the bears
Where he stores his honey wares."

Bright and early the next morning when the little boy awoke he remembered dimly what the old mother bear had advised him to do.

Far and near he searched for the king of the bears. At last he found him, sitting in front of his great cave. When the king of all the bears heard what the little boy wanted, he ambled into his cave and brought out a pot of golden honey. "Here is the magic honey," he said. But let me say something first. You will never be as happy when you are big and strong as you are now, just as you are, a little boy."

"Oh, yes I will," answered the little boy. "I so long to be grown-up—a big man who can do everything."

"Ah me," answered the king of the bears. "It is only when we are small that we imagine big people can do so much. Go home to your mother. Do the little things she asks of you. They are better."

But the little boy answered. "I wish to be large and strong. I'm tired of being little."

"Well then," answered the King Bear. "Taste this honey."

"No sooner had the little boy tasted it than he grew Oh, so big,—almost as tall as a pine tree. A thick beard spread over his face and his hands became hard and strong.

Then the King turned back into his cave and away ran the little boy, only, of course, a boy no longer. And when he reached the town where his house was, he could not find it. In its place was a great city, humming with the noise of factories. No mother stood at the cottage door, nor his old dog with a wagging tail of welcome. All was changed.

"I feel like that little boy," sighed the Ragged Giant Bunny as the little Yellow Bird finished her song.

To two who found the haven snug
And safe—
The pitiless tempest sheltered near—Enough
Is more than plenty.
And yet to see again and face the storm
Rousing to combat parts my thirsty heart
As drink
Can never quench it, or offer more.
We knew as well, at last, that we Were not intended for the shore.
The danger is small—the hermit
The end
Of shudder this and wave, of seeking and
Across the water vanishing and lost.
The other—to be swallowed in the gale.
But we are built of too imperious stuff
To think this harbor happiness enough.

THE FLOWERED GOWN

I wish that I could find my gown
With printed roses up and down
And rose-pink ribbon made to tie
In wide bows like a butterfly.
It had a berthaed of white lace
With ribbon at the crossing place
To mark the beating girl-heart, lit
With gay unwisdom, under it.
And ruffles very crisp and wide
Fell back upon the quilted side.

I would put out my hand at night
And find it in its place bright
Between my leghorn on the wall
And mother's heirloom China shawl,
Behind the cherry, closed door
In the blue room on the third floor
That their room's as much a height
It would be hard to reach tonight—
There are two flights of stairs to climb
And seven weary years of time.

AN OLD FASHIONED GARDEN

Dear Social Corner: I was very much surprised when the Bulletin came Saturday to see I was one of the prize winners. I thank the editor for my yellow dime. I enjoy reading about the sister's vacation trips. I have been to Mohegan park this summer. It is a beautiful place. I loved nearer I would go often. And I had an unexpected trip to Beach Pond which I enjoyed very much.

I have been canning peas. Eleven quarts is the result of them as I never canned any peas before.

Today I am canning a few beets like Mrs. B. I have a garden in front of the window where we wash dishes.

I have lemon lilies, white lilies, old fashioned red roses, columbine, golden glow, rosemary, pink yarrow and many pink from the seeds of my house plants.

I used to have southern wood of which mother's love some call it but I hate the smell.

If any sister has some to spare I would be very glad to have a little to put in my old fashioned garden. This spring I had a root of flowering currant given me. I have tended same for a long time. That is in the old fashioned garden across the walk. There I have cinnamon roses, calendulas, purple lilac and to fill out the garden, dahlias. As I can I shall fill it with all old fashioned flowers and vines.

I had some calves but last winter killed them.

I guess also or my letters will be too long. I am so fond of my old fashioned gardens.

OCEAN BEACH PICNIC

Dear Corner Friends: Another week has passed and I did not get this letter written as I had hoped to, as I wanted to thank my friends for their contributions to my shower of birthday cards. I have over forty enclosed letters.

The bright hues of the rainbow shall be the flower in the memory of so many good and loving wishes of happy years and endless joys from the hearts of many of my friends and I thank you all for having been so sweetly remembered.

At this time of year we have a picnic at Ocean Beach, New London, and it has been decided to have one there Wednesday, August 6, if it does not rain.

One can take a basket lunch or get a shore dinner there, as they prefer. Hope all clubs will fall in line, and members living near take advantage of the local picnic. It would be a good place to wear your yellow bow for identification. If those in Club who want to go will signify their intention by calling up 902 on the phone it will help a great deal in making up a food load, as it is limited to 25, and the "first come first served" and the early bird catches the worm" but reaches the bus in this case for Ocean Beach August 6, Wednesday.

THEODA.

CARE OF PIANO

Social Corner Editor and Members: My name is on the roll call hence a reply. I think to write about the care of a piano would be a great help.

The piano is an instrument, requiring almost as much attention to keep in good working order as the human body. A great deal of care and skill have entended into its manufacture and in order to keep it in effective condition some points suggested by a maker of forty years' experience may be worth noting.

In the first place a piano cannot keep its tone in a damp place: dampness rusts both strings and tuning pins and also causes the felt on the hammers and dampers to swell thus causing the mechanism to move irregularly or sluggishly. To prevent the ivory keys from turning yellow allow them to be exposed to the rays of the sun occasionally.

While avoiding dampness, do not put the piano stand, put your instrument in a place of extreme heat as near a radiator or stove or fire.

To keep dust from accumulating on the sounding board, close your piano when not in use.

Most people have learned by experience that it is injurious to a watch to leave it without winding for a long time, thus causing the oil to clot. It is just as hurtful to a piano to keep it closed for months at a time. Even when not in use, open it occasionally.

If you insist upon burdening your piano by piling heavy books, pictures and ornaments upon it, do not be surprised if it retaliates by sometimes emitting unpleasant sounds when played upon.

Place a small piece of camphor in a corner inside your instrument to keep the moths from destroying the felt.

Have the piano tuned often—if new every three or four months th first year and less frequently thereafter. When necessary to move your instrument see that it is done by people whose sole business is to move pianos.

MONTE DOOLEY.

AT TWICE TWENTY'S PICNIC

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am going to tell you what a nice time we had at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Twice Twenty on July 23. We started early as we had a long way to go. When we entered the trolley the first one to greet us was Red Rose. Another sister was with her whose pen name I didn't know. Very soon Red Clover joined us. When we reached Danielson we saw Rural Delivery get on the car. He was so busy thinking of the new patch work patterns the sisters might bring him, the different sisters he would meet and if Happy Go Lucky, Uncle Henry and Jim would be there. If Uncle Charlie would bring anyone in his automobile that he failed to recognize any of the Social Corner sisters that were near him until we were nearly there. We think the sisters must have changed very much since they last met.

Several of the sisters were already at Twice Twenty's when we reached there. They kept coming until there were sisters present from Moosup, Putnam, Danielson, Dayville, North Sterling, Franklin, Plainfield, Pomfret and Attawaugan. Needless to say the dinner was what a Social Corner dinner always is, perfect.

After singing the Doxology ample justice was done to the many good things the sisters had brought with them. Plenty of lemonade to quench our thirst. The day was an ideal one. Very hot by the thermometer, but very comfortable sitting in the shade of the trees.

Rosebuds brother, Mr. Esmeralda with her thinking perhaps from past experiences (?) that after partaking of such a dinner, some one might want to to ask his advice about the future world. If any one did he kindly kept their secret.

We learned that Happy Go Lucky is interested in making "bunnits" the small ones are his hobby, we understand he has taken an order for one so far, or was it to be a present? Mr. T. T. was kept busy explaining his radio, and seeing every one was comfortable and happy. We were pleased to see so many of the new members of Club present and to find out who was who, also to meet the older members. Several visitors were present. Hope they will become members in the near future. We know all present will join with us in saying Thank You to Mr. and Mrs. Twice Twenty for the pleasant time we enjoyed there and that we may hear them say, "Come again" another time.

REZIAH DOOLITTLE.

THE VISITING BASKET

Dear Social Corner: I have just had a visit from a "Visiting Basket" and as it was new to me, I thought maybe it would be to others. Our W. C. T. U. started it out, a basket filled with things to sell for them. All kinds of things aprins, holders, towels, pins, handkerchiefs, soap, face cloth, talcum powder, thread, hooks and eyes, anything useful. Each article has the price marked on it. There is also a box in the basket for the money and a book in which you write what you bought also what you put in to sell. If you find something you want take it, and put the price in the box and set it down in the book. You are supposed to put something in to sell, with the price marked on it, so as to keep it going. I had company one day and showed it to them, and they found several things they wanted, so that helped so much more.

The basket earns quite a lot in a little while, and is some fun too.

I hope this will help someone.

ROBERTA.

A REAL VACATION

Dear Editor and Sisters: As I have just reached home from a two weeks vacation the first real vacation that I have ever had in my life, thought perhaps the sisters would like to hear something about it. I couldn't give but a faint idea of the different places that we visited, any one would have to see for themselves but will briefly describe something about them. We started Monday morning at 5 o'clock going by auto. We went to Willimantic and then to Hartford, saw the large fields of tobacco which was quite a sight and the immense sheds where they store the tobacco and then we traveled on towards Winsted. We ate our lunch at the side of the road under a tree and after resting a bit we went on and saw a very pretty sight through the Connecticut valley and saw the Berkshire Hills which is wonderful. We rode miles and miles with the hills in sight sometimes they would be quite near and then they would be farther away and then they would be right at our side. It was nearly as pretty a sight as I saw anywhere. We can't begin to realize what a wonderful country this is until you begin to travel. You haven't got to go out of the good old state of Connecticut to see some of the wonders of nature. We traveled on and it was getting quite late and we were rather tired of riding. We stopped at a place called Locust Inn, Glenville, for the night, about half way between Schnectady and Amsterdam. In the morning we started on our way, again arriving at Waterloo, N. Y., at 6 P. M., a distance of 400 miles, at the home of my daughter. Wednesday we rested. Thursday we went at Canuga lake, a very pretty lake, with cottages all along the sides, each one was named different, some of them had funny names such as Eatmore and Fedwell and so on Friday we went to Sodus Point on the lake, a pretty spot. We took our lunch and had a picnic. Saturday we went to Watkins Glen, a most wonderful place of nature with an hour and half walk upstairs all the way with water between two very high rocks all the way, a sight that any one ogidon sees. We went to Lake Ontario also Senaca lake which was beautiful. It was queer but no salt water anywhere all fresh water. Sunday we went to Boiling Springs where the water for several feet seemed to boil and bubble up. This water is very pure, they sell it by the gallon. Monday we went shopping in Auburn, a very pretty city with very wide streets, found the people all around very sociable. Tuesday we went to Moses Corner and Scythe Tree Farm where at the time of the Civil war a young man hung up his scythe in this tree and went to war. He told his family to let the scythe hang there until he came back but he never came back so the scythe has hung there ever since. The tree at the time was only 6 inches in diameter and now it is a monster with flags continually floating on each side and only about six inches of the scythe in sight. Wednesday rested. Thursday we went to Niagara Falls, another wonderful sight, crowds of people going there daily. We crossed the big bridge and then we were in Canada where we could see the falls rather better. Friday went after cherries, saw the most cherries I ever saw in my life and fields of vegetables of all kinds. Acres and acres, a very pretty country all with scarcely any hills or woods, a level country altogether. Saturday we went to Geneva a large city. Sunday we went to Tarryhannock Falls, more falls but not as large as Niagara. That was a trip of 70 miles. Monday morning we started for home comming by train to Worcester we passed the Catskills mountains in Pittsfield a very pretty sigh with beautiful scenery all the way. We came by trolley to Danielson, my son meeting us there. We reached home about 13 o'clock Monday night tired of our 1,000 mile trip and glad to get back to the good old state of Connecticut, a trip I never will forget.

TWICE TWENTY.

DELIGHTFUL PICNIC

Dear Social Corner Friends: How we did enjoy the picnic at the home of Twice Twenty on July 23. It was like going home to spend Thanksgiving with a small portion of the large family who could be present. The time passed off so fast we were obliged to leave much sooner than we expected as we had a date on business to be in Danielson at 4 p. m. The only fault one can find with attending Social Corner picnics is the time to go, home comes before you are ready. It certainly was a few hours of much pleasure to be one of the gathering of the number of the best people in Windham and New London countries. There was much fun trying to find out who was who and there is another guess coming and as yet some are still guessing. Twice Twenty has a beautiful home and lawn for a Corner picnic. It was pleasing to see how nicely she entertained the large family of 40 visitors and with the help of Mr. Twice Twenty there was nothing undone to make all present never to forget their visit with them on July 23, to those who were not present we will say you just ought to have seen the tables spread under, not the shade of the Old Apple Tree, but under the huge white oak tree, one of the largest ones in the state with its long branches which cover the lawn making a beautiful shade for 40 who sat down to the tables and did justice to everything good from baked beans with pickles to pies, cakes, cookies and fruit. We cannot mention all that was before us for want of space but the tables were just loaded and one might have thought the soldier boys were expected to dinner on their way to Camp Devens. Mr. Twice Twenty was kept pretty busy to supply all with good lemonade as the day was hot and dry. Although Mr. Twice Twenty is troubled with rheumatism he got around pretty good waiting on the ladies at the tables, such a job must be good for rheumatism. As we expect to see a number of letters the account of the picnic I will not take up any more who were there and all who were there and all the Corner family who could not attend we remain the same.

SAVING SUMMER BLOOMING BULBS

Cannas, gladioli, dahlias, and tuberoses are all fine free blooming. Cannas give a very rich tropical effect, and bloom all summer so they are very popular and the other varieties are scarcely less popular. Now all these can be kept next winter without much trouble and some with very little risk or bother.

Cannas are the most difficult to keep but with a warm cellar that is not too dry and overheated they can be dug with as much dirt as possible then set closely on the cellar floor The soil must be kept moist enough to prevent shrivelling in the bulbs but not wet enough to induce growth. In the spring bring them up, divide, and plant, or pot up if a very early start is desired.

Gladioli are the easiest to keep. They can be dug after the frost kills the top, dried in a warm sunny place in a paper and hung upon the wall.

LESSONS IN CONTRASTS

Dear Social Cornerites: Remember darkness is a great thing. It is necessary to appreciate light, sour and bitter must exist in order that we may have a knowledge of the sweet; you cannot have a positive without a negative. We would have no knowledge of the straight and narrow way unless God permits a similar way that is broad and easy. You may know the bad way for the crowd is always there. Do not be deceived by the big crowds.

Judas had quite a crowd of preachers behind him, he was very popular with the church people in his day. They gave him a fine collection and he had a wonderful field of opportunity opened to him. But he had once been with the Lord and knew his humble way and when he realized what he had done he went out and hanged himself.

ENJOYED VERSAILLES PICNIC

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It a long time since I wrote to the Social Corner. I went to the picnic at Versailles and had a fine time and lovely shady grounds for it. I had the misfortune soon afterward to fall and dislocate my shoulder and it not getting along very fast. I could not go to Malvina's picnic for which I was very sorry. The time is not far away when we shall meet again at the Buckingham for our good times. I have nearly 150 hills of dahlias which are beginning to bloom and some marigolds but the weather is very dry for them.

I hope the sick ones are improving and that we shall all be able to get together in October. What a roll call. I have 650 names already cut out and pasted in a book.

WINDHAM BLUE BELL.

NEW MEMBER FLOWER LOVER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Will you make room for another in your social group? If so, I'm coming in. Although I've never added my bit to the Corner, have enjoyed the others letters very much, and often wish I knew who was who among the writers. It is very nice that our good editor gives a page each week for friendly chats. There is so much that is helpful in the letters in the way of household hints and recipes, while some give us a beautiful though, well expressed, that is as necessary to us as the recipes are.

In looking over the names in the roll call each week, the thought comes to me that while many of the sisters choose for their pen name one of our beautiful flowers, but few of them are telling us about their garden, and their house plants. I wonder why, for I just know some of the sisters must have wonderful flower beds, and it would be so interesting to hear about them.

Just now, I have a large bed of zinnias coming into bloom. They are a very satisfactory flower, for the blooms on the plant remain in perfect condition many days. They make a very brilliant display throughout the season, until the frost comes. Petunias make a valuable addition to any garden for they are one mass of bloom through the summer. The single varieties making a better garden display than the double, as they produce more blooms to the plant. The double varieties are beautiful and often are sweet scented. Either one makes a fine house plant for the winter months.

The bachelor buttons, of a deep blue shade, and yellow or orange calendula, is a combination I'm particularly fond of and grow each year. Those two flowers together produce an effect truly charming.

I wonder how many of the Corner Sisters have become gladioli enthusiasts? They furnish such a diversity of shades, fro mthe most brilliant to the most delicate pastel shades, and last especially well when cut. I have over 400 bulbs this year, including quite a number of choice varieties Personally, I think it is more satisfactory to choose each variety thus making up your own collection than to buy gladioli bulbs in mixture. Last year I bought an inexpensive mixture, most of which I shall tag this year, and cull out, when the bulbs are dug this fall, as none were equal to any of the named varieties I have. It takes as much time and energy to grow an inferior bulb as one that is real delight, so why keep it, better replace it with a new variety.

I wish some one would tell me how to grow fuchsias. My various attempts to grow one result in absolute failure.

Blue Bird: The gift box is a splendid idea. I, too, have one that I add to from time to time as I come across something especially pleasing. There is a deal of satisfaction to be had in being prepared for the birthdays and anniversaries. I also keep dainty cards and booklets for these occasions on hand and find it pretty nice to have a supply to choose from. I think each and everyone of us are always pleased to be remembered with cards from our friends upon these dates, and how many of us have learned of a birthday at hand, and experienced a pang of regret that we hadn't a card to post in the mornings mail.

MARCISSUS.

THAT WONDERFUL PICNIC

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: First I think we owe a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Twice Twenty for the nice picnic, and in the language of a small boy of my acquaintance, Didn't we have the goodest time. A large congenial crowd, and judging by appearances all had a good time, and plenty for the inner man.

Will who ever brought those delicious molasses cookies please put the recipe in the Social Corner for I know I am not the only one who wants it.

I was glad that Saturday Eve wrote about that beautiful sunset as I admired it, I wondered how many others gave it a passing glance. I seldom miss a beautiful sunset.

Esmaralda: I was glad you could go that picnic it gave you a chance to meet so many up in this section of the state.

Rosalind: I told Aunt C. about meeting you and she said she would like to see you, so when you come this way again stop in and see us.

If any one wants an extra good lemon pie, they ought to try Grandmother's lemon pie, sent in by Celia Louise.

As all roads lead to East Killingly on their Old Home Day, Aug 7, I hope a good number of the members will try to go. I am sure you will meet with a hearty welcome, and enjoy yourselves, at least that is the universal opinion. It is a beautiful spot cool and shady. And a good dinner always served.

Balsam Fir: Did you visit your relativ while in Connecticut? I saw him awhile ago and he expected you would come and see him.

ACKNOWLEDGES REAL FRIENDS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters; As it is time for me to pen a line to the Corner in answer to the roll call, I think I'd better get busy. I have thoroughly enjoyed the letters of the Corner and each week promise myself that by another week I will surely send in a letter. But as time waits for no man, the week slips by and I am still one week more behind.

Owing to sickness in the family for quite a long period, I have been kept in my home, very close so have not been able to be at the regular meetings, or able to attend any of the picnics. But have been with you all in thought. I hope to be able to attend the meetings when they open in September.

It is well for us all, that we do not know what the future holds for us, so that we can be always looking for better things, more bright and beautiful and forget our present troubles.

Many thanks to the kind sisters who remembered us, when we needed real friends.

Good luck, and best wishes to you all.

FELIX.

VISITED GROTON LONG POINT

Social Corner Friends:: There's an old saying that "It's better late, than never" and it's always "late" with me when it comes to letter writing, as all relatives and friends can testify for of all things I hate to write. There isn't much I can write about as I can't get out around very much. I did want to go to Rural Auntie's picnic at Central Village and had made plans to do so but when the time came, Mrs. Suze whom I had expected would go with me could not leave her work so I had to stay at home. I do not dare go anywhere alone as my poor old lame knees and ankles are liable to give out any time. I cant get on or off trolley or steam cars without lots of help, takes one to "almost" and one to pull, so really its better for all concerned if I do not go on the cars. Can get into and out of the auto all right and I dearly love to "motor." My son comes every two weeks to take me for a ride and I have had delightful trips. Last week he had written he would come Thursday afternoon to give me my "airing." Well about nine o'clock Thursday morning my daughter-in-law arrived and said I was to go home with her and then after dinner, we were going to her sister's cottage at Groton Long Point. Of course I was delighted at the prospect and got ready as soon as possible and away we went and let whisper it. I had just started a little washing when my daughter-in-law came and I left it in the bathtub (and I didn't worry me either). Friday morning I finished it. This trip to the Point was my first, this season, the road under repair, is rough traveling, but when we reached the end of our journey we forgot the bad road. There are not so many people at the Point this year as there have been when I was there other seasons. I did enjoy the rambler roses at the Point, they looked lovely and so fresh, while the ramblers up this way are all gone, but not only the roses but all our flowers are dried up and the lawns, ditto.

Hinkley: Was glad to see a letter from you once more. You certainly have had your share of trouble, but I trust better times are coming for you and yours. Cheer up, you know the "girls" used to call you Sunshine only a few years ago.

Ma of Greene Gables: How did you feel after your "call" on me. Hope you reached home without getting wet.

J. E. T.: Am glad to see your letters always. I went past your house a few weeks ago and saw you. A few years have passed since we were girls together in Yantic.

Delilah Deal: I can sympathize with you in your lameness and semi-helpless condition. I am very thankful that I can get around and do all my work (in six good sized rooms, also bathroom, pantry and three halls,) but it takes me two days to do what I used to do in one, when I was well and I am easily tired but I keep going.

I think the editor will wish he had never printed the name of Jack's Wife in the roll call, so I will end this. I only intended to write present and sign my name but here I have written a book before saying present.

JACK'S WIFE

SOME QUESTIONS

Dear Social Corner Pals: Hope everyone is well and happy, able to write and perhaps you can answer a few questions. Now I'd like to know: Is anything a man or woman says more interesting than what they say in their sleep?

Where do all the bed clothes disappear to in the night on a cool night

If husbands get a thrill in the latest work, while teaching wives to drive a car or to swim?

How some men get so hot waiting for "eats" while the wife keeps so cool preparing it?

This story might fit in answer.

Mandy—How'dy sistah! I saw yo' husban' down de road aways an' he sail tore up!

What happened to him?

Liza—I happened to him! Dat's what! He ain't done a stroke of work fo' six months an' he came into de house a singing a chune an' wif a flower in his buttonhole an' wanted to know why de debbil his dinnah wasn't ready! De worm will turn, sistah! It sure will.

If Katydid was watching ducks swim or were you just dreaming?

How about it for a moving picture?

Heliotrope: That is all of the poem by Dr. J. E. Trust you will fully enjoy Chautauqua and hope to meet you in person.

Sis Hopkins: Hope you will be making that trip down town or that I may see you before long.

Cretia—We all enjoyed your company on the trip to Twice Twenty's and are very grateful to both herself and Mr. for the day's pleasure.

Olga: This reminds me of you.

"I'm sorry, young man," said the druggest as he eyed the small boy over the counter, "but I can only give you half as much castor oil for a dime as I used to."

The boy handing him the dime said, "I'm not kicking the stuff's for me."

HOPE COBWEB.

LOOKS LIKE VACATION

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think by the looks of the paper last week you are taking a vacation. I don't blame you as it is nice to have a change and when you come back you take up the cares and duties with more zest. Then you have so many pleasant things to think about. Think some of the sisters that haven't written might write about the little trips they take. By the sound at Buckingham sometimes they can all talk. Why not write as they talk? Seems to me by the number of names in the roll call that very few write. What a family it has got to be. I had quite a pleasant time at Twice Twenties. Glad I had the opportunity to go and meet so many that I had never met before. As I heard one of the sisters say I wouldn't have missed it for anything and I wouldn't have missed her blackberry pie.

If I don't thank the sisters for the birthday greetings they sent me Whirlwind, Evelyn, Foxglove and New Mother, Lo, Red Clover, Black Eyed Susie, and Olga, they might do as they did to Olga send another in three months and I don't want to take teir time as I know they are all busy people.

Yours for the Corner.

RED ROSE.

DDISAPPOINTED ABOUT HER GARDEN

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: What an awful hot dry summer we are having. It seems all the vegetable plants and flowers have stopped growing and are turning yellow and drying up. I've been looking forward to some early sweet corn but am afraid am doomed to disappointment. I planted over a hundred hills of corn, for we all love it. My flowers too are suffering for the want of a little rain. What trials we poor mortals do experience.

Marigold: I would like to see your Social Corner garden. It certainly must be beautiful. It is so near the house you probably sprinkle it every evening. Am glad you enjoyed the picnic at Elizabeth park.

Lucy Acorn: You too must have a lovely flower garden. Have you forgotten how to write since you have gone into the rug business? How are the chicks? Presume Mr. Acorn is well.

Delight: How are you these hot days? I don't ever see the roll call but presume my name has been called. So will answer present, with best wishes to all.

BOB WHITE.

WHAT CIVILIZATION DOES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Civilization is a great thing. We take the Mexican Indian from a life of ease and plenty. He has plenty of food that suits his taste and the climate of his country makes his clothing unnecessary to a great extent. Through our civilization process we cause him to labor six days a week in order to buy food to suit his newly acquired taste. He must also have silk shirts and keep up the payments on a second hand Lizzie. Of course he has only one day per week left to stand on the plaza but he is civilized.

FELICITY.

ZANY JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Editor and Friends of the Corner: I have been a reader of the Bulletin for a good many years and have become so interested in the Social Corner that is the first I look for every Saturday morning. If the editor sees fit to publish this letter I would like to join the Corner. Have heard considerable talk about the good time at Twice Twenty's picnic at Dayville Four Corners and as the report is the same from all the picnics, have made up my mind I would like to be one of the jolly crowd.

I wonder if any of the sisters have ever made an old fashioned apple slump, the same as mother used to make? She made it in an iron kettle on top of the stove, sweetened it with molasses, flavored it with cinnamon and then we had real cream right off the top of a big pan of milk to eat on it. Believe me it was some feed. After dinner mother would say, now children if you will sweep the kitchen floor and fill the wood box, I will make you an apple slump for supper. Well that floor was well swept and the box piled high with wood in double quick time. Not so with father, he would say, children if you will go to the spring and bring a couple of pails of water, I will let you turn the grind stone in the morning, while I grind the scythe. Well, we got our pay in the afternoon for he would let us ride on the load of hay to the barn then drive the team back to the field, we though that lots of fun. But best of all was when the haying was finished he would take us all on a fishing trip, mother included, would take some food along, cook the fish, bake potatoes in the hot ashes and have a regular picnic.

Rules for Success

Here are some Rules for Success which I cut from a paper a long time ago.

Attend carefully to the details of your business.

Be prompt in all things.

Consider well, then decide positively?

Dare to do right; fear to do wrong.

Endure trials patiently.

Fight life's battles bravely, manfully.

Go not into the society of the vicious.

Hold integrity sacred.

Injure not another's reputation or business.

Join hands only with the virtuous.

Keep your mind from evil thoughts.

Lie not for any consideration.

Make few acquaintances.

Never try to appear what you are not.

Observe good manners.

Pay your debts promptly.

Question not the veracity of a friend.

Respect the counsel of your parents.

Sacrifice money rather than principle.

Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxocating drinks.

Use your leisure time for improvement.

Vent spite on no one.

Wash your soul in pure thoughts.

Tend to every one a kindly salutation.

Yield not to discouragement.

Zealously labor for the right, and success is certain.

Green Corn Recipe

Am sending in a green corn recipe which is O. K. Use filled but tender ears, strip off the outer husks, leaving the thin silky envelope next the ear on the stalk. Pull this down and pick off all the silk from between the grains, adjust the miner husks in place tie together at the top and drop the corn in plenty of boiling salted water. Boil half an hour, cut the stalks off with the husks and send corn to the table wrapper about with a napkin on a flat dish.

I thought I could tell some pretty big yarns but am taking off my hat to Kingston Brown.

For fear there won't be any Z's in the roll call I am selecting for my pen name.

ZANY, Oct 15.

SALAD RECIPES

Dear Editor and Sisters All: Am sending a few salad recipes for this hot weather.

Cucumber Salad: Mix 1 cup cucumber dice with 1 cup chicken, 1 cup English walnuts meats and 1 cup green peas. Sprinkle with French dressing, arrange on platter and serve very cold.

Tongue and Green Pea Salad: Mix 2 cups cooked peas. For seasoning use 1-4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper. Mix well. Moisten if necessary. Arrange on lettuce leaves with hard boiled eggs.

Scrimp Salad: Clean two cans shrimps, keeping the best for decorative purposes and break the rest into small pieces. Add a little French dressing and let stand a little while then drain thoroughly. Mix with celery or shredded lettuce as desired and put on bit of lettuce. Now add the reserved shrimps.

Kitty Lou: Do you remember giving me one very explicit directions for making shrimp wiggle.

Roberta: I live on May street around the corner in the brown house. Now that is quite definite. Can's you give me more of a clue?

Best wishes to all.

AIRY.

SENDS RECIPE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I will say present to answer for my name which was in the roll call of last week. I had the pleasure of going to the picnic which was held in the Versailles church and sure did have a nice time. It was the first time and sure hope it will not be the last. I will send in my recipe for quick nut bread.

Quick Nut Bread: 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 1-2 cups of milk, 1 cup broken nut meats or raisons or any thing you like, 4 cups bread flour, 1-4 cup shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoon baking powder. Cut the shortening into the dry ingredients, add milk to the well beaten eggs, mix with the dry ingredients and beat then add the nuts or other things place in well greased bread tin. Bake 50 minutes, this makes 2 small or 1 large loaf. Hope some one will try it and let me know in the Social Corner sometime. I will try to write oftener. It is easy to put it off when it is just as easy to write.

MITTIE.

EARLIER PICNIC NOTICE

Dear Editors and Sisters of the Corner: When I read my name in the roll call I laughed right out. I expected it but still it was so sudden. I am delighted to say present and I am very thankful I am here to answer the roll call. I feel very sad when I think of all the lovely sisters that have passed away.

Grace: My heart goes out to you in your great loss. Our loss, but his gain.

Lucy Ann: You are called out, want to hear from you. Come to the picnic.

Selinda: I have got a bone to pick with you and some of the other sisters not giving out your picnics a week ahead. I don't get the Courier until Wednesday noon. Then I read it and you are having the picnic while I am reading it. Now I would love to have had a cup of tea with you, remember the time of tea you and I drank at one of the picnics. Now, dear sisters, if you want to see my smiling face please give notice a week ahead. I will try and steal away from my feathered family of four hundred hens, and sixteen hundred chicks, but don't think for a minute I have all of those chicks now, old rat had an underground passage from the hen coop to the brooder house and helped himself to a good number. We pulled out a mess of them. We set a trap and caught him, he weighed one pound and one ounce. I think he was so mean none of the other rats would live with him.

True Blue: How are you? Those baby chicks you saw when you was here in April are lovely now. We have some handsome big pullets. The pink cactus is growing fine, the partridge cactus is spreading its wings. How is sister? Come down again.

A. Corn: I hope you have got rid of that awful corn of yours by this time. Those out door picnics ought to be room enough to plant your corn in and not get it stepped on. Come, I want to get acquainted. It almost seems you had got my own name.

I met an old friend on the Boulevard three weeks ago. He said, "Lucy, I take the Bulletin. I don't see your letters very often, he likes to read them. Why I felt so flattered and puffed up, then he said he liked to read them all and so do I.

Liberty Bell and Christmas Bells: Remember I have saved a lot of tough old hens to eat when you come down with the class.

Did you ever hear of hanging a piece of rubber hose in your cherry tree? They say no birds will go in the tree when it is there, they think it is a snake. I am going to try it next year, the birds got most of our cherries.

Great Grandma: Was pleased with your letter and such a nice letter you wrote me when I come to N— sometime am coming to see you. I know where you live.

Leather for iron-holders: Put one layer of leather cut from an old glove between layers of cloth as leather is a non conductor of heat. Am making some for our fair, when you do not have leather use several thicknesses of tough wrapping paper putting the paper between layers of cloth.

LUCY ACORN.

AFTER TEN YEARS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think it has been ten years since I wrote to the Social Corner so I was somewhat surprised to find that my name was not crossed off the list long ago.

I enjoy reading the sister's letters and have wished many times that I might be able to attend at least one of the picnics I read so much about.

I wonder if any of the sisters who have chickens have fed any to foxes this season. They got a good many of mine before I missed them. Now I have the chickens yarded. Since I began writing this I saw a fox cross the road, so down across the lot toward the place where he has been in the habit of finding the chickens, hoping of course that he will find a tasty lunch awaiting him.

SOUR MILK PIE RECIPE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I found my name in the roll call last week, glad to have it among old and new friends. Have enjoyed every meeting that I have attended. Have been very busy this summer. Will stop writing to make you think that I am no hand to write, rather than to keep on writing and prove it.

Recipe for sour milk pie, two cups of sour milk, one cup of sugar, one cup of raisins, two eggs, two milk crackers rolled fine one teaspoon cloves and cinnamon. Try it.

Best wishes and good luck to the Social Corner sisters.

ANSWERS THE ROLL CALL

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been a long time since I have sent in a letter, but am still a member and will answer present to my name in the roll call, I hope all of the sisters are well and that I shall be with them at some of the meetings before long, but the men leave here early in the morning and there isn't any way of getting to the city and home again from our place without Jake makes a special trip and that seems two much to ask when he is busy.

Best wishes for all

MOUNTAIN VIEW.

LIKES ROLL CALL IDEA

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I wish to answer present to my name which appeared in last week's roll call.

Paula: I would like to shake hands with you. You wrote the truth in your letter last week. But how many of the mothers that want to "own up."

J. E. T.: How would you like a dish of fried onions and spaghetti or some carmel cake?

The roll call is a great idea and very interesting and who would believe there were so many names. Best wishes to all.

MARIE.

TO CAN PIMIENTO PEPPERS

Wash the peppers, cut off the tops, scrape out the seeds and soak in salt water over night. In the morning drain well, pack in small jars, mix equal quantities of good vinegar and water boiling hot, pour over the peppers filling the jar to overflowing, and seal at once. It is well to sterilize jars and covers also rubbers in hot water before using. Whenever I take some out of the jar I reheat the juice pour on and seal up. Treated in this way the peppers will keep as long as there is one left and are as nice as those you buy.

POSTAL CARD SHOWER

A message to the editor of the Social Corner brings the news that Aunty No. 1 has had a very bad fall and has sprained her wrist; also her husband is sick and has been confined to his bed for the past week. A postal card shower will reach them and cheer them up.—The Editor.

The Hair Net Industry

The future commercial prosperity of Chefoo, China, a city of 100,000 population, can be determined only when it is known whether American women will continue to bob their hair or return to flowing and errant tresses. Chefoo's chief industry is making hair nets and they sell $5,000,000 worth to this country each year, in addition to exporting $3,060,000 worth to France and other countries. In China the price for the nets runs from $1 to $3 a gross and for making them factory workers are paid 7 cents a day.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Mrs. Shaw Calls Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a God-Send to Sick Women

Cambridge, Ma.—"I suffered terribly with pains and soreness in my sides. Each month I had to go to bed, and the doctor told me I simply had to go under an operation before I could get help. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and I told my husband one day to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I took the third dose I felt better. I took it four times a day for two years getting better all the time, and now for four years I don't have any pains. After taking the medicine for two years I had another child—a lovely baby girl now four years old—the life of our home. I do praise this medicine. It is a Godsend to women who suffer with female troubles and especially for pains at the periods. I surely was very bad once, and I know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation."—Mrs. JOSIE M. SHAW, Route No. 1, Cambridge, Maine.

A country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound reports 98 out of every 100 were benefited by it.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

PROFIT-TAKING IN MARKET

New York Aug. 1.—Heavy profit-taking by professional traders brought about a moderate reaction toward the close of today's stock market after an early period of strength, leaving final quotations irregularly higher. Thirty stocks attained new peak prices for the year, with sales again exceeding the million share mark for the fourteenth consecutive full session.

Selling orders, as a rule, were well absorbed, strong buying support being provided for practically all standard industrial and railroad issues. Brokers reported a stedy increase in public participation particularly from western points. Brighter prospects for an early settlement of the reparations question were an important factor in the early buying.

United States Steel common was again in brisk demand, moving up to 108 5-8 or within a small fraction of the year's high established last spring, and then falling back to 107 3-8 on realizing. Independent steels moved in a sympathetic manner.

The feature of the railroad group was the establishment of new high prices by the stocks of all railroads mentioned in connection with the proposed Van Sweringen consolidation. Erie common, first and second preferred touched 35 3-8, 42 7-8 and 40 1-2 respectively; Pere Marquette common, preferred and prior preferred 64 3-4, 74 1-8 and 85 respectively; "Nickel Plate" 108 and Chesapeake & Ohio 90 1-2. Although several of these closed slightly below their top prices, the net gains ranged from fractions to 2 1-2 points.

Other strong spots in the railroad group included Delaware and Hudson, Peoria and Eastern Illinois, Chicago and Northwestern, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Gulf, Mobile and Northern, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, all at their best prices of the year. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico jumped more than six points to 108 and then reacted one.

High priced specialties continued to rise on rumors of an impending split-up of shares. General Electric climbed nearly 5 points to a record high for all time at 264 3-4 and United Fruit jumped more than ten points to 231 3-4, also a new top and then slipped to 217.

Increasing speculative attention was devoted to the oil shares with net gains of a point or more being recorded by Pacific, Pan-American, B. Gosden, Houston, Maracaibo, Producers and Refiners and Phillips Petroleum. Bullish demonstrations also were staged in the rubber, equipment and gas shares.

Call money continued to rule at 5 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged with business quiet.

Foreign exchange rates stiffened in reflection of the better reparation news. Demand sterling moved up a cent to $4.40 3-4, or within a fraction of the year's high, and French francs ruled about 15 points higher at 5.14 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Aug. 1.—Bond prices today failed to develop a definite trend but the undertone was firm in reflection of favorable developments affecting foreign obligations and certain railroad issues.

Indications that the inter-allied conference would reach an early agreement, paving the way for execution of the Dawes plan and flotation of a German loan, exerted a healthful influence on foreign government bonds. French 7 1-2s and 8s reached new high levels on the current movement and Belgian issues scored substantial gains. French municipal and railroad liens trailed behind the government loans.

Movements of the Van Sweringen issues absorbed most of the trading interest in the railroad list. Chesapeake & Ohio 5s were unusually active. Reports that a favorable basis of exchange would be granted to security holders in the Nickel Plate merger aided these bonds as well as those of the Erie. The latter, however, encountered profit taking and settled back to around previous levels.

Bond experts expressed the opinion that little difficulty would be experienced in selling the treasury's next $350,000,000 note issue on a two per cent. basis, in view of the prevailing low money rates. The last issue of 2 3-4 per cent. notes, it was pointed out, was selling at a premium to yield 1.90 per centy. In some quarters it was believed Secretary Mellon might find market conditions favorable for floatation of a long term loan.

Two new issues which were offered today—$12,000,000 Lehigh Valley 5s and $12,000,000 Duke-Price Power 8s—were readily subscribed.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Bearish estimates of the 1924 domestic wheat crop had a depressing effect on wheat values today, and so, too, did increased hedging sales of newly harvested wheat. Closing prices for wheat were heavy, 1 5-8 to 2 1-8 cents net lower. September $1.30 5-8 to $1.30 3-4 and December $1.34 1-8 to $1.34 1-4. Corn scored 1 1-8 to 1 1-2 cents gain, oats finished unchanged to 1-8c lower and provisions unchanged to 20 cents higher.

According to current private estimates, the wheat crop in the United States, as judged at present, suggests 46,000,000 bushels greater yield than was indicated a month ago and is about equal to last year's final returns. Under such circumstances, the wheat market soon underwent a material setback in price, with selling given further impetus by liberal receipts especially at Kansas City and Chicago.

Foreigners and commission houses became active buyers on the downturns in wheat prices, and brought about sharp rallies that were also associated with a resumption of black rust reports from both north and south Canadian boundary. Realizing sales and pressure from hedgers, however, forced the market down during the late transactions and the close was near the day's lowest level.

Corn owed its strength chiefly to persistent buyig based on smallness of receipts here. As a result, September delivery established a new high price record for the season. Oats were easier owing to sympatry with wheat and as a result of oats crop estimates indicating material improvement since July 1.

Expected falling off in the number of hog arrivals here gave firmness to the provision market.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Aug. 1—Stock prices displayed a firm undertone in today's curb market, which shows dmore uniformity of movement than any other session this week. Oil shares sought higher levels in sympathy with the late rally in those issues on the "Big Board," but except for a ten point jump in Swan and Finch and a gain of eight points in Penn-Mex Fuel price changes were relatively unimportant.

Motors were again in good demand, Cleveland leading the advance in that group with a net gain of nearly 3 points at 22 3-4. Durant advanced 1 1-2 points and General Motors, the most active issue, improved fractionally. An opening gain of 3 points in Dubilier, which later was cancelled, featured the Radio shares. Public utilities showed mixed changes.

Lehigh Valley Railroad 5s of 2003 were admitted to trading, selling between par and 100 1-4.

CONNECTICUT HAS BEST MILK SUPPLY

There are but two states in the Union which have complete control of their milk supply, and Connecticut is one of them, according to a full page advertisement, recently published in newspapers in this state by the Connecticut Dairy and Food Council. Since 1917, milk in this state has been marketed under regulation of a milk regulation board.

Connecticut milk, according to the Dairy and Food Council, is the best in the country. In seven years an improvement of 40 per cent has been made in the facilities for the production and distribution of milk in this state.

Along with the proof as to why Connecticut milk is the best in the country, ten reasons are given Why we need a quart of milk each day. The reasons are based on scientific discoveries.

COLD STORAGE EQUALIZES EGG SUPPLY AND DEMAND

The uneven seasonal production of eggs results in a surplus during the spring season and a corresponding scarcity during the fall and winter. It is one of the functions of the wholesale egg trade, says the United States department of agriculture, to equalize the supply and meet the demand at all seasons as nearly as possible. This is done by moving a part of the spring eggs through the usual channels for immediate consumption while the rest are carefully candled, packed in new cases, with new fillers and flats, and shipped to the larger cities, where they are placed in cold storages and held until fall and winter when there is a shortage of eggs. Eggs specially packed for storage in new cases made of odorless white wood, with new fillers and flats, are called "storage packed" and sell for slightly higher prices per dozen than ordinary packed.

Approximately 12 per cent of the total annual production of eggs is stored. The season of shortage begins in March, is most active during April and May, and continues at a lessened rate during June and July, and closes about August 1. Withdrawal of eggs from storage is slight in September and October, is heaviest in November and December, and continues through January and February until the stocks are practically exhausted by March 1 or earlier. Apparently 40 to 50 per cent of the total annual holdings for the United States is stored in the five markets, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco.

The holding of eggs in cold storage is a legitimate and needed market function which benefits both producers and consumers. Without cold storage, eggs would hardly be worth enough in many localities in the spring to pay to gather them, and in the fall the supply would be far from sufficient to meet the demand and the price so high as to be prohibitive. Through the storage of eggs there is a demand in the spring for the surplus, resulting in attractive prices to the producers, and in the fall and winter a large supply of wholesome storage eggs is made available at prices within the reach of consumers. At the same time the demand for new-laid eggs is sufficient to maintain a price on them at a level which makes winter egg production profitable.

FARMERS' JURY TO PASS VERDICT ON SCRUB SIRES

An outline for conducting scrub-sire trials, recently prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture, has been distributed to practically every state in accordance with several hundred requests. While county agents plan to conduct most of the trials, a surprisingly large number are being planned by school superintendents, livestock organizations, business men, debating societies, creamery organizations, livestock breeders, agricultural officials of railroads, county farm bureaus, and, in one case, by a silo manufacturer.

Judging from the plans outlined, many trials will be conducted before juries of farmers, in connection with county fairs, agricultural clubs, and farmers' picnics, although most of them will be staged as independent affairs. In a Minnesota locality the fate of the scrub sire will be decided in a town hall debate.

MOTOR VEHICLES CONTRIBUTE FIFTH OF HIGHWAY INCOME

An analysis of the various sources of highway funds since 1914 made by the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture shows that there is a marked tendency to collect a larger proportion of highway funds from the owners and users of motor vehicles. In 1914, out of a total highway income of $240,262,784, the collections from motor vehicles amounted to $12,382,031, or 5.1 per cent of the total. In 1921, seven years later, the motor vehicle owners and operators paid $118,945,706 in motor vehicle fees and $3,685,460 in gasoline taxes, which together equaled 10.6 per cent of the total income for highway purposes. A similar compilation of payments made by owners and operators of motor vehicles for licenses and permits in 1923 shows a total contribution on their part of $188,970,993. In the same year gasoline taxes levied by 35 states amounted to $36,513,939. The motor vehicles, accordingly, contributed a total of $225,784,931, or 19.5 per cent of the entire 1923 highways income. In the six New England states this contribution is 26.1 per cent. This increase is accounted for by the increase in the total number of vehicles registered and in the change in the average payment per vehicle, which has risen from $11.70 in 1921 to $15 per vehicle in 1923.

A very substantial part of the total highway income, 38.1 per cent, was derived from the sale of bonds, both state and local. General property taxes contributed less than half the highway income, or 44.4 per cent. This means, worked out in another way, that of every dollar collected by the states, counties, cities, townships, and other taxing districts, only 12.4 cents was used for highway purposes. The average annual expenditure per person per mile of road all over the United States is only 0.0054 cent—1 cent for each 200 miles of road. This ranges from 0.0015 cent in the west North Central states to 0.0101 cent per person per mile in the Pacific states.

FOREST FIRES SPREAD WITH GREAT RAPIDITY

The startling rapidity with which forest fires spread was brought home forcibly in the recent bad fire on the Arapaho National Forest in Colorado, says an announcement for the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Arapaho fire started from a camp fire left smoldering by careless motorists and burned 2,500 acres of excellent pine timber in a little over three hours. This rapid destruction took place despite the fact that officers of the Forest Service with a force of 250 men began fighting the fire almost as soon as it started.

A very low relative humidity and a strong wind here were two factors that made it hard for the forest officers to control the blaze, which jumped to the crowns of the trees and destroyed in three hours what nature had been a hundred years in building.

"The moral of the Arapaho fire," stated officials of the Forest Service, "is that every camper should make sure his camp fire is out—then bury it."

NO INTERNAL CURE FOR EXTERNAL POULTRY PESTS

Manufacturing and selling preparations for controlling lice, mites, ticks (blue bugs) and other external parasites of poultry by serving to the fowls in their feed or drinking water is a popular pastime of a number of concerns and one which the United States Department of Agriculture says should not be tolerated. A number of the mixtures advertised for use in controlling external pests by administering in the feed have been tested by the Insecticide and Funkicide Board of the department and all have been found to be ineffective. Among the products which were offered as powders to be mixed with the feed are several containing mixtures of sulphur, charcoal, magnesium sulphate, ferrous sulphate, nux vomica, capsicum, sodium carbonate, naphthalene, lime salt, and sand. Some of the mixtures were lime-sulphur solutions to be added to the drinking water; some calcium sulphide tablets of various percentages and having quantities of other chemicals as well. All were tested and found to be effective for the purpose advertised.

In view of these numerous tests the board has served notice on the manufacturers who may be selling or contemplate selling the above mentioned products to be used in this manner for controlling external pests of poultry that they are guilty of violating the provisions of the insecticide act of 1910, and that the products are misbranded. The board is of the opinion that these tests are sufficient to strongly indicate that such a method is ineffective and further that it is extremely doubtful if any substance will be found which will be effective when used in the feed, or drinking water. Tests have not been made of all of the mixtures advertised against all of the pests named, but, taking into consideration the tests which have been made and the anatomy and physiology of chickens, it is believed that if is unlikely that any of the substances proposed, or any combination of them, when fed to chickens will control any of the external parasites infesting them. These preparations are sold for the most part directly to consumers by parcel post.

"Caveat emptor," let the buyer be ware.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions in eastern Connecticut, as announced Friday by the state highway department, are as follows:

Stafford Springs — Water-bound macadam road being constructed on the Willimantic turnpike. No delay to traffic.

Pomfret — Bituminous macadam road under construction on the Pomfret Phoenixville trunk line. Short detours may be provided to pass traffic around telford construction.

Bolton—Bolton - Coventry road under construction, road closed. Detours posted. Through traffic from Hartford to Willimantic should go via Andover.

Mansfield—Mansfield Depot road under construction. Passable, but traffic should use detour posted.

Mansfield—Mansfield Four Corners—Storrs road open but rough. Surfacing being put down.

Groton—Baptist Hill — concrete pavement being laid, section temporarily closed. Detours are posted.

Groton—Groton-Old Mystic road is practically impassable. Advise use of detour.

Groton—Noank-Groton Long Point road under construction. Travel from Fort Hill should go to Noank via Brook street and thence to Groton Long Point.

Putnam—Putnam-Killingly road under construction. Detour posted around section closed just north of Attawaugan where concrete pavement is being laid.

Pomfret—Abington road under construction. Detour signs indicate best route around this section.

Pomfret—Murdock road under construction. Open to traffic.

Waterford—Post road, concrete pavement is being laid, detour plainly marked.

East Lyme—Section torn up on Post road. Concrete surfacing being laid.

Old Lyme—Post road, concrete pavement being laid, passable. Through traffic will avoid inconvenience if it follows the Shore road from Lyme to Moosbroker's Corner in Waterford as posted.

Montville—Norwich-Hadlyme road under construction. Detour posted over unimproved road.

Salem-East Haddam—Grading operations under way on Norwich-Hadlyme road. Section east of Hartford-New London road impassable; travel should use detour posted. Section west of turnpike very rough but open to traffic.

REFUSE OPERATORS' LICENSES TO 1380 APPLICANTS

Licenses to operate motor vehicles in Connecticut were refused to 1,380 applicants during the first six months of this year, according to the records of the state police and motor vehicle departments. State police inspectors gave examinations to 38,353, of whom 27,473 were certified to the motor vehicle department as eligible to drive, and were accordingly licensed. Thus new operators were "made" at a rate of about 150 a day.

The present examination of each applicant includes: (1) Consideration of the operator's mentality, which of course cannot be technical; (2) an actual driving test during which the examiner observes (a) the conditions of the car, (b) the operator's use of horn and hand signals, (c) whether the driver can operate, back, turn and park a car, and (d) how the driver would proceed down hill to prevent skidding; (3) an examination on the motor vehicle law, including technical questions about right of way and passing trolley cars, and, (4) in the case of a physical imperfection of any kind, the examiner applies the principle that anyone thus handicapped must be more nearly perfect in operation than persons who are physically normal. This particular feature is closely covered by the rules of the motor vehicle department. If such an applicant is to be licensed, the test must show that he is at once capable of performing all the essential actions of driving a car.

About twenty-five state policemen are responsible for the examinations of applicants for licenses, and, from following the work day after day, it is comparatively easy for them to determine after brief study of the applicant whether he is qualified to drive.

The number of rejections in the first half of this year was about 4.8 per cent of the applicants. The state police report that many of those turned down were unable to read.

THE SPIRIT OF THE U.S.A.

EMORY JOHNSON'S MIGHTY EPIC WITH Mary Carr and Johnny Walker
Together for the first time since their memorable engagement in "Over the Hill". Not a war picture, but boasting the greatest war scenes ever filmed.
DRAMA! ACTION! LOVE! PATHOS! HUMOR!
Sweeping like a stupendous juggernaut across the screen—Flaming with soul-searching drama—Blazing with heat-tingling romance—Roaring with the thunder of battle—Bristling with comedy to leaven the smashing effect of tremendous drama-ripping, tearing, rocking through scenes of epic sweep—and concluding gloriously in a mighty stroke of tribute to Motherhood, to the Mothers of the World. A spectacular classic. By all means see it!

Dated at Ledyard, Aug. 1st, 1924.
BILLINGS T. AVERY,
A. G. MONTGOMERY,
Registrars of Voters.

NOTICE
Whereas, lawfully constituted authority of the Town of Lebanon, did on the first day of April, A. D. 1924, deliver into my hands a Rate Bill with tax warrant attached for the collection of a tax of twenty-six mills on the dollar on the Grand List as last perfected, said tax warrant being signed by Clifford C. King, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of New London, and
Whereas, the estate of Francis Brown has not paid its portion of said tax, and the representatives of said estate have, after proper demand, neglected and refused to pay said tax, amounting to twenty-eight dollars and sixty cents ($28.60), and
Whereas, other taxes assessed against the property of said estate on previous rate bills, amounting to fifty dollars or more, remain unpaid.
Now, therefore, I, George E. Briggs, Collector of Taxes for the said Town of Lebanon, do hereby give notice that I will sell at public auction on the 20th day of September, A. D. 1924, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, on the premises hereinafter described, all of the real estate of said estate which may be situated in said Town of Lebanon, or enough of said real estate to satisfy the claim of said Town of Lebanon for taxes, together with legal fees and lawful interest.
Said real estate consists of three (3) tracts or parcels of land, aggregating one hundred (100) acres, more or less, all situated in Goshen Society of said Town of Lebanon.
FIRST TRACT: Bounded northerly by Harbor road (so-called), easterly by lands of the estate of J. J. Sullivan, southerly by lands of said Sullivan estate, westerly by highway, and however otherwise bounded.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

Pressure was low and falling Friday night almost generally west of the Mississippi river and it has remained relatively low from the vicinity of Newfoundland southwestward to the South Atlantic coast. High pressure prevailed from the Lake region southward over the Ohio valley and Florida. No reports of strong winds or falling barometer were received Friday night from the northwestern Carribean sea.

Local thunder showers have occurred within the last 24 hours in portions of the South Atlantic and east gulf states, Tennessee, Arkansas and southern Missouri.

Moderate temperature prevailed Friday from the Missouri valley eastward to the Atlantic coast. The temperature was considerably above normal, however, in the gulf states.

The indications are for generally fair weather Saturday and Sunday in the Washington forecast district. The temperature will not change materially during the next few days.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate northerly and fair Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate north and northeast and fair Saturday.

NORWICH TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith and son, Albert, were accompanied on a motor trip to Providence, Friday, by Mrs. Smith's aunt, Mrs. Mary Sawyer and the latter's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baxter, of Montville. The Smith family are to be guests of Mrs. Sawyer over the week end, and from there will go to Lebanon to spend a couple of days at the home of Mrs. Smith's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perkins. They will return to Norwich Town Tuesday evening, to attend a dinner party at the home of friends, to be given them as a farewell before their departure from Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and son will leave Norwich Wednesday noon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lee, of Spring Garden avenue, the latter a niece of Mrs. Smith, where they are to be guests over Tuesday night. They have planned an automobile trip which will take them through New England and the Middle Atlantic states, expecting to continue to the Pacific coast, with the intention of passing some time in Pasadena. Their plans, however, are rather indefinite, as they propose to locate temporarily in whatever place they have reached, at the beginning of the school year, that their son may be enabled to attend school during the fall term. At its close, they will proceed still further, unless they change their plans. While covering the route, the Smith family are to camp over night in a tent and have their meals in the open. In the beginning they anticipate averaging 100 miles, or better, for several days.

In recognition of the esteem in which they are held by their Norwich Town friends, a company numbering about forty, including former neighbors, assembled Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Dean of Town street, where a farewell party was given them.

The evening was devoted to cards, music, and sociability. Mr. and Mrs. Smith during showered with good wishes for the best of health and prosperity in undertaking such a journey, with some prospects of remaining indefinitely, should they so desire.

During the evening in behalf of those present, Mrs. Dean presented Mr. and Mrs. Smith a complete traveling Thermos outfit and a large traveling bag. The Thermos kit in a black case 15 inches deep, by 12 inches wide, contained three pint bottles, six cups, four knives and forks, a large lunch box, plates, napkins, etc. Mrs. Smith acknowledged the gifts in words of appreciation. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by others.

Mrs. Smith (Edith Pitcher) has lived in Norwich Town much of her life. She is a member of the First Congregational church, and a graduate of Norwich Free Academy. Mr. Smith has resided in Norwich Town since the spring of 1907. (Bert) Smith, as he is known to everyone, has been most popular in business relations, being assisted by his wife for the past three years in a prosperous grocery business on Washington street, which recently changed hands. Since breaking up their home several days ago, the family have spent a part of the time at the home of Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Smith of Town street.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Jopson of West Town street, motored to Atlantic Beach, Thursday afternoon, and had as guests three members of Mrs. Jopson's Sunday school class, of the First Congregational church, Crosby Peck, Luther Whaley and Fred Chapman. The other members of the class were either out of town or unable to go. A stop was made at Watch Hill where the boys enjoyed the merry-go-round, etc., and when arriving at the beach, luncheon was eaten in the automobile, because of the rainstorm. The boys were furnished refreshments by Mr. and Mrs. Jopson.

LEGION COMMANDER COMING TO ORGANIZE POST IN TAFTVILLE

Announcement was made Friday evening at the regular business meeting of R. O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, that State Commander Percy Armstrong is coming here August 15th to organize an American Legion post in Taftville. There are a large number of veterans of the World war living in Taftville and the sentiment prevails that Taftville ought to have a post of its own. As the next regular meeting night occurs August 15th and as State Commander Armstrong has expressed a desire that the members of Fletcher post attend the organization meeting in Taftville that night, the local post voted to postpone its next meeting one week.

Among the important matters taken up at the meeting Friday night was the election of delegates to the state convention which will be held the last of this month at Torrington. The following delegates and alternates were named:

Delegates—William Anderson, Samuel Jennes and Harry W. House; alternates, P. M. Chapman, Norman Thomas and William McClimon.

Johnathan L. Johnson, chairman of the Volture committee, told of the plans for the New London County Volture meeting and promenade which is to be held in New London August 16th. He stated that it is expected that at least 50 candidates from this city will be initiated and that posts all over the county will be represented by candidates at the gathering.

Following a supper to be served at the Elks club in New London, there will be a large parade. Several National Guard units, sailors from the submarine base, and soldiers from Fort H. G. Wright, together with the fort military band will be in line. There will be at least three bands in line and it is possible that the naval band from the U. S. Savannah and a number of the sailors from the warship which is expected in New London will appear in the parade.

County Commander William Anderson announced that the county organization will meet for election of officers August 16th at the New London armory. The present officers are: County commander, William Anderson, this city; county vice commander, Theodore Anderson, Mystic; county adjutant, Harry W. House, this city; county treasurer, John H. Cruise, New London.

JUDGE NAMES COMMITTEE TO SELL PROPERTY

A report of an amendment to judgment of foreclosure entered June 13, 1924, granted by Judge Christopher L. Avery in New London, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city. The original case was the Mariners Savings Bank vs. Julie K. Shay, et al. of New London. Upon motion of the Piedmont-Mt. Airy Guano Co., one of the defendants that the judgment secured June 13, 1924, of strict foreclosure, be opened, modified, and amended to provide for foreclosure by sale, and due notice of motion having been given by the court, and the only party being present being the Piedmont-Mt. Airy Guano Co., said motion has shown good and sufficient cause to amend said judgment.

The motion of said defendant is granted, and the aforesaid judgment is opened, modified and amended, by striking out the provision therein relating to strict foreclosure of said defendants, equity to redeem said mortgaged premises and by substituting in its place therein the provisions for a foreclosure by sale.

Judge Avery has appointed James R. May, of New London as a committee to sell the property, which is located in New London, as a whole at public auction on the 23rd of August, at 10 o'clock standard time. Frederick P. Latimer and Frederick Edgerton and Recardo R. Ulrigan are appointed appraisers, to make a report of the appraisal.

The yellows won the competitive dramatics this week, as well as the dancing. Both programs were good.

RECEIVER'S REPORT ON SHORE LINE ELECTRIC

The report of operations of the Shore Line Electric company, up to June 30, 1924, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city by Receiver Robert W. Perkins. A summary of the report follows:

Cash on hand June 1, 1924, $45,511.51, cash receipts in June, passenger revenue, $4,071.06, accounts receivable, $4,359.65, miscellaneous $5.08 Total $53,947.30.

Cash disbursements—Payroll, $2,431.93, power purchased $5,082.97, materials and supplies, $176.25, liquidation $1,078.20, miscellaneous, $934.80. Total $44,243.65.

TWO WIVES SEEKING DIVORCES FROM HUSBANDS

Two divorce cases have been filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city. Bessie Hardy Parker of this city has filed suit for divorce from Frederick H. Parker, also of this city. The couple were married December 21, 1921. Statutory offenses are charged. The plaintiff asks that her name be changed to Bessie Clara Hardy.

Evelyn S. Johnson Woodmansee of Griswold has brought suit for divorce against Albert Earl Woodmansee of Plainfield. Desertion is charged by the plaintiff. The couple were married June 11, 1921, and the plaintiff alleges desertion a month later. She asks that her name be changed to Evelyn S. Johnson.

WANT RECEIVER FOR PATY SCHWARTZ COMPANY

Ida R. and William Schmauk of New London have filed an application for the appointment of a receiver for Paty Schwartz Co., of New London in which they are half owners. They also ask for a decree dissolving the corporation. The application was heard by Judge L. P. Marvin of the superior court in this city and August 12th is the date set for a hearing on the application. The hearing will be before Judge William M. Maltbie at Hartford.

In its application for the appointment of a receiver, Geary, Davis and Keefe, acting for the Schmauks, set up although both plaintiffs are co-directors of the company with Paty Schwartz and Joseph Schwartz, that on or about Jan 15 last the latter two usurped the sole power and authority as directors of the corporation and took into the possession all the assets of the company and ever since have exercised complete dominion and control over the property and affairs of the company to the exclusion of the plaintiff, William Schmauk, as treasurer, and he and his wife as directors.

The Schmauks further claim that the management and control of the company has not been in the hands of the directors but has been conducted by the two Schwartzes contrary to the by-laws of the company and the statutes of this state relating to management of corporations.

They also allege that Joseph Schwartz, as secretary of the company has failed to make, keep and preserve proper records of the meetings and doings of the stockholders of the company or of the directors thereof; that Paty Schwartz, president of the company has failed and neglected to call the annual meeting of the corporation for the year 1924, although by the by-laws of the corporation said meeting should be held early in January.

It is further alleged that the two Schwartzs have used the funds and assets of the corporation for the purchase of property and equipment in said business without any legal authority therefor; that said corporation has illegally and unlawfully diverted funds and assets of said corporation into the hands of Joseph Schwartz without any legal authority; and that attachments have been placed upon the property of the defendant which have not been released.

The plaintiffs set up that the company is solvent but that its assets are in danger of waste through attachment, litigation, illegal, and improper care, control and management. They claim that their interest, wishes and desires are diametrically opposed as to the management and control of the corporation.

POLICE MADE 31 ARRESTS DURING PAST MONTH

During the month of July the local police made 131 arrests, as against 136 arrests made in July of last year. The majority of the charges against offenders were intoxication and violation of the traffic law. The number of arrests on various charges were as follows:

Intoxication 38; breach of the peace 22; theft 1; burglary 4; resisting an officer 1; keeping a house of ill fame 1; frequenting a house of ill fame 5; non-support of family 1; violation of the liquor law 11; violation of the dog law 1; injury to private property 2; assault 1; violation of the city ordinance 3; fraudulent check 1; reckless driving 4; violation of the motor vehicle law 5; violation of the traffic law 32; driving an auto without a license 4; driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor 1; theft of cloth 1; seduction 1; carrying concealed weapons 1.

TAKEN ILL AFTER VISIT TO HUSBAND IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Theodore E. Smith who was at Buckingham Memorial last Monday evening when her husband, Theodore E. Smith, suffered two slight shocks and was taken to the Backus hospital, visited him the following day at the hospital. On her return to Montville where she is staying during Mr. Smith's illness she suffered a severe attack of illness, due it is thought to the excitement and worry brought on by Mr. Smith's sudden illness. Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith are improving.

Well Baby Conference at Wauregan

A well baby conference is to be held next Tuesday at Company hall, Wauregan, 2 to 4 p. m.

Children are beginning to show gains from these conferences already. They all seem to be eager to stand up straight and tall. Children should not only gain normally each month, but standing straight is a habit which should be acquired early in life. There will be a doctor present at the conference to inspect the children and advise parents in correcting defects.

Dislocated Shoulder at Beach

Wilfred Disco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Disco of 210 Broadway dislocated his left shoulder swimming at Ocean Beach Thursday afternoon. First aid was given at the Red Cross station and he was then taken to Lawrence Memorial hospital in New London where his shoulder was set, and he was then taken home by friends.

POETRY

RUSIC.

Music of waves, murmur of bees,
Rustling of wind in the sycamore trees,
Thrush-note, dove-note,
Meadow-lark's love-note,
Nightingale's love-song under the moon,
Sibilant sounds of the whispering breeze,
Soft breathing of earth in the hushed summer noon,
Voices of twilight when day's at an end—
But clearer and dearer and sweeter than these
Is the best of all music—
The voice of a friend.

—Bernard

NOCTURNE.

Now, at the magic hour of night,
Now, when the world is still,
Now sails a fleet of fairy ships
Across the sky, until
The moon from out her hiding place
Flings out her robe of white,
And somber clouds of deep-toned gray
She paints with golden light.

Between the drifting clouds of white
The stars of Heaven shine,
Like worshippers of ancient Greece,
Who kneel before their shrine;
A finer temple this by far,—
Unmeasured sky of blue,—
The crystal pure, unshadowed depths,—
A sea, the moon sails through!

Now, at the magic hour of night,
The hour when fairies play,—
Now shine the stars, like temple lamps,
Above the pilgrim's way.
The moon, her silent vigil keeps,
Above the woodland roof,
And while the world beneath her sleeps
She quietly sails aloof.

A. F. OF L. STATEMENT ON THE LAFOLLETTE ENDORSEMENT

Executive Committee Was Peeved by the Curt Reception Accorded by the Republican Convention—Declares That Both the Republican and the Democratic National Conventions Flaunted the Desires of Labor, the Republican Arrogantly, the Democratic Party Evasively.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 3.—(By the A. P.)—The complete text of the "conclusions and recommendations" for the endorsement of the candidacies and platform of Senators La Follette and Wheeler, as adopted yesterday by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and made public today, follows:

"The executive committee of the American Federation of Labor national non-partisan political campaign committee presented labor's proposals to the republican convention.

"The republican convention gave labor's representatives a brief and curt hearing. The republican platform ignores entirely the injunction issue. It fails to deal with labor's right to organize or the right of the workers even in self defense, collectively, to cease work. That platform sustains the railroad labor board, with all that it means in the direction of governmental coercion of wage earners. It fails to recommend the ratification by the states of the child labor constitutional amendment.

"The republican convention nominated candidates unacceptable to labor.

"As to the candidates and platforms, both the republican and democratic national party conventions flaunted the desires of labor—the republican convention in an arrogant manner, the democratic convention by evasiveness which is the customary mark of insincerity.

"There remains the candidacy of Robert M. La Follette and Burton K. Wheeler, the first an independent republican; the second an independent democrat running as such.

"The candidates have proffered a platform in which the economic issues of the day are met in a manner more nearly conforming to labor's proposals than any other platform.

"This platform pledges a remedy for the injunction evil.

"It pledges the right to organize and collectively cease work.

"It pledges protection of the rights of free speech, free press and free assemblage.

"It pledges abolishment of the railroad labor board.

"It pledges a measure to annul the power of the supreme court to declare acts permanently unconstitutional.

"It declares for direct election of senators and vice president and recall of federal judges.

"It recommends prompt ratification by the states of the child labor constitutional amendment.

"It pledges subsequent federal legislation to protect child life.

"In international issues this platform does not conform to labor's views in many respects more fully than the political platform meet labor's views in relation to domestic issues.

"We cannot in other than point out [illegible] together with the further and perhaps more important fact that Senator La Follette and Governor Davis, Democrat, have, throughout their whole political careers, stood steadfast in defense of the rights and interests of the wage earners and the farmers.

"We cannot fail to observe that both republican and democratic parties in recent years manipulated control are in a condition of moral bankruptcy which constitutes a menace and a peril to our country and its institutions. Machine politicians have brought upon our country moral obliquity and unashamed lawlessness. We are judging on the basis of the condition which exists and our judgment will be reversed only when the conditions upon which it is based are changed.

"Service to the people is a noble cause which demands consecration, and the American labor movement demands that there be that consecration in candidates to whom it gives support.

"Its candidate for vice president is one of the most outspoken enemies of labor and is the founder of an organization dedicated to the task of writing into all political platforms calling for the anti-union shop—an organization which also encouraged and supported the Daugherty injunction against the railroad shopmen.

"Labor's representative submitted to the democratic convention identical proposals to those submitted to the republican convention. At the convention an extended hearing was granted. The democratic platform pledges that party to legislation to regulate hours and conditions of all labor, a proposal against which the American Federation of Labor has struggled throughout its whole history. It is silent as to the injunction. It does not meet the railroad labor board issue. On that point it is so equivocal that the enemies of labor may well feel that their desires will be met. It, too, fails to recommend the ratification by the states of the child labor constitutional amendment.

"The democratic convention nominated candidates unacceptable to labor.

"Our course is clear. In pointing to the platforms and records of the independent candidates we do so with the confidence that no other course can be pursued if we are to remain true to our convictions and our traditions. Those who are hostile to labor and to the people generally and who devoted their energies to the service of reaction and special interests, must be opposed.

"We call upon the wage earners and the great masses of the people, everywhere, who stand for freedom, justice, democracy and human progress, to rally in this campaign to the end that representatives of reaction and special interests may be defeated and the faithful friends and servants of the masses elected."

"Co-operation hereby urged is not a pledge of identification with an independent party movement or a third party, nor can it be construed as support for such a party, group or movement, except as such action accords with our non-partisan political policy. We do not accept government as the solution of the problems of life. Major problems of life and labor must be dealt with by voluntary groups and organizations, of which trade unions are an essential and integral part. Neither can this co-operation imply our support, acceptance or endorsement of policies or principles advocated by any minority groups or organizations that may see fit to support the candidacies of Senators La Follette and Wheeler.

"In the campaign to elect to congress, regardless of their political group or party affiliation, men deserving of labor's support there must be unity of purpose and method, therefore leadership must lie with the only organization having the right to speak for the entire labor movement. In this the American Federation of Labor yields to none, but will maintain steadfast in its leadership, guidance and direction.

"In the selection and election of men to public office within the several states leadership must lie with our state federations of labor and in city or country elections this right must rest with central labor bodies.

"Organized labor owes allegiance to no political party or group. It is not partisan to any political party or group. It is partisan to principles—the principles of freedom, of justice, of democracy.

"It is the duty of trade unionists, their friends and sympathizers, and all lovers of freedom, justice and democratic ideals and institutions to unite in defeating those seeking public office who are indifferent or hostile to the people's rights and interests. It is the duty of all to support such candidates to public office who have been fair, just and outspoken in behalf of the welfare of the common people.

"We shall analyze the record and attitude of every aspirant to public office and shall give our findings the widest possible publicity. Labor's enemies and friends must be clearly known and be definitely indicated.

"Calling upon all affiliated and recognized national and international and brotherhood organizations, state federation of labor, central labor bodies, local unions, labor's friends and sympathizers to give united, unrestricted, loyal, and activt support to the non-partisan campaign now set in motion, we emphasize the imperative need of an intensive educational campaign to enable all to act with discrimination and wisdom in this election, and to stand faithfully by our friends and elect them and to oppose our enemies and to defeat them."

The complete report was adopted exactly as it was presented to the executive council by the national non-partisan political campaign committee of the American Federation of Labor. The section containing the "conclusions and recommendations" was preceded by a general report which the executive council in adopting declared was now "the expression and recommendation of the council to the entire organized labor movement, its friends and its sympathizers in the present political campaign."

YACHTS ARE ANCHORED OFF EASTERN POINT

New London, Aug. 3.—Under ideal yachting and racing conditions 32 schooners and yachts, in the joint cruise of the Larchmont-Indian Harbor Yacht clubs, arrived here at 5 o'clock this afternoon and tonight are anchored off Eastern Point. New London was the end of the second day's run, the vessels having covered the 41 miles from Larchmont to New Haven in record time. The distance from New Haven to New London is approximately 50 miles.

First of the fleet to reach New London was E. Walter Clark's Irolita. She also was the first to reach Morris Cove in the race yesterday.

C. D. Mallory's 50 foot Mystic led in that division at the finish here taking first honors from the Spartan, owned by H. Wilmer Hanan, which was first in this class to reach New Haven yesterday.

In the forty-foot class the Rowdt, owned by H. S. Deuel was first today. The Banshee owned by H. L. Maxwell, led this division in the first's day's run. The Grey Dawn, owned by P. H. Johnson, led in the special 6 class. She was the second yesterday, the Nimbus, owned by E. P. Alker being in the lead.

In the 30-foot class, the Minex owned by O. H. Hoffman, led at the finish of the second day's run. The Alera, owned by H. F. Whitney, was the leader in this class yesterday.

The joint cruise was arranged to give the yachts from Long Island Sound a chance to race down to Newport on their way to join the New York Yacht club for its annual cruise to the eastward. Tomorrow the yachts will go to Block Island and will proceed to Newport Tuesday.

ALIENIST SAYS LOEB SUFFERS FROM EPILEPSY

Chicago, Aug. 3.—A new element, epilepsy, may be introduced by way of showing "mitigating circumstances" for Richard H. Loeb's part in the slaying of Bobby Franks, the Herald and Examiner today says.

The newspaper quoted "one of the physicians connected with the defense" as saying: "Loeb's childhood phantasies were the beginning of epilepsy. The ailment, however, did not become evident until he was 14 to 15, when mild epileptic attacks eventually occurred. The malady remained incipient during his childhood."

It was implied, the Herald and Examiner said, that the defense had been hoarding this evidence to be made public from the witness stand during the closing hours of the hearing.

John Gorman was sleeping peacefully on the floor in his room in a dwelling in the South End, Boston, when firemen entered the house. They woke him up to tell him that his clothes were afire, then extinguished the blaze and sent him to a hospital.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Body of Lenine Well Preserved.

Moscow, Aug. 3.—(By The A. P.)—The body of Nikolai Lenine, the former soviet premier, which rests on a brilliant red velvet bier in a hermetically sealed glass-covered coffin, was exhibited to the American and other foreign newspapermen today. The embalmers appear to have accomplished something of a scientific miracle in petrifying the tissues of the dear soviet leader against dissolution. All who knew Lenine in life say that in death he looks as natural and serene as on the day of his death.

$1,206,614.44 FEDERAL MONEY FOR CONNECTICUT HIGHWAYS

Hartford, Aug. 3.—The United States government has allotted $1,208,614.44 to the state of Connecticut this year for highway projects that are under construction, aggregating 61.4 miles, and still has a balance of $606,612.59 available for federal aid highway construction in this state during the 1924 fiscal year, the Connecticut highway department has been informed by the United States Bureau of Public Roads of the department of agriculture. The estimated cost of improvements under way in this state at present, in which the government has cooperated is $3,411,072.43, Connecticut's share of this cost being $2,202,457.98. From June 30, 1923, to July 1, 1924, the federal aid expenditures in this state aggregated $64,306.21 on improvements costing $128,610.30. The number of miles involved was three and eight-tenths. On projects completed prior to July 1, 1923, the federal government contributed $1,026,148.85 to Connecticut, its report shows, on a total of 60.7 miles.

Cooperation on a large scale is being given to the New England states in the construction of its highways. In Massachusetts its portion of new construction already approved amounts to $291,788, while a balance of $928,638 remains available for that state for new projects. In Rhode Island, $89,147 from federal funds is to be spent, and there remains $387,281 for that state for contemplated improvements.

COOLIDGE CONCLUDING HIS SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

Washington, Aug. 3.—President Coolidge spent today resting, preparatory to putting the finishing touches early this week on his speech of acceptance of the republican presidential nomination to be delivered at the formal notification exercises here August 14. He attended church with Mrs. Coolidge, their son, John, and Charles B. Warren, retiring ambassador to Mexico.

In a letter made public today the president offered his aid in the future to Chairman Hamlin, of the recently organized national conference on outdoor recreation.

"It will always be a source of pride to me," he wrote, "that matters shaped themselves so that I could be the instrument to co-ordinate and give impetus to this great and humanitarian movement. I am convinced more than ever that the healthful character-building recreation which is the ultimate and all-important object of the conference in the largest sense of the term, is very necessary for our country."

Mr. Coolidge thanked the members of the conference for the program they outlined for the coming year and their work at the conference, in reply to a letter from Mr. Hamlin reporting the proceedings of the convention.

COMMITTED SUICIDE WHILE FAMILY WAS AT CHURCH

New York, Aug. 3.—William Everett Waters, 67, who was retired last year from New York university, where he was a professor of Greek for twenty-one years, died from inhaling illuminating gas in his home today while his wife and son were attending church services.

Professor Waters, who was born in Winthrop, Me., had suffered from a complication of diseases for several years and had been under the constant care of a physician.

When the professor's wife, Alma F. Oyler Waters, and their son, Prof. William Everett Waters, Jr., of Yale university returned home they discovered Dr. Waters' body in a chair in the gas-filled dining room.

The medical examiner's office reported the death as due to illuminating gas poisoning. A gas jet in the dining room was turned on, and the doors and windows of the room were closed, according to the assistant medical examiner, who investigated the case.

Three Lives Lost in Hotel Fire in Maine

Hotel Hillcrest and Five Surrounding Buildings at Great Chebeague Island Destroyed.

Portland, Me., Aug. 3.—Two persons lost their lives in a fire which razed the Hotel Hillcrest and five surrounding buildings at Great Chebeague Island here today. John A. Cady, Jr., 26, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a nephew of Mayor Hylan of New York city, received burns which resulted fatally. The identity of the dead has not been ascertained. Many other persons escaped with less serious injuries.

The fire which originated in the main building, spread through the structure rapidly, forcing the guests who were in their rooms to flee for their lives. According to reports received here one person fell into the flames while descending the stairs. One woman was seen to jump from the second story and a bell-boy was seen to fall from the roof. The former is believed to have escaped serious hurt although a check-up of the dead and injured had not been completed. Approximately 125 guest were said to have been registered at the hotel.

Cady, who was sleeping in the annex, 200 feet from the main building was forced to leap from a second floor window. His clothing was ablaze when he was found on the ground. Cyril York of Chebeague was severely burned in extinguishing the fire on Cady's clothing.

In addition to the hotel and the annex the buildings destroyed included a cottage, the waitresses' home, the Bay View and the home of the owner of the hotel, Charles Hamilton. The loss was estimated to be $125,000.

The coast guard cutter Ossippee aided a bucket brigade in fighting the fire. The fire was thought to have been started by a cigarette dropped through a space in the piazza flooring.

FIRE DESTROYED SUMMER HOTEL NEAR HYANNIS, MASS.

Hyannis, Mass., Aug. 3.—Aberdeen Hall, a summer hotel near here, overlooking Vineyard Sound, was doomed to destruction late today by fire which originated in the cook house and spread quickly to the main building. Fire fighting apparatus from Falmouth, Harwich and Hyannis was sent to the scene but firemen said the building could not be saved. Guests made their way from the building with the major part of their belongings. The hotel had 100 rooms of which nearly all were filled.

Firemen on the scene devoted their attention to preventing the spread of the fire to other outbuildings and to the score of cottages in the woods near the hotel. The hotel was constructed to house a golf club, 30 years ago, at a cost of $100,000.

COMMUNISTS CONDUCTED A DEMONSTRATION IN BERLIN

Berlin, Aug. 3.—(By the A. P.)—Communists interrupted a two minutes' silence for soldiers who fell in the World war during a national service held today in front of the reichstag.

An enormous crowd assembled to participate in the service, the first of its kind ever held in Germany. The ceremonies began soon after 11 o'clock, when President Ebert and other officials paid tribute to Germany's dead.

The two minutes of silence began exactly at 12 o'clock. As the music ceased before the noon day hour and the crowd had bared heads, communists sprinkled among the spectators, who coverel several acres, attempted, to break up the ceremonies by yells, cat-calls, whistling and the singing of the "Internationalse."

The first outbreak occurred at the base of the great statue of Bismarck, where several handsful of Red pamphlets were tossed into the air and scattered on the breeze. This apparently was a signal for the communist demonstration to begin. Communist groups began singing the "International."

But the singing soon was drowned out by jeers from the crowd and by policemen armed with rifles and clubs. The policemen used only their clubs. They cracked a few heads with these and hustled the communists out of reach of enraged patriotic men and women who endeavored to get a hand on those individuals who started the demonstration.

IMBRIE WAS NOT TAKING PICTURES WHEN MURDERED

Washington, Aug. 3.—Denial of the suggestion that the murder by a Persian mob of Robert W. Imbrie, American consul at Teheran, might have resulted from carelessness in the observance of prejudices of oriental peoples against intrusion upon their religious ceremonies was made today by the National Geographic society.

A letter signed by John Oliver La Gorce, vice president of the society, was addressed to Assistant Secretary of State Carr to explain Mr. Imbrie's attitude on the subject.

"In reading the despatches describing the tragedy and suggesting that Major Imbrie was careless in taking photographs," the letter said, "it has recalled my conversation with him on this very subject. Major Imbrie was describing some of his experiences and said in substance: 'I have a very healthy respect for the religious beliefs of the oriental and feel that he is in every way entitled to the practice of his own religious convictions, and I have always made it a point to keep out of mosques and holy places where the intrusion of visits of Christians were objectionable, and, further, I do not feel it is proper to make photographs of religious ceremonies or what they construe as shrines or holy places where there is any evidence of a feeling of trespass in such action."

FORMER U. S. SENATOR C. E. TOWNSEND DROPPED DEAD

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 3.—Former United States Senator Charles E. Townsend, dropped dead suddenly tonight while at his home. He was visiting with his family and with L. J. Harris, M. D., a friend. He was 68 years old.

Germans to Arrive In London Tuesday

Chancellor Marx is to Head Delegation to the Inter-Allied Conference.

London, Aug. 3 (By the A. P.)—The German delegation to the inter-allied conference, headed by Chancellor Marx, Foreign Minister Stresemann and Finance Minister Luther, is expected to arrive in London early Tuesday morning, according to official information received by the British government.

The "Big Seven," Ramsay MacDonald, the British prime minister; M. Herriot, the French premier; Frank B. Kellogg, United States ambassador to Great Britain; M. Theunis, the Belgian premier; M. Hymans, the Belgian foreign minister; Professor De Stefani, the Italian finance minister, and Baron Hayashi, the Japanese ambassador, will meet tomorrow morning at 10.30 o'clock for a final conference prior to the arrival of the Germans.

Besides making final arrangements for admitting the Germans to places at the conference table, the main delegates will discuss the question of leaving a nucleus of allied railwaymen in the Ruhr region of Germany. The plenary session of the conference yesterday accepted both the British and Franco-Belgian reports on the problem, leaving final settlement to the chief delegates.

Mr. Kellogg spent most of Sunday studying the technicalities of the reports of the experts' committees so as to be ready for the eventualities of the plenary sessions of the conference with the Germans.

LONDON CONFERENCE MAKES REASSURANCE IN STOCKS

New York, Aug. 3.—Reaching of a complete agreement by the inter-allied conference on reparations in London was the outstanding development in financial markets this week. It was immediately reflected in a brisk demand for sterling exchange, which climbed more than two cents to a new high record for the year at $4.43 1-2, and other allied exchanges improving in sympathy.

The rapidity of the recent advance in stock prices brought about considerable profit taking this week with resultant irregularity of movement, but the main trend was upward for the eighth consecutive week. Anticipation of easy money rates, maintenance of the extra dividend of 50 cents on U. S. Steel common and the better reparations news had a bullish effect on sentiment. The upward movement of bond prices showed signs of slowing up although some good gains were recorded by the foreign obligations while our own Liberty issues attained new high levels for the year.

Wheat and cotton prices lost ground but the price tendency in most other commodities was upward.

The feature of the money market was the placing of funds up to March, 1925, at 3 1-4 per cent. Call money ruled unchanged at 10 per cent. with many brokers doing business in the "outside market" at 1 1-2.

TWO PERSONS LOST THEIR LIVES IN FIRE IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 3.—Two persons are dead and two others seriously burned as a result of re fires here early this morning, all of which, police believe, were started by the the firebugs responsible for the blaze in 97th street Friday, in which the wife of a minister jumped to her death.

Mrs. Margaret Watson, 72,, who lived on the top floor or an apartment house in West 103rd street, was suffocated by smoke, while attempting to rescue Frederick St. Stillman, 15, a tenant of the same building, died in the hospital from burns. Mrs. Rebecca Mayer, 75, and William Dalton, grandson of Mrs. Watson, who lived in the 103rd street apartment house, are in critical conditions.

All the fires were in West Side apartment houses with wooden stairs and all in the same general neighborhood, a fact which strengthens the belief that they are the work of the same fiends who are believed to have started Friday's fire.

WOMAN IN COLCHESTER WAS BADLY BURNED

Colchester, Aug. 3.—Mrs. J. Dowkin was burned about the hands and arms today when she attempted to remove a blazing kerosene stove from her home after the stove had exploded. The stove was in a small room on the upper floor of the house and Mrs. Dowkin was down stairs when the explosion occurred. She found the upper room in flames and was burned in attempting to remove the cause of the fire. The fire gave Colchester its first opportunity to use its new fire engine. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals, the loss being estimated at $200.

GLOBE CIRCLING FLIER WAS FORCED DOWN IN THE WATER

Lieut. Wade Encountered Engine Trouble About Midway Between the Orkney Islands and Iceland—Plane Was Taken in Tow by One of the Trawlers Patroling the Coast—Two of the Army Fliers Have Reached Hornafjord, Iceland.

Hornafjord, Iceland, Aug 9.—(By The A. P.)—Two of the American army around-the-world fliers have negotiated the foggy course that lies between the northern coast of Scotland and Iceland, and tonight are waiting inside the natural breakwater here for the third plane of the little squadron.

Lieutenant Erick Nelson, who sailed for several hours through the "pea soup" fog and arrived here Saturday, from Kirkwall, was joined today by the commander of the expedition, Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, who, with Lieutenant Leigh Wade, jumped off from Kirkwall early this morning on their second attempt to make the voyage, having on Saturday morning been forced to return to Houton Bay on account of the density of the fog. Wade again today had hard luck. He was forced down by engine trouble about midway between the Scottish coast and his objective, but his plane was taken in tow by one of the trawlers patrolling the coast, and it is expected that when repairs are effected he again will take the air and come on to Hoefn Hornafjord. Smith in his journey above the North Atlantic today had a hard fight during the latter part of it, meeting with both rain squalls and heavy banks of fog. He left Kirkwall at 9.17 o'clock this morning and despite the weather conditions dropped safely into the little bay here at 1.37 this afternoon.

When Wade was forced down upon the water, the toprede boat destroyer Billingsley went to his aid, and later the trawler came up and threw him at tow line. The engine of the plane is said to be only slightly damaged.

The first news of Wade's trouble came in a report from the Island of Sudero, the southermost of the Faroe group. It was contained in a message dropped by Smith as he passed over the island. The message requested that a despatch be sent to England that Wade had been forced down 11 miles off the Orkney Islands.

Wireless despatches were immediately sent to the patrol fleet to go to the rescue.

WORLD FLIGHT PLANE WRECKED IN ACCIDENT

On Board the U. S. S. Richmond, Aug. 3 (By Wireless to the A. P.).—The machine of Lieutenant Wade was wrecked by an accident while the cruiser Richmond was trying to salvage it. The plane probably cannot be used again.

DEATH OF JOSEPH CONRAD, AUTHOR OF SEA TALES

Bourne, England, Aug. 3 (By the A. P.)—Joseph Conrad, eminent author of sea tales, died at his home here today.

He was

Joseph Conrad, one of the foremost English novelists and especially noted for his sea tales, was born December 6, 1857, of Polish parentage. His early life as a sailor and as a sea captain formed the background for his enthrgilling stories of the South seas.

Conrad visited America last year in response to repeated invitations of his publishers. He was not well at the time and was compelled by his illness to curtail his stay to about one month. The author had intended coming to America in 1915 but the war interfered with his plans.

He often said there had been three periods in his life. The first was when a boy of 17 he left Poland, his native land and went to sea. His second was his return to shore after twenty years of life at sea. The third, he described, as his marriage and his plan to return to the sea, which was abandoned because numerous "little schemes" made it necessary for him to keep on writing.

Among Conrad's best known books were The Nigger of the Narcissus, Lord Jim, Victory, The Mirror of the Sea, and The Rover.

MRS. ROSALIE EVANS WAS SHOT DEAD BY MEXICANS

Mexico City, Aug. 3 (By the A. P.).—Mrs. Rosalie Evans, formerly of Brownsville, Tex., and widow of a former president of the Bank of London in Mexico, an Englishman, was shot dead in the vicinity of Texmelucan, state of Puebla, Saturday evening, when on the road to her hacienda. The slayers are unknown but are believed to be agrarians who have been spurred on by anti-foreign agitators in the region.

Mrs. Evans was shot through the left side and ni falling from the buggy in which she was driving her hair caught in the wheels and the body was dragged some distance. Her face was badly mutilated.

John Strauss, a German, manager of Mrs. Evans' hacienda, was with her at the time of the attack. He was seriously wounded by the assailants, who escaped with a payroll of 2,000 pesos which he was carrying.

Mrs. Evans' body was recovered by a Spanish subject, Luciano Rodrigues, and taken to Texemelucan, where Strauss is being cared for. Federal forces were immediately despatched in pursuit of the slayers.

ASSISTANT POLICE CHIEF WAS KILLED BY BANDIT

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 3.—Assistant Chief of Police Dave O'Brien of Canton was killed and Chief of Police W. H. Roy, was probably fatally wounded at Canton today by an unidentified bandit who was killed in the battle by Chief O'Brien.

The chief and his assistat were on the lookout for booze runners when they came on the man. They attempted to arrest him and the man drew two revolvers from his coat and started firing.

The bandit, before he was killed, poured nine bullets into the bodies of the two officers, all taking effect.

Although the name of the bandit is not known, the sheriff at Lewiston says he is wanted for stealing automobiles.

Wealthy Cuban Shot.

Havana, Aug. 3.—Manuel Arechabala, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in Cuba, was shot and killed yesterday by Diego Martinez Moreno, a clerk in his office, who then killed himself, according to despatches to La Presna. Moreno had demanded $60,000 of his employer, the despatch says, and when refused, Shot Arechabala. Then, finding his escape blocked by other persons in the office, he shot himself through the forehead.

WOULD DIVORCE POLITICS IN APPOINTMENT OF POSTMASTERS

Washington, Aug. 3.—Termination of any practice of making political selections in the appointment of postmasters and carriers was asked of President Coolidge in a letter made public today by the National Civil Service Reform League. The letter charges the department with dismissal of democratic employes in order to make places for republican workers.

ANOTHER ALIENIST TO TESTIFY FOR BOY MURDERERS

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Dr. William J. Healy, of Boston, will take the witness stand for the defense when the trial of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, for hte murder of young Robert Franks enters its third week tomorrow.

Dr. Healy, the second alienist to testify in behalf of the two wealthy university students, is expected to give information supplementing that of Dr. W. A. White, Washington, D. C., and Leopold were but young children emotionally and had conceived their crime in "childish phantasies."

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney has vigorously attacked the "childish phantasy," theory in his cross examination. He has openly suggested that Leopold and Loeb hoodwinked the psychiatrists who examined them and who are testifying for the defense.

Neither boy "fooled" him, Dr. White declared when questioned by the prosecutor Saturday.

Asked how much an "emotional infantile character" as Loeb could appear so normal in all his human contacts, "that even his immediate family was startled when this crime was fastened on him," Dr. White said:

"Unfortunately that is the common experience with people of this type. These undepeloped emotional youngsters enjoyed the affections of teachers and pasents because of their childlike characteristics which attract love."

SECRETARY OF STATE HAS ARRIVED IN BERLIN

Berlin, Aug. 3.—(By The A. P.)—It it was the determination of Charles E. Hughes, the American secretary of state, to observe a rigid official incognity while visiting the European capitals, an opportunity to enjoy unobstructed privacy has been amply afforded him since his arrival in Berlin early this morning.

Although Mr. Hughes tonight had been quartered in the American embassy for fifteen hours, he has been visible only to a dozen men and women who were present at a luncheon tendered him by President Ebert today and to the guests of Alanson B. Houghton, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Houghton at an elaborate dinner party given in the embassy tonight.

The American secretary today left cards for Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann. He omitted making a personal call on them, as both these government leaders were engrossed with the final preparations for their trip to London to attend the inter-allied conference, to which they have been summoned. Mr. Hughes, however, got into personal touch with both the ministers at today's social function. He carried on prolonged conversations with the chancellor and the foreign minister both at the executive mansion and in the American embassy.

HONDURAS IS EXPERIENCING ANOTHER REVOLUTION

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 3 (By the A. P.).—Honduras is again in the throes of a revolution. San Marcos De Colon was attacked today by 400 insurrectionists under Generals Julio Peralta, Jeremias Fonseca and Torbio Ramos. Many were killed and wounded on both sides. Commandante Torbillio and Colonel Gallardo of the government forces were killed.

The revolutionists sacked and looted the town, which si near the Nicaragua-Honduras border. They are said to have made a number of forced loans and are now marching toward Choluteca.

General Gregorio Ferrera, known as a liberal revolutionist, prominent in the previous revolution, in which more than 3,000 were killed and $20,000,000 worth of property destroyed, is reported to be hastening to join the present revolt. Nicaragua is guarding the frontier and observing strict neutrality.

FAILED TO FIND ANY MONOPOLY IN HARD COAL

Washington, Aug. 3.—Representative Rogers, republican, Massachusetts, announced here today that Attorney General Stone had found no grounds for prosecution of a monopoly in hard coal. He said he had asked the attorney general to "determine whether the reasonability can be fixed for the shortage of fuel and the exorbitant prices charged for the commodity in New England."

WILLIMANTIC

A double civil suit was fought to a finish, after a six hour grueling contest in Columbia at Yeomans' hall Friday night and early Saturday morning, the countersuits being that of Mick Namaux against Harry Goldstein and Harry Goldstein against Mick Namaux. The case was tried before Justice of the Peace Raymond C. Clark and started at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, lasting until after one o'clock Saturday morning. A gallery of spectators, including Columbia townspeople, cottagers at Columbia Lake and a party of Willimantic young people, all remained for the last bell. Frank H. Foss appeared for Goldstein and Thomas J. Kelly for Namaux. The contesting principal in the case had sued the other for damages of $55. A justice jury was drawn to hear the evidence in the case. The jurymen were: Fred L. Greene, Charles H. Palmer, Edward P. Lyman, Conrad Shafter, Madison Woodward and William Wolf.

The case had its origin some time ago when Namaux was fined in the Columbia town court for wife beating, the charge being one of assault. He returned home after court and again threatened his spouse. Goldstein took care of the Namaux family for two or three days and recently he retained Lawyer Foss to collect a bill for services from Namaux. The latter went to the attorney to find out the facts of the sending of the bill and the next move which he made was to secure the services for labor and incidentals. When Goldstein found this out, he lost little time in filing a counter suit and the legal battle was on. After all the testimony the jury retired and after a half hour deliberation returned to award judgment for Goldstein to recover $15. Upon recommendation of the jury the costs in the case, $37.03 were divided by the two principals, which was agreed upon the basis of $18.91. The process of figuring out the assessment was a lengthy and difficult one for the attorneys. Namaux was given a lift by one of the court officials who made him a loan of money. Namaux and Goldstein are neighbors residing at Hop River. The former's wife, and himself were witnesses for that side of the case and witnesses for Goldstein were, the complainant, Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Grink of Andover, Walter Clyde and Abraham Mitsendan.

A further unexpected decision was handed down, Saturday morning, in police court, by Judge Frank H. Foss in the John Thompson barking dog disturbance case, which has rocked Windham Center, when the case was continued for three months, with a proviso that the town of Windham pay the costs. With the witness fees and mileage totalled up the costs will amount to quite a sum and First Selectman Russell A. Andrews and Selectman Charles Larrabee have taken a definite stand against this ruling of the court. Thompson was charged with keeping a dog or dogs which disturbed the peace and quiet of the neighborhood by barking day and night on dates between July 8 and 22, in violation of Statute 3412. In ordering that the town pay the costs Just Foss contended that the charge, according to the evidence, was not investigated by the board of selectmen, in that at least one member of the board had not been interviewed or taken part in the investigation, if any. On the other hand, Selectman Andrews said that he and Selectman Larrabee had conferred on the matter and that he did not take action against Thompson after receiving the complaint until he was sure that he was acting in a legal manner. By the section of the law governing the matter he had acted according to the power vested in him.

The plaintiff's side of the case was heard for the state's evidence last Saturday, July 26, when ten witnesses from Windham Center, led by Richard E. Waterous testified to the annoyance from the barking Thompson dogs. Testimony for the defense was heard Saturday morning, with Attorney Gaucher as the defendant's attorney. While the attorneys conferred and attempted to reach a settlement before court Thompson wanted the matter to be argued to a finish, as he felt confident that it was not his dog or dogs that had caused a disturbance for the past six or seven months as previously alleged. Thompson said that he raised dogs. He had three brown dogs and some puppies when Selectman Andrews told him in July that he would have to keep the animals quiet, as complaints had been made about them. He went to New York for a few days and when he returned he was notified to appear in police court. He did not believe that the dogs did the continual barking which was alleged in testimony heard one week ago last Saturday. His attention had been called several times to the barking of dogs on his premises, or on the neighborhood. He hinted that he knows the owner or owners, but did not mention names. In answer to a question Thompson said that the Hopkins and Richmond families owned dogs in that vicinity but they did not bark to any noticeable degree. John Dallette of North Windham, formerly of New York city where Thompson also resided up to a year ago testified on behalf of his friend. He was a frequent visitor at the Thompson home and has never known the dogs to bark but for a brief period of time when disturbed by strangers and sometimes by passing vehicles. Mrs. Dallett corroborated this testimony. Kenney Lathrop, of Windham, stated that he also visited often at the Thompson home and sometimes remained as late as midnight, but he had never known the dogs to bark enough to create the least disturbance. He told of Thompson going out in his yard at night and finding strange dogs about the kennels and these did practically all the barking. Selectman Andrews was called to the witness stand by Attorney Gaucher and after repeating his testimony concerning the incidents leading up to the case, he was turned over to Judge Foss who caused him to outline the method which had had followed in warning Thompson and filing the complaints. Judge Foss then rendered his decision, after Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank P. Fenton had recommended that the case be nolled, or dismissed, on payment of costs, as the defendant had abated the disturbance and that was all that was sought by those who signed the complaint.

During June, there were 22 deaths recorded at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. Of the number 14 of the persons were over fifty years of age. The list:

3—Asa Crandall Wilcox, 2, rickets.
4—Angelina Martin, 54, paralysis.

When Officer Coriarty attempted to quell a disturbance which John Laska of lower village was creating after a Polish dance on Brook street, shortly after midnight Saturday morning, his work was interrupted in a determined manner by Laska's wife, Emma Laska. One discussion led to another and the pair was finally placed under arrest, for a hearing in the police court thi (Monday) morning. John Laska will be charged with breach of the peace and his wife will be charged with interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty.

Emma Baldwin widow of Valette D. Stearns, died Friday night at the home of her daughters, Mrs. C. E. Simonds of 140 Church street. Born in Mansfield, February 28, 1846, she was a daughter of Raymond and Amahda Lull Baldwin. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Simonds; a son, Arthur T. Stearns of Cleveland, Ohio; two sister, Mrs. Helen M. Avery and Mrs. Alice B. Crane of Willimantic, and two grandchildren, Harold Simonds of this city and Virginia Stearns of Cleveland. Mrs. Stearns was a member of the Mansfield Congregational church.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral of Mrs. Annie Jordan Gelinas, held from the family home, 2 Bellevue street, Saturday morning. In the solemn high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock, Rev. J. J. Papillon was celebrant, Rev. H. C. Belec was deacon and Rev. Albert D'Amours was sub-deacon. There were beautiful floral pieces. St. Cecelia's quartet, Mrs. Lodia Fortier, Mrs. Marcelina Goodwin, Miss Anna Aubin, Edward Rocheville and Director Joseph F. Gaudreau, rendered the St. Cecelia requiem mass. Mrs. J. F. Gaudreau was at the organ. A delegation from the L. V. B. A. acted as an escort to the body from the entrance of the edifice to the sanctuary rail. The flower bearer was Frances Boucher, nephew of the deceased. Chopin's Funeral March was played as the body was borne into the church. Deriga Me was sung by Mr. Gaudreau at the offertory and Nearer My God to Thee as the waiting hymn, by the quartet. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery. The committal service was by Rev. J. J. Papillon assisted by Fathers D'Amours and Belec. The bearers were Joseph and Edward Ottenheimer, Albert J. Piche, George A. Bartlett, J. A. Sullivan and James S. Donahue. The Hurtebau-Bosse Corp had charge of the arrangements.

What is reported to be the third automobile accident within a few days on a quarter mile stretch of Windham road took place shortly after nine o'clock Sunday morning between machines driven by John Hoey of Godfrey street, this city, and George Kematir of Springfield, Mass. Mr. Hoey was driving out of Godfrey street into Windham road in a Maxwell sedan. Kematir car which came in a westerly direction and struck the Maxwell. Considerable damage was done for which the Springfield man agreed to settle, in reporting the affair to Chief of Police MacArthur. Kematir is said to be cashier of a large trust company in Providence.

There were big doing at the St. Joseph's Boy Scouts' camps on the Holmes farm, near Columbia Lake, Sunday, the day being the last camping day after two weeks of happy and healthful outdoor life. Hundreds of local people and visitors at the lake enoyed the concert given on the lake shore at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. During the camping trip Bandmaster C. N. C. Wheeler has steadily drilled the boys in their music and they displayed remarkable results at the concert Sunday. Although probably unexcelled as a boys' band previous to the last two weeks of steady practice the youngsters are rapidly acquaring that finished touch and beauty of tone achieved only through diligent practice.

Of the, thirteen surviving members of Francis S. Long Post, No. 30, G. A. R., only five attended the semi-monthly meeting held Saturday afternoon at the town building, Commander A. P. JEWETT CITY

K. of C. meeting tonight. Members please attend.—adv.

The rare beauty of the last three days has given good and sufficient reason for the feelings of thanksgiving which have found local expression on all sides. First, one of the most damaging dry spells, coming in midsummer since 1871, was decisively broken in this section by a little over an inch of rainfall. Again, a series of hot waves, with the mercury for weeks at a time hanging above 90, was knocked out, with no doubt about the count, for since last Thursday night the temperature has not been able to climb above 77 degrees.

Sunday was the queen day of the beautiful trio and the signal for all sorts of pleasure jaunts, from the little excursion into the woods and fields to the all-day automobile trip for the more fortunate ones, but with the full measure of enjoyment offered with free hand to both.

All Friday night there was considerable activity in this zone of the trolley system of the Connecticut company. A long section of wire, including the distance of seven poles, was repaired; the span wires and feed wires were reported down. The iron was kept hot all the while with Bar Harbor expresses in two and three sections, which together with freight and work cars kept the dispatcher sitting up and taking notice.

In response to numerous inquiries, Chief of Police Raymond Viegard tells the text of the placard taken from the K. K. K. cross on Taylor Hill last Thursday night: For God and Country. Three Ks in line across a diamond field. Free Speech. Free Press. Public Schools. We believe in the constitution of the United States. Separation of church and state.

Postmaster William T. Crumb has been notified that letters, or articles sent as letters, destined for delivery in foreign countries will be accepted for transmission by the air-mail service operating between New York and San Francisco, subject to postage as follows: When destined for countries to which the United States domestic rate applies, the airplane postage only (3, 16 or 24 cents) will be charged. A letter sent from Jewett City to Chicago, designated to be dispatched via air mail, needs but 3 cents postage. A letter for points on the Pacific coast requires 24 cents.

Supt. and Mrs. F. H. P. Clement and children, Phyllis and Shirley, and Mrs. William Whipple are at home after a visit to New Hampshire.

Mrs. Rachel Rathbun of Hartford has been the guest of Miss Edith Butts at her home on the East Main street highlands. Mrs. Rathbun was Miss Davis, formerly of this place.

Rev. Edward L. Thornton, grandson of L. A. Thornton of Pleasant View, Jewett City, occupied the Baptist pulpit Sunday. He has a pastorate at Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

Pachaug Community club meeting was attended by over two hundred persons Thursday evening. The program included a play given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Salisbury, Mrs. Victor Campbell and Robert Bitgood, a vocal duet by Mabel and Esther Frink, accompanied by Mabel Kanahan; piano solo by Eva Duff, reading by Diana Pepin, vocal duet by Mabel Kanahan and Byron Kinnie, piano solo by Gladys Burdick of Moosup, violin and piano duet by Eva Duff and her brother, and a dialogue by Mrs. Herbert Salisbury and Ellen Campbell. Cake and lemonade were served. The committee for the next meeting is Mrs. E. A. Geer, Gladys Wilkinson, D. F. Morgan, Jr., Mabel Kanahan and Frank Morgan.

John Armstrong and sons James and Richard of Providence are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Armstrong.

Mrs. Hannah Sheehan Sturwold of Norwich is the guest of Mrs. Timothy Driscoll. The older residents of Jewett City remember her brother, Jerry Sheehan, formerly of this place.

SECOND ATTEMPT MADE TO BURN MORGAN HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, Aug. 3.—Two years ago this month a fire of unmistakable incendiary origin totally destroyed the home of Daniel Morgan, just south of the borough line. During the early hours of Saturday morning another dastardly attempt was made to burn his new house, recently completed, on the same site.

All the members of the family sleep in separate rooms on the second floor. Shortly before 3 a. m. Mr. Morgan was awakened by the smell of smoke. Hurrying downstairs, a small room off the kitchen was found to be afire, with its contents of clothing and storage articles. Mr. Morgan aroused his family and by brisk work the flames were extinguished. Nearby neighbors were aroused by Miss Bessie McCluggage, night operator at the telephone exchange. Harold Geer arrived promptly and gave valuable assistance in the fight to save the house. After the fire was out a small pile of partly burned hay was found in a corner of the room where the blaze was started. Mr. Morgan states that every door and window on the lower floor was securely fastened when he retired at 10.30. During the forenoon a number of state policemen were at Mr. Morgan's. It is believed that the incendiary must have gained entrance by forcing a window, then, after setting the fire, closed the door and escaped as he entered. Mr. Morgan and his people have no known enemies, and he, as well as the police and his friends, are entirely at a loss to discover the motive for the crime.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Watch Hill Property Sold

Frank W. Coy of Westerly, has sold "Sunnandine" the fine Watch Hill estate of Miss Sophie Moen, of Boston, to Miss Julia H. Bush, of Troy, N. Y.

Broadway Theatre.

That "The Spirit of the U. S. A." Emory Johnson's last F. O. P. release, is also his best, is attested by many who have seen the picture, which appeared yesterday at the Broadway theatre. It is the concensus of opinion among the motion picture cogniscenti that both in story value and directorial ability the fifth of the Johnson cycle of big box-office melodramas will eclipse its four predecessors in drawing power.

For the theme, Mrs. Johnson, the director's mother, has a world canvas on which to work, and the fact that it is one of the biggest and most comprehensive topics which has ever been undertaken for photodrama has given her inspiration, with amazing results. The bright, broad principles of world peace, against a glowering backdrop of terrifying, devastating war, has proved just the subject to call forth to its highest pitch the fame of Mrs. Johnson's ability in construction, dramatic incident and climatic value. "The Spirit of the U. S. A." will go far towards making a new record of entertainment.

Jack Dempsey's newest Fight and Win Picture, "West of the Water Bucket" added greatly to this fine programme. A new Kinogram completes the bill.

PALACE THEATRE

Those who appreciate drama of the more subtle variety; who appreciate a strong heart-reaching story with a powerful theme, excellently enacted, will find all this and more in Single Wives, the First National picture which opened last night at the Palace theater for four days.

Single Wives, dealing with a class of women common to our present day existence, who are virtually forced to seek attention away from their own firesides because of the indifference of their husbands, can be considered one of the more powerfully dramatic pictures dealing with contemporary home life, that has come to Norwich in months.

One of the chief charms of Single Wives is its difference to the usual run of society and matrimonial problem plays, and much of this, of course, can be credited to the members of the excellent cast which enact the several roles. Supporting Miss Griffith and Mr. Sills are such screen luminaries as Kathlyn Williams, Lou Tellegen, Henry B. Walthall, Phyllis Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick.

Latest Pathe news, Spat Family comedy and Palace famous orchestra complete this high class program.

Breed Theatre

Big scenes, including a real storm in the far north of Sweden, a reindeer herd stampeding through the forest and a man dragged by one of the brutes for miles, feature the Fox picture "The Blizzard," which came to the Breed theatre last night for three days.

The picture was adapted from "The Story of a Country House," by Selma Lagerlof, author of books which won for her the Nobel prize for literature.

The Swedish cast is exceptionally good. Einar Hanson, who has the leading male role, is in line to make a name for himself on the silver sheet, along with Mary Johnson, who is called the Pickford of Europe. They play respectively the parts of a Swedish musician and a wandering minstrel with a gypsy troupe. Others in the cast do remarkable work, particularly Adolf Olachansky, as the juggler and Tina Berg as his wife.

"The Blizzard" is a new kind of picture and it is well worth seeing.

GENTRY-PATTERSON CIRCUS

The management of the Gentry Bros./J. C. Patterson Circus, which comes here Monday August 11 for two performances, imported for this season's show the Cottrell-Powells, famous European carrying riding act, which is one of over two score features presented on the big two-hour program. This act has no equal in the annals of circus history and is worth going miles to witness. From the time of closing of the dazzling spectacular opening number, Fairyland, until the familiar final announcement, "all out and over," the three rings, hippodrome and stages are filled in rapid rotation with aerialists, acrobats, tumblers, slack wire artists, trapeze performers, flying ballet of girls supended from the top of the tent by their teeth; a hole army of clowns, educated dogs, goats and other domestic animals and the famous Gentry Shetland ponies.

Mah Jong

Mah-jong, the Chinese game now popular in this country, is apparently on its way around the world. A recent report from the Constantinople Red Cross states that it has been introduced in "the city of caliphs" by Russian refugees. Sets were not obtainable, and to import them from China was expensive, so the work was turned over to a group of skilled Russians, who manufactured sets from bone and bamboo in the kitchen of the Constantinople Red Cross chapter house. Dozens of orders were received the first week and sets were sold at $16. The money realized was turned into the funds of the public health committee.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Coroner Arthur G. Bill has taken the first of the information incident to conducting the inquest into the death of Edwin Trowbridge White, 72, Pomfret Landing farmer and well known resident of his home town, by his brother, Benjamin White, on Sunday a week ago.

The inquest, a legal proceeding, is what may be regarded as a checking up in a final way of the tragedy that had its inception on the afternoon of July 27, when, without warning, Ben White shot and killed his brother Edwin, shot at his nephew, Howard White, son of Edwin, and wounded David Marison, who married Saturday, Aug. 2, Sadie Phillips White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. White.

The outstanding feature of the inquest to date is the establishing of the fact that the marriage, approaching at the time Ben White went into an insane frenzy and brought about one of the worst tragedies in the history of the county, has absolutely nothing to do with his murderous performances. Nearly all the news stories sent out relative to the shooting of Edwin T. White by his brother Ben stressed the fact that Ben had gone wild and took to shooting up the family because Miss Sadie White was going to marry a very estimable man that she has known of years. Coroner Bill is authority for the statement that there is no word of truth in that version of the shooting. The inquest has shown, through every member of the White family who has testified before the coroner, that Ben White was particularly friendly and well disposed toward David Marison. They always had been on the best of terms and they had known each other for several years.

Ben White's orgy likely always will remain among the list of unaccounted for things. He had been his normal self right up to the time of the shooting. There was no word or action to forecast his insane outbreak. He shot his brother, who had done a great deal for him, without any cause or warning whatsoever; likewise he shot at his nephew and at Marison. His being upset over the approaching marriage of his niece may be disregarded as not within the facts.

Ben was an old man, though a surprisingly active one for his years. In spite of his age, he could be as quick as a cat and two or three weeks before his death danced a jig in a Danielson burlesque place to establish that he had not lost his vigor. It might have been the extreme heat at the time of the shooting that caused him to go wrong. He never was particularly well balanced. It might have been any one of a hundred strange things with which a normal brain is never tormented. But, the coroner has established, it was not the approaching marriage of his niece, Sadie Phillips White, and his friend, David Marison.

Of interest Sunday afternoon was the story that a string of Pullman cars being hauled south from Maine points to New York by a big locomotive figured in an accident at Oxford, Mass., to which the train hit an automobile containing, the story went, nine people.

Philip Beauchemin is one of the county elected inmates of the Windham county jail at Brooklyn. He went over Saturday to serve a sentence of sixty days. In March of this year Beauchemin, a man getting along toward 60, indulged himself in some practices with boys that resulted in his appearance in court. At the time he was fined $150 and costs by Justice Frank M. Bedard of the town of Brooklyn and was given a suspended sentence of 60 days in jail, the suspension of sentence upon his agreement to get out of Brooklyn and stay out. He re-appeared there during the past week, so again was brought into court, the suspension of his sentence was raised and he was sent to jail to remain for two months.

Auction notice:—By order of the administrator, the real estate and personal property belonging to the estate of the late Zola A. Bennett will be sold at unrestricted public sale on the premises at 76 Mechanic street, borough of Danielson, on Wednesday, August 20, 1924. The personal property will be sold at 10 o'clock a. m., and the real estate at 1 o'clock p. m. This is an important sale and should be well attended. Address all inquiries to Witter Bros., Public Auctioneers, Office 93 Main St., Danielson, Conn.—adv.

George A. Williams, former tax collector of the town of Killingly, at the opening of the present month made a further settlement of bookkeeping errors that have developed in his accounts since the settlement of December, 1923, paying to the town treasury $364.10. As this amount included over $200 of personal tax moneys the personal tax collections for the year stand at upwards of $7,400 and the outstanding personal taxes is steadily decreasing.

An event of special interest this week in the annual Old Home day exercises to be held in East Killingly Thursday.

Miss Kathleen Burns of Hartford spent Sunday with relatives in Danielson.

After [illegible] the past week, the mill of the Quinebaug company there will be in operation this week.

Registrars of the town of Killingly will meet again this week to perfect an enrollment of the voters. A similar meeting was held Friday of the past week.

Degrees will be conferred upon candidates at a meeting of Killingly grange scheduled for this (Monday) evening.

Henry C. Vincent of Pawtucket was a caller with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bassett of Broad street spent the week end perched with friends in Providence.

Rev. Walter B. Williams, of the Brefield Congregational church is having August for his vacation and will be at Canaan, N. H.

Rev. Raymond Veigard, M. S., recently ordained abroad, will be celebrant of his first mass in his own parish at St. James' church on Sunday next. Father Veigard has just returned to the United States after having spent several years in Europe. He is a Danielson.

Walter Murphy, formerly of Danielson, is now manager of the Meadowbrook inn, at Clayville, R. I.

Miss Frances Schyancy is spending a week at her home in Wilsonville.

Misses Catherine and Dollie Conner of Providence were guests Thursday of Mrs. John Greeley.

The body of Pope Leo XIII, who died in 1903, will be removed next February from St. Peter's, Rome, to the Basilica of St. John.

PUTNAM

Herbert J. Miles left Saturday to spend the week end with his family at their summer cottage, Meredith, N. H. Mr. Miles is in the government's employ and for the past four years has been engaged in gypsy moth quarantine work. Recently he has been transferred to the bureau of plant industries of the U. S. department of agriculture. His new work is examining natural and planted white pine growth and wild and cultivated currant and gooseberry bushes for traces of white pine blister or infection. The malady is fatal to white pines, and a part of Mr. Miles' duties is to instruct owners of such trees in the method of extermination. His territory includes Windham, New London and Tolland counties, but he will continue to make his home in Putnam, where he has recently built a new home.

Wilfred Sharpe of Putnam, while driving an automobile in Webster, struck a boy named Arthur Dupre, aged 10. The lad was taken to a doctor's office and treated and then was taken home. He was not seriously injured. After an investigation made by the police, following Sharpe's report of the accident, he was allowed to return to Putnam.

The accident happened during a shower. According to the police who conducted the investigation, the boy stepped out into the street from behind another car and was carrying an umbrella which obstructed his view. Sharpe stated that he was going at the rate of about twelve miles an hour, having just started his car when he struck the boy. He applied his brakes at the time and did not hit the boy with any great force. Sharpe is the son of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Sharpe of 31 Florence street.

Another clinic in the Well Baby campaign being waged by the state board of health, department of child hygiene, will be held at the high school, Putnam, next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The advance notices sent out from Hartford read as follows:

"You came last month and brought all of your little ones. You remember how eager you were when they were weighed, how the nurse told you the kind of food children should eat to bring them up to weight, how thoroughly the doctor looked over the chest and the throat and the ears and the nose and the feet; and how valuable you felt that it all was when you brought them home again. Come again this month and have them weighed. Find out whether they have been gaining normally as every child should. If this physical examination last month showed you that there was some little defect that should have been corrected you have been thinking about that during the month. Perhaps you have already gone to your family physician to have this corrected. Come again this month and see how much better the child is because of that. This conference is for well babies and is to teach the mother how to keep well babies well at all times."

Theodore Langlois of Woodstock and Putnam, arrested Thursday afternoon in Putnam for the Webster police, following an automobile accident on the Thompson road out of Webster, was given a hearing before Judge Greeley in the district court at Webster Saturday morning, charged with operating his automobile in a manner tending to endanger the lives of the public. He was found guilty and fined $50, which he paid.

Mrs. E. P. Vakr of Thompson, whose automobile was damaged, testified that she was proceeding toward Webster and a horse and wagon was coming toward her. As she neared it, an automobile driven by defendant tried to pass the wagon. The automobile was also coming toward her and in order to avoid being run into head-on she turned to the side of the road, and her car crashed into a telephone pole.

Langlois in his own behalf testified that he tried to pass the horse and wagon, and when the court asked him why he did not wait he said he thought he could make it and took a chance.

Archelle Gregoire, also of Putnam, was charged with failing to slow down when passing an intersecting street. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $10. Attorney L. H. Miller represented both of the accused.

Misses Mabel and Beth Thompson, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Thompson, are spending two weeks at Pleasant View at the cottage and as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Treat of Norwich.

Mrs. George Harrington is the guest of Attorney nad Mrs. Charles L. Torrey at their summer cottage at Crescent Beach. Mr. Harrington has been with them over week ends.

Alvin LeClair has returned from a week's visit with his sister in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams have returned from a week's motor trip on Cape Cod and through the Berkshires.

Thomas Wheaton, who has been on a trip west, has returned.

Rev. F. M. Lockwood supplied the pulpit of the Baptist church Sunday morning, as the pastor, Rev. John C. Stoddard, is on his vacation.

Miss Mary Jassmine has returned after three week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Hunter, in Saxonville, Mass.

Miss Marion Wilcox is spending two weeks in Guilford.

F. W. Seward and daughter, Mrs. Katherine Lown, and two children have gone to Guilford, where they are occupying "Cottage-by-the-Sea." Mr. Seward will remain two weeks, while Mrs. Lown will spend August there.

Ralph C. Bradford, Henry A. Wheelock, Louis Girard and William Mansfield arrived home Sunday from a motor trip to New York state.

Frank H. Cordier spent Sunday at Ocean Beach, making the trip by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Kent and child of Meriden spent the week end with Mr. Kent's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kent.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fuller left Saturday morning for Boston to meet Mrs. Fuller's sister, Mrs. A. Underwood, of Pasadena, Cal. Mrs. Fuller, her sister and Mrs. Clara Andrews will go from Boston to Noank, where they will occupy a cottage for the rest of the summer. Mr. Fuller will spend week ends with them.

WESTERLY

This (Monday) morning will be held the August meeting of Westerly town council. Numerous matters will come before the council fathers for action, including the building restrictions which have been passed on by a committee of the council. Then there is the appointment by the council of someone, preferably a woman, that the town of Westerly may secure the benefits of the Mothers' Aid act passed by the Rhode Island legislature. It has been said that the police committee of the council is desirous that the entire council act in naming a sergeant of police, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sergeant Donald Ferguson.

Westerly station of the New Haven railroad had the appearance of one of the larger city terminals Saturday evening when three passenger trains drew in at the same time, soon after 7 for the receipt and discharge of passengers, baggage and express, two of the trains being north and southbound New York and Boston shore line express trains and the third train a southbound accommodation. The accommodation ran from Bradford to Westerly on the siding known as "No. 5" and then in on the "pocket" by the southbound waiting shelter, where its New Haven passengers crossed the platform to take the express train. The accommodation was delayed near the Shannock station by the breaking of the side rods of the locomotive. A spare locomotive was backed to Shannock with mechanics, who disconnected the connecting rods on the left side of the locomotive and hooking the spare engine ahead of the disabled one, pulled the train to Midway, after the train was backed out on to the main line, to follow the express.

The 44th annual Rhode Island Sunday School convention is to be held this year at the Pawtucket Congregational church Columbus day, Oct. 12th. The theme of the convention will be "The Youth of Today and the Church," according to the preliminary notices which have been received by the Westerly Sunday school which are members of the association.

Miss Grace K. Carmichael has returned to Westerly from Boston by automobile. For the past two months Miss Carmichael has been on a trip in Scotland and on the continent. In Glasgow, Scotland, she attended the ninth convention of the World's Sunday School association, which was held from June 18th to 26th with more than 4,000 delegates present from all over the world. The first world's convention was held in London in 1889 and the last in Tokio in 1920. On her return to America Miss Carmichael sailed from Cherbourg for Montreal.

The annual field day and clambake of Westerly Masonic club is to take place this year at Barnes' Pointe, Brightman's pond, Thursday, August 14th. It is planned to serve an old fashioned Rhode Island clam chowder at noon. In the afternoon the sports and games will be in charge of Manager Harlod D. Livingstone. The regular bake will be opened at 5 o'clock and will include everything in the shore dinner line. The committee in charge of Samuel Bailey, Farquhar Smith, Frank L. Friend, W. Russell Dower and Max Raithel.

Charles A. Carpenter has completed his duties at the Woodmansee shop. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter and daughters, Misses Edith and Ruth, after residing in Ashaway for the past three years, leave Westerly to make their home in Mount Vernon, N. Y. Since 1907 and up to three years ago the Carpenter family resided in Tomaquag Valley, R. I.

At Watch Hill across from the chapel just south of the Ocean House, on Westerly road; the large estate "Sunnandine" with Queen Anne cottage which has stood for the past two years, has been sold and will be be improved and reopened. The purchaser is Miss Julia Howard Bush of Troy, N. Y., a guest with her father at the Ocean House for the past few years. Miss Sophie Moen, of Boston, owner for a number of years completed a new cottage at Wood's Hole, Mass., and removed much of the furnishings there at the first of this season. The Bush family have coming to the Hill for many years, being among the earliest of the cottage settlers there. On the night of the big Watch Hill House fire, the Bush home on Mastuxet Terrace, at Watch Hill was burned and was never rebuilt. "Sunnandine" has an approximate frontage of 190 feet on Westerly road and extends back some 700 feet to a 130 foot frontage on the Atlantic ocean. Situated between the estate of Bradford Shinkle on the south and the E. S. Brewer, or Ocean House property on the north, it has one of the most attractive locations at the Hill and is one of the few estates with ocean frontage. The houses the main road and is set back and surrounded with attractive gardens. A porch extends across the southern side affording a wide, unobstructed marine view from Point Judith to Montuak Point. The basement of the house above ground opens toward the ocean and has kitchen, pantry, servants' dining room, laundry, living room, drying room, man's room and lavatory. On the first floor is the reception hall, living room, 19 by 33 feet, morning room, dining room, (three fireplaces) butler's pantry, coat room and lavatory, with large porch facing the ocean, partly enclosed. The second floor has one suite, comprising sleeping room, dressing room and bath and three other master's sleeping room and hadd bath, (three fireplaces.) The servants' quarters are on the third floor. There is a large garage and private driveway.

Loren G. McLaren was at Narragansett Pier Saturday and witnessed the first polo match of the season there between Point Judith and Princeton polo teams, at the Point Judith Country club grounds.

Residents near the Canal street gas plant, of Westerly Light and Power Co., complain of the nuisance of the sooty, oily waste matter which is thrown from the iron stock of the plant. Depending on which way the wind blows the matter is carried for greater or less distance and at times when the air is heavy remains for a considerable period suspended in the air. They claim that curtains, clothes or any other material with which the refuse comes in contact is stained and spoiled. It seems to be the practice to have the material collect in the flues and then with a blast and explosion the black stuff is blown out in thick black clouds to the discomfiture of the surrounding neighborhood. It would seem that there might be a more thorough combustion of the material so that it would not carry its noxious fumes and damage over the surrounding territory.

Basil B. Wood, of Westerly, former librarian in Westerly Public library, leaves Westerly this week for Jackson,

The monthly celebration of holy communion was held at Calvary church Sunday. Rev. William F. Williams officiating.

Herman Simons is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Williams at his home on Wall street.

John Chivallier, a local athlete, won five events at the Lantern Hill Y camp last week and was awarded a blue ribbon for each. He captured first place in the hundred yard dash, the running broad jump, the shot put, discus throw and fifty yard swim.

Local motorists have been enjoying early evening rides along the road to the north of the borough. The overhanging trees are at their best at this time of the year and in the early evening the cool breezes sweet with the scent of freshly mown hay, bring delight both to those who have experienced it before and to newcomers visiting here from city districts. The fact that this road is in excellent condition makes the joys of such a ride complete.

CLARK'S FALLS

The Clark's Falls Sunday school members are planning for a picnic. The time has not been decided, but the place will be Yawgoo pond, R. I.

Howard Maine is in the hospital at New London. His eyes have been giving him trouble lately.

Mrs. Richard Maine is the guest of her son, Wilson Maine, and his family on High street, Westerly.

Miss Sarah Palmer of this district has nearly a hundred canary birds.

MAIRSON-WHITE WEDDING AT POMFRET LANDING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Aug. 3.—In the presence of relatives, Miss Sadie Phillips White was united in marriage Saturday afternoon at half past 4 o'clock with David Mairson of Hartford. The wedding took place in the White home at Pomfret Landing, where on Sunday and Monday of last week a double tragedy was enacted. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George A. Barker, pastor of Pomfret Congregational church. Mr. and Mrs. Mairson will remain at the home of the bride's mother for the present but later will make their home in Hartford.

Plans had been made for an elaborate wedding, 150 invitations had been sent out and many guests were expected from Hartford, where both Mr. Mairson and Miss White have friends. Soon after the tragedy last Sunday, resulting in the death of the bride's father, Edwin T. White, and her uncle, Benjamin White, it was announced that the wedding would take place on the date set, but that all invitations would be recalled and the wedding would be the quietest possible. This plan was carried out Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Mairson is district superintendent of school buildings in the city of Hartford and Miss White has been a teacher in the Arsenal school there. Mr. Mairson was at the White farm last week Sunday when the tragedy occurred and was slightly wounded.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

LITTLE BROWN HANDS

They drive home the cows from the pasture,
Up through the long, shady lane,
Where the quail whistles loud in the wheatfields,
That are yellow with ripening grain.
They find, in the thick, waving grasses,
Where the scarlet-lipped strawberry grows.
They gather the earliest snowdrops,

They toss the new hay in the meadow;
They gather the elder-bloom white;
They find where the dusky grapes purple
In the soft-tinted October light.
They know where the apples hang ripest,
And are sweeter than Italy's wines;
They know where the fruit hangs the thickest
On the long, thorny blackberry vines.

They gather the delicate seaweeds,
And build tiny castles of sand;
They pick up the beautiful seashells—
Fairy barks that have drifted to land.
They wave from the tall, rocking treetops
Where the oriole's hammock-nest swings.
And at nighttime are folded in slumber
By a song that a fond mother sings.

Those who toil bravely are strongest:
The humble and poor become great:
And so from these brown-handed children
Shall grow mighty rulers of state.
The pen of the author and statesman—
The noble and wise of the land—
The sword, and the chisel, and palette.
Shall be held in the little brown hand.

—Mary H. Krout.

SUMMER SHOWER

A drop fell on the apple-tree,
Another on the roof;
A half a dozen kissed the eaves,
And made the gables laugh.

A few went out to help the brook,
That went to help the sea;
Myself conjectured, were they pearls,
What necklaces could be!

The dust replaced in hoisted roads,
The bird jocoser sung;
The gunshine threw his hat away:
The orchard spangles hung.

The breezes brought dejected lutes,
And bathed them in the glee;
The East put out a single flag,
And signed the fete away.

Emily Dickinson.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Have you ever stopped to wonder why it is that some people seem to take pleasure out of life, by letting someone else do their work for them, all the time putting up a plea that they themselves are overworked, or that they have too much to do. No doubt every Wide Awake knows someone of this type, for they are found everywhere, we meet them from the days of childhood until the last days of old-age, or, as the cartoonists say, "There's at least one in every office."

One thing is certain, however, and that is, that no real Wide Awake will ever grow up to be that kind of man or women. It is the heart of every real, red-blooded boy and girl, to be a true help-mate, ready to share a playmates joys and sorrows. When this same feeling is fostered in the hearts of every boy and girl growing up in this land of ours, a new day will come, a day when the Golden Rule will be lived up to as never before.

You have all heard the quotation, "Do unto others, as you would they should do unto you." It would probably require but little thought on the part of any Wide Awake to remember some happening in the past where this good rule was broken by some playmate, and, for a time, there were injured feelings.

However, let us not be too harsh with the boy or girl, who takes a view of life with that spirit. Let us say to them, "Come on friend, let's be fair with each other; you help me and I'll help you." This spirit is bound to win and any success gained in life, not gained in this manner, it seems to me, is not success, but failure.

If you follow this rule during the days of happy childhood, you will never feel that you are being treated unjustly and you will be able to tackle the greatest of life's problems and conquer them with a smile. On the other hand, if you start when a boy or girl, to feel that you have too much to do and try to pass everything over to a friend to do, that spirit will master you and in after years you will find it impossible to overcome.

The spirit of willingness to do your share, is the spirit that makes big men and women. In after years it will make you a man or woman who will be looked up to and respected; people will know that your success was gained through work on your own part, gained through honest toil and willingness to do the work asked of you without grumbling.

How much better off you will be at that time than your friend of childhood days, who, taking the wrong attitude about life and work, fell into the grumbling and shirking habit, and, to use the terms of the world, dug his or her own rut in life's pathway, and cannot now rise above the ruts which are keeping success always in the future."

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

OING TO OCEAN BEACH

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about going to Ocean Beach.

About a week ago I went to Ocean Beach. I took the little girl who lives next to me. First I went in swimming and stayed in the water about one hour. Then I came out and got a hot dog and some ice cream and many other things. We went in my Ford sedan. I had a very nice time.

GETTING IT FOR ANOTHER

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending you this story and hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy it.

"Good morning, apothecary, have you anything that is good for a sick headache."

"My lad, that's a bad complaint for a holiday," answered the apothecary. "Are you from the mansion on the hill?"

"Yes, sir, I'm one of the farm servants there."

"Does the headache come often?"

"No, but it is very bad when it comes."

"We'll soon remedy that my lad, come here. Shut your eyes and smell, this."

The lad did exactly as he was told and fell from the chair, overcome by the strong stuff in the druggist's bottle. As he raised himself slowly the apothecary asked, "Now my lad, is your headache gone?"

"Oh! Sir, it's not my head I was talking about, it's my mistress who has the headache."

THE HONOR OF COLUMBUS

Dea Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you about the Honor of Columbus. With the earnest aid of the Knights of Columbus of Porto Rico, the movement to restore the statue of Christopher Columbus at Aguada, Porto Rico, erected on the spot where Columbus made his second landing on this continent, is progressing. But the progress of this movement would be and should be expedited by help from all who are interested in seeing fitting honor done everywhere and at all times to the memory of the discoverer. The original statue, erected by the Spanish government, was destroyed by earthquakes in 1918. Now nothing but a ruin marks the spot where Columbus landed. It is worth remembering that the Supreme Council of Knights of Columbus went on record regarding this movement in the following terms at the meeting in Montreal last August. "Resolved, that the movement of the State Council of Porto Rico to restore the movement on the spot where Christopher Columbus landed on the occasion of his second voyage to America be approved, and that the same be commanded as worthy of support."

GETTING IN HAY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you how the men get in hay.

First the horses are harnessed up and brought out and hitched to the mowing machine.

After they have mowed four or five loads they come up to the house and get the hay wagon. But before the hay wagon is used at all, the hay is raked into piles with a hay rake.

When the hay is dry it is loaded on the wagon, and when the wagon is filled with hay the horses draw it into the barn to be unloaded. Then comes the best part of all.

A great big fork is fixed with ropes and pulleys. This is brought down on the load and the horse is hitched to a long rope. He walks out into the lot quite a distance and this makes the fork go up with a quarter of a load of hay.

This is done about four times and the hay is all ready for the horse and cows.

I will close now hoping that you and the Wide Awakes will be very interested with my story.

DESCRIBING A BOB WHITE

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to the Wide Awakes and describe a bob white. As I was sitting under a tree I saw a bird I had never seen before, standing on a rock, not far away. When the bird started to sing, I saw that it was a bob white. People told me that a bob white was a common quail, but my father said it was a marsh quail, and, so it was. A marsh quail is just like a common quail only it is larger in size, and has a half ring of white under it's neck. How many of the Wide Awakes have seen a bob white?

CAPTURED BY INDIANS

Dear Uncle Jed: One evening as Chief Pom Red of the Indian tribe sat at the doorway of his wigwam, a few of his braves came to him with a maiden from the American village nearby. The poor maiden had been captured by the savages and brought to the camp. They intended to hide her and keep her until some American paid her ransom. They hid her in a cabin in a lonely part of the woods. One evening an American spy dressed as an Indian brave passed along the edge of the camp. The spy was weary from wandering all day and was thinking where he would find shelter for the night. Suddenly he saw a faint glow of light in the woods. As he came nearer he was surprised to see it was a small cabin. He went up to the door and rapped and was admitted by the fair maiden. He noticed that she was very light for an Indian though dressed like one. The squaw was asleep on the floor in front of the hearth. The maiden recognized him and told him who she was. He told her he would bring her back the next evening if she would be ready. She said she would and the next night he came and took her back to the Americans. There was great rejoicing. Afterward he married the maiden and all lived happily.

A RAINY DAY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending you this story that I wrote during vacation.

Ruth had a bad cold and she could not go out of doors to play. It was raining quite hard. She stood near the window, and watched the boys go to school. They had on rubber boots so they splashed right through the big puddles.

After the rain was over the ducks waddled down to the pond. They did not mind the puddles either.

"They have on their little red rubbers," laughed Ruth.

The rain drops rolled down the window pane. "I guess they want to come in where it is warm and dry," Ruth thought. Then she went down to the kitchen and made some fudge. In the evening when father and the boys were home Ruth gave them all some fudge. "I made it instead of crying this morning," she informed them.

THE BOBOLINK

Dear Uncle Jed: As I have nothing to do these few hours I will tell you about the bobolinks. I am spending my vacation on the farm. I have been watching a bobolink for about two or three weeks. It is seen in rich grass meadows. They have sweet, rippling, repetition voices with many additions, thrills and notes. Their alarm note is harst, "chah," like that of the blackbird. The bobolinks eggs are white, clouded, spotted and blotched with brown. Their feathers are black with a light yellow patch on the back of the head and neck. In the middle of the back it is streaked with a pale buff. It has a lower black wing splashed with white. The tail and feathers have pointed tips.

MY PET DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you about my pet dog. His name is Rover. One day some of my friends and I went picking walnuts. There was a bull in the field. All of my friends were afraid to go in. I called my dog Rover and set him on the bull. He chased the bull all the way to the brook. My friends said, "If you will tell us when the bull is coming, we all will divide our walnuts with you." When they all filled their baskets, I called my dog. Then we started for home. When I arrived home I told my experience about the bull. My mother was surprised to hear what my dog Rover had done. I told my mother never send me after walnuts again. And she said she wouldn't. I told her that it was lucky, that I had my dog Rover with me. You can just bet Uncle Jed that I was glad when we arrived home.

SAVING A BIRD

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I have chosen a story about saving a bird. one noon as four of my friends and I were walking along to school we heard a great commotion. We looked up and heard a woman calling, "Shoo! Scat!" Her daughter ran out to see what it was all about. My friends went up to see what it was but I stayed down on the sidewalk. They soon came back and told me it was a baby robin that was just learning to fly. A cat had caught him and broken his wing. I am almost sure the woman took the bird into her house and took care of it. I am sure I hope so.

HAYING TIME

Dear Uncle Jed; I am writing you about our haying. We are very busy these days getting in our hay. Papa has two men helping him with his haying and sister and I do all we can to help him. I drive the horses from one pile of hay to the other for papa and this helps him a lot. I get up at six o'clock in the morning and feed the chickens and when papa gets ready to go to the hay field. I am always ready to go with him. Papa expects to be through haying in about another week if we have good weather.

THE PATH OF GLORY

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. Now I will write to you about The Path of Glory. Herr Stinnes is dead. Perhaps it was a fanciful reporter who intruded so far into the death chamber to give to the world the story that the final moments of the money monarch's life were obsessed with the delusion that hordes of the proletariat were clutching at his throat. Whether fanciful or not, the plain truth is that Stinnes profited by the misfortunes that befell his fellow countrymen. In a nation of the mournful and moneyless he was a gilded colossus, and stripping the repute of his wealth of all exaggeration, he stood astride Germany, grasping powerfully, when his country lay powerless.

The occasion of his nation's defeat was to him the opportunity for personal victory. By the rules of the game—the game of getting it while the getting is good—he stands crowned a triumphant success, a success so triumphant that he exemplified the ancient irony of our mortality, for to this man who had so entrenched himself in his fortress of wealth, who had accumulated the vastest treasure ever gathered into the coffers of a man of his race and nation, death came like a thief in the night.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

IN TOAD COUNTRY

One day as Little Jack Rabbit was hopping through the woods, he heard a little Blackbird say:

"Do you not hear beautiful music?" And when Little Jack Rabbit turned his head, he saw beneath a tree a shepard boy playing on a flute. And the music was so sweet that the birds and animals gathered around to listen to it.

But the bunny boy was bent on seeing the world, so he rode away,

"I will not have you in my country!"

with the little blackbird flying on ahead, and by and by, he heard a voice singing:

"Oh, woe is me, a little fish,
That waits for certain death.
Pray throw me back into the lake.
That I may gain my breath."

Close at hand, on the bank of a large pond, lay a pretty silver fish. No sooner had the bunny boy tossed it back into the water than, in a few minutes, it came to the surface and said,

"Little Jack Rabbit, I know you though you don't know me. Some day I will reward you for your kindness," and he dived under the water and was seen no more.

Well, after that, our bunny boy rabbit hopped away and by and by, after many a mile, he came to a deep river, he sat down wondering what to do, when, all of a sudden, a snow white swan swam up to the bank and said:

"I will ferry you across. Get upon my back and you shall reach yonder shore in safety."

"But I do not wish to leave my little blackbird friend," anxiously said the little bunny boy.

"Do not worry about me for I would find a mate and build a nest in this big tree," answered the little bird.

So Little Jack Rabbit seated himself on the Swan's back who soon landed him on the other side. Just then an ugly toad hopped out from behind a bush and said:

"How dare you come into my kingdom. I am King of Toad Country." And I guess the bunny boy would have turned around and gone back, only the Swan had sailed away.

"I will not harm you," said the little bunny boy.

"But I'll not have you in my kingdom," answered the disagreeable toad, puffing himself up until he was almost as big as a dog. And, oh, dear me, he was a dreadful looking thing.

Well, there was nothing for Little Jack Rabbit to do but take out his popgun. At once the toad gave a loud croak and the next minute dozens and dozens of toads hopped up and surrounded him on all sides. And a very ugly toad began to sing up a deep croaky voice:

"Whoever comes within our land
Must lose the fingers on his hand."

In the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

SLACKERS AT THE POLLS.

If bayonets barred citizens from the polls, they would be ready to shoot their way to the ballot box. But the privilege of a free and unrestricted ballot has apparently resulted in plain laziness and apathy about enjoying this privilege. To such a prodigious extent has this tendency shown that 27,000,00 of our qualified voters stayed away from the polls in 1920, approximately one-half the voting strength of the United States. That November day saw the greatest number of voters in our history, because it was the first presidential election in which women voters participated. In that year there were 58,625,000 native and naturalized citizens of voting age in this country, but only 26,674,000 of these took the trouble to express their opinion of the qualifications of the presidential candidates by voting.

Our record of slackers at the polls has been one that has been growing progressively worse. In 1896 eighty per cent of the qualified voters appeared at the polls. Four years later it was 73 per cent and in 1908 only 65 per cent. With all the clamor of the Bull Moose movement in 1912, the proportion of voters who cast ballots was only 62 per cent and this dropped to 50 per cent in 1920, as has already been stated. And the naturalized voters are shaming the native-born as in 1920, the census shows there were 21,000,000 more native-born voters than there were votes cast for president.

It is a situation that is so appalling and compelling that a great non-partisan organization is being formed for the purpose of getting out the vote. More than 1,000 clubs and 3,000 chambers of commerce and other civic bodies are to be enlisted in the effort to remind the slacker of his duty. All voters are to be urged to name a party home and to see that "none" does not shelter blocs and minority groups and that such parties are made and kept responsible. The voter is asked to use his party membership as the instrument for registering his views on men, movements and governments.

Compulsory voting would not be the way to bring out the vote for that would be hostile to the spirit of a free people. Neither would plans for taxing the slacker at the polls do. Any vote that must be whipped to the ballot-box is not worth bothering about. What is wanted is an aroused and thinking voter.

DAVIS IN HARMONY.

The democratic candidate for president has taken the obvious course in announcing his concurrence in the views expressed by his running mate upon the ticket regarding national defense day. He could scarcely commit the tactical blunder, at the very opening of the presidential campaign, of repudiating Mr. Bryan's views or of acknowledging that the vice presidential candidate had put him in an embarrassing position. As far as he may, Mr. Davis leaves the matter in the best possible shape from the political point of view. Agreeing in toto with Mr. Bryan's views, he remains silent upon certain of his expressions. He does not challenge national defense day in principle as it is proposed by the administration, but takes exception to the invitation to all civilians to join in the assembly of the potential defensive forces of the United States. Mr. Bryan drew an alarming picture of civilians rudely yanked from their customary occupations for the day, but President Coolidge punctures this view when he calls Mr. Bryan's attention to the letter of Major General Duncan of Omaha which states that "no fixed form for these ceremonies is suggested. They should be planned to fit conditions in each particular locality." The Nebraskan's spasm of trepidation could well have been saved had he not been overwhelmed by his predilection for the kind of pacifism that endorses unpreparedness.

Mr. Davis has prevented the question from becoming a veritable issue in the campaign. Had he gone the full length in indorsing all that the governor said the question of "preparedness" would have become such in fact.

The incident, however, has its importance in illustrating the possibility of tense-making through indiscretion. Nobody, of course, knows what has passed in the way of private communication between the candidates, so far as the public is aware the matter is closed. Defense day will be observed, and save for the socialists and their adopted allies, the La Follette progressives, it will probably not become a matter of campaign importance.

WHEELER AS RUNNING MATE.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, yielding to flattering personal appeals from Senator La Follette, has consented to run as candidate for vice-president on the ticket of the socialist - radical-single - tax-railroad union labor condition. Mr. Wheeler cannot support the Davis-Bryan ticket, he says, because Wheeler-Coolidge-Dawes alternative, it is a Wall street ticket. As a Jeffersonian democrat, he holds that he must bolt his party, since in his view it has deserted the people and now brazenly represents special privilege.

Mr. Wheeler, being much younger than the head of the insurgent ticket, should not have accumulated as much misinformation or developed as much vindictive bitterness as has Mr. La Follette. Yet Mr. Wheeler manifestly has made extraordinary progress in these respects, considering the number of his years and scope of his opportunities.

Both La Follette and Wheeler say that they will support republican, democratic, farmer-labor and other candidates for congress provided such candidates will promise, openly or tacitly, to join the La Follette bloc and take orders from its acknowledged head.

Voters, when they realize that the game of the insurgents is destructive, must resent their unmeasured denunciation of sincere men who dare to be moderate and practical. Therefore voters should resolve to have no part in promoting the mischievous purposes of ill-assorted radicals at the cost of representative, responsible government.

AGREEMENT REACHED.

One crisis after another in the London conference over the application of the Dawes plan to German reparation has been surmounted until complete agreement has been reached. American participation and advice, it seems to be pretty generally acknowledged, has been a saving factor on more than one of the knotty points, bringing to the discussions a clarifying quality that helped to straighten out the entanglements that European diplomacy imposed.

Three weeks before the conference met it was confidently predicted that its work could be completed in seven or eight days. This was just after the MacDonald-Herriot love feast at Chequers court, but about that time Herriot's parliamentary opposition stepped in and bound the French premier in an iron ring for the protection of that nation's interests. From then on deadlocks came fast and the weeks rolled along until it came to be a question how long the conference could avoid the peril of going to smash. That now an acceptable adjustment has been reached upon all the contested points is cause for congratulation to all who have participated and to none more so than to the Americans whose well-considered counsel has more than once operated to break the deadlock when an impasse had been reached.

MacDonald and the British government have been careful to show no signs of impatience. This is MacDonald's way, apparently; he has already had the Russians in London for five months and the indications of progress in this case have been extremely meager. The prolongation of the conference brough danger to Herriot, whose parliament has none too much confidence in him.

None of the conferees could fail to see that the penalties of failure of the conference would be appalling and the determination to let nothing like that happen tended to the prolongation of the conference. From its results we may expect the world to initiate a return to safety and sanity.

WOMEN IN CONGRESS.

If the vivacious and sprightly National Women's party is to campaign for the election of at least 100 women to the house of representatives, it ought also to do what it can to see that the women so elected have correct ideas of our government, and of its relation to the citizen. Of course there are many men who are sadly deficient in this respect, so the schooling should be co-educational. With women and women's organizations indorsing the anti-work amendment—erroneously called the child labor amendment—and demanding the creation of a department of education, and the voting of large sums of money to the states for educational purposes, there is evident need for a little clear thinking on these subjects.

The people are demanding—and wisely—less government, smaller appropriations and a reduction of taxation. Yet many of them are pressing for further extension of the government's activities, more employes, larger pay rolls, and higher taxes—all of which would follow the adoption of such a program as that favored by some in connection with education. The states ought to be left to manage their own educational affairs, as they have heretofore done with more than reasonable success.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Soap should be stored some time before used in order to get the best value of it. It becomes hard and goes much farther.

Place a lump of soda in the kitchen sink. It will dissolve slowly and keep the drainpipe wholesome.

Sprinkle a little flour over the tops of cakes before they are iced. This will prevent the icing from running off.

To cut marshmallows, dip the knife in hot water. This will prevent them sticking to knife or fingers.

To clean the inside of cut-glass vases or decanters mix a small quantity of vinegar with a handful of salt; put a little in each decanter or vase and shake well. Afterward rinse well in clear water.

Take a candle by the wick and give it a coating of white varnish, then put it away to dry for a couple of days. When lighted the varnish prevents the grease from running down the side and the candle will last twice as long.

Tarragon may be added to ordinary cidar vinegar to make a vinegar that is so delicious for salads.

Bruise the seeds of apples and pears, tie them in muslin and use for flavoring tarts or stewed fruit.

When measuring sirup or any sticky substance, avoid waste by dipping the cup in boiling water.

To keep onions long, tie them together and hang them in a very dry place. Apples keep best stored in straw and a good idea is to keep a single apple in your cake tin; it keeps the cake from getting stale quickly.

A mode of ascertaining the freshness of eggs is to hold them to the light. If an egg looks clear it is good; if thick it is stale. If there is a black spot attached to the shell it is worthless.

Grease on a wall can generally be eradicated by covering the spot with clean blotting paper and then passing a warm iron over it.

SETTING COLORS

Salt is especially effective in setting browns, blacks, reds and pinks, being used in the proportion of two cups of salt to one gallon of water. For blues, use vinegar in the proportion of half a cup of vinegar to one gallon of water, or alum in the proportion of one tablespoon of alum to one gallon of water. For lavendars, sugar of lead is more often used, one-tablespoon of sugar being the proportions. Sugar of lead is a poison and should be handled with great care. Throw out the solution as soon as used, wash the hands carefully and put the sugar of lead in a safe place.

DEVICE SAVES LABOR

In a new, improved all-metal wringer, which embodies many desirable and exclusive improvements, the rolls adjust themselves to any thickness, wringing heavy or light pieces without any adjustment by the operator. The wringer is so designed that the pressure is taken care of automatically and both rolls instantly stop when safety release is tripped. Furthermore, the rolls are soft para elastic rubber, which prevents breaking of buttons.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

The purpose of any sort of scalp treatment is principally to stimulate the circulation of the blood. Massage should always be given in connection with the use of tonics to further this end.

Just at present the coiffure is posed close to the head, whether the hair is bobbed or long. This close coiffure is very becoming to women of full face, specially if the hair be brushed upward to the crown of the head so as to give the effect of height.

The internal benefits of lemon juice should not be forgotten. Lemon juice in water, without sugar, is an excellent tonic to take upon first rising in the morning. Many persons find this morning "lemon cocktail" not only a mouth sweetener and an appetizer, but a gentle laxative as well.

At least once a week, preferably oftener, give your face and neck a good steaming with hot towels and massage with almond food cream. Finish with a brisk ice rub for five minutes. If you will persist in the ice treatment every night after cleansing your face you will be able to keep your skin smooth and youthful.

FOR SLENDER ANKLES

The recent declaration of a famous fashion creator that women possessing ankles of certain dimensions have also better brains has brought to light a fad which exists among smart Parisiennes to wear high shoes around the home to regain shapeliness or ankles lost through a continous wearing of low shoes. Bootmakers say that where ankles are unconfined or unsupported for an indefinite period there sets in a gradual reversion to the primitive type.

FIRST AID BOXES

First-aid boxes are useful. The box when complete should contain some bandages, a package of sterile gauze, another of cotton, a tiny bottle of iodine. With a safety cork, and a bottle of hydrogen peroxide. There should be safety pins for the bandages, and a bit of oiled silk and a scrap of flannel for fomentation, a bottle of oil of cloves, in case of a toothache, and an ounce of essence of peppermint, a few drops of which in hot water will relieve the acute pain of indigestion.

STIMULATING SWEETS

Jams and jellies may be classed as stimulating, not cloying sweets. That is one reason why jam is a healthful addition to the breakfast table. The perfect combination of sweet and fruit acid makes jelly tempting to the invalid or the convalescent, and a wonderful improver of milk and egg puddings. A jelly omelet is a delicacy not difficult to effect, jelly with cheese and hard crackers a course much esteemed by epicures. And in the higher place of menu-planning there is an appropriate jam, jelly or compote for every game, poultry or meat dish.

MAKES GOOD DUSTER

For dusting furniture, particularly if it is all elaborate in design, there is nothing better than an ordinary paint brush. The bristles cannot scratch the surface and they remove the dust from the crannies and corners better than a dust cloth can possibly do.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Extremely feminine is a parasol of blue net completely covered with ruffles of the same sheer material.

Dotted materials in silk show dots of graduated sizes and with borders of extra large coin spots.

Smart looking white buckskin shoes have patent leather tips, heels and straps in black.

Peasant costumes, sleeveless and embroidered in bright colors, are shown in voile and linen as well as in silks.

Sapphire blue girdles are used effectively on black gowns, the effect being particularly good if some white is also used.

The brilliant red frock is gaining in favor. There is something alluring in the contrast between the hot shade and the airy lightness of the material.

Golden slippers are here again. In the opera pump models they are extremely effective. They are made of gold kidskin and worn with "skin" hose.

One needs must be [illegible] and slim in order to look well in the seven-eighths coat with which many tailored suits are now equipped. The coat is tube-like and buttons down almost to the knee.

A sports hat that is just a little different is of white felt with a band around the crown composed of patchwork flowers in orange and green. The flowers are made of crepe de chine.

There are no more plain gloves. Even the soberest silk ones today have circular ruffles which range all the way from narrow sucks of the goods to wide lace flouncings.

Parasols or sun umbrellas suitable for the city are hard to find, but the new parasols of blue, green or black that are bordered with a band of gay Roman ribbon are exactly the right choice for the stay-at-home.

Highly decorative is a black taffeta bathing suit with a small square collar of Roman striped ribbon. The full skirt that is gathered to the normal waistline has a wide flounce of the Roman ribbon.

IMPORTANT ADJUNCT

The importance of blouses is not to be overlooked, for although they are purchased separately and are worn with odd skirts the effect may be that of a perfect costume. They are so cleverly planned and made that they are in complete harmony with the skirt.

In type the modern blouse is decidedly varied, ranging from the tunic blouse that reaches anywhere from the knees to within a few inches of the bottom of the skirt, to short little affairs minus sleeves or with the briefest of shoulder caps and a boyish turn-back collar.

Although this is what will be termed a white season there is much use of color giving just the proper accent.

On blouses one finds color introduced in tiny bands and pipings as well as in the decorative monogram or device which still remains in vogue. The "chemisier" blouse copied from a man's shirt is a feature of midsummer fashions and in silk or linen has a smartness all its own.

FLANNEL POPULAR

Flannel continues to hold its own in the world of fashion and many are the delightful costumes evolved from this becoming material. A costume of much smartness consists of skirt, waistcoat and long coat all made of canary-colored flannel. To wear with it is a small hat of felt.

COOKING HINTS

Split a cream cake shell, fill with vanilla ice cream and pour over it thin chocolate sauce.

Soft gingerbread is improved by spreading with marshmallow cream as soon as it is cool.

Creamed vegetables are improved by standing over not water for a quarter of an hour before serving.

When baking potatoes if you will wash them well and grease them with butter or lard, the skins will become soft and digestible.

In making coffee, if you add a little pinch of salt or use your egg shells you have had left from breakfast it will improve the flavor very much.

Creole stew is made with a medium fowl cut into joints, tomatoes, carrots, okra and sweet peppers cut small. The whole is simmered over the fire and finished in the fireless cooker.

A good meringue is made with whites of two eggs, 4 tablespoonfuls of maple syrup and one-quarter teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat the whites till stiff, add syrup gradually and the vanilla last.

Crisp noodles for chicken are made of one egg, one and one-half cupfuls corn flour, one tablespoonful water and one half teaspoonful of salt. Mix, roll thin, hang over a clean towel till a little dry, then slice into shoestrings and fry in a basket in deep vegetable fat.

THE USEFUL LEMON

Lemon juice, clear or diluted with pure water, is an excellent bleach for those whose skin easily freckles or tans. It is also valuable for manicuring, as it removes stains from the fingers and nails.

Lemon juice as a hair rinse is especially valuable for those who have oily hair. It cuts the curd often formed by the use of soap, and leaves the hair soft, clean and fluffy after the shampoo. Many professional beauty parlors use a lemon rinse with every shampoo.

WHITE FOR MIDSUMMER

The height of decorativeness is reached this summer in the all-white frocks upon which the designers have spent so much time and thought. A particularly lovely one is of white georgette completely covered with embroidery done in small crystal beads, with a few touches of silver and pearl beads. A very wide band of clipped white marabou borders the skirt, and the sleeveless waist is as simple as a waist could be.

KITCHEN SHELVES

Instead of covering the kitchen shelves with the usual white kitchen paper, use white oilcloth. It should be cut into long strips about two inches wider than the shelves and tacked firmly down. Oil cloth is very easily kept clean as all it requires is to be rubbed with a damp cloth.

QUICKLY CLARIFIED

In pouring drippings into a basin add to them an equal part of water. This is the quickest way of clarifying drippings, as all pieces of meat that may be in the liquid sink to the bottom and the drippings remain clear.

CUTS GREASE SPOTS

To remove grease spots from the floor sprinkle them with dry soda, pour over this boiling water, let stand a short time, scrub and the spot is gone.

RECIPES

Spiced Currants: Wash, drain and pick the currants from the stems. For each pound of currants, allow one pound of sugar. Make a sirup, using for each four pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, two teaspoons of cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of mace or nutmeg, three-fourths teaspoon of cloves and one-fourth teaspoon of salt. Heat to the boiling point and add currants; bring again to the boiling point and let boil ten minutes; skim out the currants and let the sirup boil until quite thick, then add the currants. When thoroughly heated store as jelly. Black currants are very good spiced, and make a fine accompaniment with game. Gooseberries may be prepared the same as currants.

Raspberry Jam with Currant Juice: Use equal weight of red raspberries and sugar and half the weight of the raspberries in currant juice. Let fruit and juice boil together from fifteen to twenty minutes; then add the sugar gradually, stirring until it is dissolved; bring to the boiling point and let boil until the mixture is thick. sterilized glasses.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gas and Electric Catechism.

The recent catechism published by the Gas and Electric Dept., gotten out by Mr. Jensen, is indeed interesting and illuminating. It sets forth some figures which can be obtained evidently from the workings of the plant for the last nearly twenty years. It sets them out in a very simple manner and explains the facts as those figures appear on the books of the company. I think credit is due Mr. Jensen for making them so simple that almost anybody can understand them, and if we are to accept those figures from the standpoint, at which Mr. Jensen looks at them, there is no question as to their exactness and correctness. They are very helpful to the taxpayers and to the rent-payers when it comes to determining the question as to whether or not the city of Norwich has made one red cent since it went into the gas and electric business.

Evidently that document was printed by the commissioners for the purpose of influencing opinion favorable to the gas and electric plant. If it is studied carefully, it must surely have the directly opposite effect.

We the citizens of the city of Norwich, are interested, first, in the city of Norwich, and, secondly, in the gas and electric plant. These figures which appear as profits must be so regarded for the sake of bookkeeping, but that department is no different from an ordinary merchant running a business in which he has a half dozen worn-out automobiles within a certain number of years, all of which have been paid out of the earnings of his business or possibly may have been paid for by calling upon the assistance of his friends. As our gas and electric plant necessarily has to do when we consider the amount of money our city has been called upon to cough up for the loss of taxes which the city would receive if it were in the hands of private ownership.

These various electrical equipments which have been relegated to the scrap heap in the last twenty years have been paid for out of the earnings of the plant presumably, but what does that get the tax-payer? Nothing. As a pastime for those engaged in running the plant, it is interesting to know how many machines they have replaced and what it cost to replace them, but what does the tax-payer and rent-payer get out of this enterprise?. He gets nothing but an increase in his taxes and an increase in his rent.

Put the plant in at a million dollars in the tax list, and it should not somewhere around $50,000 to the city of Norwich. Where is the profit to the gas and electric plant when you take that $50,000 out of this presumed earning which is shown on the books? You have a very handsome loss every year. Who makes up that loss, to follow the line of question and answer in the catechism? The rent-payer and the tax-payer.

We are now paying much more than we should for electricity and there has been a nice little sop to the citizens in the way of a promised reduction in the price of electricity. For what purpose has that promise been thrown out? A little more foolish propaganda in the interest of the gas and electric plant, and if they can make the reduction which has been suggested and promised, if they wanted to do something substantial, why not proceed along the lines which a business concern would,? Buy all of its power and make twice, or possibly three times, that reduction. That is the way a business man would do. Why not have some sound business methods used in our gas and electric department? But after all why should we expect very much from the department? They have a very honorable board of young men attempting to handle it, but who will accuse any of them of having managed any great enterprise successfully. This is no unkind criticism of the members of the board, but it is simply a plain statement of fact. They are honorable, intelligent and well-meaning men, but what does this plaything of the city of Norwich get us tax-payers and rent-payers? Nothing but higher rents and taxes.

In the state of Kansas, where municipal enterprises were supposed to be all the go at one time, two municipal electric plants were given away within the last two years. Why? Because they were operated at a loss to the tax-payers of this community.

Look at this enterprise, not from the standpoint of the gas and electric plant, but from the standpoint of the citizens of this community, who have to foot the bills. This is a matter which the citizens seem to be pretty well interested in from the comments we hear on all sides, and I feel that when the matter comes to a head you will hear something drop.

Andrious A. Jones, the new chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, has been one of the representatives of New Mexico in the United States senate since 1916. Before entering the senate he had served in the department for the Interior for several years, as assistant secretary, having been selected for the post because of his knowledge of conditions in the southwest. He is a Tennessean, the son of a clergyman, and was educated at Valparaiso University, Indiana. After teaching school in his native state he found his way to New Mexico, settled at Las Vegas, and in time became principal of schools. Studying law, he was admitted to the bar in 1888, in time became a special Federal district attorney, mayor of the city, chairman of the state democratic committee, and New Mexico's member of the national democratic committee. Simultaneously he became a capitalist interested in cattle raising, banking and real estate development.

Bok, the Dutch Immigrant Boy

Accustomed to the better things of life back across the water, Edward Bok, in a strange land, had to attend school where he didn't understand a word, and where he was the butt of the native boy's taunts and torments.

Helder, Netherlands, was his birthplace and his parents were well-to-do, but his father lost all, and came to America. The boy was six when the family arrived in Brooklyn. At school he had to learn English as well as the lessons, and had to trounce some of the boys to stop their cruelty.

Helping their mother with the housework before and after school, he and his brother also gathered fuel from the street. Edward earned 50 cents a week washing windows of a bakery, afterward receiving a dollar more for clerking, and to this he added by delivering newspapers and selling iced drinks.

Leaving school at 13, he became office boy for the Western Union, earning $6.75 a week. To continue his education he wrote letters to famous people, and soon knew personally the notables of the country. Needing extra funds, he wrote Biographies to be printed on the back of cigarette pictures and after studying stenography at night, was reporter for a newspaper.

He was 18 when his father died, leaving little funds, and the boys supported their mother. Edward lost his newspaper position, retained it, then conceived the idea of the small-sized theatre program, which was successful from the start, and consolidated two church papers into the Brooklyn Magazine, developed it, and sold the property.

At 19 he became stenographer for Henry Holt & Co., publishers, and two years later, for Charles Scribner's Sons. At night he syndicated Henry Ward Beecher's sermons to newspapers, founded the Bok Syndicate Press and introduced the woman's page, a literary chat and other features. Soon he was promoted to the advertising department of Scribner's.

When offered the editorship of the Ladies' Home Journal, he was advised by many to refuse, but, at 26 he accepted and became a vital force in its success.

When he retired, at 55, he was rich, and today, at 63, is active in promoting his ideas for the benefit of the world.

Stories That Recall Others

His Standard Joke

A well-to-do citizen of a small country town had six handsome sons with whom he loved to parade the town, because they gave him a fine opportunity to indulge in a little mathematical joke which he had himself invented.

"A fine family you have," strangers would often say. "Is this the whole of it?"

"No," the proud father would reply: "Each and every son has two sisters at home."

"What?" the visitor would exclaim, rapidly counting the sons. "Twelve daughters?"

"No, indeed," the old man always chuckled, "just two."

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Thomas.

Following an illness of several weeks the life of Mary Elizabeth, wife of John Thomas, came to a close Sunday at her home, 89 School street.

She was born in Norwich, April 17, 1898, the daughter of Edward and Ellen Kelly Matthews, and was united in marriage with John Thomas at St. Patrick's church, Rev. M. H. May conducting the service.

Besides her husband she is survived by her parents, two children, William and Mary Lou Thomas, three sisters, Nellie, Lillian and Alice Matthews and four brothers, Charles, William, Albert, and Henry Matthews, all of Norwich.

News of the death of Mrs. Thomas will come as a shock to her many friends and sympathy is expressed for those who have lost a loved one.

CHURCH DRIVE FOR $2,500 IS NEARING CLOSE

Grace Memorial Baptist church on Mt. Pleasant street, of which Rev. J. M. Patterson is pastor, B. F. Dale, clerk, and Deacon Thomas Wormsley, treasurer, has just a week left in which to close up its financial campaign to raise a fund of $2,500 for church improvements, of which the most important are a new vestry and the installation of running water. A committee of about fifteen of the church members are making a canvass in the city, but the pastor said Sunday night that he hoped friends of the church who have not yet been reached by canvassers would lighten their labors and aid the early success of the effort by sending contributions or pledges to him at 133 Mt. Pleasant street. The pledges are payable on or before an. 1, 1925.

The church was organized twenty-three years ago and has made but one previous appeal to the public for financial assistance. It is completely out of debt and its intention is not to undertake the proposed improvements until the money is assured in cash or pledges. The present appeal is based upon the belief that the past record of the church merits the support and confidence of the general public.

WON VACATION TRIP TO BEECHNUT FACTORY

Harry A. Covey of 42 Freeman avenue has just returned from a vacation trip of a week which was his reward from the Beechnut Packing Co. for winning the salesmen's contest in the New England section, in which he was successful over 18 competitors. All the prize winning salesmen, 35 out of the 175 who are employed in the United States, were taken on a trip to the factory at SCanajoharie, N. Y., where they made an inspection visit to the factory, held a convention and were given a banquet and prizes. Mr. Covey had the distinction of being the youngest of the 35 prize winning salesmen and the one who had been the shortest time in the employ of the company.

The youthful graduate is probably the only person who knows enough to run the affairs of the state successfully.

FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION HOLDS ANNUAL OUTING AT LAKE

There is always a real time when "good fellows" get together, and, although the annual outing of the Norwich Fish & Game association was not exactly the kind of a "time" those words recall, the 200 or more members, wives and friends who spent the day, Sunday, at Gardner Lake thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it.

The day dawned bright and fair, an ideal day for the outing, and a number of members got an early start for the lake in hopes to feed a few bass and give them the customary ride which lands them in the boat. Somehow word had been passed out to the members of the lake family that a crowd of fishermen were due to land at the lake Sunday and they refused to entertain, most of the fishermen failing to get a single strike after hours on the lake trying our the favorite spots. Some of the members who did land bass reported that fishing was slow, but, even though no fish were caught, everyone, even the unlucky fishermen, enjoyed the outing.

Activities at the lake began shortly after 10 o'clock when Swahn's military band, directed by John M. Swahn, arrived and struck up the first notes of a march. At various times during the day the band rendered selections, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed. The program was varied, comprising the usual numbers played during the several municipal concerts given by the band, and a number of new ones. The bandsmen entered into the spirit of the day, and, although forced to stand at times, when seats were needed for the hungry fishermen, played almost continuously during dinner, a feature that is always enjoyed.

The concert program rendered in the morning was as follows:

March, Waterville, R. B. Hall
Overture, Lusptpiel, Keler Bela
Medley—(a) Why Did I Kiss That Girl; (b) It Ain't Goin' to Rain No More, Etc. Lake
Waltz, Old Timers, Swahn
Selection, Medley, Plantation Songs, Lampe
Operatic selection, Midnight Sons. Vandersloot
March, American Legion,

For those not caring for fishing, there was boating and swimming and not a few took pleasure in this sport during the day, all boats at Brown's place being held in reserve for the association.

Shortly after 1 o'clock the sound of the bugle reminded everyone that it was time to eat and all gathered about the tables in the main hall where one of "Ed" Underwood's famous chowders was served, members of the association assisting in the serving. Crackers, pickles, ham sandwiches, peaches, bananas, watermelon and soft drinks completed the menu.

Following dinner interest centered in the various competitive events including bait and fly casting for accuracy and distance. These events are annually looked forward to by every member of the association for they afford opportunity to watch the best rodmen in eastern Connecticut show their wares. This year the events were entered by more contestants than ever before and the race for the special prize, awarded to the entrant scoring best in all events, was a close one. The prize finally became the property of Lewis J. Oat, who had entered all four events, scoring second in three, thereby being judged best average scorer in all events.

The first event was bait casting for accuracy, which resulted in a race between three entrants, W. H. Hobbs scored the only perfect hit, but one unlucky cast resulted in his being placed third. For accuracy the best average for five shots was hung up by F. Lockwood, three casts being within six inches, the other two going wide. F. E. Faulkner was a close second, his average distance being 2 feet 3 inches more than that of Mr. Lockwood. The winners in this event and prizes awarded were as follows: F. Lockdood, 4 in., 6 1-2 ft., 4 in., 2 ft., 3 in., 1st prize, Heddon minnow; F. E. Faulkner, 4 ft., 9 in., 4 ft., 2 1-2 ft., 8 in., 2nd prize, medium minnow; W. H. Hobbs, hit, 6 in., 7 1-2 ft., 4 ft., 6 in., 3d prize, feather minnow.

In bait casting for distance "Gus" Hague hung up an enviable record for future contestants to shoot at, when he threw the slug five times for an average distance of 157 feet. This was the best average for distance at any meet of the association and was over 20 feet better than the average of his nearer rival. All of his casts were over 150 feet, the longest going 165 feet before hitting the water. The winners in this event and prizes awarded follows: "Gus" Hague, 165 ft., 152 1-2 ft., 152 1-2 ft., 165 ft., 159 ft, 1st prize, Heddon minnow; Lewis J. Oat, 140 feet., 149 ft., 139 ft., 135 ft., 143 1-2 ft., 3nd prize, medium minnow; F. Lockwood, 95 ft., 142 ft., 147 ft., 144 ft., 142 ft., 3d prize, feather minnow.

In the fly casting events two contestants, George W. Dolbeare and Lewis J. Oat had things their own way. This event calls for science and is not usually entered by many members, although it is hoped that another year will see more members out after the prizes. Mr. Dolbeare took first prize in this event and Mr. Oat second prize.

For accuracy the averages and prizes were: Mr. Dolbeare, best five out of seven, 1-ft., 1 ft., hit, 2 ft., 1 ft. at 50 feet; prize, silk line; Mr. Oat, best five out of seven, 2 ft., 1 ft., 2 ft., 1 1-2 ft., 2 ft., at 50 feet, prize, silk line. For distance the best throws and prizes were: Mr. Dolbeare, 72 ft. 68 ft. 63 ft; prize, silk line; Mr. Oat, 61 ft. 61 ft. 60 ft., prize, silk line. Mr. Oat was then awarded the special prize, a casting reel, for best average in all events.

W. H. Hawed of Canterbury, one of the best men who ever handled a rod and line was called upon to demonstrate fly casting and threw several times, running the line over 70 feet. Mr. Hawes is capable of whipping a fly over 100 feet in exhibitions and it is always a pleasure to watch this artist play his line.

Another feature of the annual outing that always attracts attention is the president's cup, given by Arthur E. Story. With catches running small several bass going a pound or over looked like winners until Fitch Dolbears came in with a bass that weighed 2 pounds and 2 ounces, this fish proving to be the winner for 1924.

The success of the outing was due to the untiring work of the general committee and special committees, the members of which did everything possible to ensure a day of pleasure for the members and guests. The committees were as follows:

General outing committee: President Arthur E. Story, Secretary W. W. Ives, Edward Underwood, E. Lewis Young, Kenneth Fox, William LaRochelle, Hermon J. Gibbs and Louis Ortmann; casting committee, George W. Dolbeare, Lewis M. Young and Lewis J. Oat; judges, Robert B. Chappell, New London county game warden; Arthur C. Brown and W. H. Hawes.

During the outing Secretary W. W. Ives announced that Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Bingham had expressed his regrets at not being able to come to the annual outing. Governor Bingham, as he is addressed by many of his friends now, was a guest of the association last year and it was hoped that he could enjoy the 1924 outing but this was not to be, much to the regret of the members of the association.

MACHINES COLLIDE ON NORTH MAIN ST NEAR BELT PLANT

About 12.30 o'clock Saturday night a Nash touring car driven by Charles McIntyre of this city and a Ford sedan owned by Mrs. A. B. Stockdale of No. 5 Union street and driven by Angello Forendo, came together near the curve on North Main street in the vicinity of the Norwich Belt Mfg. plant. The front tire on the Ford was ripped from the wheel and other light damage was done. The Nash lost its front wheel and the mudguards and running board were damaged. The wheel was replaced on the Nash and Mr. McIntyre drove the machine home under its own power. The damage in both cases was slight.

Mr. McIntyre in reporting the accident at police headquarters stated that he was driving north and that the Ford was headed south in a line of other machines going towards the city from Hill Top. There was a machine stopped by the curb on Mr. McIntyre's right and just as he was passing this machine the Ford pulled out of line for some reason or other and the Nash and Ford sideswiped.

Mr. Ferendo said, in his report, that he was on the way to the city from Hill Top, and that he was driving the car for Miss Stockdale. A machine ahead of him slowed down suddenly with no warning and came nearly to a stop. He turned his wheels to the left to avoid hitting it.

It was learned that he has no operator's license, but Miss Stockdale, who was in the front seat with him is a licensed driver.

CAUSED DISTURBANCE AT POLICE STATION

Charles J. Gammon, 21, U. S. N., whose ship is in Portsmouth, N. H., at the present time, was arrested early Sunday morning by Officer Michael Carroll on a charge of driving an automobile without an operator's license. He was booked at police headquarters and later released on bonds of $50 for appearance in the city court Monday morning.

Gammon had with him his wife, a sailor and another woman, and the four were on their way from Portsmouth to this city and New London. He stated at police headquarters that he had rented the machine, an Auburn roadster, to drive his wife and the other passengers to New London. He said that he had an operator's license in his home state, Illinois, but had not taken out one in this state.

When Mrs. Gammon, whose former home is in Fitchville, discovered at police headquarters that her husband was to be held for court she caused considerable of a disturbance in the police station and made one or two rather uncomplimentary remarks about the local police force in general and as a result she was locked up, being released shortly afterward following the reading of a summons ordering her to appear in the city court this (Monday) morning.

GUARDSMEN INTERESTED IN NATIONAL DEFENSE PLANS

Local National Guardsmen and members of the Officers' Reserve Corps, U. S. A. are interested in an announcement made by Major General A. W. Brewster, commanding the first corps area, regarding certain features of the war department's plans for national defense which have heretofore been classified as secret. In his announcement Major General Brewster says: The plans themselves should not be confused with the defense test of September 12th, is they are for use only for defensive purposes in case this country is actually attacked. The defense test it to be a demonstration to the public of so much of the plans as carry out the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920, and, to a limited extend, a means of instruction of the forces organized under the act.

The defense plans are based on the principle of decentralization. To insure an equitable distribution of the burden of defense, should defense become necessary, continental United States has been divided into nine Corps Areas in a basis of population. Each Corps Area has, in turn, been subdivided into districts or mobilization areas, each with its own headquarters and supply point. The corps areas are permanent establishments, the mobilization areas are inactive except in case of emergency. In each mobilization area units sufficient to form the first echelon of a defensive force have already been organized and allocated to towns or communities. These units consist of three classes; the regular army at reduced peace strength; the national guard organized at peace strength and capable of rapid expansion; the organized reserves in skeletonized form, the personnel of their organizations consisting mainly of reserve officers living in the home town of the unit, ready in case of emergency to take up the work of building up the unit to war strength. In the event of an emergency the plans contemplate that these units would mobilize in their own mobilization areas in or near their home towns.

They would be quartered and fed in their own armories or in other available shelter; they would be brought to war strength either by voluntary enlistments or by operation of the selective service law, while still in their own areas; they would be equipped here and start their preliminary training. After organizations have left their areas for actual duty, replacements would be sent to a replacement center within the corps area. Here they would receive preliminary training and then be forwarded to their home unit in the field. The integrity of local units would be maintained, a feature of importance as affecting the morale both of the soldier and the citizen.

The time necessary to mobilize for the defense of the nation under this plan is dependent principally on the factor of supply. Men and units would be built up. In general, troops of the regular army and the national guard would be called out first and prepared for active campaigning. As soon as these troops had mobilized, expanded to war strength and left their areas, the organized reserves would commence their actual mobilization, using the shelter and other facilities in their communities previously used by preceding troops. Coincident with the mobilization of troops the organization of the special services and activities necessary to place an army in the field and maintain it there would be carried on; headquarters and supply points would be established; each mobilization area at points already deskinated; replacement centers completed; hospitals established; replacement training organized; additional shelter built, etc.

MILFORD BROWN, OF SALEM, KILLED BY TRAIN AT NIANTIC

New London, August 3.—Milford Brown, 89, of Salem, this state, was struck and almost instantly killed near the Niantic station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad shortly begore 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Brown had concluded an errand on the east side of the tracks just north of the sttaion and was in the act of crossing the rails to return to his home. As he stepped upon the east bound track he failed to observe or hear the approach of the train due in New London from Hartford at 4.20 and was struck, the pilot of the locomotive hurling the aged man's body a considerable distance. The train was brought to a stop as soon as possible and the crew found the man breathing his last. Medical Examiner F. W. Dart was summoned and after ascertaining the circumstances attending Brown's death, the body was removed to an undertaking establishment.

STONINGTON MOTORIST HELD—SPEEDED OFF AFTER CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., Aug. 3.—Hans Erickson, of the Coast Guard Training Station, New London, driving a Paige roadster, Sunday evening about 8 o'clock beyond Salmonville, got two cuts on the head when the Ford delivery truck driven by Noyes Martin, of Stonington, is said to have hooked his forward hubcap in passing. Both automobiles were headed for Stonington on the Westerly- Stonington road when the force of the collision took the wheel out of Mr. Erickson's hand and the Paige dashed off the right side of the road and crashed into a telephone pole.

It is said that the driver of the Ford delivery made an attempt to get away but Mr. Erickson entered the auto of J. F. Rollins of Goggeswell street, Pawcatuck, and started in pursuit, locating the man in Stonington. Martin was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Thomas Connell, of Stonington, and turned over to Charles Connors of the Pawcatuck police force who had proceeded to Stonington as he investigated the accident when reported to him. Martin was taken back to Pawcatuck by Patrolman Connors and placed in the Liberty street lockup. Dr. William A. Hilliard was called to examine the man and reported that he appeared to be under influence of liquor. Martin is held under a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor; a $200 bail is said to be required which up to a late hour this evening he had not obtained. He will be given a hearing at a session of Stonington town court Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Another case to come before Judge William A. Wilcox at Monday morning's session will be that of Henry Burbach, whose place at Cedarledge, Stonington road, was raided a week ago Saturday night and who is held on four counts, actual sale, keeping with intent to sell, reputation and the manufacture of intoxicating liquor.

GOVERNOR SMITH, OF N. Y., VISITS NEW LONDON SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Aug. 3.—Governor Alfred Smith, of New York, was a visitor in New London today. Governor Smith arrived in port last night on a yacht, which anchored off the mouth of the harbor. This morning he came ashore and attended mass at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and then returned to the yacht, where he remained the balance of the day and until the craft left port the latter part of the afternoon. The visit of Governor Smith was only a part of a pleasure cruise that he was taking with a party of friends.

SMALLER BRITISH MARKET FOR AMERICAN FARMERS

Contrary to popular belief the decline in exports of farm products from the United States to the United Kingdom in the last few years is not mainly due to a lessened demand for these commodities on the part of the British people. It is largely a result of the competition of other food exporting nations. Except in the case of cotton, the British market for which has been affected by dimished production in the United States and by the loss of British foreign markets for cotton goods, the drop in our agricultural exports to the United Kingdom indicates that competitive sources of supply are taking business away from us.

So says the United States Department of Agriculture in a report reviewing the British market for American agricultural products. Most of the products which form the staples of our export trade with the United Kingdom, the report points out, are necessities which will be in a practically constant demand regardless of prosperity or depression. Improved economic conditions in the United Kingdom, therefore, can not be expected to increase the demand for American agricultural products as compared with the demand for similar products from other countries. Indeed, it is noted that in the case of American pork products increased purchasing power in the United Kingdom might tend to shift the demand to more expensive meats and fats which are chiefly imported from other countries.

Few American products, the department notes, command a premium on the score of quality. It is remarked that the British pay higher prices for Egyptian cotton, Canadian wheat, Danish bacon, Argentine corn, and for Dutch, Swiss and Danish dairy products. This country has held its foreign markets for such products in the past by its volume of production and low prices. Its superiority in these respects is now challenged. Accordingly, if our markets are to be maintained, the American producers will either have to underbid their foreign competitors, or improve the quality of their offerings.

The department points out that the United Kingdom is the best foreign market for American agricultural products. Until about 20 years ago, the United States was its chief source of supply for cotton, meats, wheat and tobacco. In the early years of the present century, however, our exports of beef and wheat to the United Kingdom began to decline. At the opening of the century the United Kingdom obtained about 76 per cent of its wheat from the United States. These exports by 1913 had been reduced to negligible proportions in the case of beef, and to only 13 per cent in the case of wheat. In 1923 the United States imported more fresh and frozen beef than it exported, and furnished only 9 per cent of the wheat and flour imported into the United Kingdom.

Only in the case of tobacco, lard, and hams has the United States maintained its supremacy as the source of supply for the United Kingdom. Even in bacon, an increasing share of Britain's trade is going to Denmark and Ireland. It is estimated that the volume of our agricultural exports to the United Kingdom in 1923 was only 76 per cent of the volume in 1913. Excluding cotton, the exports of which, owing to exceptional circumstances, declined more than those of any other fram product, the volume of our agricultural exports to the United Kingdom in 1923 is figured out as something like 14 per cent more than in 1913. On the basis of competitive prices, however, their value was 15 per cent less than in 1913. In short, the total agricultural export trade of the United States with the United Kingdom, whether measured by volume or by real value, was less in 1923 than in 1913.

In the case of cotton, the decline is mainly attributed to our decreased production. A contributing factor has been an increase in the number of cotton mills in the United States, as a result of which more cotton has been held for manufacture at home. Foreign competition in the production of raw cotton is believed to be the result rather than a cause of our decreased exports. So far, the efforts of other countries to increase their cotton output have not greatly affected the supply situation.

Per capita consumption of wheat and flour in the United Kingdom, though slightly lower than before the war, is not enough to bring British imports of wheat and flour below prewar figures, since the British population has increased somewhat. It is therefore impossible to attribute the decline in our wheat exports to the United Kingdom to lessened British demand. The main cause of the decline, according to the department, is the competition of other wheat-producing countries, notably Canada and Argentina. These countries, it is declared, can produce vast quantities of wheat much cheaper than the United States. As there is no reason to expect any increase in wheat production costs in these countries, or any decline in costs in the United States, the inference is that the United States must reconcile itself to declining importance in the world's wheat trade.

The British demand for American pork products has been well maintained since the war. In this trade the United States has also held its proportion of the business of the United Kingdom. An index number representing our export trade to the United Kingdom in bacon, lard and frozen pork, as compared with our trade in these commodities in 1913, stood at 159 for 1923. The trade for 1913, of course, is represented by the basic figure 100. In the export trade in pork and pork products, volume of production has been the course of the advantage of the United States. From the standpoint of quality in some products, other countries surpass us. Maintenance of our trade in pork products will therefore depend, says the department, on the continuance of the conditions which have produced it, namely, low prices for pork products as compared with prices of other meat products.

Summing up the situation, the department says it is reasonable to expect that in the future the United Kingdom will continue to import from the United States cotton in decreased volume; tobacco in constant or perhaps in an increasing volume; pork products as long as the price remains low; wheat and flour in small quantities, varying with the degree of foreign competition; feed stuffs in years of crop shortage in competing countries; fresh fruits in small but fairly constant amounts; dried fruits in fair volume; and glucose and other grain products.

APPOINTED CHIEF SURGEON OF NEAR EAST HOSPITAL

In a letter of recent date to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Evans, of Court strete, their eldest son, Dr. John H. Evans, stated that he had been appointed chief surgeon of the Near East hospital at Alexandripole. This means a responsible charge, as two or three hospitals have been merged into one. Dr. Evans, who with his wife, has been engaged in Near East work for the past 28 months, has been acting chief surgeon at this hospital for several months since leaving Erivan during the early spring. The official appointment was received during the summer.

PEDESTIANS RUN DOWN BY NEW LONDON MOTORIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Aug. 3.—Christopher McCormick and Miss Lizzie eKating, both of 56 Evergreen avenue, are patients at Lawrence hospital suffering from injuries received tonight by being struck by an automobile on Jefferson avenue owned and driven by Theodore J. Evans, 143 Shore street. McCormick has numerous lacerations, bruises and scratches on the face, body and legs and Miss Keating is suffering from contusions and a fractured left collarbone.

McCormick and Miss Keating were walking in the vicinity of St. Mary's and Cedar Grove cemeteries when the machine operated by Evans and headed in the same direction as McCormick and Miss Keating were walking ran them down. Evans claims that the lights of an automobile that was traveling in the opposite direction blinded him to such an extent that he didn't see the two pedestrians.

Olden Etiquette Strange

Noble families in England in the middle ages shared common plates and cups, used fingers instead of forks, licked their plates, wiped their teeth on the table cloth and scrambled for the largest portion. Books on etiquette issued in the fifteenth century pointed out that these things were not good manners. The art of cooking in the middle ages flourished however, cooks excelling at artistic and rich confectionery.

Dancing in medieval times was true to its name. Dancers really moved with nimbleness and agility, instead of slowly posturing round the room in the manner of modern dancers. The noble and his family and servants lived and slept in the great hall of the castle, with next to no privacy. A better state of things evolved gradually, more rooms being added and more windows put in, insuring greater seclusion for the lord and his family.—Baltimore Sun.

Here's Real Relief From
Mosquito Bites

"All my customers insist on taking it with them on vacation trips," says one New Jersey druggist who has been selling a lot of Moone's Emerald Oil for the plague of Mosquitoes and Black Flies. "They say a single bottle is worth more than all the Citronella and Eucalyptus I've got in my store. And I believe they're right for itching and all fear of infection and blood-poisoning ceases at once the minute Moone's Emerald Oil is applied."

BAY STATE CIRCUIT OPENS WEDNESDAY WITH 117 HORSES ENTERED FOR EVENTS

When the fast Bay State Circuit opens its meeting here on Wednesday afternoon some of the fastest trotters and pacers outside the major circuit will get the word. The Bay State horses come here from Worcester where they have been traveling at a fast pace with some close finishes in almost every class.

There are 117 entries for the races here. The 2:16 pace for a purse of $2000 draws the large number of horses, 20 being nominated for this event. The two year old stake race for a purse of $1200 draws the next largest number, 18 being entered in this event. The entry list being so large in these two events it has been decided to divide them into divisions. The 2:20 trot draws 17 entries and the three year old stake draws 15.

PIRATES LAND ON GRIMES IN EIGHTH TO BEAT DODGERS

Brooklyn, Aug. 3.—After Grimes had held the Pirates down to two hits in eight innings today, they bunched two triples, a double and two singles in the ninth to win the opening game of a five-game series by 5 to 2. Yde registered his eighth straight victory, keeping the Dodgers' hits scattered. Three fast double plays helped him. Manager McKechnie watched the game from the grandstand, having been indefinitely suspended for yesterday's disturbance at the Polo Grounds. Shortstop Harry Silverman has rejoined the Brooklyn club.

GIANTS HAVE EASY TIME BEATING CHICAGO

New York, August 3.—Arthur Nehf was in good form here today and held Chicago to eight hits and two runs. By losing today Chicago dropped to third place, a fraction of a point behind the Pirates, who defeated Brooklyn.

Grimsby was hit in the face by a batted ball by Snyder in the second inning, the blow breaking his field glasses and forcing him to retire from the game. Score:

Albany Gets Even Break

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Thormahlen's pitching enabled Albany to break even with Worcester today. After the visitors had won the first game 9 to 2, Thormahlen let them down with four hits in the twilight contest and won 5 to 0 catches by Emmerich, Wight and Genin and Jenkins at short featured.

Falls Team Wins

The Falls team defeated the W. Coats team Saturday by a score of 5 to 4. The Falls boys have played 16 games and have won them all.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch, Captain New York Giants

There is a runner on second. The batter hits the ball over the second baseman and the second baseman fields the ball but has no possible chance of throwing out the batter going to first.

How should the second baseman play the ball?

There is a chance in a case of this kind for the second baseman to make a wonderful play but his throw must be accurate, otherwise just the opposite result comes about. When the second baseman sees he has no possible play at first on such a hit ball, he should keep his eyes on the man going to third. Nine times out of ten this runner will round third base and be in a position to go home. Now if the second baseman makes a fast and accurate throw to third, there is always a good chance of his getting such a runner at that bag.

ASHLAND WINS SLUGGING MATCH FROM DANIELSON

Ashland came out with the heavy end of the score in a slugging match Sunday afternoon at Ashland park when they beat Danielson by a score of 14 to 12. Not until the last inning was the game decided. At the beginning of the ninth inning the score was a tie and Danielson scored a run in their half. In the last half Ashland scored two runs and defeated Danielson. Gillette bunted to the second baseman and Ray Jarvis fanned. Raille was hit by a pitched ball, Leo Jarvis walked and Rainy was also hit by a pitched ball. Setting the stage for a spectacular finish Kaduda hit a high fly behind third base which went for a hit and two men scored. Lloyd Jarvis who had an off day was relieved in the second inning by his brother Leo. Danielson made fourten hits to Ashland's eleven.

SPECTACULAR GAME EXPECTED TODAY WHEN MIDGETS MEET HEAVYWEIGHTS

The stage is all set for the settling of an argument that has lasted for nearly two weeks between two local sport lovers, Jackie Wilson and Ralph Patrick. Tonight will decide the winner of this argument and a large crowd will be on hand to witness the settlement. The argument which has been long and bitter seems to be of small consequence, but as the weeks have passed it has grown in proportion. The argument is which is the best ball player, the heavy man or the light weight? Patrick being a heavyweight himself, naturally defended the player with an abundance of flesh. Wilson of the other hand defended the lightweights.

To bring this argument to a definite decision and conclusively settle the argument a game will be played on the Duwell athletic field this evening, the teams being made up of heavyweights and lightweights. The Heavyweights team will have all players weighing over 200 pounds while the lightweights will tip the scales under the 140 mark. One of the rules made is that every player shall weigh in at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the store of Jackie Wilson at 11 Ferry street. The Heavyweights must up the beam at 200 or over. Any player registering less than 200 pounds will be barred from playing. To meet the required weight some of the players signed by Captain Patrick have been eating fattening foods during the past week in order to make the weight hoping to work it off after they have weighed in.

The Midgets must be under 140 pounds and many of them have been doing road work during the past few days in hopes of making the weight.

It is with difficulty that the lineup of the two teams have been secured for publication. The Heavyweights were not so close mouthed as the Midgets and their lineup was practically easy to secure. The manager of the Midgets, however, was very tight with his information and that which is published is mere gossip from members of the team.

The Heavyweights will lineup the following men. Soup Charron in back of the bat, Big Ed Harris on the mound; Jim Hayes will cover the initial sack; Hippy Callahan will be at short and Mystery Flynn will be on second; Windy Oney will take care of third; in the outfield will be Manager Patrick, Bull Wilcox and Ox Madden. There is some doubt as to Madden's playing as it is doubtful if he can make the weight and besides he pleads a pressing engagement for that evening. This is only rumor and we use it as such.

The Midgets, small but mighty, will present the following imposing array of baseball talent. Bugs Beyens, catch; Flypaper Woodmansee, pitch; Yank Hyman 1b; Knocko Standish 2b; Whacko Riley ss; Bullet Pedace 3b; Red Lash lf; Jackie Wilson cf; Pee Wee Mandell rf. This team has a well laid plan of attack that will competely upset the Beef Trust if it works.

The destiny of the game is in the capable hands of Matt Delaney who will have sole charge of the game. Matt is thoroughly informed as to the rules of the game and will insist on them and both teams feel that no better umpire could have been selected for this important contest.

The game will start promptly at 6.30 o'clock.

DETROIT CLIMBS BACK INTO FIRST PLACE

Detroit, August 3.—One of the largest crowds that ever attended a championship game in the west, saw Detroit regain the league leadership today by defeating New York 5 to 2, while St. Louis was winnng from Washington. The 42,712 persons who paid to see the game, made ground rules necessary, and numerous doubles into the crowd resulted. Ruth struck out twice, grounded once, and got a double in four times at bat.

Earl Whitehill, Tiger Southpaw recruit, held the Yankees safe in all but the second and ninth innings, while Herb Pennock was batted for 12 hits.

Heilmann opened the eighth inning with a home run.

The Yankees filled the bases in the ninth, with two outs, but Whitehill ended the game by striking out Dugan.

DUWELLS LOSE FIRST GAME TO VELVETMEN

In a loose but interesting game at the J. B. Martin grounds Sunday afternoon, the Velvetment took a ten inning battle from the Duwells, 8-7. The winning run came in the tenth frame after two were down when Joe Belair uncorked a wild run to register.

The game was featured by heavy hitting, the Duwells outhitting the Velvetmen 14 to 8. Joe Barry and Bill Ringland registered circuit blows for the visitors while Frankie Gley also poled out a four ply hit. The Duwells played loose ball in the field being credited with 6 misplays, all of them being costly. The score:

HARRY MILLS HOME RUN WINS FOR RIVERVIEW

Fighting an uphill battle all the way the Riverview team staged rallies in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings and beat out Putnam, 12 to 9, at the State Hospital Saturday afternoon. It was Harry Mills' hitting that figured largely in the victory for the riverview team, his triple in the sixth inning followed by his home run in the eighth were the deciding factors in the game. His triple scored two runs and his homer cmae with two men on bases. Laffey also made a fluke homer when in the eighth inning he crashed one to centerfield that the outfielder let roll between his legs, Laffey completing the circuit on the error.

Paul Zemke, the veteran, started the game for the Hospital but was hit freely and his support was none to good. Paul pitched good ball to the sixth inning when Putnam landed heavily on his offerings and he was relieved by Roy. Roy pitched good ball during the remainder of the game, his best work being in the seventh inning when with three men on and one out he struck out the next two men. Caffrey pitched good ball until the seventh inning when the Hospital started a rally driving him from the mound. Frankie took his place but fared little better the winning rally being made on his delivery. The score:

MOOSUP AND NATICK BATTLE TO 12-INNING TIE GAME

Moosup and Natick battled on the Carpet grounds at Moosup for 12 long innings to a 5 to 5 tie game, the contest coming to a close because of the state law regarding Sunday baseball. The law says that all games must terminate at 6 o'clock (standard time).

Both teams played good ball throughout and although several errors were made they did not figure materially in the scoring. Moosup drew first blood in the second inning when a triple by Lefty Harrell followed by Fretchette's single gave them one run. To this they added another counter in the fifth inning when Davis singled and Noel crashed out a triple after two were down.

Natick evened up the score in the first half of the sixth inning when Mullowney caught one of Davis' straight ones on the nose for a home run. Hart singled and stole second, going to third on a sacrifice fly to right and coming home on another sacrifice to the same place. Moosup, when they came to bat, promptly got back their two-run lead on successive hits by Allard, Frechette and Herrell. This ended the scoring until the tenth inning, when Natick on a triple by Lautieri and a sacrifice fly scored a lone run.

This lone tally looked mighty big to Moosup, but the game was by no means lost to them. Allard, the first man up, hit for two sacks, was sacrificed to third by Harrell. The squeeze play was worked and Allard scored when Frechette laid down a pretty twisting bunt that went for a hit. This was the end of the scoring for the game. This was the first game in a three-game series between these two teams. The score:
